

Cumberland County

Aborne, Samuel

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because we need to ensure all voices are heard even those who might not be the loudest. From an impact perspective having recently ran for city council in Portland Maine challenging and incumbent and carrying over 30 percent of the vote through a grass roots and online effort. I would reach out into my network and engage them to keep the momentum.

Underrepresented Religion

Aceto, David Paul Jr

PORTLAND

As an active community member and certified yapper, I believe I can speak for a lot of Portland and Cumberland County residents. I'm a small business owner who likes to stay abreast of city and state issues.

Ackerly, Julia

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

LGBTQIA+

Ahrndt, Janna

WINDHAM

I am committed to labor issues not only in Maine but bation wide. I am part of the executive board of the Faculty Union at University of Southern Maine (AFUM). Grassroots campaigns that focus on labor, affordability, and ending corrupting money in politics is the way for our party to win elections and to govern. Susan Collins must not win another term.

LGBTQIA+

Albair, Jordan A

CUMBERLAND

As a fifth generation Mainer raised in Caribou and having resided in Cumberland County for 24 years, I have seen the widespread devastation Collins' votes have caused this state and the country. As a primary care provider, I see the direct negative consequences it costs people on a daily basis. Sometimes costing people their lives. This has to stop. Common people like myself need to take action now.

Ali, Pious Abdullah

PORTLAND

As someone who came to this country believing deeply in the promise of American democracy, I have never viewed politics as simply winning elections. ??For me, politics is about building relationships, creating opportunities for people to participate, and ensuring that everyone feels they belong. I want to serve as a delegate because I believe this moment calls for a nominee who can unite Democrats, earn the trust of independents, and inspire people who have lost faith in our political system. ??Choosing that nominee is a responsibility I would be honored to help carry. ??Defeating Susan Collins will require more than campaign slogans. It will take conversations in living rooms, on doorsteps, at union halls, places of worship, community centers, retirement homes, and neighborhood gatherings. I will do what I have always done: organize, listen, bring people together, and encourage those who have never before been engaged to become part of the democratic process. ??Our party's grassroots momentum will continue to grow only if we keep expanding the table. We must continue investing in young leaders while strengthening relationships with working families, rural communities, immigrants, seniors, residents of retirement communities, LGBTQ+ Mainers, communities of color, and every person who wants a government that listens and works for them. ? ?My own journey has taught me that when people are welcomed, respected, and invited into the process, they become lifelong participants in our democracy. I would be honored to serve as a delegate and help nominate a candidate who can build the

BIPOC, Immigrant/New Mainer, Underrepresented Religion

Allen, Lori

BRUNSWICK

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Allen, Samuel M

PORTLAND

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running as a delegate to ensure that we have the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins and bring a sensible voice and viewpoint to the U.S. Senate. I am excited to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibilities as a voting delegate seriously.

Amberger, Larry Donald

SOUTH PORTLAND

Susan Collins does not represent Maine; despite her claims of being a moderate, she is far to the right of the average Mainer. Most critically, she is unwilling or unable to protect our democracy from Donald Trump and his corrupt band of thieves and usurpers. Given the peril of our democracy, the most important qualification of our nominee is electability; we must retire Collins! We must unite behind our nominee! I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Anastasoff, Sasha

SCARBOROUGH

I want to have a hand in creating change for not only our state but our country. We need to see this grassroots change move forward & feel it's my duty to help see that through. I plan to be a voice for change & beating Susan Collins by advocating.

Anchors, William

PORTLAND

I am a civically-engaged, community-oriented business owner, activist and Registered Maine Guide. For more than a decade I have been actively engaged in the fight to hold Susan Collins accountable and remove her from the U.S. Senate. I know Maine and its people, history and politics extremely well. I grew up in Old Town, have lived in Franklin, Hancock, Cumberland and Lincoln counties, and have worked in Maine as a local journalist, health care aide, outdoor guide, bartender, teacher and landscaper. I currently own a seasonal business that employs more than 40 people. I have canvassed for many Democratic candidates over the years, attended countless political meetings, protests and rallies, served on many committees and boards for local non-profits and municipal organizations and volunteered in my community frequently. I believe the Maine Democratic party can lead the nation in supporting a new kind of progressive political leadership that is more responsive to the desires, values and ambitions of working people everywhere while also deeply rooted in the specific culture of this wonderful state and its long history of political leaders who cherish pragmatism and independence. I would bring to the Nominating Convention an open mind and a determination to select the candidate who is best suited to defeat Susan Collins and expand the Democratic electorate. I would take very seriously my duty to learn about the candidates and also to listen to my neighbors and other fellow Mainers. I would be honored to be a delegate.

Andersen, Susan

PORTLAND

I am running as a delegate so I can support Troy Jackson at the Convention. I am a public school teacher, and have long known Troy as a strong leader who fights for public education, worker rights, and the working class. Troy sponsored the law providing universal free lunch to kids in Maine, and I've seen first-hand how that law has provided much-needed food without stigma. He is a committed progressive with years of experience fighting for everyday Mainers and against corporate interests. He has what it takes to defeat Susan Collins.

Anderson, James M

PORTLAND

I have been a resident of Portland for sixteen years. While I have served as a poll worker for the last three or four years, I have never been active in politics except for emailing my Senators and Representatives about issues important to me. I think it's time to become a little more active and will do anything I can to defeat Senator Collins in November. Having a Democratic Congress for the remaining years of the Trump debacle is of the utmost importance, and having a Democratic Senator that votes for the benefit of all Mainers will be a vast improvement over Senator Collins' record. I am extremely disappointed in the chaos that some questionable actions taken by Democratic party representatives have caused. Now we are forced to rush a decision that should normally take months. The most important qualification that our nominee must have is the ability to defeat Susan Collins, period. I think all the individuals being suggested would represent Maine's interests well. The one that has the best chance of defeating Collins is who we need to nominate. I don't know who that person is yet, but I plan to educate myself to be in the best position to make the right choice. I hope before the convention Maine's Democratic Party leaders are making sure there are no more skeletons to surprise us.

Anderson, Jonathan Edward

SCARBOROUGH

As a Scarborough Town Councilor and Chair of the Scarborough Democratic Town Committee, I have the privilege of listening to and representing the voices of our community every day. I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe this moment requires leaders who are committed to uniting Democrats, energizing grassroots supporters, and doing the hard work necessary to win in November. I strongly supported the values and priorities championed by the Platner campaign, and I am fully committed to supporting the nominee selected through our democratic process. Defeating Susan Collins will require an unprecedented grassroots effort, and I am prepared to do whatever it takes to help make that happen. In Scarborough—the sixth-largest municipality in Maine—I will continue organizing volunteers, expanding outreach to Democrats and unenrolled voters, knocking doors, making phone calls, hosting community events, and raising resources to support voter contact and turnout efforts. Winning will happen one conversation, one volunteer, and one voter at a time. As a grassroots leader and municipal elected official, I have a front-row seat to the challenges facing Maine families and the importance of responsive leadership. I will continue building local engagement, welcoming new voices into our party, and channeling the energy and momentum we have created into meaningful action. Together, we can elect a Democratic Senator who will fight for Maine values and help move our state and country forward.

Anderson, Lisa

GORHAM

In short, Susan Collins has been Senator for half my lifetime. I have watched her go against Maine values time and time again, and only vote with our principles when it does not matter. She has been ineffectual as a Senator for many years. This debacle with Platner has made me apply as a delegate because I want my vote, and the votes of the people I know, to be heard! The timing of the Platner information wiped out all choice for a candidate that we could hear about during the race. I will study the view points of all candidates and talk to friends, family etc. and get perspective from all. We MUST defeat Susan Collins!!

Anderson, Nathaniel

PORTLAND

I served as a delegate to the Maine Democratic State convention earlier this year for the first time in my life because I felt compelled to help chart a new path forward for the people of Maine and the country as a whole. That hasn't changed. If anything, the moment is even more urgent in the face of wealth extraction, environmental destruction and the normalization of cruelty and dehumanization. A return to the status quo is not a solution. But this is not a fight that can be done on our behalf. It is a fight that we must participate in, and I believe that starts with me. As a delegate to the nominating convention I will 1) faithfully represent the interests of my community in Cumberland County and the great state of Maine; 2) recognize the power of the vision laid out by Graham Platner, while acknowledging his failures as a candidate and human being; 3) vote for the senate candidate who best represents the values and needs of the people of Cumberland County and the great state of Maine; 4) vote for the senate candidate who stands the best chance of beating Susan Collins in the general election; and 5) commit wholeheartedly to a free, fair and transparent democratic process that is CRITICAL to engaging the electorate and getting out the vote in November. And most importantly, this work doesn't stop when the convention is over. It continues until every vote is cast. Thank you.

Anderson, Stacey

STANDISH

I am a lifelong resident of Maine. Short of my voting responsibilities, I have not been heavily engaged in the political scene. That said, this Senate race has sparked something inside of me that wants to make sure Susan Collins is soundly defeated. I am taking the time to fully understand the direction that our Democratic candidates want to take our state as we move into the future. I am willing to participate to learn more and educate others on our processes in filling this vacancy.

LGBTQIA+

Andrews, Aidan

PORTLAND

Hi, my name is Aidan, and I am supporting Troy Jackson because I know he will fight for my future. I have lived in Maine my entire life, and I have watched as it has become a playground for the ultra wealthy, while folks like us get pushed out. During his time in the State Senate, Troy supported measures to make sure the wealthy pay their fair share in taxes and that everyday Mainers receive property tax relief. Another reason I am voting for Troy is because he helped pass a student loan tax credit that will help me graduate with little to no debt. If not for Troy's work, my future would look far less certain. As a person in my 20's I would love to be a part of this process to elect Troy Jackson.

Andrews, Justin

PORTLAND

I'm a lifelong Democrat who is interested in keeping the progressive momentum going forward and getting more youth involved in politics.

Angle, Bethany S

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am a former criminal Private Investigator. I am fact oriented, fair and well educated. I am interested in weighing the pros and cons of the platforms and personal statements of each delegate. It is very important to me to find the candidate that will attract voters from all over our state while committing to promoting the values of the Democratic Party and the people of Maine. I have lived in Maine since 1973 and raised my family here. Defeating Susan Collins should be our top priority for the sake of women, our Constitution and our health care.

Anglin, Gayl Marie

PORTLAND

In this moment, it is critical that Maine Democrats come together to choose a candidate that can truly beat Susan Collins in the upcoming general election. This might mean stepping away from candidates that might be a first choice to choose the person with the best chance to win. We also must ensure that the voices of all communities of Democrats within Maine are part of that decision and discussion. The momentum of the grassroots efforts to build the former candidate's profile in the election needs to be built upon and it is important that delegates "read the room." Democrats of Maine spoke strongly with their votes in the primary about what is wanted and what will mobilize people to the polls. I have been active in campaigns from local government through presidential campaigns, knocking on doors, manning phones, talking to my neighbors, and am dedicated to continuing with this at this important juncture. I am a single mom that has raised two sons in Southern Maine, who also lived for a few years in the County. I am passionate about helping to create a better country for my children, by being involved in the political process; democracy is an action word!

Ankhartz, Rosie

PORTLAND

I'm Rosie Ankhartz. My husband and I are building our lives in Portland, and we plan to raise a family here. I saw firsthand how difficult it was to become a small homeowner when we bought our first house last summer. As a speech therapist, I see how limited childcare options make it challenging for young families to thrive in Cumberland County. I'm committed to working to solve our state's affordability crisis. I see how much the families I work with are struggling to get by. ? Before becoming a Speech-Language Pathologist, I spent 10 years as a community organizer on political campaigns. As a delegate, I will bring my experience to serve Maine's future. I volunteer every Saturday for Food for All, an organization that feeds hungry New Mainers and ensures people from all backgrounds feel welcome. I am also an active member of the statewide Speech-Language Pathology association, my faith community, and my book group. I routinely interact with a broad network of Mainers. I will continue to talk to everyone about growing and improving Maine's future by voting for a Democrat as our new senator. My years as a community organizer and my profession helping children communicate compel me to represent my slice of Maine to ensure the lives of my neighbors and the families I serve are represented and that our voices are collectively heard. I know I can be an effective and collaborative delegate. I'm committed to building a better tomorrow for all Mainers.

Underrepresented Religion

Appel, Andree

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate to represent a great swath of people in my demographic that want an experienced progressive candidate to go up against Susan Collin's. I intend to engage people in a positive, constructive conversation about Collin's' record when it comes to health care, reproductive rights, the Supreme Court and the treatment of immigrants who are here legally which is both an ethical abomination and an economic self-inflicted wound.

Armstrong, Rosemary

BRUNSWICK

I am committed to contribute my utmost to defeat Susan Collins by contributing to the campaign of the nominee, participating in efforts to get out the vote via canvas, text, or calls to democratic constituents, support, organize and attend democratic events showcasing the nominee, and others tasks as needed to support the process to put a democrat in this Maine senate seat.

Arrison, James Alexander

FREEPORT

I have been active in state and local politics for years. I was a selectman in Rockport in the 90s. I'm currently on the zoning board of appeals in Freeport. In most elections I've done calls and canvassing for Democrats. I also have adult trans children and I feel their lives depend on having same empathetic governance. I will vote for whomever we select to beat Susan Collins, though I feel Troy Jackson is our best chance to win.

Arritt, Scott Francis

BRUNSWICK

I have been deeply involved with grassroots campaigns for democratic candidates. I have knocked on doors and supported candidates financially. I am a teacher and a veteran, and I want to continue to serve the country I love by acting as a delegate on July 25th at the Cross Insurance Center.

