

Hancock County

Abercrombie, Clare

BLUE HILL

The privilege of representing our Hancock County community members is one that cannot be overstated especially in this special circumstance. As a primary care provider in Hancock County I feel I have a deep understanding not just of the healthcare challenges facing our state but of the economic hardship that everyday Mainers face. If chosen to be a delegate I would take this responsibility to heart and I would choose the candidate that addresses the class issues we face. Mainers are smart and we know that Susan Collins is no longer representing our best interests, she represents her billionaire donor class. I would like to choose a candidate that: helps to center working class and labor issues, ends forever wars, fights for equality and social justice, addresses healthcare needs and supports Medicare for all, overturns citizens united, abolishes ICE, gets big money out of our politics, prioritizes housing for all and food security, and champions climate resilience. I appreciate your consideration fellow Mainers! -Clare

Albrecht, Jonathan A

PENOBSCOT

As vice-chair pf the Penobscot Municipal Democratic Committee, I will continue as I have in the past to organize volunteers to canvas the Town of Penobscot for democratic voters, enter canvassing results, and plan our committee's activities. I will work with other democratic groups like HC 17 (the town committees in House District 17) to elect democrats up and down the ballot. I will be involved in town and regional affairs to create a positive image of democrats and democratic committees.

Ashmall, Donald H

GOULDSBORO

I want to fulfill the pledge I made to myself when I was elected a delegate to the May 1-2 Maine convention: to give fair attention to the positions of each candidate, and to cast my vote in favor of what I believe is best for Maine, including defeating Susan Collins. The Maine Democratic platform provides reasons for all sane Maine voters to vote blue. The candidate for US Senator should emphasize this positive message throughout the vampain.

Bailey, Phil L

HANCOCK

For some time I've been involved in candidate recruitment, campaigns and fundraising. I will continue these efforts to defeat Collins and help gain a Democrat majority in Congress.

Balas-Cote, Karen

ORLAND

Fellow Hancock County Democrats, The past few weeks have been very hard for all of us, but I am more determined than ever that we must continue to work together to elect "A Senator That Money Can't Buy". I respectfully ask for one of your votes to represent Hancock County as a delegate. We need delegates who will FIRST listen to the Democratic and Unenrolled voters from our community and the candidates, and THEN choose the person who will work for our democratic values (as reflected in our platform). That person will help us carry on the people and working-class focused movement that Graham galvanized. I am, and have been, active in my local town committees and a Dem volunteer and organizer for candidate campaigns and committees at the town, county, and state level for over a decade. A steady stream of small and big actions by the many will transform our collective future when that action is built upon a foundation of care and justice. In solidarity, Karen Balas-Cote Orland

Ball, Carolyn

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

I think Dr Shah is an amazing reputable candidate who showed us his leadership during COVID. He was the top gov. Candidate on the first round. Has name recognition

Barwise, Sara

SEDGWICK

We have a chance to flip Maine's Senate seat Blue, and we need to defeat Susan Collins. There was a Senatorial candidate behind a movement in Maine. He is no longer our candidate, but we still believe in the movement. We want universal healthcare, labor rights, anti-corruption, and to rebuild our working class. I intend to vote for the people most likely to win the seat, lead this movement, and not take corporate PAC money. Troy Jackson is at the top of my list to help us take this great country back.

LGBTQIA+

Bauer, Tatia

BAR HARBOR

I would be honored to serve as a delegate in the process to select the Democratic nominee because I believe this is a pivotal moment for Maine and for our party. I want to be directly involved in choosing a candidate who reflects the values and priorities of our communities and who is prepared to provide principled, effective leadership. As a young working professional in Maine, I bring a perspective that I believe is important to this process. Like many people in my generation, I am deeply concerned about the rising cost of living, the difficulty of building a stable future, and the need for affordable, accessible healthcare for working people and young families. I also care deeply about protecting Maine's environment, which is central to our economy, our communities, and our way of life. I want to help select a nominee who will stand up for the people of Maine, defend our democratic values, and have the courage to speak out when those values are threatened. That includes ensuring our immigration system respects due process and the rule of law, providing oversight of agencies such as ICE, and protecting the civil liberties and dignity of everyone. I believe Maine deserves leadership that is willing to stand up when it matters and advocate clearly for these principles. Serving as a delegate would allow me to represent not only my own perspective, but also the voices of other young Mainers who want to help shape our state's future. I would approach

Beal, Carole R

BLUE HILL

As a 30 year member of the Democratic Party of Maine, and presently serving as the Secretary of the Blue Hill Democratic Committee, I work year round seeking appropriate candidates to run for local offices in our town, take minutes of our monthly meetings held the first Thursday of each month at the Blue Hill Library, and am a member and attend Hancock County Democratic Committee (HCDC) meetings on the third Thursday of each month. I intend to canvas, write postcards, and work at the Democratic Booth at the Blue Hill fair in September answering questions about our Maine Democratic Candidates and give out lawn signs. I will support all Democratic candidates, and will work for the defeat of Senator Susan Collins in September.

Becque, Suzanne

HANCOCK

I would like to be a delegate to the nominating convention so that I can represent the people in my area and promote the progressive agenda that Maine voted for in the primary election. We need to beat Susan Collins in the midterms and in order to do that we have to put our best foot and forward choose a candidate with an agenda that Mainers have already proven they will get behind.

Benson, Kathy

DEDHAM

I believe elections are local and I want to be involved in that process. Maine and the nation were re-energized by a movement that made many of us Mainers feel listened to and hopeful. It is crucial that we find a candidate that can continue to lead that movement.

Benz, Gregory Paul

MOUNT DESERT

I want our up coming generation of families to have the same opportunities to succeed and thrive as mine did. We need to undo the social, environmental, and financial damage we leaving to our future. And we must confront and defeat the political leaders and enablers who espouse hatred, racism, greed and xenophobia. I believe that is a well established view of my fellow citizens in Hancock County and I vow to represent them as a delegate.

Bisheimer, Katrina

BUCKSPORT

I have lived in Maine since 1993. I work as a psychiatric nurse in the Bangor area. I became a naturalized citizen on 01/16/2026 because I wanted the right to vote for my beliefs. Even though I was not able to vote until this year, I have been phone banking and canvassing for democrats. I am currently a member of a citizens group that is addressing the environmental landfill issue in Bucksport where I have lived for 23 years. I pledge to continue participating in phone banking, canvassing, and organizing in whatever capacity I can to defeat Susan Collins. Beyond that I will continue to support democratic and progressive policies that benefit all Mainers such as Maine Allcare, affordable housing initiatives, affordable educational opportunities (including trade schools), policies that create and support jobs with livable wages, and policies that support access to clean water and safe environments to live in Maine for the foreseeable future.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Blaine, James Gillespie

MOUNT DESERT

The current mess is not a disaster, and we must not let it turn into one. In fact, if we respond quickly, thoughtfully, and strategically I believe we have a better chance of winning the Senate seat now than we did a month ago. To do so, requires us to come together behind a candidate who will ensure that we stay united through November and beyond. We don't have to agree on everything; but we do need to listen to all our disparate voices and make sure there is space for everyone to be heard. This is not easy, and it is not new. More than a century ago Will Rogers wrote, "Democrats never agree on anything, that's why they're Democrats. If they agreed with each other, they'd be Republicans." This is not a weakness. It is our strength, and it always has been. It's what makes us not just fractious but inclusive. It's why watching Republicans walk in lockstep with Trump on every issue, from the insane war in Iran to the depraved candidacy of Ken Paxton in Texas. But we Mainers can send Chellie Pingree and Jared Golden simultaneously to Congress and to serve our interests. We had some very good candidates running for governor this year, and they have earned the right to be considered for the U.S. Senate. While I have my favorites, I will wholeheartedly support whoever wins the nomination, just as I have backed Jared in the past and enthusiastically support Hannah Pingree now.

Blank, Arthur J

BAR HARBOR

I would like to serve as a delegate to the special Democratic State Convention because I believe we have an important decision to make. Clearly, we need a candidate to defeat Senator Collins, a complicit partner to an unhinged, destructive and dangerous regime, but one who understands that our government must be transformed to be responsive to the people it serves—not just to the wealthiest few. As an example, I am a retired healthcare administrator. I have seen firsthand how our for-profit healthcare industry prevents access to what is a basic human right: universal healthcare. The current system does not simply deny or make care unaffordable; it also limits opportunity. It imprisons people in jobs that may not fully use their talents simply because those jobs “provide benefits.” That reality discourages people from working for small businesses, starting new ventures, or becoming entrepreneurs in their own communities. Meanwhile, our lowest-paid working families are too often forced through dehumanizing processes just to access government healthcare assistance. This is only one of the many ways the wealthy have rigged the system for their own benefit while working people are left to navigate barriers, paperwork, insecurity, and fear. I want to be a delegate because I believe Democrats must nominate a candidate, as our voters have told us, who will fight to protect human dignity, expand freedom, and serve everyone with fairness and accountability. I am committed to providing whatever support I can to help make that campaign successful.

Blasi, Antonio

HANCOCK

I am VAN operator and Texting Administrator for the Hancock County Democratic Committee. I will continue to serve in those roles to help defeat the incumbent. I have been using my position for helping our party build on grassroots momentum for the past 3 years. As a delegate I will strive to prevent voter disenfranchisement that the federal administration is attempting.\n\nI am an HCDC Executive Committee member focused on municipal/regional/county candidate recruitment/assistance; its former vice chair, MDP Rules Committee member from HC, and Schoodic Area Regional Democratic Committee Chair.\n\nAs an Acadia Action member, I speak for Green and Unenrolled voter members of that group who have no access to the US senate candidate replacement process. Acadia Action shares the same meeting space as HCDC. Its members focused motivation and energy into Graham Platner's election win. They want the MDP to compensate for the loss of Graham in visible ways they can support, which means seeing our party continue to build on the grassroots momentum. I will continue doing what I described above.

Boldt, Dan

SEDGWICK

It's important to help elect qualified democrats that can help us change the current direction of our state and country.

Bonaminio, Debbie G

CASTINE

Having been a delegate to the state convention before for Castine, this is the most important convention of our lives and I don't just want, but need to have my voice heard to defeat Susan Collins and fascism.

Bonk, Kathleen L

BROOKSVILLE

Elections are not the weather -- not something that happens while we watch from a porch. Elections are made by people, by conversations, by voters who decide that the future is something we build together, not a condition watched from afar. I am running as a delegate because 2026 is one of those hinge moments when the ordinary work of democracy becomes the only work that matters. Democrats must unite behind a candidate who will fight to safeguard our democracy, protect our rights, and make life substantially better for Maine families. We must come together to defeat Susan Collins. As a lifetime member of the National Organization for Women, I have watched, election after election, women supply the margin of victory. That margin must be wider than ever before. One-third of Maine's voters are independents — not strangers, but neighbors, still deciding, very reachable. All must-dos: registration drives on college campuses, job sites, and in retirement communities, wherever new Democratic voters are living and working. GOTV efforts of a scale never attempted before. Living-room conversations, honest ones, with friends and family who are registered Independents. An open hand to Republicans who have had enough of Trump — because the MAGA base will be here in force, targeting our triple-crown elections: Governor, Senate, and House. I am a servant leader. I will raise money, knock on doors and do the unglamorous, essential work needed for Democrats to win in November. From Susan B. Anthony: Failure is impossible.

Booraem, Ellen

BROOKLIN

I want to be a delegate supporting Troy Jackson, who I think has the best chance of beating Susan Collins. His policy positions are similar to Graham Platner's, who attracted stunning support from unenrolled voters as well as Democrats, but he has the additional advantage of his background as an Aroostook County logger and his experience in state politics. He seems like a candidate who can attract even Trump voters, who are likely to be disaffected by this disastrous second presidency. I have signed up as a volunteer with the Hancock County Democrats, as I have in every election cycle for 20 years or so. A retired local newspaper editor and reporter, I look forward to canvassing, driving candidates, and helping in any way I can. Frankly, while I will work hard to oust Collins, I'm equally horrified by the prospect of Paul LePage as our congressman and Bobby Charles as our governor. We have a challenging—but exciting—fifteen weeks ahead of us.

Borowsky, George Herbert

SURRY

Why? - I wish to serve as a delegate because this is the most important election of my lifetime. Truly an existential moment in our Country's history. We must do this properly. We Democrats must take back the House and Senate and work to stop the unconstitutional, anti-democratic, autocratic, and dangerously corrupt regime that has taken control of our federal government. Susan Collins no longer represents the interests of Maine citizens. She has actively enabled the MAGA takeover. Senator Collins only votes for the democratic principles I care about when she knows her vote doesn't matter so she can try to preserve the carefully-crafted illusion that she is a "centrist". She is not! How? - To work to defeat Susan Collins, I will continue to play an active role with the Surry Dems. I will create and deploy bumper magnets with anti-Collins messaging. I will canvas or drive for Democratic candidates up and down the ballot. I will continue to play a key role in advancing our local Surry Dems postcard writing campaign, especially focused on Unenrolled and disaffected Republicans (both of whom, I believe, will make the difference in this November). I will eagerly support the newly-selected Senatorial candidate, advocating on their behalf to encourage friends and neighbors to do the same. I will contribute to the campaign and post yard signs on our property.

Bowen, Roger W.

GOULDSBORO

As founder and chair for 9 years, I ran the Schoodic Community Fund; I served two terms as Selectman and one term as vice-chair of the Planning Board in Gouldsboro. I know many of our residents and believe that Collins' voting record does not align with Maine's interests.

Bramble, Barbara Janet

BLUE HILL

If I am selected to be a delegate to the July 25 convention, my intent would be to help select a Senate candidate who would be best placed to defeat Susan Collins in November. I volunteered on the Graham Platner campaign, as a policy team adviser, as well as on several canvassing field days, getting signatures to secure his place on the primary ballot, and as a Get Out the Vote door knocker before the primary. I was inspired by Mr Platner's campaign, and believe he was a catalyst for unprecedented voter enthusiasm in Maine, especially among working people and young people. I believe that is the way to win. I am committed to continuing to advocate for his goals and policies, and I would support the nomination of the Senate candidate who most closely aligns with the changes he called for so articulately. I would also continue to volunteer for whoever the nominee is, in the overriding and essential campaign to defeat Susan Collins. One focus for those efforts would be outreach to young people whose voices can help to motivate our Maine voters to come out for the election.

Brooks, Philip Lawrence

BAR HARBOR

I am deeply committed to defeating Susan Collins and would be interested in being a delegate to the convention as a nominee. I want to see a candidate who will honor the will of the people and strongly support the progressive positions of Graham Platner. I have been a supporter of Shenna Bellows in her previous Senatorial campaign and her recent Gubernatorial campaign and think she would be an excellent candidate but I remain open to hearing all the candidates state their positions and how they will plan to win this important role in the Senate. I will push for our candidate to not rely only on money and ads but to be energetic and tour the state meeting not only with Dems but also with Independents and Republicans. We have more that unites us than we have that divides us and we need to get that message out. I have been a resident of Maine since 1980 and a life long registered Democrat. I follow US and Maine politics closely and hope that I can contribute to defeating Susan Collins. Thank you for your consideration of including me in this process. It would be an honor. Philip L. Brooks

Buchala, Marianne

MOUNT DESERT

At this critical time in the 2026 election cycle, it is imperative for our state to choose a candidate who can soundly defeat Collins and who can bring real solutions for affordability, health care access, and environmental sustainability. This candidate must serve as a backstop to the corruption in our current national administration and be a vote against all things that erode or standing nationally and internationally. Besides being a dependable democratic vote against Collins, I will help in the campaign process by working in our local office to call voters & to mail information to inform Mainers about our candidate & their solutions for helping our state.