Arsenault, Leah

PORTLAND

Atkinson, Linda M

PORTLAND

I worked on Dr Shah's campaign for governor & was disappointed when he lost....but glad to help him be our elected to a higher office as senator !

Atkinson, Mary

PORTLAND

Atwood, Mary

PORTLAND

I seek to serve as a Maine delegate because I believe this is a pivotal moment for our democracy. I care deeply about the future of our country and cannot stand on the sidelines when I have an opportunity to help shape it. I believe in public service, civic engagement, and the power of people to chart a better path forward. As someone who values integrity, thoughtful dialogue, and bringing people together around common purpose, I would approach this responsibility with both humility and determination. I am not motivated by personal ambition. I am motivated by a love of country and a belief that our democracy is worth defending, strengthening, and passing on to future generations. I would be honored to represent Maine and help select a candidate who can unite, lead and move our nation forward.

Aucoin, Stephen Ralph

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have been involved in progressive democratic politics for over 70 years. I have known Troy for seven years and know his values and mine coincide. Where and if we differ, I will get to tell him that personally. Troy is the truth, a straight up honest workingman who gets it.

Austin, Lisa G

BRUNSWICK

As a teenage hospital volunteer, a young Congressional staffer, a middle-aged literacy advocate and in decades as a public school teacher, the public good has been the center of my life. I am eager to engage again now. Mainers must set aside any sense of factionalism to rally their shared interest in defeating Susan Collins. The process of deliberation embodied in a statewide convention presents a unique opportunity to advance the Democratic party's best interests. When those who hold competing views hear and respond genuinely to one another and shape new perspectives, the outcome forges strength from common interest. I am eager to be part of that process as a delegate to this historic convention, and to advocate for the myriad interests of Mainers — and, ultimately, to elevate an unbeatable Senatorial candidate who will defeat Susan Collins. I bring to the convention 35 years as a Maine resident, a decade working professionally with the Kettering Foundation to advance deliberative democracy and a policy degree from the Kennedy School. But my most important asset is a good set of ears, listening constantly to my community's voice in the supermarket checkout line, library conversations, in my front yard shoveling snow and anywhere else people share their fears and visions for our community.

Ayotte, Ryan

PORTLAND

I want to help ensure that the replacement candidate represents the views Mainers voted for in the primary.

Azevedo, Celina R

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope my fellow Democrats who also support him will select me as a delegate. As Democrats we have got to choose our nominee democratically in order to retain the trust of the voters. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible, and I am proud to step up at this critical time in our fight to show the country who we really are as Mainers. Together we can make our country stronger and more just, and we can send Susan Collins off to a well deserved retirement.

Babb, Erin

SOUTH PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Youth

Babulski, Timothy David

WESTBROOK

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. 70% of Democratic primary voters voted against the military industrial complex (namely the undeclared war in Iran and the genocide in Gaza), against the big tech oligarchy and the threat of AI, for affordable housing, for a Green New Deal, for Medicare for All, for union rights, for tribal sovereignty and self-determination, and to protect trans girls, migrants, and children from the scourge of Trump's fascism. The party cannot afford to put its thumb on the scale and suppress the votes of 150,000 loyal Democrats who voted with their whole hearts. Indeed, the way to keep and build enthusiasm is for the Democratic party to be the organizational antithesis of the MAGA coalition—fully small-d democratic. I trust that party leadership has the policy expertise and leadership experience see the necessitous truth of that proposition and will ensure that the will of the primary electorate is respected in the coming process.

Badeau, Margherita N

GORHAM

I am respectfully submitting my request to be a Delegate Candidate for the July 25th Convention in Bangor. As a lifelong Democrat, I have always been deeply interested and supportive of the Party. This cycle has been quite troubling. I want to be part of this process to help further our democratic values and to put forth a process that Democrats, and all Mainers, will be proud of. Thank you for your consideration.

Bailey, Kalle

WESTBROOK

TROY JACKSON - My wife is from Colombia, so national immigration policy hits very close to home. ICE was at our door in January, and though she has all her papers three years into the process, it has been terrifying for her and for many other immigrants I know and work with. None of them are criminals, all of them embody the American ideal: working hard to build a life for themselves and their families. I'm voting for TROY JACKSON because I owe it to her and to my neighbors from Afghanistan, three brothers who were evacuated from Kabul in Operation Allies Refuge. They face death threats from the Taliban if they return. Kind generous hard-working people that deserve better. Maine needs someone who will speak truth to power, fight mass surveillance, increase accountability, affordability, access to housing, and protect our rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Troy Jackson is the one to do it, and I believe the only one that can beat Collins at the polls. I run a small video production business working in documentary, education and with Democrat aligned political campaigns mostly in Boston. I'd be happy to offer my services to the campaign as a camera or drone operator.

Youth

Baker, Leigh

YARMOUTH

I'm Leigh Baker DO, an Osteopathic physician who has served Mainers for over 30 years. I have been a member of the democratic party in Maine since 1982. As a delegate I want to help guide our selection of the most qualified candidate to defeat S Collins. This year I have actively supported candidates by participating in signature collection, canvassing by phone and in person, and attending Town halls and press conferences. I will support any Democratic candidate of integrity who is working to restore democracy.

Baker-Hewey, Sheryl G

GRAY

I view the upcoming election to determine who will represent Maine in the Senate to be critical to the future direction of our country. So much of what used to make me proud to be an American has been destroyed by the current administration and the short-sighted Republicans “serving” in Congress. Susan Collins is complicit in this demise of American values and must not continue to be given the opportunity to represent our great state of Maine. It is time for change. As a teacher of young children, I fear for what they will ultimately face if change does not occur. We have a chance to make a difference by choosing a candidate from Maine who represents all of our people. Just as I have joined many in protesting the denial of human rights that have all too often taken place, I would be honored to join the Democratic Party of Maine in insuring that those rights be promoted and protected. The choice is ours and the time is now!

Bancroft, Ronald

CUMBERLAND

Lifelong Mainer, have lived in Cumberland for 42 years, active in local and state politics: former three term school board member, founding member and former Chair of Educate Maine, Emeritus Trustee and former Chair of Maine Public. Graduate of US Naval Academy and Oxford University.

Bane, Alicia

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to ensure that the Senate candidate chosen to replace Graham Platner will be a person who supports progressive politics, because progress is what the people of Maine voted for in June. I want to ensure that we choose a person who can reliably identify genocide, and who wants healthcare for all people — including the full reproductive rights of women. I want to ensure that Susan Collins is beaten at the ballot box so that the current leaders in Washington can be brought to justice for their crimes. I want Democratic leaders who can repair the damage done, and who will move the country toward a brighter future that the people want — un beholden to billionaires or corporations.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Barber, Joshua

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate to represent my family and families like ours across Maine and across the nation. I have been a vocal advocate for family planning services and Planned Parenthood of Maine. Susan Collins said she would protect this vital right and was silent when it was stripped away. As she has been on countless other issues. Maine deserves a Senator who will take action when they say they will and face Mainers afterwards, win or lose.

Barkley Roy, Jill Ann

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the nominating Convention because I believe in the people who make up our Democratic Party here in Maine and our ability to unite to defeat Susan Collins. As someone who recruits and trains women to run for office in my day job, I know running for office is not the only way to engage and make a difference. Every election, I knock on doors and feed staff and volunteers, and coordinate others to feed staff and volunteers. This year will be no different, regardless of who the candidate will be! I always want to be part of our party and part of the process. I know our best days are ahead of us.

LGBTQIA+

Barnard, David

YARMOUTH

I will cancel my running & volunteering on the 25th to support Dr. Shah's candidacy. I am 84, this election means a lot for the next generation.

Barnard, Jeanette

YARMOUTH

I plan to volunteer for whoever the Democratic nominee is. I strongly support Dr Shah for many reasons and we must defeat Collins who is complicit in our slide into authoritarianism.

Barrett-Dexter, Karla

PORTLAND

I want to contribute to a political process that elevates leaders who reflect the values I care about: fairness, accountability, and a commitment to improving everyday life for working Mainers. I'm energized by the grassroots momentum that has emerged from people who want politics to be about service rather than self-interest, and I'm committed to helping that energy grow. Seeing the party ultimately choose integrity over convenience reaffirmed my belief that decency still matters in public life. I hope to support efforts that keep our party focused on dignity, equity, and real economic progress. Susan Collins has been prioritizing her own personal profit and self-interest for too many years and we need a candidate who will storm the state to combat the misinformation she is pushing.

Bates, Mary Louise

FALMOUTH

I have been an admirer and strong supporter of Dr. Shah since his time in Maine as director of the CDC. I was very disappointed he did not win the Democratic primary to run for Governor. He is such a great communicator, I believe he has the ability to bring people together and prevail over Susan Collins.

Batson, Wendy A

HARPSWELL

I've lived in Harpswell since 2011. I serve on the town Conservation Commission & the board of the Harpswell Heritage Land Trust. I'm active in Harpswell Indivisibles & have worked during past elections through canvassing, driving candidates, phone calling, etc. I am deeply committed to defeating Susan Collins this fall as I believe it critically important that democrats take back the Senate to slow down and ultimately stop our slow slide toward autocracy. I've cleared away commitments so that I can spend serious time working toward the election of democrats to both local & national office this fall. My background: 30 years with the United Nations & international non-profits assisting war wounded and refugees in post conflict countries. I am committed to immigration reform, the roll back of Citizens United & unlimited money distorting our electoral processes, Medicare for all & guaranteed access to reproductive care for all. Ending idiotic wars is important to me given my long years working in post-conflict zones. Maine democrats need to show up big time to ensure a healthy democracy - I want to help make that happen. Thank you.

Batzell, Jane E

SOUTH PORTLAND

SUSAN COLLINS MUST BE DELETED! I have been a life long Democrat. As a born and bred Washingtonian, we like to say "politics runs in our veins". When I married a Mainer in 1989 and moved to South Portland, I shortly thereafter became a stay at home Mom of 3 sons with lots of volunteer and Board work nestled in. I was not overtly politically active except on a few campaigns, most notably both of Obama's Presidential bids. The current political atmosphere and the necessity of removing Collins from Office has so moved me that I want to serve in the nominating process of the next Democratic Senatorial candidate. I have an open mind to the various candidates. Our number one goal as delegates is to nominate the person who is in the best position to defeat Susan, take back the office, and give the Democratic Party control of the US Senate.

Baum, Joseph

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am a democratic socialist, and voted for Graham Platner- I am in the interest of Maine as a whole, and the policies of the Platner Campaign.

Baumann, Parker

SCARBOROUGH

Beal, Brenda D

FALMOUTH

I'm running to be a delegate to ensure that we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election on November 3rd and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I'm truly excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and I will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Beal, Naomi

FREEPORT

Happy to be able to help in a shortened primary and electoral process. I want it to be clear that Maine voters are engaged in the process and am personally prepared to engage in a transparent and efficient election.

Beane, Doris

GORHAM

I want to serve as a delegate because, with Graham Platner dropping out of the Senate race, choosing a candidate who can stand against Susan Collins is of the utmost importance. I can participate in GOTV efforts in my community, inform myself and others, and volunteer as much time as I am able to the cause of defeating Susan Collins in November.

Beaney, Connor

SCARBOROUGH

My name is Connor Beaney, and I am writing to declare my interest in becoming a delegate in the upcoming Nominating Convention. I have lived in Scarborough my entire life and feel strongly about state and national Democratic politics. I am a 23-year-old recent graduate from Brandeis University with a B.A. in Politics and History. I believe I can bring my background in political science and perspective as a young Mainer to the convention. I want to participate in the democratic process to nominate a candidate who both represents the will of the voters in the June 9th primary and advances a strong progressive vision to defeat Susan Collins. Having donated to and volunteered with the previous campaign, I am excited to continue working to defeat Susan Collins in November and support a candidate that represents the progressive values of the Democratic Party and the state of Maine. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Youth

Beaudry, Jeffrey

PORTLAND

I believe that Maine is a beacon of courage and freedom-forward action. I regard this Senate race to be one of the most consequential political actions in recent history. I am a lifelong registered Democrat, one who took to the streets during the 1960s to voice opposition to unjust wars and support equal rights for women and civil rights for people of color and LGBTQ. Here we are again. The candidate we select must be a worthy leader, with Maine's blend of pragmatism and vision. We need a platform that addresses our economy (costs and job-growth), education, sustainability (clean energy and housing), and social justice (equity and immigration policy). I am an Emeritus Professor of Educational Leadership at USM, I have lived in Maine 31 years, now retired and active! I have time, resources, and experience to organize a cadre of like-minded faculty, students and educators in southern Maine and Aroostook County. I can do this because I served as co-director of the Southern Maine Partnership for six years. SMP is a school-university collaborative, bringing over thirty school districts together to advance leadership and provide professional development. Once I am nominated to serve I will organize Retired Professors for Progressive Action to raise funds, speak out and write, and use social media to win this crucial senate race. This is a sprint. We have to be relentless and focused. I have credibility in my community, and a fierce desire to make a difference, NOW!

Beck, Matthew D

SOUTH PORTLAND

It is imperative that we defeat Susan Collins and I will do everything in my power to help us do so. I recently completed my tenure as Chair of the South Portland Democratic Committee after nearly 20 years in that position. While there, I helped organize Democrats in our city to provide campaign support to our local legislative candidates as well as Democratic candidates in statewide and federal races. During that time and going back all the way to when I was only 14 years old, I have personally volunteered on countless referendum campaigns (e.g. marriage equality, voting rights, Medicare expansion) and electoral campaigns (always for Democrats in partisan elections and progressives in non-partisan races). Before retiring in 2023, I was a professional union organizer with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 1837. While there, I helped the staff at the Maine Democratic Party to organize their union and negotiate their first collective bargaining agreement. I am now serving as the State Representative for House District 122 (part of South Portland), running for my second full term after finishing the final months of the last term of human rights champion Lois Galgay Reckitt. I would be deeply grateful for the opportunity to serve as a delegate to the Democratic Nominating Convention in Bangor on July 25.

Beehler, Gratz Charles

NORTH WINDHAM

I support Shenna Bellows for US Senate because I think a US senator needs to be skilled at debate and legislative action. Shenna has many years in the Maine State Senate in which she has demonstrated her abilities and skills in moving legislation and the people's agenda. Vote for me as a delegate to the Democratic Convention because I'm active in the Windham local Democratic committees and campaigns. I think local elections are most important because the mundane items such as zoning and library funding impact people's every day lives. Local offices are a good training ground for higher office. Shenna is ready for higher office.

Beirne, Lucy Elizabeth

CAPE ELIZABETH

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Bell, Arthur L

YARMOUTH

My wife & I moved to Maine 30 years ago to raise our family. Over these past 30 years I have served our home town of Yarmouth in many volunteer and elected positions, including the past 6 years representing Yarmouth in the Maine House of Representatives. I believe my familiarity with many of the candidates will enable me to be a valuable contributor to the selection process to arrive at the best candidate to win and represent Maine in the U. S. Senate.

Bencze, Julian

PORTLAND

I'm a trans man and proud union member of IATSE Local 114, Stagehands. I've done some work in the past on the Maine Public Power campaign and with the Maine DSA, though my efforts are largely union focused now. I am always proud to stand with workers of all sorts, and Platner's message of working class solidarity across the state really spoke to me. My goal in selecting a candidate is to choose someone who is committed to fighting for all workers- across the boundaries of race, gender, sexuality, ability, legal status, and criminal history. I will be proud to stand behind a candidate who can commit to protecting the marginalized, and plan to work with my union and others to create support for our chosen candidate.

BIPOC, LGBTQIA+, Youth

Bennett, Virginia A

GRAY

I want to be a delegate so I can participate in the process of electing our party's candidate who will run for the U.S. Senate. This candidate will represent the values and ideals of our party including affordable housing, universal healthcare, investment in public schools and lowering the cost of living for our young adults, working families and seniors. The best way I can help defeat Senator Susan Collins is to talk about our candidate with the people in my community, participate in the activities of the grassroots community in my town and in the county and state-wide events. Finally, I see myself being involved with a group of people who are working on new ideas to sustain our grassroots momentum.

Bentson, Christopher McCabe

SOUTH PORTLAND

The turmoil we have seen in the past 12 months of the Maine Senate race is nothing in comparison to the cruelty and chaos that Susan Collins enables every day. From backing ICE to supporting Trump's reckless and illegal foreign wars to attacking our climate and clean energy, Collins is harming Mainers – especially vulnerable Mainers like seniors, people of color, New Mainers, and young children – and that must be our rallying cry. In my work for the League of Conservation Voters and in my personal time as a member of the South Portland community, I am committed to channeling the anger that Mainers feel at the injustice around us into lasting change through grassroots organizing for the principled, pro-climate, pro-democracy leaders that we deserve. As a delegate, I would be ready to support the candidate best positioned to defeat Collins, one who will deliver real progress for our state and our planet. In elections from the School Board to the Senate, it's time for the people to take back power from the special interests that have controlled Collins and Congress for far too long.

Berentson, Jane

PORTLAND

I got on the graham platner bandwagon early, going door to door and donating monthly because I strongly believe in a political stance not heard often enough in the US. I had hoped that as Mamdani conquered NY, Platner would similarly engage Mainers—and win. He seemed well on his way to doing so. And then... I'd like to help decide who replaces Platner. I've been a dedicated left-leaning Democrat my entire life. I'm articulate, friendly, and good at initiating conversation. Give me a job and I'll do it.

Berner, Seth

PORTLAND

I am Seth Berner. I am a registered Democrat living in Portland. I was a national delegate for Bernie Sanders in 2016. I was on the Maine Democratic State Committee for several years and was active in the Rules Committee. I am a former chair of the Cumberland County Democratic Committee. Even with those credentials I am not for every one. I am a fierce fighter for inclusion and fairness. I have been and remain deeply critical of things the Maine Democratic Party does that I consider anti-democratic. Including invalidating the results of a properly conducted election and looking at victims of domestic violence not as people needing support – which they are – but as tools in an act of political posturing. I think politics needs to be conducted from the roots up, not from the top down, and I believe that politics needs to address the needs of the weakest, not the desires of the strongest. Susan Collins is not close to my idea of what a good US Senator should be and needs to be replaced. Her replacement needs to be committed to developing a big-tent movement that includes those who the Democratic Party has not been doing a good job of including, and acting in ways that reflect the mantra “Not me – us.” If you think the Democratic Party is as good as it gets don't vote for me. If you think that the Democratic Party needs to get better so do I.

Bernhard, Emily Anne

PORTLAND

I raised thousands of dollars for Graham Platner's campaign and, while I am heartbroken at the tragic turn of events, I am still committed to doing what I can to defeat Susan Collins. I take to heart the idea that this is not about a person, it's about a movement. With that in mind, I am committed to any Democrat who is in favor of universal health care, ending the assault on our rights, caring for our public lands, holding the state of Israel accountable, and addressing income inequality. I hope you'll give me the chance to participate.

Bernstein, Charles S

PORTLAND

"In a nutshell: Susan Collins works very hard at doing next to nothing. It will require absolute determination from all of us to end her 30-year reign of banality. I will commit one hour of my time each day to ensure she gets to retire and rest from her many concerns. " Hi, I'm Charles Bernstein (friends call me Bud). I grew up in Bangor, lived in Naples, and have called Portland home since 2008. My first campaign was with the 1972 upset victory of Senator Bill Hathaway, and I've worked on Democratic campaigns ever since. If selected as a convention delegate, I will listen carefully to the candidates and the other delegates. Here's how I will determine my vote for nominee: 1. Firepower. Who is best positioned to lead the charge with energy, discipline, and humor? 2. Progressive Agenda. Who will make the lives of Maine citizens better? 3. Defending Democracy. Who has a commitment to the best of the American experience? Message to Susan Collins: Tyrants can't seize power without Enablers. 4. Empathy. Are you as ticked as I am that following the ICE shooting in Biddeford, Susan Collins issued her usual bureaucratic blather of concern and doesn't appear to have offered a word of compassion for the man who was killed or his 3-year-old daughter? The person with firepower, a progressive agenda, democratic values, and empathy will win! Let's get that person on the ballot, and thanks for considering me for delegate!

LGBTQIA+

Berry, Andrea Corinne

BRUNSWICK

My name is Andrea Berry and I am a retired palliative medicine nurse practitioner. I am writing as a Democrat to represent Dr Shah's run for state Senate. I hope to be selected to represent Cumberland county. My reasoning for this interest is how appalled I am at our current state of national affairs. It was during the pandemic that Dr Shah's calm demeanor and strong knowledge base helped guide us and my patients through a tumultuous and politically divided time. My background in compassion yet practical leadership has taught me the importance of thoughtful dialogue and having an open mind, which may help serve as necessary traits of a committed delegate. My interest in defeating Susan Collins is her failure in helping to serve Maine and her willingness to hand over power to our immoral and unconstitutional administration. Never in all my years of living in Maine have I felt powerless in my children's future, until now. Knowing that my time, dedication and efforts are going towards a truly fair, educated and just candidate for this position, is exceptionally gratifying. Within this opportunity I will be involved in the persuasion of Platner's supporters and will continue to work towards defending Democracy long after the mid term election.

Bertoni, Alexander

WESTBROOK

While every election is crucial for the maintenance of a healthy democracy, this one is more important than any I've seen in my lifetime. Each day, new attacks on institutions that preserve essential American rights and freedoms go unpunished by a captured Republican majority that threatens everything I hold dear, from individual expression to healthcare to voting rights. I would like to serve as a delegate in order to put forward a candidate that can resoundingly defeat Susan Collins, whose fair-weather centrism and capitulation to Trump and the MAGA right have put us in this situation. I will use my platform as a marketer and communicator to canvass, donate, and mobilize everyone I can to serve this end.

Berube, Roger Maurice

PORTLAND

Why I would like to serve: • I practice active empathy. o Opened home to pregnant French speaking immigrant ten years ago, for two years. Fast forward – her son / my godson, is ten; we're surrogate grandparents. o Continue to engage/assist Portland area immigrants and witness their hard work, the insults they endure, as well as their resilience and joy. • My listening skillset. o 40 years in sales practicing active listening and, importantly, persuasion to "close the deal." o Working the Platner campaign - knocked doors in wide variety of neighborhoods. ? Heard despair of young folks – "I don't believe I'll ever be able to afford to buy a home." ? Understand struggles of older folks, even Trumpers. Some can be influenced. • My spheres of influence in Cumberland County. o Deep business contacts with small business owners throughout Maine. o Pastoral council member/parish involvement, St Pius Catholic Church. o Painter, active with local artists and community theatre. o Retired, will devote 100% of time to the cause. What I plan to do to defeat Susan Collins: • Canvassing – utilize deep listening/persuasion skills. • Lead roleplaying canvassing exercises (often used in my sales job). • Organizational assistance – scheduling, meeting setups, etc. • Anything where I can be effective. How I will help grow the Democrats' power: • Dems perceived unfavorably. Help, listen, address the issues – should Dem platform emphasize progressive issues? If so, how to convey? • Campaign for Medicare for All. • Continue

Besteman, Catherine

PORTLAND

The actions of this administration are the biggest crisis of my lifetime. I worked in the Senate in the early 1980s and was witness to the decisions and actors who have been working to undermine democracy, racial justice, equal rights for women, and environmental protections since the election of Ronald Reagan. I am appalled, terrified, and resolute. I hold house parties for Democrats running for office, publish op-eds about issues that matter (immigration, justice, diversity), do community organizing around criminal legal reform and other issues, and more. I am in this as the fight of my life.

Bischoff, David

CAPE ELIZABETH

My name is David Bischoff. I have resided in Cape Elizabeth for nearly 25 years with my wife, Sarah, and our two children, who are both in their early 20s. I have practiced law in Portland for nearly 30 years. I am seeking to serve as a delegate because regaining a Democratic majority in the Senate is critically important to restoring the Senate's role in operating as a true and robust check to balance the excesses of this unitary Executive whose power, so profoundly expanded by the complacency and complicity of the Supreme Court, has been exercised in a manner that poses a bona fide existential threat to our constitutional democracy and, indeed, to the very well-being of the populace. Because winning this race is so critically important—to Maine and the Country—it is imperative to nominate a candidate who possesses the character, competence, and capability to prevail. We must nominate the candidate with the greatest ability to succeed; we must win this election. The State of Maine, and society as a whole, is presented with the challenge—and opportunity—to choose and assert integrity over corruption, common good over greed, confidence over fear, and optimism over cynicism. There are many good people and future candidates in the Maine Democratic Party who will embrace the challenge and seize the opportunity—I would welcome an opportunity to do whatever is required to support and assist in helping them win elections.

Bishop, Brianna M

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate because I believe this moment calls on all of us to do what we can to safeguard our democracy and build the world we want to live in. Complacency and cynicism are two of the most destructive forces in our society, and I believe that having hope can be a revolutionary act in and of itself. Voters in June's primary showed hope, and we cannot let that hope go to waste. Right now, that means banding together as Democrats to pick a candidate who believes in universal human rights and dignity and who can make the case against Susan Collins. People see the destruction that Collins and her allies have brought to our doorstep, and we need a candidate who can not only crystallize this for voters but who can paint a picture of a brighter future. Once our candidate is chosen, they will need our full support these next few months - even if they were not our personal first choice. I'm eager to participate in this process however I can because of my commitment to democratic ideals (both big-D and little-d) and because I have hope.

Youth

Bissell, Theodore

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate because I care about showing up for my State and being part of the work that actually moves people. I've seen how much energy Mainers are putting into organizing and talking with their neighbors, and I want to help keep that going. For me, the most important thing is helping drive strong voter turnout by keeping people engaged and connected. I plan to keep having real conversations and ensuring that folks know their voice matters.

Bissonnette, Nicole Renee

PORTLAND

I wish to be a delegate to insure that our voices are heard and that Corporate Democrats don't try to tell Mainers who we can vote for. It is important that we keep the grassroots momentum going to help defeat Susan Collins, despite the DSCC's efforts to rig the race (now and for the past year).

Black, Daniel Potter

PORTLAND

My name is Dan Black, and I'm asking for your support in electing me as a delegate to ensure Maine's next Senator is a progressive champion. My experience with the Democratic Party hasn't always been good: I was an '08 Obama campaign staffer who became disillusioned by technocratic governance that relied on behavioral economics' "nudges" instead of using electoral wins to rebalance structures of power to support working class people. I want to be part of a Democratic Party that recognizes organized power can take on technology oligarchies, corporate interests that continue to destroy our planet, and an establishment that says we must continue to support a genocidal regime in Israel. I'm a former labor organizer who moved back to Maine in 2014 to get involved in my community, becoming the treasurer of my neighborhood association, participating in my local school's walking school bus, and, after fixing up a blighted triple-decker, becoming, somewhat surprisingly, a landlord. Through all these experiences, I learned that social capital can be just as valuable as actual capital in some cases and how connections to our neighbors and community can create change. I want to support a Democratic Party—and elect a Democratic candidate to the US Senate—that will dismantle the structures which have created the most unequal society in our country's history while also recognizing the power of talking to our neighbors and building community in overcoming the isolation and desperation that inequality has created.