Burger-Gossart, Judith

BAR HARBOR

I wish to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to elect a Democratic candidate to run against Susan Collins in the November, 2026 election. I will be able to attend the Democratic Convention on July 25th in Bangor. Goal: Unite the Democratic Party behind one candidate who can actually defeat Susan Collins. That is essential. I am excited by this opportunity to participate in this democratic process.

Burke, Crystal

HANCOCK

I am seeking to become a delegate to represent voices of minority populations that frequently are overlooked in political spheres. I am currently on my school board and several mutual aid, disability, BIPOC, and LGBTQIA affirming and supporting groups. Many aspects of who I and those I love are, are under attack. Supporting them and defeating Collins is literally life saving work, and I will keep doing all I can. I had previously applied on the original form, but after no contact, was told to try again.

BIPOC, LGBTQIA+, Disability, Underrepresented Religion

Cammen, Alex

SULLIVAN

As a young and progressive new father and small business owner living in a strongly conservative rural area whose job necessitates amiably talking with all kinds of people, conservative and progressive, young and old, implants and “real Mainers”, I have a unique knowledge of what issues motivate people on both sides of the aisle. Susan Collins, though she has brought some benefits to Maine over her long tenure, is not the best senator for Maine. For the sake of all Mainers and all Americans Susan Collins needs to be replaced with a Democrat who will work to pass solutions for the issues that impact all of us, especially us working Mainers. Because her vote is often so essential in the senate, the importance of the election cannot be overstated. I will personally attend Democratic rallies, conferences, and protests. And more importantly I will continue to have political discussions with Mainers I agree and disagree with in person and online where I can reach the entire state. We as the Maine Democratic Party must ensure our young, generally apathetic Democrats keep the motivation we mustered for Graham Platner. We must also find the common ground with people on the right for which we propose actual, practicable policy solutions. Our only hope of recovering to win this election and save the hundreds of thousands of highly motivated primary voters is through one-on-one conversations and electing the person which people feel actually carries forward the ideals of Graham Platner.

Cantor, Daniel

BLUE HILL

I have worked on what I'd like to think of as the sensible American left for a long time. An ACORN organizer in the late '70s, a union organizer in the early '80s, two stints on Rev. Jesse Jackson's presidential campaigns ('84 & '88), and then the co-founder and National Director of the Working Families Party from 1998 - 2018. My focus there was always on how to persuade citizens who don't particularly love the Democratic Party brand to nevertheless vote for Democratic candidates. That experience seems to me to be relevant to the challenge before us. I'll note that I'm a new Mainer in terms of voting, having moved to Maine only about 8 years ago, and changing my legal domicile to the state last year in no small measure because of my desire to vote against Trump and Collins. Still, if I can be helpful, I'd be happy to serve.

Catus, Sharon Ruth

HANCOCK

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe this is a pivotal moment for both our party and our state. We have an opportunity to nominate a candidate who can unite Democrats, inspire independents, and build the broad coalition necessary to defeat Susan Collins in November. I want to help ensure that our nominee is selected through a thoughtful, grassroots-driven process focused on leadership, integrity, and the ability to win. I bring years of experience building relationships, organizing around shared goals, and engaging people from diverse backgrounds. I believe our party is strongest when we listen, welcome new voices, and empower volunteers to lead. Grassroots energy doesn't end after the convention—it must become the foundation of our campaign. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will actively volunteer, engage voters in my community, encourage civic participation, amplify our nominee through my networks, and support local organizing efforts. I will also work to bring new people into the process, particularly those who may feel disillusioned or disconnected from politics, because winning requires expanding our coalition, not simply motivating those already engaged. I want to serve as a delegate because I believe Maine deserves bold, principled leadership, and I am committed to doing the work necessary to help elect Democrats up and down the ballot this November.

Cease, Monica

ELLSWORTH

I am running to be a delegate to ensure that we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am pleased for the opportunity to be able to participate in this democratic process and I am willing to take seriously my responsibility as a voting delegate.

Christ, Gus D

HARBORSIDE

I have been actively working to defeat Susan Collins, providing grass roots volunteering and donor funds to candidates running against Collins in the last 3 elections. I was also an active donor to the Platner Campaign supporting and inspired by the campaign's message to support Mainers with affordable housing, health care, environmental protection and economic assistance, rather than given billions in taxpayer dollars for foreign wars and ICE operating like a secret police, kidnapping people off the streets and terrorizing our communities. My goal in this Maine election is one thing and one thing only – defeat Susan Collins. I am an experienced speaker who can rally a crowd in support of a candidate, I am a former National Geographic Editor and a professional writer, a wildlife conservationist and also a Maine blueberry farmer for over 30 years. I mention this only to illustrate that I am deeply committed to supporting the Maine State Democratic Party and using my personal time and resources to help defeat Susan Collins.

Churchill, Mark Steven

BLUE HILL

I'm seeking a seat as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because this moment calls for engaged Democrats, not spectators. With our nominee now in question just weeks before the general election, the choices made at this convention will shape whether we can actually compete for this seat. I've built local relationships through years of teaching in public schools and advancing progressive principles in my classrooms. I want to bring Blue Hill's voice directly into that decision. Defeating Susan Collins in November means getting behind our next nominee immediately and running like every day matters, because it does. I plan to canvass weekly in Blue Hill. I'll focus on rebuilding voter confidence after a difficult stretch for our campaign, making the case — clearly and honestly — for why Maine deserves a senator who shows up for working families instead of corporate donors. Beyond this election, I want to help our party keep the grassroots energy that got so many new volunteers involved this cycle, regardless of how the nominee fight shakes out. That means strengthening our town committee's outreach and fundraising, mentoring new volunteers and building coalitions with labor and community groups. Our party is strongest when people feel real ownership over it, not just during a crisis, but every cycle. I'd be honored to serve and help carry this forward.

Ciccotelli, Brett Andrew

SULLIVAN

Susan Collins has taken from Maine for decades. We need to send someone who cares about progressive causes to Washington. I know passionate progressives who will come out to defeat Collins.

Clyne, Bonnie

GOULDSBORO

I'm a lifelong Mainer who has only been away for a few years of my adult life. I am an avid and informed participant in local, state, and federal elections. During this selection process, my priority is to honor what 150K+ primary voters have strongly indicated they want in a candidate, reflecting the progressive platform that energized our community during the primary. The candidate I vote for must be fully committed to defeating Susan Collins, standing up to Donald Trump, championing healthcare for all, and ending wars that are humanitarian and economic disasters. I enter this process with no bias toward any specific individual; my final vote will go strictly to a candidate who demonstrates that they genuinely possess these crucial attributes. To ensure this, I will thoughtfully consider all aspects of each candidate, carefully weighing all information to make an informed decision rather than relying on superficial political rhetoric. My long-time career as a flight attendant requires immense attention to detail, diplomacy, weighing multiple solutions, and making critical decisions to promote the absolute safety, security, and well-being of a highly diverse mix of passengers. I will bring that exact same conscientious, protective focus to vetting our next Senator, ensuring they possess the integrity to serve all members of our incredibly diverse society.

Clyne, Roger

GOULDSBORO

My name is Roger Clyne; I'm a transplanted Alaskan who now feels fortunate to have lived in Gouldsboro for close to five years. The choosing of a new candidate to run against and to defeat Susan Collins holds significant importance to the people of Maine. Selecting the right candidate also has the potential to play an important role in the re-shaping of American politics. The old-school politics, of both parties, simply are not working! Laws crafted by self-serving politicians allow those in positions of political power, as well as their wealthy donors, to advance their own agendas and personal wealth; frequently with no regard as to what is best for the people of Maine and the citizens of our country. The time is right in America to let a new generation of leaders take the helm. As a retired professional pilot, I spent my entire working life making decisions that affected the safety, well-being, and quality of life of those people I carried while serving in my chosen profession. I would welcome the opportunity to have a role in selecting a candidate for the upcoming US Senate race. It is a race that will certainly affect the safety, well-being, and quality of life of the people in Maine and those across our country. Once a candidate is chosen, it's incumbent upon all of us to get out there and support, to the best of our abilities, OUR candidate in the general election.

Cole, Freddie

SEDGWICK

I am a lifelong Mainer, public school educator, and Democrat. I have always been informed, had an opinion on political candidates, and voted in elections, doing my part as a “good citizen.” Prior to Graham Platner’s campaign I was never personally invested in, or inspired by a Maine politician and their message. Platner brought the hope of real change, like Bernie Sanders but with more fire, youth, and right in my back yard. Had he not come along I’d have thought the best we as Maine Democrats could do was the status quo. You know, just maybe enough to beat Susan Collins and hopefully take control of the senate. But now I know better. While it’s hugely important to take back control of the US Senate, it’s in many ways just a gentler version of the status quo with establishment Democratic politicians at the helm. Still no universal health care. Still supporting the genocide in Palestine. Still a once proud country bought and paid for by the billionaire class. An oligarchy. We need to expect more.

Collins, Gerald Bryant

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

Promoting and encouraging new members, especially ages 18-45, to join the Democratic party is an ongoing effort. Besides donating to the nominee I'll cast my ballot for the nominee. I'll also phone bank and participate in canvassing on Mount Desert Island for the nominee.

Connor, Lori

DEER ISLE

A delegate because I want to feel secure that a wide representation of Democrats have input into this process. I'm prepared to continue to do all the things I have been doing... Knocked doors is the primary activity I've had time for. I've done some phone outreach.

Cooper, S Josephine

LAMOINE

I have been actively involved in my town committee, running monthly meetings for several years. I am also an elected official in my Town. I believe strongly in listening to my fellow Democrats and will reflect what I hear from Democrats in my Town.

Corbett, Sheila C R

CASTINE

I want to be an active delegate for the candidate whose platform supports government safety nets for people who need a leg up, provides a living wage for all, Medicare for All, significant reform of I.C.E., and is considered as the most electable candidate, having the best opportunity to win. I grew up in a poor family, and have, throughout my life, acted to eliminate hunger and wars, to protect safety net programs, stand against racism and volunteer for fair wage campaigns. I believe in being vocal about placing the importance of social safety nets in the minds of all Americans. Poverty, a systemic violence that politicians use as a form of control, is built in to our government. We must defeat it and anything that props it up. Research shows elevated societies produce happier citizens. Let's elevate Americans, by giving our people, including immigrants, a fair chance at success. My preferred candidate is Shenna Bellows, however, I need dialogue with other democrats about misogyny impacts and the lost Collins race and their perceived impacts on November's votes. If a valid concern by caucus time, then I may be persuaded to vote for Troy, who has been a fine legislator and is passionate about Maine and her people. I want to be in on ANY credible conversation and strategy to avoid election loss. I will not be delegate for Nirav Shah due to his Legionaries failure and his choosing to work for a union busting insurance company.

Cornish, Matthew W

MOUNT DESERT

Graham Platner's campaign was never about the man, it was the platform. It is essential we ensure that Maine's Democratic nominee stands in the same platform. That is the will of the people. I also want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Damm, Anne I

BAR HARBOR

I want to help defeat Susan Collins in this election. I support Shenna Bellows but will vote to elect the candidate chosen by this convention. I have assembled signs and campaign buttons, sent hundreds of postcards and attended rallies supporting Democratic candidates.

Damm, Edward A

BAR HARBOR

We must stop Susan Collins, she always will and always has let us down. My preference is for Shenna Bellows but I will work for the election of whoever our party chooses, whether as a button maker, sign distributor or street demonstrator.

Daniel, Evelyn Claire

MOUNT DESERT

I wish to serve as a delegate because I want to make sure the progressives in the party are represented. I want to further the goals of making sure all people have healthcare, everyone is on a level playing field, unions are strengthened, and the most vulnerable Americans are represented.

Debeck, Kevin

CASTINE

I would like to participate in selecting the next candidate for United States Senate that will go on to finally overthrow Senator for Life Susan Collins

Dedam, Constance

SURRY

It will be my honor to represent Hancock County democrats to work to defeat Susan Collins. I will stand for medical care for all, financial support for rural hospitals, stronger unions, child care for families and a living wage. I will support our candidate for the Senate who works for these ideals and work to defeat Susan Collins.

Di Bella, Sam

HANCOCK

I volunteered for the Platner campaign as a canvasser several times. I strongly believe in Platner's platform and I would like to ensure that the senate nominee has those same views. To help our candidate win the senate seat I will volunteer with the election committee in anyway I can. I've been working at the grassroots level to recruit progressive people to local office and help with their campaigns. I served on the Hancock select board, and on the county budget advisory committee and I'm now serving as Hancock County commissioner.

Dibella, Jeffrey R

SULLIVAN

Filling this role comes as a natural progression of my political activity over the past few decades. I have canvassed for Bernie Sanders in 2016, Kamala Harris in 2024 and most recently for Graham Platner. I have lived in Maine for 12 years now and worked against Paul LePage as governor on both his campaigns. I have been actively working to help defeat Collins since last summer, covering town halls and rallies as a photographer/videographer. I am retired and can devote my time and skills to any candidate that represents a progressive platform that includes, stopping the Gaza genocide, stopping the Iran war, banning Congress from trading stocks and eliminating ICE.

Donovan, Carey W

BERNARD

I have been interested in political work for a long time. I have been the Democratic Chair for the Town of Tremont for a number of years and I have previously been a Delegate at a Maine State Convention. We have a number of very good people who wish to be our next Senator. I think it will be very interesting to find out how this all shakes out. Thank you for considering me.

Dudman, Martha T

MOUNT DESERT

As a lifelong Democrat, I would be proud to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Committee on July 25, and be part of our historic effort to defeat Susan Collins and take back the Senate. This year's election is crucial. We must all put aside our differences, listen carefully to the candidates, and select the person most likely to win. Then, together, we must work to help our candidate succeed. That means giving money at whatever level we can, volunteering to help in whatever way we are able, and encouraging everyone to get out and vote in November. We have already demonstrated our enthusiasm for political change. Things may not have gone as planned, but we can still win. It's going to take hard work, perseverance, and unity - and we can do it. Now is the time to select and elect a candidate who can represent the people of Maine, push for meaningful change in Washington, and stop Trump in his tracks.

Dudzik, Mary E

BAR HARBOR

I am interested because we need a change. I am a family practice doctor at an FQHC, and see everyday how my patients struggle to afford food, housing, childcare and healthcare. The people of Maine need real, honest representation and help with basic human rights.

Eaton, Holly

DEER ISLE

I am very invested in working together to nominate the next candidate who will defeat Susan Collins and help to unify our party.

LGBTQIA+

Eggebrecht, John M

BUCKSPORT

Flipping the U.S. Senate is essential to restoring sanity to our lives. I hope that the selection process retains the spirit of Platner's policies, which I supported, without dividing the majority voice. A calm, transparent process will be needed.