Blackman, Nicolas

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because I believe the movement of workers rights is bigger than all of us and it is the only movement that will get votes this November against Susan Collins. We need to do anything and everything we can to beat her and that means voting for the candidates that represents the people.

Youth

Bliss, Zev

PORTLAND

We need someone to fight the billionaires and big tech and secure wins for Maine's working class. Trans rights.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Underrepresented Religion, Youth

Blunt, Andrew C

PORTLAND

I am a tenant, a student, a lifelong Mainer, and someone committed to sending a fighter for the working-class to D.C. this November. Our next nominee for the U.S. Senate must speak directly to the challenges facing Mainers every day: the cost of living crisis, needless foreign wars, and ICE terrorizing our communities. We need a candidate with a record of progressive advocacy and the ability to bring some Maine grit to D.C. and get things done for everyday folks. I will bring my experience working on tough public policy issues to my role as a delegate. I've spent my young career advocating for survivors of human trafficking and sexual violence, as a caseworker with Preble Street, and have organized to combat climate change and rising utility bills during my time working for the Sierra Club. Today, as a law student at Maine Law, I'm continuing to train so that I can continue tackling some of our toughest policy challenges and continue serving the common good in this state. While many of us are fed up with national politics, defeating Susan Collins will require more than dissatisfaction. It will take organizing, authentic conversations, and a dogged grassroots campaign. I'll be knocking doors, making calls, talking to classmates and neighbors, and doing the groundwork it takes, and, if selected as a delegate, I'll help nominate a candidate who can help us finally send Susan Collins into retirement.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Boas, Diane D

CAPE ELIZABETH

It would be a privilege to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to influence the selection of a candidate whose values align with my own and those of my fellow community members. As a lifelong democrat I am committed to civil rights, immigrant rights, disability rights, women's rights and environmental protection. Jobs at the South Portland School Department and MaineHealth gave me the opportunity to work alongside individuals from diverse economic, social and cultural backgrounds. At these organizations I learned to help people transcend their differences to work together towards common goals. To help defeat Susan Collins I plan to further educate myself and others about the issues that matter most to Mainers including healthcare, housing, preserving our environment and jobs that allow everyone to earn a decent standard of living. I am ready to travel across the state to knock on doors, attend town hall meetings and other community events to better understand people's concerns. I will encourage voting and participate in efforts to make voting accessible to all. For the past 25 years, I have been a fierce and effective disability rights advocate. Through writing and public speaking, I'm able to persuasively articulate the needs of others. I am an active listener with a genuine concern and respect for others which helps me to build consensus and problem solve. The skills I've honed will allow me to be equally effective in the grass roots movement to defect Susan Collins.

Boggs, Robert V

BRIDGTON

I am a retired US History teacher, life-long Democrat, longstanding member of teachers' unions, and have been a delegate to Maine state Democratic conventions. My early political activism was triggered by anger over: • a Republican U.S. Senator smugly expecting another massive re-election win • her support of a president and her party over the interests of the people of Maine • her support of the president's war despite its increasing unpopularity and cost • her betrayal of her early advocacy for women's rights • her support of most of the president's highly questionable nominations while voting "no" just often enough to appear moderate. Above I have described Senator Margaret Chase Smith in 1972, but remarkably these actions also define Senator Susan Collins today. In 1972, as a 19-year-old history major at the University of Maine, I met Senate Democratic nominee Bill Hathaway in a Livermore Falls diner. I was inspired to help him defeat Margaret Chase Smith. It had been twenty years since her Declaration of Conscience speech, and Senator Smith had become too close to the corrupt Richard Nixon. Susan Collins has maneuvered herself into a similar position, but without any display of the moral clarity shown in Senator Smith's early career. Collins has been in office too long and is eminently beatable. I have since worked on many campaigns. From Mc Govern to Harris, I have been there for local and national candidates. I will gladly do whatever is needed to send Susan Collins to the

Bollschweiler, Evan

SCARBOROUGH

As a life long progressive democratic voter, I would like to help select a senate nominee that represents values of workers rights, unions, abortion access, immigrant protection, LGBTQ+ rights and much more. I believe it is incredibly important we select a nominee that energizes young people like myself. I had canvassed for the Graham Platner campaign and I would love to have the opportunity to be part of the conversation to select a senate candidate that can build on same vision that the Graham campaign help start. I strongly believe this coalition that was put together can still win and I look forward to volunteering, door knocking and dedicating many future weekends to defeating Susan Collins.

Youth

Bond, Garnette

BRUNSWICK

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe the Democratic Party must continue to be grounded in the everyday realities of working people. I support a vision that prioritizes affordability, economic opportunity, and ensuring that people who work hard can once again build stable, secure lives. These issues are especially important to families across Maine who are struggling with the rising cost of housing, healthcare, childcare, and everyday necessities. My commitment to this work extends beyond voting. I volunteered for Graham's campaign because I believed in his focus on the working class and the need to rebuild trust by addressing the issues that affect people every day. I also worked for the Wisconsin Democratic Party because I believe civic engagement matters. As the mother of three daughters, I was deeply affected by Susan Collin's being the deciding vote to confirm Brett Kavanaugh, which lead to the overturning of Roe v. Wade, and that strengthened my commitment to protecting fundamental rights and expanding participation in our democratic process. I will work to help elect a Democratic U.S. Senator in any way I can by supporting grassroots organizing, or encouraging people to become involved in local politics. I believe democracy is strongest when every voice matters, which is why I support efforts to reduce the influence of unlimited money in politics and strengthen public trust in our elections. I would be honored to represent my community at the Nominating Convention.

Bornstein, Daniel

WESTBROOK

Democracy is important. Ignore your rights and they go away. The man that was put in power by democracy is looking to cripple it. I'd like democracy to unseat those who wish to destroy it and I'd like to help make that happen

Boyle, Deborah E

CAPE ELIZABETH

I wish to be a delegate for Troy Jackson to ensure the selection of the Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate is a transparent and fair process given the unusual nature of this selection process. I appreciate the Maine Democratic Party leadership has done everything possible to make this a transparent process to date.

Boyle, James

GORHAM

I'm with Troy Jackson because I believe he is the Democrat best positioned to defeat Susan Collins. I served with Troy in the Maine Senate about twelve years ago. I served in the House from 2022 to 2024 when Troy was Senate President. What stood out about him then, and still stands out today, is simple: Troy never forgot who he worked for. There's no act and no political polish. He is a hardworking Mainer who tells you exactly what he believes. Troy didn't come from wealth or political connections. He worked long, brutal hours as a logger and truck driver to support his family. He understands what it means when fuel prices rise, property taxes climb, healthcare costs explode, or a family cannot find affordable childcare. I've known a lot of politicians over the years. Troy is one of the few who is genuinely comfortable standing up to powerful interests. He's focused on making Maine affordable again by lowering prescription drug costs, protecting rural healthcare, expanding childcare, helping working families stay in Maine, and making the tax system fairer for ordinary people. One thing I always appreciated about Troy in the Maine Senate was that he listened. That shows respect. Maine values people who are real, practical, and grounded. Troy is all three. He will fight for the people who punch a clock, run a small business, work the land, care for their families, and simply want a fair shot. That is the kind of senator Maine needs.

Bozuwa, Johanna

NEW GLOUCESTER

I am committed to an affordable, just, and thriving Maine. That requires having someone in the Senate who will fight for everyday Mainers -- lowering costs, fighting big business, advancing a clean energy economy, demanding affordable housing and so much more. Susan Collins has proven herself to NOT be that candidate. I am deeply committed to standing up for my neighbors and will bring this into my position as Delegate.

Bradley, Thomas Charles

PORTLAND

This is a time of disunion, and I believe Dr. Shaw can help bring union among voters to defeat Susan Collins and bring change to this country. I am willing to assist the Democratic party toward that end.

Brady, Aaron Bryon

PORTLAND

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Brann, Peter J

HARPSWELL

I am a lifelong Maine Democrat, working on local, state, and national elections, starting with going door-to-door for George McGovern in Lewiston in 1972. I have lived in Harpswell for years attending Democratic caucuses, and I have been a lawyer representing Jared Golden in the 2018 ranked-choice (RCV) election against Bruce Poliquin, and representing the Democratic leadership this year in the RCV fight in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court.

Bratesman Jr., Stuart Jr

FREEPORT

I've been an active Democrat all my life and former County Chair in Vermont before moving to Maine 28 years ago. Former firm Platner supporter now strongly leaning toward Nariv Shah. Susan Collins votes with Democrats only when it doesn't count, only when she thinks her vote won't change the outcome. Door-to-door canvassing has been proven by rigorous experimental testing to be, by far, the most effective method of improving voter turnout, so let's all get out there and do it and stop the Trillionaire Class from ruthlessly pillaging America and the rest of the world toward its own selfish ends!

Brennan, Gioacchino Francis

CUMBERLAND

I would like to be involved in the process of choosing the next candidate for the Maine Senate race. I have devoted significant portions of my free time and money to the election and would like to see it through. It is important that passionate people such as myself are involved in the process. I have already served as a delegate during the primary convention when voting on amendments to the party platform. I would like the opportunity again to weigh in on the selection of a new senate nominee. I was the lead organizing volunteer and staging location director for the town of Cumberland during the Graham campaign. I have helped organize many successful canvasses and have worked hard to recruit numerous volunteers. I am deeply passionate about the platform that the campaign represented, it is what drove me to volunteer countless hours. For whomever is chosen to pick up the mantle, I will devote all my talents and efforts in the coming months to defeat Suzan Collins.

Brennan, Mary K

HARPSWELL

I represent motivated Democrats in the Brunswick/Harpswell area. We have been in intense discussion about what was right/wrong with Platner's campaign. We believe that the energy from his rallies reflects the heart of Mainers and with that energy we will soundly defeat Collins. I will focus all future discussions on positive messaging and deter whining, grouching, and giving up. I am the grassroots.

Brenner, Stacy Fielding

SCARBOROUGH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe this election is an important opportunity for Maine Democrats to come together around a candidate who can build a broad coalition and effectively compete in the general election. At this pivotal moment, our party has the responsibility to choose a nominee who can unite Democrats, inspire independents, and earn the trust of voters across Maine as we work to defeat Senator Susan Collins. As a Maine State Senator, I understand the weight of representing others and the importance of making decisions grounded in careful listening, collaboration, and integrity. My career has also included leadership in healthcare, agriculture, conservation, and nonprofit management, giving me experience bringing together people with different perspectives to solve complex problems in service of the public good. Throughout my public service, I have learned that our strongest leaders are those who build trust, bridge differences, and remain focused on the needs of the people they serve. I would approach the role of delegate with an open mind, a commitment to fairness, and a determination to select the candidate best equipped to lead, build a winning coalition, and represent Maine with integrity. I care deeply about the future of our state and our democracy. Serving as a delegate is an opportunity to contribute meaningfully to this important moment, and it would be an honor to help shape the future of our party and our state.

Brewer, Janet

YARMOUTH

I am very interested in serving as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe this Senate nomination is one of the most important decisions our party will make this year. The outcome will shape not only Maine's future but also the direction of critical federal legislation. After a career in information technology managing large software implementations, I recently retired and now have the time and energy to become more actively involved in public service and grassroots organizing. I believe my communication, leadership, and organizational skills can benefit the Democratic Party in Maine. I am passionate about protecting the rights of women, minorities, immigrants, the LGBTQ+ community, and safeguarding our natural environment. As a long-time employee of L.L. Bean, I embrace the company's stakeholder philosophy and believe it is essential that all voices are heard and treated fairly. I want to help nominate a candidate who can build broad support across Maine and whose integrity, intelligence, and passion for change can finally defeat Susan Collins and provide the leadership our state needs. Following the convention, I plan to volunteer my time by phone banking, canvassing, writing postcards, attending local events, and encouraging friends and neighbors to become engaged in the election. I look forward to putting my professional experience to work wherever my organizational and leadership skills can best support our party's efforts.

Brewster, Thomas Glenn

PORTLAND

I am a pediatrician and clinical geneticist retired from clinical practice, I am an active member the Joint Advisory Committee of the CDC Maine Newborn Bloodspot Screening Program, MaineHealth Board of Corporations, New England Regional Genetics Group, Personalized Medicine Coalition, and International Consortium on Newborn Sequencing. I am a strong advocate of health system reform and universal health care. Dr Shah is the ideal candidate for serving as US Senator from Maine. He will not only advocate for the citizens of Maine but support policies that will help all Americans.

Briman, Chloe

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would like to be a delegate because as a young person who is studying political science, this is not what democracy looks like. I have so far spent the summer interning for Maine People's Alliance, working "on the ground" meeting Mainers and talking to them about what issues are important to them. Since working with the alliance, I've been getting more Mainers involved to add momentum to the grassroots movement. I understand that it's vital to unseat Susan Collins, so we can build back a strong and transparent democracy.

Brooks, Maya

SCARBOROUGH

I have lived in Maine my entire life. I am also a canvas manager for a grassroots nonprofit and talk to hundreds of Mainers a week at their door. I hear about their concerns, their hopes, their fears; what they want for their next Senator. Being directly tapped into regular people makes me well-qualified to represent the interests of Mainers and help choose our next candidate to defeat Susan Collins in November. I also have a masters degree in political science and this helps me better understand the unique position we are in politically as a country. Of course everyone experiencing living in America right now is acutely aware of how scary and tenuous things are, but politics is my personal educational interest and I would love to experience being a delegate to the Nominating Convention. Lastly, I am 23 years old and I feel immense frustration at my generation's apathy and acceptance of defeat in terms of politics. I want to encourage more young people to get involved politically, even if it just means GOTV. I would love to represent the interests of my generation at the Convention and encourage more young people to fight for our future. Winning the youth's vote, who have lived with Collins as our Senator for our entire lives' will be crucial to defeating her. That starts with nominating a strong, progressive, determined Democrat to defeat Susan Collins in November.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Underrepresented Religion, Youth

Brooks, Robin

ORRS ISLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the nominating convention in order to nominate the replacement of Susan Collins. My preferences are: First choice: Shenna Bellows. Second choice: Troy Jackson. Third choice: Nirav Shah. I am eager to help the party to build on the grass roots momentum to elect a progressive candidate in any way I can.

Brown, Christopher

PORTLAND

I believed in everything Platner stood for. I know this state and country need to change, and we need to bring in someone that cares for us, not lining their pockets and voting against their constituents choices. I would run if I was more brave, because I care for my neighbors and our community deeply.

Brown, Elizabeth

PORTLAND

I am excited to participate in the democratic process of selecting a new candidate for senate. Mainers are built different and I would like to see a candidate that truly represents that. I want to do my part to protect the process from being usurped and ending up with a weak candidate who cannot beat Susan Collins.

Brown, Jonathan Eastman

HARPSWELL

As a union member, a staffer for one of Maine's largest unions, a former student of political science, and a long-time organizer working in Maine politics, I am intimately familiar with the needs of working-class Mainers and the type of candidate it takes to defeat Susan Collins. The policy positions Susan Collins has taken have hurt our communities, our workforce, our environment, and our social safety nets. We need a tested, vetted, and trustworthy Mainer that shows up to fight for all Maine families as our 2026 Senate candidate to win in November. We need to nominate a candidate who carries the platform of the former nominee. One who can bring forward energy, charisma, authenticity and rebuild lost momentum. For many years, I have worked on the ground, across the entire state with my union and grassroots progressive organizations by knocking on thousands of doors, recruiting & training volunteers, calling voters, collecting stories and more to elect quality candidates and support grassroots campaigns. I look forward to continue that work on our road to November, but we need to right person to lead this campaign to reverse the tide in Washington. We need a true representative of working people, not billionaires or exploitative multi-national corporations. Our nominee must deeply understand the material challenges Americans are facing and who will never lose sight of our neighbors' poverty. As a delegate to this convention, I will work to ensure we elect a champion of our fight. We can't afford anything less.

Brown, Julia Allen

BRUNSWICK

I've served our party as a volunteer, as a campaign staffer, and as a voter. I've worked on some of our toughest races helping flip state senate seats red to blue in rural Maine. My only goal is to continue to support our party and our country to flip Maine's US Senate seat blue. I want to see the promises of our party have potential to be fulfilled in Congress. It's a long and winding road and this is an important opportunity to show what Maine Democrats stand for and what we can do when we work together. Currently, I believe Troy Jackson is the right person to carry the coalition it takes to win, but I will attend our county meeting with an open mind the desires of the voters of the county.

Brown, Laura

BRUNSWICK

I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe defeating Susan Collins and electing Democrats up and down the ballot will take all of us working together. I want to help nominate the strongest candidate possible and do everything within my power to help elect Democrats in November. My commitment to Democratic values began early. As a child, I helped my parents volunteer on Sharon Treat's campaigns for the Maine House and Senate. As an adult, I volunteered for Barack Obama's, Joe Biden's, and Hillary Clinton's presidential campaigns, as well as Janet Mills' and, most recently, Dr. Nirav Shaw's campaign. Those experiences reinforced my belief that every conversation, every phone call, every door knocked, and every volunteer matters. This fall, I will do everything I can to defeat Susan Collins: canvassing, phone banking, writing postcards, recruiting volunteers, and talking with voters. Beyond this election, I want to help build grassroots momentum by welcoming new volunteers, encouraging young people to get involved, and fostering an inclusive Democratic Party where everyone feels they belong. Alongside my parents I also marched for civil rights and social justice, learning that democracy depends on ordinary people showing up and getting involved. Although both of my parents have passed away, the values they instilled in me continue to guide me. It would be the honor of my life to carry on their legacy by serving as a delegate and helping select the nominee who can defeat Susan Collins.

Brown, MaryAnn

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Brown, Patricia M

GRAY

Susan Collins must be defeated. Democracy must prevail in the United States in spite of Donald Trump. Graham Platner created a groundswell among voters that must continue to grow. Maine Dems need to put forward a strong candidate that all Mainers can support to continue this groundswell of hope and positive energy. We must nominate a candidate that loves democracy and understands how democracy works best.

Bruce, Whitney

FALMOUTH

After voting in every election since I was 18, serving on my local school board, and receiving an advocacy leadership award from my professional association in higher education, I see delegate to the Maine Democratic Convention as my next role in a lifetime of community participation. Our democracy is stronger when we participate in it actively, and I want a voice in choosing the nominee I'll be asking my neighbors to support. Defeating Susan Collins in November is a top priority for our party and for me. My advocacy work has taught me that people change their minds or take action because someone they trust takes the time to have a conversation. I'll put that into practice by phone banking, canvassing, and talking with voters, especially democrats and independents, across my own network to build the broad support it will take to win. I'll go where the work is most needed and keep at it through November. The grassroots energy that's grown across Maine this past year is real and powerful. I've witnessed it in conversations, larger rallies and in traditional and social media. I want to help it last. From my school board service, I know how much down-ballot elections shape people's daily lives, and I'll work to support our 2026 candidates up and down the ticket. My service and leadership experience will help me bring in and encourage new volunteers, so the people we activate this year are still with us in future election cycles.

Bryan, Sarah

BRUNSWICK

Over the past year, my work has taken me to breweries, restaurants, farms, and communities across Maine, from York to Aroostook, where I've listened to business owners, workers, and local leaders. Those conversations have given me a firsthand appreciation for the issues that matter most to working Mainers and reinforced my belief that effective leadership begins with listening, showing up, and building trust. This fall, I plan to volunteer my time and using my statewide network to encourage voter participation and support Democratic candidates. I also hope to help engage small business owners and independent-minded voters who may not always see themselves reflected in traditional political organizing. Our recent grassroots momentum has come from a collective desire for change, by listening to one another, building authentic relationships, and showing up consistently in every corner of the state. I want to help continue that work by bringing more people into the process, supporting local volunteers, and ensuring our party remains focused on delivering real results for Maine families, workers, and small businesses. I would be honored to represent my community as a delegate and help nominate candidates who share those values.

Buckley, Jessica D

CAPE ELIZABETH

I want to be a delegate because this race matters too much to sit out. I have an arts nonprofit background and years of community organizing behind me — I know how to listen to a room, weigh what people actually need, and help a group land on a decision everyone can get behind. That's what this convention needs under this crazy short timeline. To help beat Collins, I'm ready to canvass, phone bank, and get other Cumberland County Democrats off the sidelines, especially the folks who might be feeling burned out after this primary season. I care about what happens after Election Day. This summer has brought out a ton of new volunteers and first-timers, and I don't want that energy to fizzle. I want to help make sure people stay engaged and the party actually builds on this instead of starting from scratch next cycle. Maine can flip this seat and I want to help make that happen.

Bukowski-Thall, Emily E

PORTLAND

I am going to support Troy Jackson at the convention because he believes and stands for what the people of Maine are looking for in a Senator. The energy in this primary will follow and uplift the candidate who clearly champions the policies that we've been supporting. That candidate is Troy Jackson. He will stand up to the corporate special interests and billionaires funding politics that have made Maine unaffordable for working people and he will fight for everyone's right to healthcare. Troy Jackson will have the support of the people of Maine plus an army of volunteers behind him to help him defeat Susan Collins in November. So much depends on this election! We must send Troy Jackson to Washington!

Bukowski-Thall, Henry

PORTLAND

I want to support Troy Jackson at the convention because he believes and stands for what the people of Maine are looking for in a Senator. I have worked as a fire fighter EMT and I have seen the quality of certain services in this state decline as the price of these essential services has simultaneously increased and become less accessible firsthand. The working class energy in this primary will follow and uplift the candidate who clearly advocates for and champions the policies that help everyday Mainers. I believe the candidate who best has the ability to fight for these policies is Troy Jackson. Troy Jackson will stand up to the corporate special interests and billionaires funding both parties that have made Maine unaffordable for working people and he will fight for everyone's right to healthcare, and take on the military industrial complex. Troy Jackson wins elections and has years of experience in the Maine Senate. Troy Jackson will have the support of the people of Maine plus an army of young volunteers behind him to help him defeat Susan Collins in November. So much is at stake in election. Because of this, It is essential that we send someone like Troy Jackson to Washington!

Youth

Bull, Thomas D

FREEPORT

I am Tom Bull of Freeport and I ask for your support as a delegate. I am a life-long Democrat who has served as the Freeport Town Chair, a State Representative, worked for the Maine SDCC, served as a former State Committee member, and someone who has volunteered for more campaigns than I can count. I understand the critical nature of defeating Susan Collins and I also recognize the immense energy and passion that has been created over the past year or so. I am uncommitted on who is the best candidate to face Collins in November; first and foremost, we need someone who can beat Collins, but as importantly, we need a candidate who can harness the passion for change here in Maine. People are hungry for fundamental change in our political system, the candidate that we nominate in this race must embrace and champion this. I want to be a part of the process so that I can hear directly from the candidates and decide who best meets the moment, and who can best represent the passions and desires of the many Democratic and Unenrolled voters who have made their voices heard. I respectfully request your vote as a delegate to the special nominating convention.

Bullett, Anna Y

PORTLAND

I am a Portland City Councilor and 10 year non profit program director at Maine largest community action agency where I supervise 12 very diverse staff serving a caseload of 5,000 very diverse families throughout Cumberland county. I have a strong sense of the infrastructure investments our state needs and the bold policy representation we need in Washington to improve the health of our people and our environment and protect the rights of our most marginalized neighbors. I interact regularly with the local staff of our federal delegation because of my day job running the WIC program and sometimes travel to DC on behalf of the National WIC Association. I understand the role of a US Senator well and know what kind of candidate we need to defeat Collins. I am a millennial mom and bring youth (by maine standards) with solid political experience to the state party. I've knocked a lot of doors for myself and for others. My constituents trust me to make informed decisions on their behalf ensuring we can improve the lives of Mainers and our national world today and the lives and natural world of our grandchildren and great grandchildren in the future.

Bulliner, Carolyn

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Bullion, Leigh Elizabeth

PORTLAND

I would like to serve my community by working to select the person best suited to work for ALL of us in the Senate. I'm writing 300 postcards to voters in Maine to boost Democrat turnout, regardless of the final candidate. I'm also strengthening ties within my community, from organizing block parties to participating in several Signal chats, many of which were created to support neighbors during last winter's ICE surge. I would like to be more involved in politics at a local level, because there are only so many times you can leave Susan Collins a voicemail without feeling powerless. I want Mainers to feel that they have a real shot at taking that power back this November. It should go without saying, but I'll do it anyways: the text above is my own writing. I did not use AI in any capacity.

Burbank, Richard Winsor

FALMOUTH

For the past 20 years, I have built a Maine business dedicated to creating good jobs, improving homes, reducing energy use, and advancing practical climate solutions. As a former chair of a national trade association for energy-efficiency businesses, I have worked with Maine's congressional delegation to advocate for practical climate and energy policies that strengthen our economy and protect our environment. In my business, my church, and my community, I have learned that real progress begins by listening, treating people with dignity and respect, and building solutions that bring people together. Those experiences have strengthened my commitment to protecting our democracy, defending reproductive freedom, addressing climate change, and ensuring Maine remains a welcoming place where everyone has the opportunity to contribute. As the father of three children, I care deeply about the future we leave the next generation. I would be honored to represent Cumberland County as a delegate. I will listen carefully to every candidate, exercise thoughtful judgment, and work to unite our party, nominate the strongest candidate to defeat Susan Collins, and help elect the next Democratic senator from Maine.

Burditt, Simon

BRUNSWICK

My name is Simon Burditt. I'm a lifelong Maine resident, a marine engineer, a former nurse, a husband, and a father to a beautiful two year old son. Susan Collins has continually supported Donald Trump's agenda - Voting for a stacked supreme court that overturned Roe vs Wade, supporting unconditional funding for Israel's genocide, voting to gut healthcare accessibility, and voluntarily giving up congress' power to the presidency. It's time for a new kind of politics in Maine. I want to live in a world where my children have affordable healthcare/education, where their votes matter, where they can be proud of the country they come from on an international scale, and where they feel like they have political representation from real, honest people. I would like to serve as delegate to the nominating convention because failure is not an option - Our politics, our nation, our state, and our communities depend on change for the better. Graham Platner started a grassroots movement that voters turned out for - that my generation of Mainers turned out for. Maine has the opportunity to select a replacement to continue this movement, and I would be grateful to have a say in who steps up to the plate to finish the job.