Ellsworth, Susan Marie

ELLSWORTH

I grew up during the 60's and 70's and am a 3rd generation democrat. Politics were loudly discussed at all family gatherings while at school, patriotism and current events were taught in every classroom. Over the years, I have kept myself aware and at times, involved in politics. For over 20 years, I lived in NH which gave me a glimpse into primary politics. I campaigned for Al Gore in 2000 and was heart broken at his loss. No matter the disappointments, my love for our country and government has never waived. I believe we now are at a critical juncture in our history. Since our government's democracy is being threatened, I cannot stand by and do nothing. My beliefs and values align with the democratic party. I believe everyone has the right to be represented and Susan Collins does not represent myself and most Mainers. Therefore, I am willing to do as much as I can to defeat her and give Mainers the opportunity to have our interests and needs heard and respected.

Disability

Ericksen, Neal

HANCOCK

I would like to serve as a delegate to see the vision set forth by the Graham campaign followed through the election. We need more progressive-minded democrats who haven't been bought by corporate interests in Congress. Graham captured people's attention by being frank with his answers and open about his intentions. People are sick of political placations and lying. Nominating a candidate who has that same level of relatability, people-focused policies, and no-nonsense communication is how Collins will be defeated. My work as a delegate to select such a candidate is how I will help defeat Collins. And continuing to engage with local communities and individual people through phone banks, and especially canvassing, is how I will support my nomination and build on the grassroots movement that started here with Graham.

Ericksen-Buss, Carolyn

HANCOCK

Graham Platner overwhelmingly won the nomination for Senator because he understood grassroots organizing! I believe our next candidate must follow that example and I am more than willing to work as a volunteer to help that person gain acceptance and spread his\her stance on the issues! It is vital to defeat Susan Collins and to that I will dedicate myself!

Esposito, Shauna

ORLAND

I am applying to serve as a delegate because I believe this election is one of the most important of our lifetime. As a single mother of two, I understand the challenges facing working families. I know what it means to live paycheck to paycheck, to worry about rising costs, the economy, and whether our children will have the same opportunities we did. I also care deeply about protecting women's rights, voting rights, and the freedoms that define our democracy. I have known Shenna Bellows for more than 30 years. I know her character, her integrity, and her unwavering commitment to the people of Maine. Shenna is genuine and has the passion to lead Mainers in what has become a movement far greater than a simple campaign. She is unafraid to stand up for what is right, even when doing so is difficult. She cannot be bought by outside influences and has always remained focused on serving Mainers. I believe Shenna Bellows is the strongest candidate to defeat Susan Collins. If selected as a delegate, I will represent Democrats with integrity, enthusiasm, and a commitment to ensuring the voices of everyday Mainers are heard. I am ready to do the work because our future—and the future of our children—is worth fighting for.

Ewing Del Rio, Jeff

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

I want to serve as a delegate because this is a pivotal moment for our party to embrace the populist energy building across Maine and the country. I'm running to make sure our platform reflects what working people actually need: Medicare for All and universal health care, stronger labor unions, an end to foreign influence in our government, and real reform that puts working families ahead of entrenched interests, including taxing stock buybacks and banning members of Congress from trading individual stocks. Defeating Susan Collins in November means drawing a sharp, consistent contrast on the issues that matter most to Mainers. Collins has spent decades siding with corporate donors and entrenched interests over her own constituents, whether it's health care, workers' rights, or the influence money has over her votes. I'll push for a campaign that speaks directly to voters about the pocketbook issues shaping their daily lives, like housing affordability, not just partisan messaging.

To build on our grassroots momentum, I'll work to keep the party's platform connected to the movement energy already out there: supporting common-sense gun safety laws, full equality for LGBTQIA+ Mainers, and freedom of religion for all. Momentum comes from showing people the party is fighting for them, not hedging. As a delegate, I'll bring that fight into the convention and carry it back out to voters.

Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+

Faneuf, Angela

BLUE HILL

I would like help make sure that this process is fair, transparent and reflects the will of Maine voters.

Fehrenbach, Diane

LAMOINE

I would like to be a delegate because I do not want to sit back and have someone choose a senator for me. I have lived in Hancock county Maine for over 50 years. As citizens we have many serious challenges in our day to day lives including, but not limited to, health care, affordable housing, growing living expenses, and so on. I was excited to support Graham Platner's grassroots movement and hope to have a candidate with similar beliefs and concern for the working class Mainer. I spent over 40 years working in healthcare in Hancock county. I know a lot of people. I plan to continue to use and build on my relationships to educate and inform others on why Susan Collins is not helping Mainers, in fact, she is hurting most of us. I need more than 250 words to expand on Susan Collins and her 'concerns'. Again, I am willing to use all of the resources I have to offer to continue with our grassroots movement.

Fitzgerald, Peter

BUCKSPORT

I am a Professional Electrical Engineer, standing up to CMP and Versant, despite the fact that it puts my reputation and career at risk. I've already been blackmailed by CMP, and I testified about it in front of the Maine Legislature's EUT Committee. I have 15 years of experience in protection and control systems for substations up to 500kV. I am actively opposing utility CPCN requests on the basis that they have not done sufficient engineering and cost analysis to justify them. Furthermore, I am standing up to the Office of the Public Advocate and their Non-Wires Alternative Coordinator. The NWAC is rubber-stamping capital projects and representing the work as an independent engineering review. Energy costs are one of the top concerns on the minds of voters, and they will continue to be through November. The Democratic Party has made a lot of progress on environmental regulations in the recent years, but they have not demonstrated that they will protect people from unnecessary rate hikes. When we demonstrate the impact that our intervention can have, it is likely to have a big impact in November. I am involved in the ISO-NE and NEPOOL planning processes governed by FERC, which is more closely related to the Senate position. Momentum is gaining at FERC that is important to our state, and the Orders they issued in June will impact the state-level planning studies as well in an important way.

Flavin, Samuel

CRANBERRY ISLES

I am a working class democrat and I strongly believe in the advancement of working people in the state of maine. I live and work in a fishing community where there is a demand for change in our representation in congress and I believe I reflect the values and goals of my neighbors. During this process I think it is essential to honor the voices of Maine voters and continue the grassroots movement to unseat Susan Collins.

Youth

Foster, Evelyn

ELLSWORTH

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Fox, Cara

BUCKSPORT

I was active in the Harris campaign, was a delegate for Hillary Clinton when living in Liberty, I believe in doing my research, weighing pros and cons, and listening respectfully. I am a writer by profession and value clarity. This is a historic moment. it is necessary for me to do more than vote.

Friedmann, Glenon J

BAR HARBOR

I have been active in the Democratic Party for 45 years; and have served on the Bar Harbor Warrant Committee and for six years on the Bar Harbor School Committee. My experience running an organic farm, serving as Hancock County Coordinator for Women, Work and Community, parenting my children and working the doors for my husband's successful run for State House has given me ample opportunities to hear about the challenges facing our community. We must flip the U.S. Senate to stop the catastrophic erosion of our Democracy. My politics are Progressive. I am committed to working diligently to ensure the candidate nominated in the convention defeats Senator Susan Collins.

Garceau, Dylan
SOUTHWEST HARBOR

I want to represent the community in which I live in this process.

Gerald, Matthew M
BAR HARBOR

I worked hard and long and donated money to the Platner Campaign. I want the platform he created to continue with a different Progressive candidate. I am willing to volunteer extraordinary time and effort to this election. This is a critical crossroads for our beloved state and our nation and I am willing to give it my all.

Gerard, Elaine H
PENOBSCOT

I hope to become a delegate as I have the experience and motivation to promote and participate in activities to unseat Susan Collins. I am a lifelong Democrat and have fought for the ERA and Abortion rights as well as march on No Kings Days. I am excited and motivated to promote our Senator candidate by canvassing door to door, writing letters to editors, writing postcards, raising money for the party and making phone calls. (I have done all these activities many times.) I was a delegate twice, the latest at this year's convention. I am an active member of the Penobscot Democrats Committee and serve as its treasurer. My background includes hospital administration and consulting for attorneys. I know how to organize to get results. I can attend all meetings to elect our next Senator!

Gormley, Peter
SURRY

I think I would be a very effective delegate: I have 40+ years experience as an attorney, part of that in government service and as an elected union officer at the US Library of Congress. I have excellent analytical skills. I am a good listener and am prepared to discuss and evaluate the positions of the candidates so that we can nominate the best possible person to send Collins into retirement. Whoever emerges successfully from the Convention will have my financial support, and I will continue to canvass, speak out, be active at community events, write cards, post signs and participate in any way I can to help achieve a positive outcome in November. The Platner campaign generated tremendous enthusiasm and hope for the future. With the best candidate coming out of the Convention, we can build on that and finally say: Bye Bye, Susan.

Greene, Andrew

BAR HARBOR

Although I have only lived in Maine for 6 years, my family roots have been here for generations. My mother, who was born and lived in Auburn was a lifetime progressive democrat and helped instill in me the importance of the values that the Maine Democratic Party carry forward today. As a child, I spent summers in a tiny cottage on Tripp Pond in Poland with her family and learned to love this state and its people. As an adult I have chosen to move here because of the long history that Maine has as a leader in working to fulfill the promise of America, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Mainers deserve representation in the Senate that reflects our values and not those of Susan Collins and her ilk. If I were to be so fortunate to be selected as a delegate, I would work tirelessly to represent the people of Hancock County at the nominating convention and would work to be sure we have the best possible candidate to win in the general election. Regardless of any decision on my bid to be a delegate I will use my broad network of professional connections and newfound free time (I recently retired as the Senior Vice President of Research at the Jackson Laboratories) to be sure we continue the great work done by candidates in the primaries for governor, house, and senate to capitalize on the enthusiasm and desire for change.

Gregor, Carol

BROOKSVILLE

As a Delegate in 2016 for Brooksville, Hancock County we witnessed an extraordinary outpouring of support for a new vision for the Democratic Party, one specifically devoid of PAC money and one with a future of a more balanced economy that considered fair pay, health care and government for the people, not the immoral capitalism we are now so deeply a part of. Democrats are divided as to what kind of candidate we want, a traditional candidate who accepts extraordinary amounts of money for outside our state or someone who has the courage to stand for us all and represents the people in Maine. As a long time activist and a person who sees this as a moment to support the deeper changes we need as a state and a nation, we must hold firm in being sure our process is by the people of Maine, that we honor our ability to decide ourselves and not be influenced by the corrupt and destructive influences of the elite few who have bought our current political system. In Maine, we can do this and as Maine is such a special place, together we can lead the nation in rebuilding a party for the people. I will continue in media conversations, help Hancock County with local support and continue standing up for truth and support our next candidate as financially able as I can. Collins is and has been a disgrace for many years but our goal must be to unite the Democrats

Gregor, Richard L

BROOKSVILLE

I am concerned that for the last 55 years the Democratic party has been too busy chasing the 'issues du jour' instead of putting together a marketing plan like the Powell Memorandum to sell the benefits of our candidates to our voters. First win, then take care of business: fair elections, healthcare, etc.

Grohoski, Nicole Christine

ELLSWORTH

I serve as the State Senator for 21 municipalities in Hancock County, representing 70% of the County's residents. In the state legislature, my job is to synthesize information from multiple sources into a single vote. Stepping up to be a delegate feels like a natural extension of my duties to represent our region. If selected as a delegate, I pledge to host at least one virtual meeting to take public comment from registered Democrats and unenrolled voters in Hancock County, to help inform my vote. I will encourage other delegates to join. Even delegates with a settled first choice will need good information on the other candidates in case the voting goes into rounds of runoff. My legislative voting record reflects the same priorities that built grassroots energy in this race, and I'll bring that same focus to choosing the strongest nominee against Sen. Collins. After the convention, I'll do my part to support our nominee alongside my own reelection campaign, and I encourage every one of you to do the same – defeating Sen. Collins in November must remain our shared priority.

Grover, Kathleen

BAR HARBOR

I am deeply committed to finding the right candidate who will represent the people of Maine with integrity and courage. We deserve a candidate who does not accept donations from PACs, corporations, Wall street, or billionaires. We deserve a candidate who will be beholden to the voters, not their sponsors. We deserve a candidate who understands what it means to be a working person in Maine, the high costs of commuting to low or medium paying jobs. We deserve a candidate who understands the high costs of owning or renting a home, the high costs of heating fuel, taxes, and insurance. We deserve a candidate who understands the high costs of healthcare and health insurance and the lack of availability of rural healthcare. We deserve a candidate who will fight to bring costs down and will fight for universal healthcare, universal pre k education, free higher education. We deserve a candidate who will fight for investments in infrastructure including roads, schools, health facilities. If we have a candidate who truly understands and represents the working people of Maine we will have a good chance of bearing Susan Collins. A candidate who doesn't take corporate and big money donations will stand in stark contrast to Collins who is beholden to her sponsors, not her constituents. We can point out where she has voted against the best interests of Mainers because of who she takes money from. Our candidate should promise to put forward a bill that prohibits sitting members of Congress,

Disability

Gruver, Roy

GOULDSBORO

I was previously elected as a delegate to the party convention this Spring. I remain committed to electing the strongest candidate to win the Senate seat in November.

Gulliver, Libbey

BLUE HILL

I'm chair of the Blue Hill Democrat Committee, I regularly canvass for Democrats, I've been a poll worker & warden during elections. I worked as a social worker in Washington, Hancock & Penobscot Counties & am not shy discussing the importance of supporting progressive policies and the candidates that choose to back them!

Haas, Melissa

MOUNT DESERT

I firmly believe the only way to make real change in the democratic process is to be involved at a local and state level. I am not in a position to run or hold public office so participating in this process is a way to be involved and share my voice

Hannan, Emily

WINTER HARBOR

By simply participating in this conference I hope to continue the grassroots movement in Maine. This grassroots movement is important and new. By choosing the right candidate to continue this movement we have the opportunity to defeat Susan Collins. The working people of Maine are ready to be an example to the country as to how to turn this country around.

Harrow, Edward M

DEDHAM

I am a retired physician and veteran with extensive third world volunteer health care experience and a longtime member of Physicians for Social Responsibility(PSR), the United States subsidiary of the Nobel Peace Prize winning organization, the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War(IPPNW). I can recall reading George Orwell's novel, '1984', during my collegiate years and currently find to my utter dismay that much of what he prophesied has slowly become and increasingly likely reality. Our current governmental leadership has perverted our glorious 250 year old democratic experiment into an oligarchic kleptocracy and is being lead by a draft dodging prevaricator who has disgraced our countries humanitarian ideals. I believe that my active participation in our democratic process can be the best inheritance gift I can leave for my four grandchildren who will be able to vote in a national election for the first time in 2026.

Harrow, Maxine E

DEDHAM

It is time to turn the Senate blue, to advocate for the respect, dignity and tolerance of all people. We need a Democratic Senator.who will support health care for all, reproductive rights, funding for education, and serve as a check for this administration's policies both foreign and domestic.

Hastings, Michael Morgan

BAR HARBOR

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins. Having served as a national security assistant for two Maine Senators over a period of twelve years, I understand the kinds of skills that a citizen needs to possess to effectively represent the people of Maine. I am excited to the participate in this phase of the democratic process and will take seriously my responsibility as a voting delegate.

Henderson, Jennifer J

CASTINE

I'm a lifelong Mainer, raised in Deer Isle. I've always been interested in politics, but I became more active since switching to the Democratic Party to caucus for Bernie. I've volunteered for phone banking, despite feeling very shy about that. I've put myself out there at protests. And now that we are in this place in such a critical election, I want to help find the best person to beat Susan Collins, give Maine real representation, and fight for our country's soul and welfare. As a professional educator, I am good at working with people whose opinions might be different than mine. Let me use my talent and training to help get our campaign back on track!

Disability

Hessler, Katherine

BUCKSPORT

I support Troy Jackson and will happily canvass for him and do what I can to support his candidacy. I am submitting my name as the last time I served as a delegate (Bernie Sanders in 2016) I wasn't planning to but we didn't have enough delegates to send from Hancock County. I doubt that will be an issue this time but am submitting just in case.

Heyman, Michael Scott

BAR HARBOR

I will go to Bangor and vote

Hindy, Steve

BROOKLIN

I have been a Maine resident for four years. I supported Graham Platner because I felt he expressed the democratic values I believe in. I want to be site those values are shared by the Democrat nominee for Senate.

Hoff, Matthew

BROOKSVILLE

I scrapped active participation in politics during college in the 1970s, sickened by a party devotion litmus test that entrenched bad politicians. After graduating from Penn State, I followed two careers: first, as a journalist and executive at the Associated Press, and then as an in-house tech attorney in upstate New York. My wife and I have been full time Maine residents as of 2023. All these years later following my experience in youth politics, I see a U.S. Senate, and a Republican Maine Senator, propping up the one of the worst US politicians of my lifetime, and without doubt the worst U.S. President. As a recent retiree, I've sought ways to be useful in my community. And I see the opportunity to defeat Susan Collins as an imperative. I believe that, while the Democratic Party's previous nominee for this Senate race is gone, the policy aspirations of those Maine voters who selected him should be honored. We need a progressive candidate who will pursue progressive ideals to beat Susan Collins.

Horner, William Rea

BAR HARBOR

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously. In addition, I strongly feel that Dr. Shah is best qualified to address two of Maine's pressing childhood problems: healthcare and education.

House, Arthur E

BROOKSVILLE

I am small business owner in Hancock County and I want to make sure Troy Jackson is fairly nominated to be the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate. Troy best represents my family's progressive values and I believe he will do the best job in the Senate after he defeats Susan Collins.

Hoyt, Claire

SURRY

I believe that participation is the bedrock of democracy and that participation may be defined by an action as simple as reading beyond the headline to running for local office. Even that only captures a snapshot of the of the many ways every day folks can be active and participate . Being a delegate is an accessible and logical next step in exercising my own way of participating as a citizen in our democracy on both a local and state level. There is nothing that gives me more of a sense of purpose and fulfillment than connecting with people. I would be honored for the opportunity to translate that passion for connection into representation for my community by being a delegate for the county of Hancock, Maine.

Hunter, Norene

BAR HARBOR

I have been an avid Graham Platner supporter and am saddened and angry about the take down of him and the attempt to water down his platform. I want to help select a person who will carry on with his platform, be a powerful voice to carry him/her on to the November election to eliminate Collins as our state Senator. Collins must be defeated. We are on the knife's edge of saving our republic.

Hurvitt, Mark

CASTINE

The last time I was a delegate was in 1988, as I was a Dukakis delegate from South Berwick to the State Democratic Convention in Portland. So, at least I have a bit of experience at this. At that point I was a high school teacher. Since then, I've had a long career in education in Maine as a teacher (9 years), elementary principal (13 years) and as a superintendent (18 years). Now, I have retired from education and own a successful pub in Blue Hill (Devil's Half Acre Beer Garden). I was the superintendent in Union 93 (Blue Hill, Brooksville, Castine, Penobscot, Surry) for 15 years, so I know a lot of people in this area. As a matter of fact, I feel as though I know most of the people on the Blue Hill Peninsula! So, my interest in this process is to be involved in choosing the best candidate, one who could win in November, and, unlike the previous candidate, one who is not saddled with distractions. Over the past 30 years I have met Senator Collins several times. I have found her reasonable and respectful in person. However it is definitely time for a change for Maine, and folks feel that way on the Blue Hill Peninsula. I will be seeking a candidate who can represent Maine with dignity in Washington, and who can move the Democratic agenda forward for Maine and for America, and I am coming into this process open-minded.

Hutchins, Brent

LAMOINE

I would like to be a delegate because I love my state, and I feel that active forces are at play driving the country to one party rule. As a student of political and military history, I know one party rule is a recipe for despotism. I deeply resent Collin's putting party above honor. Her original pledge to only serve 2 terms at the most, was a lie. She doles out little goodies for Maine while lining her pockets and facilitating the Republicans over all goal of centralizing government power in the Federal 'Unitary' Executive. She voted to impeach Trump twice, but claims he learned his lesson. Now she's supporting carpetbagger Lepage for the second district! I was a Lamoine delegate for Hillary in '08. In '24 I worked with Lee Cline ,in my capacity as a Downeast playwright, creating radio ads to support the Democrats. This cycle my troupe of Trenton Flats Irregulars and I have worked with Lee and the HDCD on several pithy ads that are now being aired on local radio stations and the internet, with more to come!

Inzina, Jessica

ELLSWORTH

I care about the well being of Mainers, especially Downeast and the County. I want to see us represented. I will be offering rides to the polls and talking to neighbors and my community to get the vote out for the Dem candidate.

Janenda, Thomas Daniel

FRANKLIN

I am a lifelong Democrat who is focused on beating Susan Collins, retaking the US Senate, and saving our country. My family goes back 200+ years in Hancock County. I voted for Platner in the primary, but believe we have excellent, experienced, longtime Democratic candidates to replace him and must get on with this process. I support MDP's efforts to clean this up and move forward asap.

Jellison, Barbara M

DEDHAM

In February 2011, we purchased our home on Green Lake. My husband is a Mainer. I'm from away, Virginia. I am a democrat. I hope and pray that we select Troy, who closely aligns with Platner. I will work to defeat Collins. (me - Green Lake Association Board for 10 years, have been committee chairs. I am the Treasurer. Work life. retired as Accounting Manager for State of Virginia aState)

Jolly, David Hughes

PENOBSCOT

I want to serve as a delegate because I want to see Susan Collins defeated this fall, and the only way that will happen is if Democrats nominate a candidate who can sustain the grassroots excitement that Platner's candidacy generated. This means a candidate who embraces Platner's progressive platform with its emphasis on universal health care, affordable housing, and affordable child care. It means an anti-establishment candidate who will not cave to the corrupt power and greed of billionaire oligarchs - whichever party they belong to. And it means a candidate who knows the Trump regime undermines our democracy every day and therefore must be challenged every day - in Congress, the courts, the media and our communities. My first step to help defeat Collins would be serving as a convention delegate who pledges to vote only for candidates meeting these criteria. Then, assuming the nominee fits this bill, I will help ensure his/her victory by canvassing, phone banking, writing post cards and letters to the editor; talking with friends and neighbors who are undecided or even uncertain they'll vote; and engaging in actions to protect the integrity of our election. I am a gay man in my seventies, a retired public health professional still advocating for universal health care. I've worked on local, state, and national campaigns for many decades, and I've never seen our democracy threatened as it is today. Nothing has even come close. I want to be part of our collective effort to turn this country

LGBTQIA+

Jones, Alexis

MOUNT DESERT

I am a 19 year old girl meaning that what is happening in the government is directly affecting me as a women. My views align with the former canident. I have found myself at protests to stand up for people who can't stand up for themselves. I would like to help with the solution to fix this system that has been created without Americans in mind.

Jones, Leslie

TRENTON

The state of Maine needs to come together during this unprecedented time. We need to find a way to harness the energy of what has been started and continue its momentum. I want to be a part of that effective change of defeating Susan Collins. I love the state of Maine. I've helped on the Platner campaign with office work and mailings and hope to continue with working at the Ellsworth Democrat office. We need to keep an eye on the long term as well as short. I plan on helping in any way that I can by volunteering. I've also volunteered at the polls locally. Attended rallies and helped there. However I am needed to help defeat Susan I am interested.

Jones, Travis

MOUNT DESERT

I've been hugely disenchanted by politics for a long time but over the last year, I've found my voice and am eagerly working to participate in electoral politics. I believe it is imperative that we continue this grassroots movement that produced the largest turnout in Maine primary history in order to unseat Susan Collins. The Maine Dems are giving people an opportunity to have a say in this process and I feel, after all the effort I've put in, that it's my responsibility to follow through with that opportunity. Thank you for allowing me to have the opportunity to be a part of this process.

Joy, Sarah Elizabeth Drinkwater

WINTER HARBOR

Hancock County, Maine, and all of America are watching how Maine will meet this moment, we must all do our part. Stand up, speak out and participate. Having been a delegate at the State Convention in the past, I know well the importance of listening, the role a delegate plays in speaking for not only themselves but more importantly their community and am ready to be a voice for my generation in this transformative process. Dirigo!

Kaley, Justin

BROOKSVILLE

I was born at Blue Hill Memorial Hospital and educated at the Bay School and George Stevens Academy in Blue Hill. Today — with elderly parents, family property in Brooksville, and a ten-year-old son — I carry three generations of Mainers' concerns into every political decision I make. I want to serve as a delegate because I know exactly what it takes to beat Susan Collins: winning back voters like the one I used to be. I spent years as a registered independent. In 2008, I split my ticket — Obama and Collins — because I believed her moderate brand. Watching her abandon Maine, vote after vote, turned disillusionment into resolve: I've been a registered Democrat for nearly a decade, a repeat donor, and I have never missed a vote. In Bangor, I will arrive genuinely unpledged. I've spent my career rigorously assessing competitive positioning, and I'll bring that same discipline to this choice: studying every platform, listening without prejudgment, and voting for the nominee best positioned to win — judged not by ideology alone, but by their ability to reclaim the independents and split-ticket voters I once stood among. After the convention, my work begins: phone and text banking to reach persuadable voters with my story as a former Collins voter, and donating and fundraising to fuel the campaign through November. Hancock County powered this race's grassroots surge; I'll help ensure that energy doesn't grieve — it grows. Our county deserves a delegate who represents both the faithful and

Underrepresented Religion

Kennedy, Joseph

ORLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat and I've been politically active in previous campaigns.

Kerbel, Jarrett

HANCOCK

I am a lifelong Democratic voter with many years of Labor Organizing and Community Organizing experience. My concerns are affordability, living wage, universal healthcare, and the development of renewable energy. We need a candidate who can defeat Susan Collins, hold President Trump accountable, and root out corruption in our politics. We need a senator who serves the common good of Mainers and not the interests of lobbyists and the one percent.

Kimmerly, Allen

MOUNT DESERT

I am on the following committees and boards in my town, Mount Desert. Planning Board Warrant Committee Harbor committee Comprehensive Committee Assessment Review Committee I am a retired boat builder/boat captain and have lived on Mount Desert Island for 28 plus years. I have volunteered for our Democratic Party I Ellsworth in the past and would like to be part of this committee. Thanks, Allen Kimmerly

Kirk, Emily J

SURRY

As a life long Democrat who has been supporting democratic candidates and causes for more than 50 years, I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. Here in Maine , I have been active in virtually every election cycle at both the local, state and federal level for more than 20 years. As a retired attorney I have both the time, interest and understanding to help with the many local issues facing Maine Democats as well as offering to help with the unsexy work on the ground, of canvassing, signature collection, advocating, post card writing, phone banking, driving door knockers, and helping with and supporting fund raisers for out best candidates. All these activities are necessary to support the grassroots activities needed to win the 2026 midterms and beyond.

Kirk, John

BLUE HILL

I have been an active member of the blue hill Dems and was elected to attend the convention this year.

Kirk, Susan

BLUE HILL

I have been regularly attending blue hill Dems meetings and was an elected delegate to the convention this spring.

Kumar, Neha G

BAR HARBOR

I am interested in becoming a delegate to ensure that the senate candidate representing Maine is selected by and represents the people of Maine and not by some group in DC. We need a candidate whose agenda aligns with our needs.

BIPOC, Underrepresented Religion

La Plante, Suzanne

GOULDSBORO

I am very interested in finding the best candidate to replace Graham Plattner who can beat Susan Collins this coming November. I believe I know who the best candidate is and would like to vote accordingly.

Lahaye, Carmen

ELLSWORTH

I work for Maine People's Alliance. I was a day 0 Graham Supporter (knew him before) and am a college student (19 years old) at UMF. I watched this movement grow and helped as much as I had time for. I am down to canvass and work for a new progressive candidate in order to defeat Susan Collins in November.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Leader, Daniel

CASTINE

This is a critical process and moment in Maine's history. The country and world is watching. As the chair of Castine's select board I feel I am uniquely qualified to participate. Our next Senator will have a profound impact on the state and every small town like Castine. The Blue Hill peninsula faces a host of issues that include housing shortages, sea rise, housing costs, labor shortages. We need a democratic senator that understands and will fight for these issues. Sincerely, Daniel Leader

Leonard, Carol Lynn

ELLSWORTH

I would like to be a delegate for the special nomination process representing Hancock County. I am a registered Democrat from Ellsworth.

Lieser, Andrea P

CASTINE

I am 26 years old and have lived in Maine all my life. I studied Politics and Environmental Studies in college, worked for Graham for Maine, and am committed to nominating a candidate who supports the policies that 72% of Maine voters demanded on June 9th: Medicare for All, no more genocide in Gaza, and passing a wealth tax. I have knocked on doors all across this state and have called thousands of people. I have not yet made up my mind which candidate to support. I fiercely love this state, and I want to be a part of this nominating process to uplift a candidate whose policies support Mainers, and not the billionaire class.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Lloyd, Jenifer C

GOULDSBORO

I am committed to help be the change we are looking for. My role is to serve the working people of Maine, by actively participating in the democratic process. I am eager and stand ready with optimism to work to get out the vote, educating our communities about the importance of defeating Susan Collins. I believe together we can see our best days in front of us.

Macarthur, Susan

BROOKSVILLE

I have been a Democrat for all all of my 77 years and have worked for our victory in many elections I believe this election is one of the most important. I want to be a delegate for my children my grand children as they deserve a future Susan Collins has to be defeated as she is as dangerous as Donald himself. I am so proud of this country or I was. I want to help save it. We all do we democrats all do

Underrepresented Religion

Maclean-Hoover, Pandora

BROOKSVILLE

The time is now for Mainers to be adequately and honestly represented in the US Senate. Susan Collins has shown us why she is not the right person, over & over again. I campaigned for Sara Gideon five years ago and was devastated when she lost, allowing Collins to return to Washington, D.C. for another term, after promising she'd only stay for 2 terms. I very much want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention, to do my part in defeating Susan Collins in November. This is a profoundly complicated time and being a delegate is an incredible opportunity to effect change. This torch of grassroots momentum, courageously carried by the tireless efforts of thousands of volunteers who embraced Platner's message, must be carried through to November's election for Senate: Medicare for all, limits on campaign donations from corporations, fighting for fair wages for working people, protecting voting rights, stopping the illegal detention and deportation of people who are legally in the US (ICE abuse) and bringing an end to the illegal war in Iran. Trump's administration is doing everything they can to strip women of their reproductive health rights and their next goal appears to be to take away our voting rights as well. I am a mother, grandmother, sister, wife and proud American who has had enough and wants this chance to do my part in protecting and restoring Democracy and the Freedoms I have cherished as a citizen of the United States of America.