Burke, Christine Frances

SCARBOROUGH

I believe that the Democratic Party has always been about supporting and protecting all the people of the nation, not just the upper class! It is the Democrats who have given us Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security, minimum wage Worker Safety protections and environmental protections, we are currently faced with an administration that is trying to roll back those and many other protections. Susan Collins has gone along with those plans' we need a Democrat in the Senate who can restore them and make the people thrive again!! We need to preserve health care for all, higher education for all who want it, access to affordable housing, safety for all from gun violence, access to women's health care! We need to stop the further enrichment of the Epstein class at the expense of the rest of us and the destruction of our national monuments by an egotistical narcissist! There's so much more, but I am restricted to 250 words!!

Burke, Edmund

GRAY

I am an 83 year old white man who has been a registered Democrat in Maine for about 40 years. I have voted straight Democrat almost exclusively since about 2008 when I realized the great dumbing down of America had started with the election of George W. Bush, a decent man but not quite bright enough to be our President. I am not a crier but the elections of Obama literally brought tears to my eyes. I always vote but have otherwise never been involved in party activities. The No Kings Rallies changed that and for the first time I participated in a demonstration. My wife and I each have contributed to Platner every month and we will continue to do that for whomever we now pick. I really want to be a more active participant in the Democratic Party's activities. I want to help in any way I physically can. There is more at stake now than perhaps any time in our country's history.

Burkhart, Erica Sarah

PORTLAND

Dear Democrats, As a nurse practitioner, mother, and pragmatist, I am applying to be a delegate to help select our next U.S. Senate candidate. I provide primary care to over 500 Mainers, including sensitive transgender, reproductive, pediatric, and end-of-life care. My work and advocacy are inherently political. I understand the legislative process firsthand, traveling to Washington, D.C., annually to advocate for vital health policies. My experience has taught me the importance of being respectful and open-minded to all sides of the aisle. I know we need calm, thoughtful, and bridge-building delegates who prioritize humanizing our communities over political bashing. I am a fierce advocate for all the people of Maine, regardless of their political beliefs. As a delegate, I will bring this same level-headed, compassionate, and solution-oriented focus to choosing a candidate who can unite us and best represent our state. Thank you for your hard work! Erica

LGBTQIA+

Burnett, James R Jr

HARPSWELL

Maine and the country at large must take back the Senate in November 2026. The recent complications in Maine Democrats putting forward an electable candidate give me even more reason in wanting to be part of the process. I'm one of those progressive Dems who actually doesn't hate either phone banking or canvassing. I did both for Platner, and I'll do both and whatever else is necessary in support of the next nominee to make Collins is defeated.

LGBTQIA+

Burnett, Leo

PORTLAND

My heart and home are here in Maine. I am an organizer, activist, and writer and have spent the last year organizing to get ICE out of Maine and to fight the dangerous expansion of surveillance in our communities. I was a key organizer for February's community defense skillshare in Portland and have given digital security trainings, made zines, and tabled at the repair meetups to help people understand how to protect ourselves from state surveillance. I've also worked extensively on both statewide, national, and local political campaigns and because of that, I'm completely disillusioned by the Democratic party machinery — not the volunteers or people who actually do the work, but the consultants, donors, and elected officials who continually fail to meet the moment we're in. We need bold, lasting change and I don't believe we need to compromise our values to make that happen. I'm a trans man and know that many will say we need to sacrifice trans rights, or immigrant rights, or some other marginalized group, in order to win elections. We don't need to sacrifice anyone — except billionaires. I'll continue being deeply engaged in my community by electing progressive candidates to office and supporting any and all efforts to defeat Susan Collins in November. I hope to earn your trust and your vote as a delegate and I pledge to support the candidate who is most committed to liberation and building power for the working class.

LGBTQIA+

Burrage, Edward

PORTLAND

Being a Democrat is more than just participating in party politics. It means being part of a big umbrella movement to reject the anti-American cause of Trump and Susan Collins. We are at a political precipice in Maine and around the country in which our core values are being tested. Federal agents are gunning people down in the streets, voting rights are being stripped away, and second-class citizenship is becoming a reality for more Mainers each day. We are the only country in the developed world where people die from a lack of access to affordable health care. Many families are just a paycheck away from going hungry or losing their home. Meanwhile, the policies of Susan Collins and the Republicans seek to weaken vital protections for our natural resources, which are the legacy of great Maine Democrats like Senator Ed Muskie. I am running to be a delegate because I am dedicated to social justice, fairness, and equality under the law. I fight through the ballot box, on the streets, in the newspapers, and on my neighbor's doorstep. Being an activist for more than 15 years, I'm ready to put my experience to work. I am not looking for a savior, but rather someone who will represent us with integrity. Here in Maine, we don't believe in blind allegiance to politicians, like so many on the other side. We believe in integrity, humility, and fairness. As a delegate, I will help choose and fight for somebody to uphold our values.

Burton, Jessica Clare

PORTLAND

I would like to serve because I want to give my community a voice into this decision. I am a life long democrat who has worked to support candidates through donations, canvassing, letter writing, campaigning, strategizing, and more. The candidates that I have felt the most connected to are the people I know - making the process feel real and connected and allowing me to understand the process overall. The process that was used to choose Graham Platner had nothing to do with me at all - from what I have learned it was people who thought they knew best for Maine. Certainly, Graham took it from there, and here we are. But now we have a process to at least know people who are choosing the candidates. I know a lot of people in Maine - and if I can be part of the process to choose our next candidate, I think I can offer my community a connection to this most democratic of processes, and that in turn will help all of us get active in the campaign. I am an elected member of the Peaks Island Council, the founding Executive Director of a state-wide nonprofit, a mother of two, and have served on many nonprofit boards. I am a practitioner of equitable process, honest conversation, deep listening, and cross difference communication. I would bring all of my lived experience with me to the convention. And then no matter who is chosen, I will dig in to support

Burton, Joseph Thomas IV

WINDHAM

I want to help select the candidate to beat Susan Collins.

Buss, Norman Edward

BRIDGTON

Why I would like be a Convention Delegate. In the summer of 2024, I joined other Lake Region progressive activists to communicate the threats of Project 2025. We published weekly guest opinions in the Bridgton News. I personally authored two articles. As a former meteorologist, I wrote one on climate change and the Project's plan to dismantle climate agreements and funding. The second, as a retired Lt Col, I authored an article on Trump being "Unfit to be the Commander in Chief." I continued my activism through involvement in Lake Region Indivisible, Maine People's Alliance and active participation in support of candidates in down ballot primary elections (school board, select board, state representative and state senate.) I am enthusiastic to attend the convention and in support of the Democratic Party and it's Senatorial Candidate. My plan to help defeat Susan Collins. When RFK Jr. was up for Senatorial approval, I left Sen Collins voice mails, emails, and notes at her office that if she voted to approve RFK Jr, I would do anything in my power to make sure she never held public office again. This is the next step in that pledge. Building on the grassroots momentum. I'm already engaging in the grassroots campaign by canvassing/driving Maine State House Candidate (District 83), Tim Becker and Maine State Senate Candidate (District 18), Beth Bosworth. I plan to support all western region Candidate town halls/rallies and will canvass to get the vote out for all Democratic candidates.

Butler, David S

WINDHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. I support the democratic process that involves average citizens coming together to choose the candidate that will represent everyone in Maine. We need a strong candidate that will jump into the race for our senator with the full support of democrats throughout Maine. As important as selecting senatorial candidates, we need to come together as one voice to defeat Senator Susan Collins. You may recognize me, I'm David from Windham you may have seen on TV lately. I believe that Senator Collins has spent way to much time in Washington supporting millionaires' and billionaires'; voting with the Trump agenda over 90% since Trump's return to the Presidency. Senator Collins has decided that she knows the will of the Maine voters with little interest in providing opportunities to interact with her constituents. She used to hold town hall meetings. I believe each of the democratic delegates have experience and strengths that qualify for the office. We need to choose a candidate that brings together democrats. A candidate the represents the ideals and visions of democrats in Maine as well as representative throughout the country that are fighting the Trumps MAGA right agenda.

Butler, Jennie L

WINDHAM

I have attended many Maine Dems conventions as a delegate including the one this year. I have participated in many campaigns for local and state offices and plan to continue that not just this year but for many years to come. I have hosted and attended many house parties for candidates not only for local and state offices but also Federal offices in the last dozen years. I am glad to see that the Windham Dems organization has grown and I'd like to continue to represent Windham at this convention.

Butler, Linda

YARMOUTH

I submit my candidacy as a Cumberland County Democratic Delegate to the US Senator Nominating Convention in Maine on July 25, 2026. I have served in previous grassroots efforts to elect democratic candidates to public office in the state. My concern about healthcare costs, housing prices, and food insecurity propel me to support a Democrat to challenge and defeat Susan Collins for our next US senate seat. I would take my appointment as a delegate seriously and behave respectfully in all matters related to activity. I truly believe in every voice counting and every vote being heard.

Butters, Kara

PORTLAND

I was born and raised in Maine by two school teachers who instilled in me the values of hard work, education and service to others. During my thirty one year career as a Registered Nurse, I have had the wonderful opportunity of engaging with individuals of various socioeconomic backgrounds and have witnessed their daily concerns and challenges. As a single mother of nineteen year old twins and a daughter of aging parents, I understand the stress of increased living costs placed on young adults, families and retirees alike. I have always exercised my right to vote but feel the need to become increasingly involved in local politics. I recently volunteered for a gubernatorial campaign and have participated in peaceful protests in my beloved city of Portland. While canvassing, I had the opportunity to speak directly to residents concerns regarding affordable access to housing and healthcare. My greatest wish is for my own children to not only survive but thrive in this beautiful state we call home. The current political climate demands democratic leadership for change to occur. I believe it is equally important to select a senate candidate that will not only serve as a strong opponent to Susan Collins but will also represent the best interest of all Maine's citizens. If chosen as a delegate I pledge to listen carefully to potential candidates with the goal of selecting a nominee that will unite our party. I would be honored to accept this great responsibility. Thank you for your consideration.

Buxton, Anthony

PORTLAND

Two things matter: 1) continuing to build the movement that empowers real Mainers to live lives of health, security and happiness; and 2) reflecting that priority in the selection of a Democratic nominee for the United States Senate. Mainers—in fact all Americans—are are justifiably angry that the opportunities once afforded their grandparents and parents have been whittled away. Universal healthcare, a quality education and a secure retirement must be our domestic mandates; peace , international alliances and cooperation, and protection of human rights must be our kept promise to the world. This “.. nation, conceived in liberty....shall not perish from this earth”

Buxton, Catherine Anne

PORTLAND

This past year has shown that Maine is still a small town, and it is neighbor-to-neighbor interactions that build momentum, make a movement, and win elections. This fall, I look forward to energizing my friends and neighbors to get involved - to look at their own skills and find a way to tap in. I have always been civically engaged; from door-knocking for candidates or ballot initiatives like expanding Medicaid, to phone banking for Planned Parenthood or down-ballot races. Last year, I phone banked with an immigrant-led organization, helping new citizens turn out on election day. This was so hopeful and rewarding; I'm excited to do this again. I think the most important thing is sharing your experience with neighbors and getting them to join you, showing them that participating is doable and shaping the political course of our state is in our hands. This is a make-or-break moment in Maine and nationally, and serving as a delegate is one way to quell the tide of violent fascism that is tacitly (or actively) endorsed by Republican politicians. I feel a deep responsibility to pick a candidate that represents the change we've heard Mainers asking for, a candidate who represents working people, and who real people get behind in a big way. As a delegate, I will have conversations with diverse people in my community about what they're looking for and be as intentional and representative as possible as I vote.

CARTER, Damien Wilson

FALMOUTH

Lifelong democrat. Ready to get rid of Susan Collins. Thought Platner was the one, but shit happens. Let's do this.

CHRISTENSEN, JADE

BRUNSWICK

I'm interested in becoming a delegate because I want to help shape the future of Maine politics to make sure that Mainers and my local community is represented by the best candidate possible. I'm very active in my community as an entrepreneur and volunteer. I represent a variety of groups in my community, and I believe I can support them by serving as a delegate.

Youth

CLAUSON, STEPHEN

WINDHAM

I'm sincerely interested in serving as a delegate for the nominating process to ensure we nominate the best candidate who will defeat Senator Susan Collins in this November's election for Maine's U.S. Senator. It is my desire to engage in this democratic process and will serve as a responsible voting delegate.

CREWE, DANIEL Newton

FALMOUTH

I HOPE TO SUPPORT THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE IN THE 2026 ELECTION.

LGBTQIA+

Cabot, Karen Michell

PORTLAND

I have volunteered a couple of times, but now that time is a factor, I am committing to mobilize to build support for the next candidate.

Cahill, Moira

SOUTH PORTLAND

Keeping the democracy of America in tact and safe is of the upmost importance to me, and I believe it is in danger if the current GOP remains in power in the Senate and under Trump. Flipping Susan Collins seat is imperative if the Democrats want control of the senate. I want the best candidate to be running against Collins.

Caldwell, Kim

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

After the June primary, I was hopeful that we would finally unseat Susan Collins. The grassroots momentum and reach of the Platner campaign was so impressive and different; there was palpable enthusiasm for the future. We must retain that optimism to succeed in unseating Senator Collins. I am applying to be a delegate because I remain hopeful that we can carefully choose a new candidate who will similarly be able to energize us. The selection process is critical to ensuring a successful outcome in November. I will listen carefully at the caucuses to discern the common will of the attendees so that I vote for the candidate who best represents the concerns and hopes of our fellow Mainers. It is important to keep our process Maine-based without influence from endorsements outside of Maine, so that the collective voice of Maine Democrats determines which candidate will have our unqualified support to oust Susan Collins. After the convention I will volunteer as I have in the past by helping administratively, phone banking, canvassing, attending town halls and rallies, and talking up the candidate in casual conversations to encourage that grassroots vibe. I will reach out to the committed Platner supporters I know to encourage them to get involved - and to pass on to the campaign any helpful feedback gleaned. I am confident that if we remain optimistic, we will prevail this November. We might finally have someone in this seat whose Senate votes actually represent the views of the majority of Mainers.

Callaghan, Karen U

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have been a life long Democrat and have belonged to the So. Po. Democratic Comm(now called Cape/South Portland) for many years. I have helped with caucuses, phone banks, rides to voting and a been Delegate in the past. I am also a Deputy Registrar for South Portland. Susan Collins needs to be ousted, she has grown egotistical, thinking that she can keep our President in check. Yet, she votes consistently with this corrupt administration and does not use her considerable power as Head of the Appropriations Committee, to block Trump in any way. We need to band together to decide who can beat her in November.

Campbell, Joe

WINDHAM

As a candidate for state house this year, I want to be a part of helping Dems sweep up and down the ballot however I can. I am also dedicated to advocating for a Democratic party built on action, with the clear, equitable policies which can restore public trust in the Dems as a group.

Campbell, Richard

GORHAM

I want to serve as a delegate to champion the hard-working families of our community and ensure our platform reflects true grassroots values. Growing up in a working-class household, I understand the challenges of rising costs and limited access to quality healthcare. I will bring this lived experience to the convention to help shape a platform that directly addresses our neighbors' everyday struggles. To defeat Susan Collins in November, a data-driven, relentless voter contact strategy needs to be utilized. I could lead weekend canvassing neighborhood blitzes, and manage phone banks targeting independent voters. By focusing heavily on Collins' voting record—particularly her judicial confirmation choices—I will remind voters how her decisions have impacted our reproductive rights, environmental protections, and economic security. To maintain and build our party's grassroots momentum, I would focus on empowering local volunteers. Additionally, I would take part in organized monthly town-hall-style listening sessions to ensure that rural and younger voters feel heard, valued, and integrated into our long-term ground game. By turning first-time voters into lifelong organizers, we will build a sustainable infrastructure that lasts long after Election Day.

Campbell-Bussiere, Colin

PORTLAND

Money in politics is destroying our democracy! We need working class delegates to ensure the needs and interests of working families are held up as the primary goal at the state convention. I will give all the time I have to support candidates like Troy who are fighting against the accelerating income inequality in America.

Candura, Jeffrey M

NORTH YARMOUTH

I am a proud Maine Democrat. Selecting a nominee that reflects the will of Maine's people is vital to defeating Susan Collins. I look forward to holding whatever nominee is selected accountable to the energy and enthusiasm that was on display throughout the primary for a new brand of politics and a progressive leader. I worked for the Maine Dems from 2019-2021. What I learned during that cycle was that we can't beat Susan Collins with Susan Collins. We need new ideas, a bold vision, and the ability to connect with voters who haven't traditionally voted for a Democrat. My family and I are active and involved in our communities as local elected officials, advocates, and volunteers. I hope to have the opportunity to represent Cumberland County at the nominating convention.

Candura, Leanne Hemphill

NORTH YARMOUTH

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe in showing up for the decisions that shape our state and country. This is an especially important moment, as our party prepares to select a strong candidate and organize to win. I live and work my Democratic values as a Mainer, a parent of teenagers, and a public health professional focused on improving health and human services systems. I have also been elected twice to our school board and have spent the past three years as board chair. In these roles, I see firsthand how policy choices affect families and how too many government structures fail to support hardworking Mainers. Growing up in Aroostook County taught me how hard work can strengthen communities. But the same hard work that once helped families get ahead no longer guarantees upward mobility. Through 25 years of professional and public service, I have built consensus among people with different priorities while staying focused on community needs. I would bring that experience to this process, especially in ensuring LGBTQ rights and protections remain central to our platform. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will do the work that wins tough races: knocking on doors, phone banking, and having honest conversations with neighbors about what is at stake under continued Republican control of the Senate. To build on the grassroots momentum of the Platner campaign, I will keep showing up locally and consistently: connecting local governance with statewide organizing, recruiting volunteers, and helping our party rally

Caner, Janet

WESTBROOK

I believe in the democratic process and would like to be an honest and objective participant in selecting the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins and take back the majority in the US Senate.

Cannon, Cedar

BRUNSWICK

My name is Cedar Cannon and I want to be a delegate for the official Maine Democrat nominating convention. I am a recent graduate of Colby College and recently attended several candidate forums sponsored by the Colby Dems. My interest in politics fits well with my major. The most appealing aspect of this current political movement is the emphasis on humanitarian values. This is a topic I am incredibly comfortable discussing and believe should be the center of every discussion about our path forward. I would like to be involved in this process, because I believe that young people need to be involved amidst the current state of our country, and what better place for me to start than right here in this moment. I am a strong candidate because I know how to listen, stay informed and use clear critical thinking and analysis when communicating with others. I am comfortable expressing my opinions, and also have a strong moral code that allows me to relate to people from different walks of life. Let's get our momentum back and win this thing.

Capodilupo, Elizabeth

STANDISH

As a woman in the trades, I would love to be a part of the democratic process to better our beautiful state of Maine and represent the folks in the blue collar community here. I want to bring awareness to the slashing of WIOA grants that help our trades programs and the Solar for All grants that stripped Maine of millions allocated towards clean energy jobs for hundreds of hard workers. We deserve our voices heard and our livelihoods secured. I plan to stay informed, keep others informed, and get folks involved in the defeat of Susan Collins.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Carapetyan, Francelle

FALMOUTH

I am fully committed to the people-powered movement we have created in the past year. It was a shock and a huge disappointment to lose the chosen nominee. But we will prove that the voice of the people is stronger than the millions that will be spent to silence us. Susan Collins has done us wrong too many times. No more! Count me in for the push to win!

Carbonneau, Patricia

PORTLAND

I would like to be a delegate in the Senate nominating convention. I am a nurse and a lifelong Democrat. I strongly believe that I will be a good advocate for my patients- the people of Maine. Susan Collins must be defeated this fall. She has been complicit in the breakdown in the fabric and structure of our democracy. She does not represent the interests or will of her constituents. I am committed to getting her seat to the best Democratic candidate to defeat her.

Cardale, Griffin

SOUTH PORTLAND

Hello, I write this letter with my desire to formally become a Maine state delegate. I would like to have the opportunity to help select candidates to properly represent my district and state, as well as the people therein. If elected I will do my best to pick candidates that do not take corporate or billionaire donations. Thank you.

Carlson, Stacey Lynn

CUMBERLAND

I am asking for consideration to serve the state of Maine as one of the delegates to select the replacement for Graham Platner. I am a life-long democrat, and believe it is imperative that we vote Collins out of office this November. She has become a supporter of this administration's authoritarian tendencies through her inconsequential voting record and her failure time and again to stand against Trump policies. As a delegate, I pledge to give my full consideration to all eligible candidates, factoring in each candidate's electability. In other words, I will not vote for a candidate simply because I like them best, but will factor in the candidate's ability to beat Collins in November. Although I am not a native Mainer, I love this state. I have lived here for more than 25 years and in addition to financial support, have been active in state and national democratic politics working over the years to support the initiative on marriage equality, Hillary Clinton and most recently for Platner because I believe we desperately need to turn the Senate blue! I remain involved with my local campaign group and will continue to support the democratic nominee, whoever it is, along with our efforts to overturn this Senate seat. I would love the opportunity to help select the best candidate to challenge Susan Collins this fall. Thank you for your consideration.

Carney, Anne M

CAPE ELIZABETH

Anne Carney Statement of Interest I would like to serve as a delegate because the leadership skills and problem-solving ability I have developed as Senate Chair of the Maine Legislature's Judiciary Committee will help the Nominating Convention elect a candidate through a process everyone feels is fair and thorough, even if their preferred candidate is not chosen. I will work to ensure our candidate is elected. During six years as Senate Chair of Judiciary, I have led legislative work on many issues that are important to Democrats. I demonstrate the value of careful listening, open-mindedness and willingness to elevate the good of the group over personal preference through my own conduct. I create a welcoming and respectful environment for discussion, even when addressing the most divisive issues in our state and nation. I have the ability to keep people at the table and working to resolve disagreement, under time pressure and in a public setting. I will amplify the grassroots energy in Maine by acting as a spokesperson with and on behalf of our nominee. My committee work and the bills I sponsor focus on reproductive rights, environmental protection, healthcare, LGBTQ+ rights, gun safety and constitutional rights – the very issues Susan Collins has abandoned Mainers on. I will use the knowledge I've gained and connections I've made throughout Maine to reach the communities and voters we need to win in November. I am an experienced fundraiser, and will use my skills and network to raise campaign funds for our

Carney, Thomas C Curtis

BRUNSWICK

I am 69 years old. I have wide experience working in blue collar, salaried managerial and ownership positions. In addition I have a degree in economics. In short I this experience allows me to understand the wants and needs of a wide range of our population. As a delegate I will bring this experience and a commitment to respect all (including thoughts who disagree), to protecting our constitution and to the process of our democracy. I have not decided as yet which candidate to support. For me, a successful candidate will have integrity (both personal and professional), judgement, ability to constructively communicate, whose ambition is for the greater good of our society across all sectors rather than personal gain.

Caron, Alan R

FREEPORT

I have been involved in Maine politics and campaigns for much of my professional life, working for candidates ranging from Tom Andrews to Bill Clinton, and countless referenda. I believe in a big tent party, more working class candidates, unity around whoever the nominee is and, most important, winning.

Carr, Evan

BRUNSWICK

As the 20-year-old president of the Bowdoin College Democrats, I am uniquely qualified to serve as a delegate. Maine Democrats need the engagement of our state's young people for long-term success, and my finger is directly on the pulse of that electorate. Last semester with the Bowdoin Dems, I organized interactive town halls on campus with every Democrat running in the Maine Gubernatorial and U.S. Senate primaries. Thus, I know many of the individuals running in this race very well and have had extensive conversations with fellow young Democrats about who among them could serve as our best future leadership. I hope to bring the new nominee for senate to Bowdoin following the convention, and lead canvassing among students in the fall to defeat Susan Collins. Additionally, as a former intern for the Maine Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, and current intern for the ACLU of Maine, I have an extensive track record of professionally fighting for the rights and futures of Maine people. Though the wrong messenger, Platner caught fire because he understood our disenchantment with a broken political system seemingly incapable of improving our quality of life. It is Maine's young people who have the most at stake in this respect with our whole lives ahead of us, while Collins sabotages that future by bankrolling Trump's misadventure in Iran at the cost of healthcare at home. Thus, I am dedicated to fighting for the future of my peers at the convention and in the general election to come.

Youth

Carroll, Stephen Robert Jr

PORTLAND

I am running as a Troy Jackson delegate because he is the working class champion we need. I am a middle school teacher, and I appreciate that Troy has consistently stood up for teachers and students. As Maine Senate president, he worked to pass free school meals for all students. I watched this January as he spoke out for folks in Lewiston threatened by ICE raids. I value having a candidate who advocates for the working class. There is no question Troy is the candidate best positioned to beat Susan Collins in November.

CartyWilbur, Catherine

FREEPORT

I voted for Susan Collins in the past. I now realize that she no longer votes thinking of what is best for Maine or the country. I want to do what I can to help place a Democrat in the Senate both for Maine and the USA.

Caruso, Nicholas

SCARBOROUGH

I'd like to serve as a delegate to help ensure Mainer's can vote for a candidate who wants to fight for the working class, pass M4A, tax billionaires, Abolish ICE, fight against genocide and more. Not only is this the only way to beat Susan Collins, but it's the only way forward.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Cary, Susan

CAPE ELIZABETH

It would be an honor for me to serve as a delegate, especially in this election when time is of the essence. I am recently retired under spent much of the last year learning about Maine – specific policies and practices as I am only a six year resident here. Well, I now have the time to be more politically active. I feel this would be a significant way to meet people and become involved.

Casey, Robin A

HARPSWELL

I want to be a delegate because I'm committed to doing all I can to defeat Susan Collins. I consider myself a pragmatic progressive. I supported Mills in the primary, not because I always agreed with her, but because she was the only Dem candidate who'd won statewide races in Maine. Despite supporting literally all of Platner's positions, I was very concerned that he'd never been tested by Maine voters. But I would have voted for him in the general. I strongly believe that Platner's supporters should be heard, respected and, if possible, followed at this convention. Their candidate won the nomination and his personal failings are not their fault. Above all else, the most electable candidate should be nominated. I believe my long experience as a political volunteer and activist will inform my judgment about candidates' abilities and electability. I'm also a retired attorney who has worked in or on behalf of clients at three different state legislatures, including Maine. I was a delegate at the Maine Dem convention in 2016. Thus, I have a good understanding of governmental and political processes. I have volunteered in many campaigns and elections and will do so again. To help defeat Collins, I will help whichever Dem candidate is nominated at the convention, even if I don't agree with them 100% of the time. I'll host home events and recruit friends to do the same. I'll attend rallies and write letters to the editor in support of the candidate we nominate.

Castaldi, Alfred

PORTLAND

I have been a part-time Maine resident since 2000, permanent now, I live in downtown Portland. I have been a proud Democrat for my entire life of 66 years. I care deeply about Maine and I care deeply for our nation, I take pride in being a citizen that understands that policy matters. I'd take my role as a delegate seriously, in any event I trust the Maine Democratic party to do the right thing, I am very excited about defeating Susan Collins.