Maddocks, Meghan

STONINGTON

I'm devastated by the turn of events in this senate race but refuse to give up on the powerful pro Mainer movement we have built thus far. I believe my progressive positions represent the feelings of most Mainers, and believe that more democrats in the senate, and to represent Maine particularly, is a crucial part of getting politics to start working for us. Like they're meant to.

March, John P Jr

MOUNT DESERT

I hope to serve as a delegate because I have five grandchildren, and I want to tell them that I did what I could to support civil rights, due process, and the fair and generous treatment of immigrants. Real progress on these issues will be possible only when Democrats control the Senate, the House, and the White House. Defeating Susan Collins is the first step on the road to recovery.

Marks, Peggy Ann

CASTINE

Take down Collins

Marks, Roger D

CASTINE

I am interested in becoming a delegate to nominate I.Shah as a candidate for U.S. Senate.We need a fighter and lawyer to protect our country and State from tyranny in election lies from the current President.I have the confidence in Dr.Shah taking care of us Mainers just as he did during the scary days of the Covid pandemic.Replacing Susan Collins is our no. 1 Goal.

Marshall, Christopher Lovett

BLUE HILL

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Martin, Heather Danielle

SURRY

When I served as the Organizer for the Hancock County Dems (2003-2013), I had two maxims written on the walls of the headquarters. The first was “Nobody ever changed my mind by yelling at me,” and the second was “When the circus comes to town, there are lots of bright lights and big attractions - but when it leaves, there’s nothing but dead grass, litter and a cotton candy hangover. Let’s model our work on a barn raising - not so flashy perhaps, but creating real value and use for the whole community.” On those lines, I was part of building one of the most successful grassroots operations that Maine has seen with unprecedented win rates for the Democratic Party. I left to pursue other careers - but in this moment of crisis, it seems time to refocus on genuine grassroots organizing. When I served as the Organizer for the Hancock County Dems (2003-2013), I had two maxims written on the walls of the headquarters. The first was “Nobody ever changed my mind by yelling at me,” and the second was “When the circus comes to town, there are lots of bright lights and big attractions - but when it leaves, there’s nothing but dead grass, litter and a cotton candy hangover. Let’s model our work on a barn raising - not so flashy perhaps, but creating real value and use for the whole community.” On those lines, I was part of building one of the most successful grassroots operations

Martin, Taylor S

PENOBSCOT

Faith in our democratic institutions and processes is waning, and needs involvement by ordinary citizens in order to be reinforced. I would like to ensure that the actual people of Hancock County are represented in this selection process.

Mathewson, Kevin M

BROOKLIN

My name is Kevin Mathewson, I'm a retired librarian and translator and former union representative from Brooklin, Maine. I see it as my civic duty to serve as a delegate to nominate Susan Collins' successor. We are in a moment of very serious danger to our republic when all Democrats must stand together, reaching out to Independents and sensible Republicans to reject Donald Trump's wildly corrupt and lawless misgovernment, which dishonors all Americans, past, present and future. I look upon Trump's supporters as failed Americans. We all have to think long and hard about what drove them to such ignominious failure, how to bring them back, and how our nation can recover. Susan Collins has persuaded quite a few Mainers that she is Independent and goes her own way, but this is a sham. She is a vital part of Trump's misgovernment, voting for his worst programs, and now touting the repulsive 'election security' legislation that will disenfranchise millions. She must go. Graham Platner began to mobilize hosts of Mainers, Independents and disaffected Republicans who are realizing that they have been hoodwinked. To remove Susan Collins, we must continue that work. With my fellow delegates I will do my utmost to pick the strongest candidate with the best chance of unsettling. Thank you

Mattson, Maryanne M

BAR HARBOR

I am interested in being a delegate because I want to personally participate in the nomination process. This is a pivotal moment in Maine's history. Our selection of the next Democratic Senator for Maine carries a huge obligation to the United States of America. We must secure the Senate as majority Democratic. Our candidate must beat Susan Collins. There is no middle ground here. Our candidate must come out of the gate with a powerful burst, run fast and focused, and with great endurance. This selection process must be methodical, inclusive, honest and informed. I want to be present to assure this happens. As a CPA I am used to gathering facts and making decisions. Representing our great state in this important moment in history would be an incredible honor for me. I promise to be a strong delegate that will carry the spirit of Democracy and will hold the wishes of the people of Maine close to heart.

Mcandrews, Monica S

ELLSWORTH

As a Democrat who believes government should work for working people—not wealthy donors—I want to serve as a Delegate to the Maine Democratic Party Senate Candidate Nominating Convention. In this most unusual of circumstances, being a delegate is how I can show my enthusiasm for democracy. I personally hope Shenna Bellows is the chosen candidate, but I will support whoever wins the nomination to defeat Susan Collins. After the convention, I will volunteer and support outreach in Hancock County. I'll support phone and in person canvassing efforts, and work to persuade independent voters who were impressed with Graham Platner that the new candidate can deliver against Collins. I will talk to people about how crucial it is that we send a Democrat to Washington in January. I'm ready to serve, show up, and do the work it takes for us to win in November.

Underrepresented Religion

Mchale, Gregory

BAR HARBOR

I am with Troy Jackson because he is best positioned to defeat Susan Collins in November. I'm a proud Democrat and I want to see Maine's growing grassroots momentum continue. I am a young professional working in Bar Harbor and have seen first hand the ballooning cost of living crisis on MDI. I believe I would be an excellent delegate to represent young (I'm 28), working people in Hancock County and see it as my duty to do so. I am disgusted by the recent Platner revelations, but still believe his progressive, grassroots politics should be represented in the next candidate chosen. Troy is the clear choice, having consistently stood up for working-class Mainers for more than two decades and polling suggests he's the best choice to beat Susan Collins. While I strongly support Troy, I look forward to continuing to knock on doors, make calls, and volunteer with whichever Democratic candidate is selected in a few short weeks.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Youth

Mcmillen, Abbie

BROOKSVILLE

My first preference would be for young, enthusiastic delegates to step forward. However, if not enough of you show up, I am willing to stand. For several years I have tried to reform the Democratic Party, first as a Kucinich supporter in 2004 and as a Bernie delegate in 2016. I work with my town party, organizing deep canvassing. I organized a Rapid Response Team with Town leaders throughout Hancock County. I have written and sent 236 Actions through that channel since Trump's 2024 win. I participate with Bangor Indivisible and helped document the Jared Golden Empty Chair Town Hall. I'm an election observer with the LWV. Graham Platner was the first political aspirant I ever heard describe the critical role of Frances Perkins in creating the liberal democracy we were living in until recently. I, too, honor that legacy and will continue the work to reclaim it, whether or not I am elected as one of your delegates.

Underrepresented Religion

Mcmillen, Michael A

BROOKSVILLE

Graham Platner was selected to run against Susan Collins on the promise of a better life for average Americans and of reforming the Democratic Party to achieve that vision. Though Graham's candidacy was brought down by personal failings, his message is still embraced by the record number of primary voters who supported him. His replacement must have sufficient ability and passion to carry that message forward both to defeat Trump-enabling Susan Collins and to help the progressive wing of the Democratic Party inaugurate a new, more hopeful day in Maine and American politics. I have a personal familiarity with the leading contenders for that job and look forward to working with fellow delegates to make a final selection from among them.

Merkel, Marie

SURRY

I would like to be a delegate because I've followed Graham's campaign closely since Aug 15 last year, and have a unique perspective on the exuberant hope he tapped into, as well as the quieter reservations about his experience and character. I'm currently chair of the Surry Dems (home of the "Bye bye Susan" bumper magnets) in Hancock. Whoever the candidate, we are galvanized and ready to do our part to defeat Susan Collins. I believe we can show the world that the Democratic Party in Maine may have a flat tire, but we can fix it faster than Patrick Dempsey's team on the race course. The GOP jumped the gun with their "back room deals" narrative, but we have a better come-back story to tell. Our candidate will quickly shift that narrative, and grab the spotlight with their sure footing. As chair of the Surry Dems, I'll continue our work to mobilize canvassers, postcard writers and support for the Hancock County Dems. My instinct will be to focus on what unites us all - the many reasons we must retire Susan Collins for the good of the nation. With LTEs - my own and from our group - we can match her "bringing home the bacon" messages with all that her votes have cost us, from abortion rights to the cruel cuts of that big ugly bill she voted out of committee.

Miller, James

ELLSWORTH

My name is James Miller, an Ellsworth resident and proud citizen of Maine. Inspiring record-breaking voter mobilization is the most crucial factor in defeating Susan Collins. This election cycle has demonstrated that Mainers desperately need systemic change, with our ongoing progressive grassroots movement driving unprecedented levels of voter turnout. If we do not capitalize on the momentum of this movement, we will once again forfeit this invaluable Senate seat. To that end, if elected as your delegate, I will vote for Troy Jackson to be your candidate for Senate. Like many Mainers, I believe that our current political system is not designed for our benefit. Directly combatting the powerful moneyed interests that seek to disrupt our livelihoods, healthcare, and communities is necessary to ensure we maintain our dignity and autonomy. Many leaders in the Democratic establishment have failed to meet this political moment; therefore, we need representation willing to take strong stances on policies that directly address wealth inequity, enshrine reproductive rights, and reject violent federal interventions both domestically and abroad. Troy represents a political ethos of working-class solidarity and labor power. If elected as our candidate, I believe he can capture the momentum started by the Platner campaign to inspire turnout among working-class Mainers of all ages, backgrounds, and political ideologies.

Miller, Joshua

BLUE HILL

I would be honored to serve as a Hancock county delegate at the nominating convention. I have been energized by the promise of the Platner campaign, and while I understand the candidate is not viable because of credible allegations I want to make sure the promise of the campaign to Maine's working class is upheld. My participation will ensure my friends, family and colleagues will have a voice while we choose our candidate for senate.

Miller, Josselyn

ELLSWORTH

As a lifelong Mainer, young voter, and grassroots activist, my goal as a delegate would be to represent progressive policies that voters demonstrated hunger for in the primary election. The Democratic Party must recognize that times are shifting, and strategies must shift with it. Moderate candidates are ineffective at flipping seats from red to blue and disregard voters across the political spectrum who need tangible change. We must elect candidates willing to fight for universal healthcare, workers' rights, affordable housing, and clean elections, and who condemn billionaire interests and cruelty by federal forces at home and abroad. Voter turnout will be crucial and will be far higher if there is a candidate who people are excited about, particularly among young, working class, and otherwise marginalized voters. I believe Troy Jackson is our best chance to defeat Susan Collins because he has the right balance of progressive policies, popularity with the aforementioned demographics, a rural working class background, and a pre-existing political career spanning over two decades. Until November, I will continue working with local grassroots organizers to increase voter turnout in Hancock County through efforts that could include information distribution, ride shares, and encouragement of early voting. All forms of organizing are necessary to succeed this November – statewide organizations, hyperlocal grassroots organizers, and conversations with friends, family, and neighbors. In the words of American poet Diane di Prima, "No one way works, it will take all of us shoving at the thing from all sides to bring it down."

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Milliken, Nina Azella

BLUE HILL

I would like to serve as a delegate because I have a strong record of representing my community effectively in the Maine legislature and have been deeply involved in this senate campaign the entire time. I am deeply engaged in Maine politics, obviously, as I serve in the Maine Legislature and have for four years now. I will contribute to the campaign by knocking doors, attending and speaking at events, donating money and getting others to do the same, and engaging constituents in our communities.

Mills, Sally Newcomb

BLUE HILL

I intend to support Dr. Nirav Shah as the Democratic nominee for Senate. I believe he has the intellect, skills, and gravitas we need to lead the party forward and defeat Susan Collins. He also has a wonderful sense of humor which we all need in these difficult times. I look forward to participating in the democratic process. If selected, I will fully commit to my responsibilities as a voting delegate.

Minott, Nancy

BUCKSPORT

SUSAN COLLINS MUST BE DEFEATED. A long-time Democrat and political activist I have been a delegate in the past. I have attended countless protests and events in support of our Democracy and issues of peace and justice. We must inform the electorate of Collin's record of support for the horrific actions and consequences of those actions by the Trump Administration. We must continue to build on the grassroots movement that Graham Platner's campaign energized here in Maine. I am ready to knock on doors, deliver/put up signs, send postcards, make calls, and whatever other outreach opportunities are needed to defeat Susan Collins. I look forward to serving as a delegate.

Morley, Amy R

LAMOINE

I want to serve as a delegate because I care deeply about both the integrity of the democratic process and the outcome: defeating Susan Collins in November. I know many Democrats are concerned about what has happened and may feel discouraged or disenfranchised. I want to bring a perspective that respects those concerns, values the issues Graham Platner elevated, and embraces the responsibility of moving forward through a fair, collaborative, and democratic process. I believe all of the candidates who have come forward are worthy, and I look forward to seeing who emerges as the candidate best positioned to defeat Susan Collins while advancing the priorities that have energized Maine Democrats. I am process-oriented, thoughtful, persistent, and experienced in public service and community organizing. I serve on the Lamoine Select Board, previously served on the Conservation Commission, and have been a delegate to the Democratic National Convention. I have also led a successful community campaign that required organizing hundreds of residents, fundraising, coalition-building, and sustained attention to public process. Once I commit to an effort, I see it through. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will donate, make calls, display signs, encourage others to vote, and consider hosting a fundraising or organizing event. To build grassroots momentum, I will listen respectfully to people who are frustrated, acknowledge their concerns, focus on the values that unite us, and offer practical ways for people to remain engaged, empowered, and active in creating change.

Mortimer, Claire Forrest

BROOKLIN

I am going to support Troy Jackson at the convention. I stand with Troy for a number of reasons, but primarily because he is best positioned to defeat Susan Collins in November. A record number of votes were cast for Graham Platner in the Democratic primary. We Democrats who voted for his platform and his positions on the most critical issues facing our nation deserve to have our preferences for policy positions honored. Troy's platform is essentially identical to Graham's, and therefore, if this process is truly democratic, Troy should be our candidate.

Murray, Ian

BLUE HILL

I am presently the Vice Chair of the Blue Hill Democratic Committee having spent a lifetime working for the Democratic Party and its Candidates. I have in past served as Erie County Democratic Chair and as a member of the Democratic National Committee for 28 years and other leadership positions (Chair Erie County Human Relations Committee and Executive Assistant to the Erie Branch NAACP). I have been recently active in the Platner Senate race and am dedicated to working tirelessly for Democratic Victory in the fall.

Newell Taylor, Alexandra Elizabeth

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

As a working mom of two small children, I know exactly what people across our state say when they talk about how unaffordable life has become. I want a better future for my kids and for all of us. A future I know is possible if we put leaders who will represent every day Mainers - rather than the billionaire class - into positions of power. I am civic-minded and involved in both my local community and state and federal politics. I serve on the state board of Democracy Maine, where I support our critical mission to defend and enhance democracy. Additionally, as a community organizer for the Maine State Nurses Association, I've had firsthand experience in representing working people's concerns. I have no doubt I can do so here and I am excited to serve. There is nothing more important than defeating Susan Collins, winning back the Senate, and stopping Republicans' dangerous agenda. I intend to do everything I can to do that, and would be honored to have the opportunity to start that work now by serving as a delegate. This process is possibly the most important political moment of this year and it's critically important we handle it well; as someone who fully understands the gravity of the moment as well as the nuances, I hope I will have your consideration.

Newton, Carolyn

TRENTON

I believe that it is critical to defeat Susan Collins. The Democratic candidate must be an excellent communicator, respectful of the viewpoints of all Maine citizens, and experienced with state and national political systems in order to participate effectively in Congress. As a senior citizen (age 75), a resident of Maine since 2020, and a dedicated Democrat with a reliable record of voting after thoroughly researching candidates, I would like to serve as a delegate to help select the best Democratic candidate to run for the Senate in November.

Nickerson, Michael

HANCOCK

My name is Michael Nickerson. I was born in Ellsworth, and I have lived in the area for all 50 years of my life. I grew up in poverty in the 1980s to parents who did not graduate from high school and who were both staunch Republicans. It took me many years to work my way through college, but I eventually earned my bachelor's, master's, and doctorate in educational leadership. I am now entering my 12th year teaching at the small PreK-8 school in the town where I live with my wife and daughter. Education has been a critical part of my personal and professional growth. I have learned how important it is to listen to multiple perspectives, to evaluate evidence, and, most importantly, to recognize the need to get involved. That is why I have been an active member of my local teacher's union and why I took on the role of co-president. I want to be a delegate because active participation is needed if we want to have a strong Maine community. Education is also the best way to defeat Susan Collins. Graham Platner was successful, in my opinion, because he was good at educating people, and, as a party, we have to continue to teach voters the facts about who Susan Collins is, but also who Maine Democrats are. To continue the grassroots momentum, we have to keep having conversations with all Mainers, left and right, even if that is uncomfortable.

Norgang, Thomas

BLUE HILL

I was born in Portland in 2004. I grew up in Blue Hill Maine. My father is a carpenter. My mom is a midwife. I am in nursing school and an EMT at Cape Elizabeth Fire. I love this state more than anything else in the world. I want a senator who will support cost-of-living, healthcare and freedom. Susan Collins has been senator since before I was born and she is not that person. She must be voted out.

Noyes, Gitika Letitia

SORRENTO

I would like to be a delegate for Shenna Bellows whose wealth of experience as our Secretary of State as well as her many outstanding qualifications makes her an ideal candidate for United States Senate. She has already submitted her candidacy which in and of itself is an indication of her capable and timely willingness to serve. She has the experience of having run for US Senate before and so is thoroughly versed in the procedure. I was very impressed with her interview on the PBS Newshour when she described how she stood up this present administration by refusing to hand over Maine's voter roles. Her record on the protection of Maine voter and civil rights is admirable. I support Shenna Bellows because she is without question the most qualified candidate for the job of United States Senator. (I served as Democratic vice chair and as a delegate to the Convention for Sorrento during Shenna's previous run for US Senate.)

O'keefe, Rebecca B

GOULDSBORO

When I first started canvassing for Graham Platner's campaign last fall we were asked to knock on doors, introduce ourselves and ask what issues mattered to people the most.. healthcare, the war in Gaza , the cost of living, all the usual ones but what stood out to me was how quickly people were open to sharing this information with me. They had a lot on their minds and they were just waiting to be asked . For 7 months I knocked on doors and one by one, neighbor by neighbor the movement grew until on June 9 th, 72% of those voting cast their vote for change. Big Change . As I stood on stage as Graham accepted the nomination , I felt I was a part of something huge. It is this movement and the platform I wish to continue to fight for . We must finish what we began. The issues Graham ran on were the issues I heard at those first doors I knocked on. They are what matter to Mainers. I wish to continue where I left off ,.. talking to my neighbors and if I become a delegate, I will carry their voice to the convention. I will remember Grahams words when I first started ...all it takes is courage .

O'Neill, Moira

SURRY

I'm interested in being a delegate for several reasons. Chiefly, it's because many in my community think I already am one. I ran for office in 2016. It was not a successful campaign in terms of winning the seat, but it was successful in the number of my supporters who awakened to political activism for the first time. Many continue to be active on other campaigns. Although I believe their activation came from many aspects of the situation, I realize many see me as the catalyst for that change. They know I am informed, ask good questions, and listen to what's important for them and the community. That is why so many have been contacting me in recent days for information and reassurance about the coming process for the US Senate race. Since 2016, I've actively supported candidates through signature collection, canvassing, phone banking, writing postcards, hosting house parties, and raising funds. As treasurer for the county committee, I raised a significant amount of money for operations. I imagine I have gained a reputation for a kind of reliable leadership through those activities. My strength is in seeing the big picture and figuring out what is best for Democrats, and democracy in general. It would be a great honor to serve as a delegate in this special circumstance. I would like to be helpful. I think I can also instill confidence in the community about this special process. Thank you for considering my application.

O'Neill, Sheila B

ELLSWORTH

This year Democrats must take back the Senate because Donald Trump is destroying our Country. Susan Collins votes with Trump most of the time. I have been a volunteer for the Hancock County Democrats since 2004 I will like to become a delegate so I can hear all the candidates speak and help pick the person who will be the best to represent the people of Maine and the United States. Thank you

Pacheco, Dianne

TRENTON

This opportunity offers me direct input to shape democratic leadership and representation to identity, vet and champion candidates whose skill and values align with Maine voters.

Page, Diana P. Preuthun

BLUE HILL

As a senior citizen, I want our government to offer opportunities to my children and grandchildren by guaranteeing their rights through rule of law and creating the economic environment with education, health care, housing and jobs for them all, without discrimination. Listening to young people, they tell me Troy Jackson would be the best candidate to fight for these goals in the U.S. Senate. He has the experience in the Maine legislature. Growing up in a logging family, he understands the challenges rural Maine faces. He also knows how to work across the aisle and bring Mainers to consensus.

Pancoe, Michael

BAR HARBOR

I moved to Maine in 1981, with my young wife, Ellie. Together in Maine we raised 3 daughters. I practiced medicine here for 38 years and relocated from Bangor to MDI in 2003. I am a long term Democrat. In my retirement I am active participant in The League of Woman Voters and serve on the boards of The MDI Historical Society and Acadia Senior College. My wife and I are strong supporters of Force Multiplier, which provides national support to Democratic candidates in competitive races and for protection of voter rights. I also enjoy protesting at No Kings Rallies. My wife and I actively campaigned for Sarah Gideon 6 years ago and were featured in a flier sent to 130,000 Maine voters. We have actively supported Shenna Bellows since last Summer. Our enthusiasm for Shenna is based not only on her work with The Maine ACLU, and The Holocaust and Human Rights Center of Maine, but also on her ability to stand up to Donald Trump's multiple attempts to suppress voter rights.

Underrepresented Religion

Pcolar, Patricia

BAR HARBOR

Corrected version I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Maine Democratic Senate Nominating Convention because I believe this election will help determine the future of our democracy and the values we cherish as Americans. I want to help nominate the Democratic candidate who is best prepared to defeat Senator Susan Collins and represent Maine with integrity, courage, and compassion. I am a 72-year-old retired Human Resources Director and senior administrator whose career was dedicated to improving the lives of individuals with developmental disabilities and psychiatric challenges. For decades, I worked to ensure that vulnerable people were treated with dignity, respect, and fairness. Those principles continue to guide my involvement in public life. My wife and I have shared our home in Bar Harbor for 22 years, and I care deeply about the future of our community, our state, and our country. I closely follow local, national, and international affairs and have become increasingly alarmed by attacks on democratic institutions, access to healthcare, the independence of our judiciary, and the fundamental rights of Americans. I believe Senator Collins has too often enabled those policies rather than stood up to them. As a delegate, I will thoughtfully evaluate every candidate while remaining focused on one essential goal: nominating the Democrat who has the strongest vision, the broadest coalition, and the best opportunity to defeat Susan Collins in November. I will work enthusiastically for our nominee and do everything I can to help elect a United States Senator who will

LGBTQIA+

Pechinski, Jason

ELLSWORTH

I was an early adopter and advocate of the Platner Campaign. I volunteered, donated and became a Delegate to the Portland 2026 convention where I was able to meet and greet everyone personally. This was a great experience to see and assess those who represent us, and frankly make it Personal! Troy has been amazing. He remembers me and greets me like family. He shares my values and I'm ready for Progress and Change esp. for working people!

Peterson, James

BAR HARBOR

I believe in our nation's Constitution and strongly support the Democratic agenda. As a nation, we are only as strong as the most vulnerable among us. All Americans deserve equal rights, access to affordable health care, and the opportunity to earn a living wage. I also believe in the independence of the three branches of government and the importance of a strong two-party system. I believe both are at risk under the Trump administration, as well as from the willingness of many Republican members of Congress to cede legislative authority to the executive branch. It is imperative that Democrats regain control of both chambers of Congress in the next midterm elections to help restore the balance of powers envisioned by the Constitution and to prevent further movement toward authoritarian rule by a minority. Susan Collins has supported the Trump administration through her votes for conservative Supreme Court nominees and her support of legislation that, in my view, has contributed to widening the disparity between working people and the ultra-wealthy. It is time for Maine to elect a progressive senator from a younger generation. I humbly submit my name as a delegate to do my part in supporting the democratic process and the Maine Democratic Party.

Peterson, Laura

SURRY

I believe it is my civic duty to be involved in this mess yo ensure it is an open, honey and transparent process. I want to make sure that our candidate is the best person to send Collins into retirement.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Plum, Michele

MARIAVILLE

I seek to be a delegate because I'm a nonbinary bisexual mother to a trans child who's at risk in the current environment and local schools. I am an advocate and organizer who works hard on these issues while homeschooling my child and participating in multiple organizations including the UUCE Justice Committee running mutual aid & working on Wabanki Reperation Committee, and groups fighting RSU24's regressive "girls in sports" policy changes. I believe strongly in rural life, reasonable gun laws along side second amendment rights, and the Maine way of life. I have lived in Hancock county for six years now, and own nearly sixty acres in Mariaville, including several acres of blueberry barrens. I believe all these things are compatible with the Democratic Party of the future, if we choose for them to be. I believe in the platform of our previous candidate, and want to move that forward. The people of Maine deserve to have their voices heard - those are the issues they want moved forward. I will seek to choose a candidate who meets those standards. And I will help the candidate who wins with full support to beat Collins in November with the energy I bring to my organizing, encouraging everyone I work with to vote for them and help with campaigning.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Poole-Heyne, Rebecca R

BUCKSPORT

I am a fourth generation Hancock County resident and a member of the Maine Democratic Party since 1974. I have served as an elected official for six years in the town of Brooksville. I am an artist/teacher and a retired public school art teacher (in Brooksville and Surry). I have also been on numerous non-profit boards and was one of the founders of a 25-year-old nonprofit that currently serves the concerns and needs in my community. I am passionate about rural policy and supporting the needs of small towns. My strongest skills are in community building in a creative and meaningful way. I believe in using food, music, art, performance, and storytelling as ways to create connection. Building support for a candidate for office must include building community as well and must be done with a sense of excitement, joy, and fun to have lasting results.

Porada, Joseph L

HANCOCK

Hello, I have been an active participant in this election cycle since the first No Kings rallies, been an active member of Acadia Action since its rejuvenation last spring, have supported Graham's run until these last few days and recent event, been a $ and time donor in Our Movement and the path to retiring Susan Collins in November. I shall move forward continuing my volunteer time, effort and $ donations while we get this done!!! I and many I know will join in this effort. Let's work together in the very important path toward reclaiming the Senate AND The House!!! Sincerely, Joe

Powers, Victoria

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

I believe this is the most important election of my lifetime. I have recently retired from the profession of law and would be honored to participate in this unprecedented experience of choosing a successor for Graham Platner. I look forward to working diligently to elect a candidate who embodies vision, integrity, and intelligence.

Preble, Bethany

ELLSWORTH

I am a life long registered Democrat. I have never been as active as this year. Imagine my surprise to find passion, patriotic enthusiasm, and pride to be part of the current party's movement. The Democratic Party is alive, growing and hungry for change. I want to be apart of the future of the party.

Price, Andrew

ELLSWORTH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to ensure the Democratic nominee reflects the voices of the people they will represent. As someone in the younger generation, I want to help ensure voters in their 20s and 30s have a strong voice in this process. If selected, I will represent the wishes of Democratic voters in Hancock County by basing my vote on how they voted. I believe delegates should reflect the will of their communities while helping choose a nominee who can unite Democrats and win in November.

Youth

Pryor, Caroline M

MOUNT DESERT

I am interested in being part of a fair, equitable, transparent and democratic process. I have been working to defeat Susan Collins and elect Democratic and Independent candidates for decades. I will continue to do so by raising money, knocking doors, and volunteering with Hancock County Dems as I've done for many electoral cycles. I am a consensus builder, collaborator, past school board member for my town, and twice appointed to serve on state boards (AFFPIFF, LURC). I'm a small business owner and Maine resident for 43 years.

Randolph-Foster, Meredith

MOUNT DESERT

I am offering to be a delegate firstly because I want to make sure women are well represented in this selection process. We are in the center of so much of what is under attack and are overwhelmingly the majority of who shows up to protests. I want to be sure that women's interests are significantly represented in this selection process. I cannot fathom how Susan Collins justifies the ways she has betrayed Maine and betrayed women. I have been on my town's planning board for many years now. I appreciate the role of our planning board as a place for neighbors and the whole community to communicate concerns and offer solutions. I have been impressed with how much better a plan can become, more often than not, after people are able to be in the same room taking the time to listen to one another. Susan Collins has been avoiding this sort of personal town hall contact within our towns and communities. I am a very empathetic person and I appreciate the struggles and concerns of a diversity of people. I will be a delegate that is not participating for my just own concerns, but the interests of my community. I say this because I am skeptical of how many people are in the political realm primarily for their narrow personal interest or only the interests of people just like them.

Rapkievian, Carolyn D

BAR HARBOR

I am eager to participate as a delegate at the Maine Democratic Party convention to choose a new candidate for the US Senate. I supported Graham Platner in the primary and will choose a candidate who supports the platform he proposed. I believe we have several good candidates. I would like to hear more from them and others in order to choose the candidate who is most likely to activate the electorate to beat Susan Collins. I have voted in every election and been a registered Democrat since I was 18 in 1975. I am politically active for progressive causes and campaigns. I have canvassed in a variety of states including in Virginia in mostly “red” neighborhoods. I am an active listener and a consensus-builder. I was an assistant director at the Smithsonian’s National Museum of the American Indian and moved to Maine in 2020. I was the first Executive Director of the Bar Harbor Historical Society and am currently the Co-Chair of the Abbe Museum’s Board of Trustees. I teach international folk dancing with the band Kotwica, am active in the state-wide Armenian community, volunteer at the Jesup Library, and play in the Big Moose contra-dance band. After the selection of our nominee for senate, I will activate voters in my networks: music, dance, knitting, ethnic communities, and local neighborhoods. I have hosted fund-raisers and have provided music for events in the past and will offer to do so this summer and fall.

Raymond, Helena Catherine

BAR HARBOR

Born and raised in Maine, I work in OBGYN healthcare, in digital marketing for locally-owned restaurants, as a short-term rental host, and a few other odd jobs. My mother was a beloved school teacher who also worked evenings and all summer. My father worked in HVAC, pulling 60+ hour weeks. All I’ve ever known was how to work to survive. I believe we need a candidate who can build on the energy of Maine’s grassroots movement: someone who understands the challenges facing working families and is prepared to put our needs ahead of corporate interests and wealthy special interests. They should continue to champion affordable health care, lower prescription drug costs, and stronger support for rural communities. They should fight for an economy where working people can afford housing, earn fair wages, and have the opportunity to thrive. They should support policies that address Maine’s housing crisis, invest in clean energy solutions that lower costs, and protect the natural resources that make Maine unique. Just as importantly, our nominee must be a strong advocate for democracy and accountability. We need a leader committed to reducing the influence of big money in politics, strengthening ethics standards, and ensuring that government works for the people it represents. Winning in November will require the same movement Platner started and we, the people, voted for. By combining a bold economic agenda with authentic grassroots organizing, we will defeat Collins and elect a senator who truly represents Maine’s working families.

Raymond, John Eliot Iii

TRENTON

Maine needs to unseat Susan Collins in the upcoming election and take Maine's Democratic Platform to DC and the Nation. We need an energetic prepared to fight to reject the current administration, hold them accountable and repair the damage. Healthcare for all, childcare, money out of politics, adjust our tax laws, address the housing shortage, and make the oligarch pay their fair share.

Reed, Florence L

SURRY

I've lived in Hancock County Maine for over 20 years and gotten to know a lot of my neighbors through creating a community center with them and volunteering in many ways, including canvassing for Democratic candidates. I think this has given me a good sense of the sort of candidate we need in order to beat Susan Collins.

Ribble, Steven Wayne

WINTER HARBOR

I intend to vote for Troy Jackson. I am a Maine Licensed Landscape Architect who assists Maine communities and companies in regard to designing public health, safety, and welfare improvements. I have been trained as a citizen lobbyist and held positions on municipal committees and served on a planning board. While championing the passage of a state law I got to know of Troy's integrity, fairness, and inclusiveness. I believe he is our best option for moving the State towards equality for all citizens and reducing the financial burdens real Mainers face due to Republican cronyism.

Rioux, Ann Marie

BLUE HILL

From the beginning I have supported the Democratic Party, I have hosted fundraising events for Janet Mills, Graham Platner, Kamala Harris & Nirav Shaw. I believe that we must defeat Susan Collins in order to have any chance of taking back the senate & starting the process of fixing the damage that the republicans have done. This is a critical time & we must save our democracy!!!!

Robbins, Danielle

BAR HARBOR

As a woman, a young Mainer in the 18-30 demographic, and a member of the LGBTQ+ community, I am interested in serving as a delegate to ensure a nominee is put forward that protects marginalized Mainers at all costs and can continue this grassroots momentum while running a values-aligned campaign. I commit myself to engaging as deeply as possible in this process and will be building upon my most local networks to maintain energy among the young Democratic voters around me, despite the unexpected redirection of this moment.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Robinson, Jana L

MOUNT DESERT

I believe we must advance a candidate who will inspire voters that change is possible, who supports the average Mainer, the workers in our midst, and one who demonstrates respect for the people who contribute to what our country can achieve. I supported Graham Platner because he spoke for those whose voices have not been heard and for changing the system. Whoever runs must hold to those values and listen to Mainers, must support universal healthcare, and must be capable of defeating Susan Collins. I'm so privileged—white, female, with a college degree, grew up in a small town in a working-class family, both parents worked as did I when I was 15. We had enough. I volunteer on a domestic violence hotline and have worked in “health care” where people were held against their will. I still work in a nonprofit community. I'm a mother, a friend, a peacekeeper, & actively participate in my local UUCE faith community. I share qualities with many of you. I listen deeply and I work hard for issues of social justice. Above all, I believe our country & our political system does not work to protect & provide for us, for our neighbors, the people who work daily to keep this country running. I would be pleased to have your support & pledge to represent you to the best of my ability, experience, and passion. I wish us all wisdom as we weigh our choices.

Ross, Raymond Giles

HOLDEN

I am a 16-year member of the Laborers' International Union, Local 327 and a resident of Dedham. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate as part of an open and democratic process, and I appreciate the opportunity to be a part of this. I know Troy personally and I trust him to represent my family and I in Washington.

Roy, Erin

HANCOCK

In January I went to Graham’s protest at Collins’ Portland office. I told her staffer, “I want Maine to be the place my daughters want to make their adult lives in.” I’m ready to have a hand in actively being the change I want to see in Maine. I don’t want to just talk about politics — I want to practice it. The Greek root of “politics,” politikos, meant “of, for, or related to citizens.” I want to help nominate a leader who is of, for, and related to the Mainers of 2026. To me, that means taking up Graham’s torch for working people — and building on it. A candidate who fights for the working class should also speak directly to immigrants, LGBTQIA+ Mainers, and BIPOC Mainers. These aren’t separate causes; they’re the same fight for a state that works for everyone in it. I live in Hancock, and I will continue actively participating in local government, as I did by running for school board — the same hands-on engagement I hope to build at the state level, connecting rural northern Maine with the South so this fight includes everyone, not just the loudest or closest constituencies. I watched Graham’s town halls energize a base and bring people together across lines of difference. I don’t want that to die. I’ll work to keep that connective tissue alive — through town halls, potlucks, and community gatherings — because that’s the Maine I want my daughters to choose to stay in.

Russell, John

ELLSWORTH

I am passionate about ensuring we nominate a candidate who represents the actual interests and needs of working Mainers in a way that reenergizes the Democratic Party for our state both this November and moving forward. I believe that we are in a unique position to finally oust Collins and elect a candidate who can do real good. Taking part in this convention would be a powerful step along my own journey to bring economic and social justice to the people of Maine.

Russell, Ronald B

VERONA ISLAND

My name is Ron Russell. I live on Verona Island and am a 77 year old, lifelong Mainer. I represented HD17 in the 131st Maine Legislature. I have been a Democrat my entire life and consider myself a moderate. I have voted for and against Susan Collins for Senator. Yes, she has delivered federal money to Maine, but I believe she has used this fact to justify way too many votes that have been extremely harmful to Maine and our country. She needs to be replaced, now. I am currently running to regain the seat I had in the Maine legislature and over the next 14 weeks, I will be knocking on thousands of doors in Verona Island, Bucksport, Orland, and Penobscot. The damage that has been done by Susan Collins and her party will be one of the topics I, and the volunteers helping me, will be discussing. In addition to my perspective on Susan Collins that covers her entire career, I came to know and respect many of the Democrats that are now vying to become the Democratic replacement candidate for Maine’s US Senate seat currently held by Susan Collins. I am motivated, energized, and frankly angry about what has been happening to our country. I am a retired, a young 77 year old man that is ready to work full time for a better Maine and United States by getting myself elected to the Maine Legislature and seeing a Maine Democrat elected to the US Senate.

Ryan, Cara

BAR HARBOR

I want to help my state nominate and elect the best person for this moment--both to defeat Susan Collins and to carry out the work the Dems and all working people of Maine need done in Washington. I believe Platner tapped into something important, the growing swell demanding socioeconomic CHANGE. I hope to channel the hopes and preferences of the majority in my community if selected.

Saxl, Mary-Anne

SURRY

I would like to serve as a delegate to help choose the Democratic senate nominee because I believe this election is a defining moment for our country. This year represents a true tipping point, and the decisions we make will shape our future for generations. As a delegate, I would proudly represent the people of Hancock County- their resilience, independence, and commitment to community. Mainers value hard work, fairness, respect, and looking out for one another. Those principles should be reflected in the nominee we support and in the direction of our party. I believe the Democratic Senate nominee should not only inspire voters but also understand the challenges facing working families, rural communities, small businesses, veterans, and young people across our state. I would approach this responsibility thoughtfully and vote for the candidate who best reflects Maine's values while building a broad coalition to win the general election.

Underrepresented Religion

Schmidt, Alma Irene

SURRY

I would very much like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because 1) as co-chair of the Surry Democratic Committee I have researched, supported and advocated for candidates in the 2026 primary election; 2) Our choice of a winning candidate to replace Graham Platner is potentially important for re-taking the US Senate and ending confirmation of unqualified and biased judges and justices, and 3) replacing Susan Collins, who continues to damage the people of Maine as well as all Americans through her votes, is crucial this year. Defeating Susan Collins will be a major priority for me between now and the election in November. I will participate in any way I can to support the Democratic candidate we choose – writing letters to regional newspapers, providing financial support, encouraging Democrats in Surry to post yard signs and canvass (as well as doing that myself), attending campaign events, etc. I hope to help build on the energy and determination that was generated during the Senate primary via education and motivation of Democrats and Democrat-leaning Unenrolled voters through the Surry Dems, as well as working tirelessly to Get Out The Vote.

Searchfield, Ellen Martha

BAR HARBOR

I feel this moment is going to shape our party for a long time. Mainers are notoriously hard working, decent people and we must now select a candidate that reflects that. What happens in the next few weeks will shape not only the future of Maine but the whole country. As a 5th generation Mainer, a woman, full time resident and small business owner I think my voice needs to be represented in this decision process. Susan Collins is destroying the very foundation of who Mainers are and it must end.

Silva, Patricio

BAR HARBOR

I am running to be a delegate to make sure that the best qualified candidate that can win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins is the one nominated. I look forward to this opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.'

Smith, Nancy E

ELLSWORTH

We need to keep the momentum going: Graham Platner's broad base of support is unlike anything I've seen before and his supporters will be crucial to Democrats' success. Platner created a space where we felt hopeful and empowered. I want to help advance a candidate who can build on this enthusiasm with the sense of possibilities and of belonging that we'll need to succeed in unseating Susan Collins. Years of perspective to share: My service as a state representative 2002-2010 was mostly bipartisan and productive. My, but how times have changed. As a city councilor in a nonpartisan role for the past three years, I am frustrated and frightened by the MAGA-inspired blowback we face for simply trying to do the work of municipal governance. In spite of this, I plan to run for re-election on the same day when voters will be choosing between Susan Collins and the person we Democrats choose as our candidate. I know most of the candidates being mentioned, and believe I am qualified to vote in this critical convention; by listening to the candidates and to their many supporters. I ask for your vote: I have work obligations when the Hancock County Dems are meeting to choose delegates, but I am excited to be part of the July 25th convention if chosen. I promise integrity, compassion, and diligence in the work ahead.

Smolinski, Lawrence T

SURRY

Please accept this as a letter of intent to become a delegate representing the democrats of Surry Maine. I will to the best of my ability, with honor and fairness , execute this office the Democratic committee demands.

Snyder-Drummond, Merry Robin

ELLSWORTH

The current electoral system in the United States is being challenged. We, as active citizens, are the ones to protect it. Whether we like or not, our participation is vital. This convention is historic and especially consequential. Being a delegate is my active contribution to democracy as was my volunteering during the primaries. For the Get Out the Vote efforts, I did neighborhood canvassing. I also attended at least one Town Hall per candidate, sometimes more. To me, what is most effective in campaigns is 1. Seeing and hearing candidates at town halls. 2. Meeting people face to face. Those would be my focus to help the campaign. We learned about most of these candidates in the primary campaigns. To build on that momentum, it's important to clearly state the candidates two priority goals and their experience to address these issues. Their platforms were similar. To me, it is crucial that we have more women in office. I support a candidate who: • Who knows the system of checks and balances, works to assure our rights remain steadfast. • Has experience defending and advocating for civil rights, standing up to the current administration in D.C. • Shows respect for the land and how we live on it, has an excellent record with conservation groups. • Understands what 'low income' really means... paying for housing but can't pay for taxes, heat, health care insurance. Let's put solid and healthier policies in place for more people in beautiful Maine.

Spitalny, Kelsey

BROOKLIN

I am a working mother of two young sons. The voices of women and young mothers matter in this process and it can be difficult for us to find the opportunity to make it heard due to our responsibilities and time commitments — this is a wonderful chance. I love Maine. My parents were both 6+ generation Mainers from Brooklin and Deer Isle and my sons are the 7th generation to live in our home that was built in 1850 in Brooklin. Maine deserves better than Susan Collins. I am committed to door knocking and phone banking from the summer through November to ensure her defeat. I would love to know about more opportunities with the Hancock county democrats as well.

St Denis, Anthony

BAR HARBOR

I will be open and affirming to all interested in finding the best candidate to lead the fight for healthcare for all, protect humane rights , uphold the bill of rights. Follow the constitution of the United States. Protect free and fair elections in all states. Fight for teachers and public education. Improve housing options for those with little money. Be a leader that realizes that the power of this state is in its people .

Stocking, Fred B

LAMOINE

Delegate statement of Fred Stocking, Lamoine, Hancock County, Maine I am a lifelong Democrat. My first political activity was canvassing for LBJ in 1964. I have lived in Lamone since 1986. A retired lawyer, I served on, and chaired many town committees including the Conservation Commission and the Comprehensive Plan Committee. I have been a Platner volunteer from the start—motivated by his insight that 'the system is not broken, it works perfectly for those who designed and control it.' I helped organize a canvas of Lamoine on Graham's behalf, and am prepared to so the same for all of the Democrats running for Governor, the U.S. Senate, Congress and the Maine Legislature. My preferred candidate for U.S. Senator for Maine is Shenna Bellows.

Strong, Mia

SEDGWICK

I would like to serve so we have progressive voices and will help canvas and more in the fall.

Stroud, Noelle

ELLSWORTH

I would like to help select someone who represents the democratic socialist values upheld by Graham Platner without the suspicious personal record. I represent queer, pro-immigrant, anti-zionist Mainers and I want to help choose someone who can defeat Susan Collins. I also care deeply about protecting the environment and the sovereignty of native peoples.

Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+, Youth

Sutherland, Becky

SULLIVAN

I am just really interested in the process

Taylor Gray, Ann

DEER ISLE

I BELIEVE. I BELIEVE in due process. I BELIEVE in Democracy . I BELIEVE in rights for ALL. I BELIEVE that this Maine delegation can make the right choice for those of us who appreciated and now deserve true and unbiased representation—someone who can carry the torch for the working class of Maine. We need a strong, bipartisan leader with the strength to stand up to “illogical ideology” as in a set of beliefs that contradicts facts or reason. We are in a quagmire and need to change course.

Thomas, Brian

LAMOINE

I am asking to serve as a delegate for the same reason that I launched a successful write-in campaign to get on the ballot in November to run for Probate Judge in Hancock County: business as usual has failed, and I am willing to invest my time and lend my experience and judgment to help steer our community in a better direction. My campaign for Probate Judge began because I am convinced that the Republican nominee has publicly demonstrated a lack of judgment and integrity and should not hold such an important position in our society. Sadly, Susan Collins has done likewise. Her craven complicity with an administration that has decimated our nation’s democratic institutions and defiled our civic values makes her defeat of the utmost importance. Many of us were energized by Graham Platner, as he is an articulate spokesperson for Democratic Party ideals. Now, we find ourselves in need of a new candidate. The person we select should eloquently and enthusiastically express those ideals but also embody decency and stand as a contrast to the moral bankruptcy of the Republican Party under Donald Trump. I am prepared to raise my voice in support of such a candidate. It is crucial that we select a candidate for the Senate who will offer a clear alternative to business as usual and spearhead a reversal of the rotting of the American soul that has taken root under Republican rule in Washington. I seek to be a part of that process.

Thomas, Kayleigh

BLUE HILL

I was born and raised in Maine, and am raising my children with my husband in a small town on coastal Maine. This state and the people mean so much to me, and I cannot sit by as Susan Collins helps to destroy what we should and could stand for in Maine. We need to match the will of the people and keep moving toward abolishing ICE, taxing the wealthy, funding childcare and education, and protecting the minorities, LGBTQIA+ people and children in our state, country, and world.

Trenkle, Douglas L

SURRY

This is a critical point for democracy, in the State of Maine and entire United States. We must choose the best candidate who can win in November from a completely vetted group of individuals. No oversights and no excuses. Collins will be beaten IF the focus is on her record. If that focus is clouded by Platner or allegations toward his successor, then game over. Our choice must be impeccable with his/her character and demonstrated experience in politics. Thank you.

Tucker, Marc

BROOKSVILLE

History has placed Maine right on the cross hairs of the next election, not just for our state, but as the state that may determine whether there is ever another national election. I cannot face my children and grandchildren if I don't do anything I possibly can to help our quarreling Democratic Party unify in time to defeat Susan Collins. The support for Graham Platner's platform was wide and deep. The energy was enormous. We must honor that agenda. But this state is one third Democrat, one third Republican and one third Independent. We cannot win alone. I believe that the women of Maine may hold the key to victory. I believe we should do everything we can to offer the women of Maine a convincing—even exciting—alternative to the endemic misogyny that plagues our politics. We need a senator who really understands this state and the working-class people who are its backbone but who can, at the same time, work to help our state become a major player in the process of technological change that is enveloping us, rather than become its victims. We need a grass roots strategy that is driven by an experienced, competent, honest team whose members are committed to our agenda. My field is education. I've worked in schools, advised governors and prime ministers and rolled up my sleeves and stuffed envelopes and canvassed from house to house. I will do whatever it takes.

Turanski, Sonia Evans

PENOBSCOT

I have lived in the Town of Penobscot, in Hancock County, for 26 years. My son was raised here, and now his son is being raised here. Over the years, I have been self-employed as both a massage therapist and an artist. In paid positions, I have worked with elders as both a community advocate and caregiver, and with several nonprofit substance misuse programs as a community educator and countywide program manager. I have served twice as a Bernie Sanders delegate and, more recently, as a volunteer for Graham Platner's campaign. Over the past year as a Platner volunteer, I have donated hundreds of hours to administrative work, processing data, making phone calls, and knocking on doors. As an ordained Interfaith minister, I am currently part of a national network of faith leaders using our voices to protect free and fair elections. My commitment to our community and to our collective future runs deep. If selected to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention, I will bring my passion for grassroots, populist activism to advocate that our next candidate champions the priorities that were central to the majority of Democratic primary voters: standing up for Maine's working people; protecting our children and elders; advancing healthcare for all; getting money out of politics; and working to end U.S. support for Israel's war, as well as all wars of domination. I will also bring my skills in collaboration and conflict resolution, helping to ensure that the process is fair to all

Walls, Julian

MOUNT DESERT

As a recent Oberlin College graduate, I have kept up with all races in the Maine Democratic primary. My background is in neuroscience and chemistry and I work at a genetics laboratory in the state. I bring a human health perspective to my voting power and I have high regards moral ethics. As a 7th generation Mainer, I am concerned and invested for our states future. Helping our great state choose its next candidate would be the honor of a lifetime.

Wardell, Edward

ORLAND

The choice of candidate to defeat Susan Collins is so very important that I don't feel I can stand aside while delegates are needed to help bring this unusual and urgent situation to a successful conclusion. I campaigned for Platner, canvassing in Bucksport and Orland. Now that the Platner candidacy is no longer an option, I will help to pick another possibly stronger or less vulnerable candidate for the Senate race, trying to find the candidate with a power that will attract voters among democrats, independents, as well as a few Republican voters. All the Senate hopefuls have strengths, but the person who shows the greatest strengths as a candidate will get my vote. Defeating Susan Collins will take a candidate that can connect with a concerned and worried democratic voter. I will pick the candidate that fills that role and do the campaigning needed to win the Senate seat from Susan Collins. I would try to elect honest, smart and hardworking candidates for Maine, who will continue the striving for a strong, honorable, and truly great country.

Weeda, David A

BUCKSPORT

For the past 45 years I have been actively engaged in social public activism, community service, and electoral politics at the municipal, state and National levels. My work has focused on social justice, equal rights, anti-war efforts, peace, environmental sustainability, reproductive freedom, cultural diversity/anti-racism, HIV/AIDS awareness & advocacy, and education, advocacy, justice and safety for the LGBTQIA+ community. I received the 1994 ACLU Civil Libertarian of the Year award in Kansas

City, and was subsequently elected to serve on their Board of Directors. I served as a National Delegate for both Bernie Sanders' Presidential campaigns, 2016 and 2020. In Bucksport, I have served as co-chair and caucus convenor for our town Democratic Committee. I have worked to advance clean elections, ranked choice voting, healthcare for all, death with dignity, overturning Citizens United, and education around the CMP Corridor. In August, 2020, I founded Solidarity Bucksport which has stood in peaceful demonstration for 306 consecutive weeks, on the bridge between Bucksport and Verona Island. We also developed the first 2 Bucksport Pride Festivals. I will support the new Senate candidate who will best serve the working people of Maine in all of our diversity. Our new candidate must realize the importance of responding to the momentum and movement that we built in Platner's winning primary campaign. I will tap into my national Bernie-crat network to continue raising National support for a candidate who will beat Collins and promote the progressive anti-war, pro-worker, and pro-environment positions established in the primary campaign.

LGBTQIA+

Whitby, Susan K

HANCOCK

I have been part of the ground swell of support for the traditional policy positions that the Platner campaign was focused on - healthcare for all, and end to needless wars, fair tax policies, housing, and the need to focus on workers, including fair wages and collective bargaining rights. We need someone to carry these positions into the election and into the US Senate.

White, Sydney

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

I would like to serve as a delegate in this process because I've been wanting to get more involved and and this seems like a wonderful opportunity to come together as Mainer's and figure this all out. I love Maine and the people of Maine and I want to work with them to find our next candidate. I plan to vote democrat to defeat Susan Collins and also, I want to vote enthusiastically for that person. I want to find the next candidate for Maine that people can get excited about and I believe those people are here and they just need the platform and to be elevated.

White, Teagan

BAR HARBOR

I would like to be involved with the selection process within the state Democratic Party because I believe that if the best candidate to beat Susan Collins is going to be selected, it's important that it be done by the average Mainer. I have spent 8 years here working on an oyster farm, 7 years scallop fishing, and working the daycare and tourism industry. I also think that it's important to be as involved as possible and that it is also a privilege to have a chance to participate. I have volunteered to work the polls since 2020 and am very intrigued by the process of elimination that is going to be used during this convention. I truly believe the more people that get involved the better, not just because of how important it is to flip congress, but because I think we are at a moment in time in our nation where we need to restore belief that our government is composed of good people that work hard to make life better. I think we need to believe in ourselves again. Anyway, I hope that if more people like me can be involved with the nomination, the less traction the conspiracy people will have to claim that the election is rigged and I'd like to jump in and try to keep this democratic momentum from being lost. Thanks for your consideration, Teagan

Wilkins, Katharine Kenney

ELLSWORTH

I was a delegate to the state convention as I have been for many years and want to be involved in the process again.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Williams, Marguerite Vestal

PENOBSCOT

I will serve as a delegate from Hancock county to make sure we elect the most competent and articulate Senate candidate who will become a great representative for Mainers, defeat Susan Collins once and for all, and help redirect our government back to a government that works for all of us, not just a chosen few or wealthy corporate interests. I have worked for over 50 years as a Democrat to elect Democratic candidates because I believe Democrats represent the ideals of our country - equality for all, justice for all, inclusion and equity, fairness and compassion. AS the Chair volunteer of our (Town of) Penobscot Democratic Committee, I will totally commit to working for whomever becomes our candidate and by organizing our volunteers and voters to canvass, write letters, etc. I will help build out party by making sure our party builds us from the ground up and supports our Municipal committees who organize from the ground up.

Witham, Peter

FRANKLIN

I am a lifelong Democrat, a primary care doctor caring for patients across Hancock County and its surrounding communities, and a proud resident of Franklin. I stay informed about candidates and issues, vote regularly, but do not participate in the organized activities of the Democratic Party. Like many others across the political spectrum, I have grown disillusioned by "business as usual" in American politics, by the obscene amount of money candidates must raise and spend, and by the increasing prominence of corporate voices in our politics, our economy, and in my ability to care for my fellow Mainers. Regardless of any candidate's shortcomings, Mr. Platner's campaign and the positions he espoused energized grassroots Democrats who may not have participated in the state Democratic Party's process. To succeed against Senator Collins, those voices need to not only feel, but to BE heavily represented at this nominating meeting. We cannot afford to repeat the perception of the Party "anointing" a replacement candidate, as occurred in July 2024. The state Democratic Committee is already allotted 17% of the convention delegates before any others are selected. It is imperative that the majority of delegates to the nominating convention be engaged, enthusiastic, and informed voters who may not be involved in the state Democrats' formal activities and are representative of the broader electorate. I believe I can represent the many voters who care about this election but are not routinely involved in Party activities, and I would be proud to be one of those delegates.

Wombacher, Dylan

BUCKSPORT

From the ages of 14 to 18 I attended the Maine school of science and mathematics in limestone Maine. Over those years I fell in love with Aroostook county. I fell in love with the people, friends and neighbors who worked long hard days but never shied away from lending a hand to those around them. I see these same traits in Troy Jackson. I see a blue collar man who will not turn a blind eye to injustice, who will not leave Mainers out in the cold. Susan Collins left us to brave the storm a long time ago. I don't remember a point in my life when she wasn't in office. To me it has always felt like a stain on this great state, one that I would be honored in scrubbing out. Since a very young age I have been speaking out about her behavior and policies to those around me. And I intend to continue to do so as long as she remains in office. I have already began engaging in meaningful conversations with my friends in neighbors, helping to bring the gap between parties in hopes that we will unite around Troy Jackson, who is not from the left or the right, but from the bottom.

LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion, Youth

Woog, Amanda

BLUE HILL

I want to serve as a Hancock County delegate to the Nominating Convention to help ensure that the grassroots momentum that has been built for a working-class victory in Maine continues through November and beyond. This is a decisive moment that is key to defeating Susan Collins, in which either we build on this momentum, or abandon the voters who became engaged on an unprecedented level over the past ten months. I believe the party must nominate a candidate who is not only intent on defeating Collins, but also articulates and is committed to the policies that resonated with so many of us this past year, including Medicare for All, abolishing ICE, taxing billionaires, and ending the genocide in Gaza. As a Blue Hill Select Board Member, small business owner, and public school mom, I believe I have built the trust in my community to represent Hancock County voters with fairness and clarity at the Nominating Convention.

Worth, James Mark

ELLSWORTH

I'm known by my middle name, Mark. I'm a dedicated Democrat who served in the 131st Maine Legislature representing Ellsworth 2022-2024, with a progressive voting record. My candidacy was endorsed by the Maine Education Association, People's Alliance, Planned Parenthood PAC, Maine AFL-CIO, SEIU, Sierra Club, and other progressive groups. I've been an active Maine Democrat since moving to Maine in 1991. In the 1990s and early 2000s I was active in Maine Won't Discriminate and in efforts to achieve same-sex marriage -- as a member of the clergy. I'm a retired Unitarian Universalist pastor, and remain active with civic organizations. I was an early supporter and endorser -- and contributor -- to Graham Platner for Senate and Shenna Bellows for Governor. I give monthly to ActBlue, and will continue to do so. I am undecided in the current Senate contest but would be happiest with Troy Jackson or Shenna Bellows. Whoever we nominate, I will support the Democratic nominee and will work to support that person in November. We need to unite and work together to defeat Susan Collins and re-take the Senate.

Yoder, Carolyn A

PENOBSCOT

I am active on the Penobscot Democratic Committee and will continue to canvass for the democratic party candidates for national and local offices. I want my children and grandchildren to have a better country to live in.

Young, Alexander

DEDHAM

I am interested in serving as a delegate to a.) help select a candidate that can defeat Susan Collins b.) choose a candidate that can speak to and win over disaffected voters and voters that have bought into right-wing populism c.) select a candidate that is for equitable healthcare for all d.) select a candidate that will address the current unprecedented levels of wealth inequality through policy and regulation e.) select a candidate that will fight for livable wages and affordable housing f.) select a candidate that will fight for environmental and climate justice through policy and regulation g.) select a candidate that will limit the influence of wealthy individuals and organizations on elections h.) select a candidate that will tax the wealthy and assure taxes are used to fund the common good and not imperialistic wars and private profiteering i.) fund public education that builds literacy, critical thinking, and civic engagement j.) pass term limits k.) uphold tribal sovereignty. I would help continue the grassroots momentum that resoundingly selected a progressive economic and social platform that speaks to the needs of all Mainers. I plan to find direct and meaningful ways to support a candidate who will stand for the people and work to distribute the message to build energy and bring voters to the ballot box in November and defeat Susan Collins.

Young, Veronica L

BLUE HILL

Since collecting ballot signatures for Shenna Bellows' gubernatorial campaign, I remain an ardent supporter and want to represent her as delegate. She won more second choice votes in that race confirming her broad popularity. I am convinced she is the candidate to defeat Sen. Collins by truly representing 'we the people' with the progressive message that already ignites all Mainers, potentially including independents and republicans. She has proven labor union backing, and her very close alignment with the policies of Platner through their joint rallies and town halls make her the perfect messenger for the progressive ideology that has garnered massive support. As a woman she would appeal to those who have been alienated by Platner's reputation. Shenna is smart, articulate, a very experienced and strategic politician and tough with proven integrity. Her character is above reproach, and she is already brave in her defiance of Presidents Trumps demands. I will do whatever I can to spread this message and would love an opportunity to share some additional ideas with this outstanding candidate.

Zandler, Richard

SOUTHWEST HARBOR

I want to serve as a delegate to the nominating convention to help insure the election of a candidate who can inspire Democrats and Independents. While widening the appeal of the candidate, the traditional core constituencies of the Party can not be alienated nor the fundamental principles of the Party be compromised. The priorities of the candidate should be : 1. Protection of the election process, 2. Protection of the environment and addressing climate change, 3. Raising revenue by first raising taxes on billionaires and then through a new tax code closer to the scale used in the 1950s, 4. Using the increased funding to address the housing and general inflation crises, 5. Preserving and fortifying Social Security by first removing the limit on contributions by higher earners and then instituting an AI Gore-styled lock-box so that Social Security can be self sustaining and its funds cannot be absorbed by the General Budget , 6. Protection of scientific funding with restoration of peer grant reviews, 7. Reversing Citizen's United and restoring McCain/ Feingold 8. Abolishing the general tariffs 9. Rebuilding confidence with our traditional strategic allies and trading partners 10. Breaking up of conglomerates and monopolies especially in the media 11. Supporting farmers, watermen and union workers 12. Adopting sensible migration and border control, including hiring an adequate number of asylum judges, protecting guest workers, reinstating the Dreamers program, and protecting birth-right citizenship 13. Insuring that AI centers are not a drain on the existing Electrical grid and that worker