Cates, Kristen

PORTLAND

I am a born and raised Mainer and have been living in the Portland area for the last 31 years. My spouse and I are currently unable to afford a home in Southern Maine, despite both working and making decent incomes. I strongly believe we need to choose a candidate who has a chance of winning against Susan Collins and understands what it is like to be a Mainer.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Cavallaro, Erin Smith

WESTBROOK

I was born and raised in Maine, and I've spent my life believing that public service is about showing up, listening, and doing the work. That's why I'm seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. I want to help ensure we nominate the strongest possible candidate to defeat Susan Collins and give Maine the representation it deserves. As a local school committee member, a mom of two young kids, and someone who has spent years volunteering and supporting various Democratic campaigns and causes, I know people are hungry for leaders who are authentic, accountable, and focused on improving their daily lives. Whether it's protecting reproductive freedom, strengthening public education, defending workers' right to organize, lowering costs for working families, or protecting our democracy, the stakes couldn't be higher. I also want to help ensure that everyone ready for a new direction in Maine feels like they have a voice in this process. People come to this moment with different experiences, priorities, and ideas, but they share a belief that Maine can do better. We need a nominee who can bring those voices together around a shared vision and inspire people to stay engaged long after the convention. After the convention, I'll do what I've always done: volunteer. I'll knock doors, make phone calls, talk to friends and neighbors, and encourage people to stay involved. I believe campaigns are won one conversation at a time, and I'm committed to doing that work. The grassroots energy we've seen across

Cekutis, Peter

PORTLAND

As a U.S. history and government teacher with 14 years of experience, I believe strongly in the principles that the Planter campaign championed throughout the past several months. Our state needs a representative who can offer a principled, thoughtful, and clearly articulated vision to help ordinary Mainers regain a meaningful voice in our nation's most important legislative body. Maine has long demonstrated that thoughtful, independent leadership can influence the direction of our country. The old saying, "So goes Maine, so goes the nation," reflects the important role our state can play in shaping the future. I believe those values deserve strong representation in the United States Senate, and I hope voters will choose a leader committed to serving the people of Maine with integrity, independence, and a clear sense of purpose.

Cernik, Colin

PORTLAND

I believe in Troy and think he's the best candidate to represent the values we voted on in the primary. I'm not in favor of anything Susan Collins stands for and think Troy holds the best chance of defeating her. I'm prepared to fight for him at all turns.

Chabon, Sophie

PORTLAND

As a canvasser for the Maine People's alliance, I have spoken with more Maine voters in the past 4 months than almost anyone in the state, and feel I can serve as a true representative of the will of a swath larger than just myself. I look forward to the opportunity to hear out each candidate and make an educated decision to help us defeat Susan Collins once and for all.

Chagrasulis, Thomas

RAYMOND

I believe Troy Jackson is the best choice for Maine and is most similar to the candidate that won the primary

Chamberlain, Toby

BRUNSWICK

I am a committed progressive Democrat. I will carry forward the determination and anger that the Platner campaign embodied, but will also be a force for consensus in the convention as we seek to nominate the candidate who not only has defined the policies that will support working-class Mainers but also has the experience and level-headedness to get us across the finish line in November.

Chan, Lauren

NAPLES

As a staff person with the City of Portland social services division, I see daily the profound challenges facing Maine's most vulnerable residents. I want to serve as a delegate at this critical nominating convention to ensure our next U.S. Senate nominee represents an unyielding commitment to strengthening our social safety nets and protecting those who are falling through the cracks. To defeat Susan Collins this November, we must draw a sharp contrast between her record and the real human cost experienced by our local communities. I will bring my frontline expertise to the campaign trail, organizing targeted discussions and sharing real stories of how federal policy decisions directly strain our municipal resources. By centering the conversation on the tangible needs of working families and vulnerable Mainers, we can effectively undercut her messaging and show voters what is truly at stake. Building on our immense grassroots momentum requires expanding our circle. I plan to mobilize and activate individuals who are often left out of the political process, including those touched by our social service networks.

Chandler, Christian

PORTLAND

am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Chandler, Jeffrey

NORTH YARMOUTH

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe strongly in our democratic process and want to play a role in determining our party's next nominee. As a delegate, I look forward to hearing each candidate's perspective and engaging in meaningful discussion with fellow delegates as we determine which candidate is best positioned to win in November. I believe voter turnout will be the most important factor in defeating Susan Collins in November. Many voters in Maine will reliably vote in November. However, there are also a large number of Democratic and independent voters who will play a crucial role in determining Maine's next U.S. Senator, depending on whether or not they show up to vote. These voters need to be engaged and motivated to vote. Between the Convention and November, I plan to volunteer by canvassing, phone/text banking, and any other community outreach to ensure that as many Democratic and independent voters as possible show up to the polls in November for the Democratic candidate. To build on the grassroots momentum our party has gained so far, I intend to continue spreading the word about the new candidate by promoting small gatherings where possible, promoting discussion amongst neighbors, and encouraging new volunteers. We sometimes need small reminders that there are still so many around us who stand up for kindness, generosity, and hope for better years to come.

Chapkis, Wendy L

PORTLAND

I am interested in ensuring that the more than 70% of voters who selected Graham Platner in the primary feel well represented and heard in discussions and decisions about his replacement. It is critically important that the policy positions articulated by the Platner campaign are also central to the platform of whoever is selected to replace him. It is my belief that both the credibility of the Maine Democratic Party and our success in November rest on this.

Chapman, Janice E

CAPE ELIZABETH

I've been a Democrat for many years and have served on my town Democratic Committee as secretary. I've worked on many local campaigns and have been a delegate at several Democratic Conventions. This election is the most critical one in my life because our democracy is threatened. I recognize we have several excellent candidates running for the US Senate and am excited to be involved in selecting the best candidate to unseat Susan Collins in November. I've signed up for the Chickadee network and will support the candidate we select at the Convention and work diligently to win this election.

Chasan, Joshua

PORTLAND

Democracy is a sacred process. One way to build on the foundation of the campaign going forward is to rise above ad hominem debate in maintaining the clarity of the party's campaign positions to date. Our candidate needs to articulate with clarity the ways in which Senator Collins' collusion with Republican leadership (Congressional and Presidential) endangers the lives and well being of Mainers. For the campaign I will do what I am able to shape this message, as a logical next step following earlier civil disobedience in Senator Collins' Portland office to highlight her continued covering for the Republicans' death-dealing cuts in healthcare. Rabbi Joshua Chasan.

Chase, Jessie

WESTBROOK

I was born in western Maine, and my family has lived here for generations. My great-grandfather attended the University of Maine, and today I work as a university librarian at the University of Southern Maine. My mother spent her career in social services in Oxford County, and my maternal grandparents worked in the paper mills, giving me a deep appreciation for the communities and industries that have shaped our state. I understand the people of Maine and the importance of ensuring that every community, from our northern towns to our southern cities, has a voice and meaningful representation. My work and volunteer involvement connect me with people across the southern and western part of the state. I participate in the performing arts in both the western foothills and the Portland area, support and advocate for immigrant communities, and work closely with college students through the University of Southern Maine. These experiences have strengthened my belief in the value of diverse perspectives and the innovative spirit that defines Maine. My academic background includes studies in biology, freshwater ecology, sociology and culture, as well as a master's degree in Library and Information Science. I believe effective representation comes from listening, understanding, and valuing the unique experiences of the people who make Maine what it is.

Chase, Victoria

WINDHAM

I will continue to communicate with fellow democrats and vote with the will of the people.

Cheney, Matthew David

FREEPORT

I am a physician and father of 2 school-aged children. In my work as an oncologist I interact with thousands of Mainers from nearly every county in the state including rural areas across the full extent of the socioeconomic and political spectrum. Cancer does not discriminate. I therefore have a deep and unique understanding of the social concerns of Mainers and the impact of Susan Collins' failure to act in our best interests. I am tired of inaction to assist them and feel compelled to everything I can to create change. I am also a board member of a large Maine-based physician group which provides unique perspective. I have been involved in the Shah campaign and view Nirav as the only candidate who can defeat Collins. I am personally inspired by him. I am a longstanding democrat and have lived in Maine 11 years. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously. Thank you for your trust and for considering me for this important role.

Chittim, Katherine Stoodley

BRUNSWICK

There are few things more important than defeating Collins in November. I've volunteered for in multiple initiatives to this end over the years, and was a founding member of Activate Maine to help spread civic involvement awareness. I care deeply about Maine. I grew up on Westport Island, attended Wiscasset schools and now own a home and small business in Brunswick. My husband grew up in Lewiston, and we always boomerang back here. I am well informed, measured, organized, and passionate. I look forward to the opportunity.

Chmelecki, Lisa

PORTLAND

I am running to serve as a delegate because I believe this election will shape the future my children inherit. I am the mother of two children, ages 9 and 11, and every major political decision we make today will affect the opportunities, freedoms, and security they experience tomorrow. I cannot sit on the sidelines while so much is at stake. As the owner of a law practice focused on family law, I work every day with people navigating some of the most difficult moments of their lives. I see how government policies affect families, children, and access to justice. I also see the devastating impact of a health care system that is unaffordable and inaccessible for many hardworking people. I believe Democrats must regain control of the United States Senate to protect fundamental rights and make meaningful progress. I am passionate about defending women's reproductive freedom, protecting the rights and dignity of transgender people, and ensuring that every family has access to affordable, quality health care. These are not abstract political issues to me—they are questions about what kind of country my children will grow up in. If selected as a delegate, I will support our Democratic nominee and work to help defeat Senator Susan Collins. I will use my experience as an attorney, my connections in my community, and my commitment to Democratic values to engage voters, encourage participation, and help elect leaders who will fight for Maine families and build a more just, compassionate, and hopeful future.

LGBTQIA+

Chong, Tae Yun

PORTLAND

For nearly 30 years, I have dedicated my life to advocating for Maine's immigrant and refugee communities. As an executive leader navigating the complexities of integration, housing, and social mobility, I see firsthand how federal policy directly impacts our most vulnerable neighbors. Right now, our communities face intense scrutiny, with enforcement agencies like ICE deeply intersecting with daily local life. This vital perspective—the lived reality of thousands of New Mainers—must have a seat at the table when selecting our next U.S. Senate nominee. My goal is to champion fair, inclusive representation. We need a candidate who fiercely defends progressive values at both the local and national levels, ensuring human dignity and equity remain non-negotiable. However, sustainable progress also demands political results. Having spent decades building cross-sector coalitions, I know that true leadership requires pragmatism. To win a statewide election in Maine, our nominee must be a bridge-builder—someone whose message genuinely resonates with independent voters and rural communities across the state. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we choose a standard-bearer who balances a bold, progressive vision with the practical, consensus-building skills required to win—and to govern—effectively. I bring three decades of deep community trust, proven leadership, and a clear-eyed understanding of the political coalition needed to succeed. I respectfully ask for your vote so that our collective voice is not just heard, but woven into the very fabric of our state's future.

BIPOC, Immigrant/New Mainer

Chretien, Michael Todd T

PORTLAND

I support Troy Jackson for governor. I'm a public school teacher and I want a union member in the Senate. I'm a farmer, and I want somebody to understand why we need to support local agriculture in the Senate. I want Senator who will abolish ice and stop the genocide in Gaza.

Clark, Worthe

BRUNSWICK

I'm a relative newcomer to Brunswick, having arrived in 2020 to live near our daughter in Freeport. I'm a lifelong Democrat who's anxious to do whatever I can to defeat Susan Collins.

Claro, Elena

PORTLAND

Mainers deserve a government that works for them. We are a giving people, we give to our families and our communities, to our neighbors new and old, and even to strangers passing through. Generosity is part of our shared spirit and belief in the common good, and in what we can do when we take care of one another. This is what grassroots means to me, just as the seeds in my garden spring only from healthy soil, people too need their environment to provide the conditions for growth and fulfillment. I've seen the trademark Maine spirit of generosity in action throughout the state, but I have not seen it alive in the office of Susan Collins. Removing Susan Collins and placing in her stead someone who truly embraces the demands of public service is of the utmost importance, and I'll do what's necessary to secure that victory, while never sacrificing the dignity of the people of Maine to do so. I work as a researcher whose job is to listen to large groups of people, ask the right questions, and distill clear actionable takeaways that represent the will of the group. These are the skills I will bring to the role of Delegate. I take this position seriously to represent the votes of the people of Maine who have given so much to this state, and who deserve for the state to give back to them. I would be honored to serve my neighbors and the state I love

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Clay-Hillyard, Sandra

STANDISH

On June 8, my neighborhood came together to read aloud the Declaration of Independence along with thousands of other people across the nation. As one of the ten readers, I was moved at how relevant the words felt in this moment. "Whenever any form of government becomes destructive to these ends, it is the right of the people to abolish it ...". This is the place where we have landed. It is imperative to have a voice; and use our right to vote to change the paradigm in this state's leadership and in this country's governance. As a person whose career and life choices include education, health care, and working with children and immigrants, I feel duty-bound to become involved in this election as I never have before. I have tried to make a difference in communities where I have lived through volunteering and activism. I feel I am representative of many Americans who simply live our lives outside of politics beyond fulfilling our right to vote, but who are daily impacted by the decisions our politicians make. It is time for me to be more involved in selecting and supporting those politicians. Please send me to the Maine Democratic Nominating Convention as a delegate. I will bring my enthusiasm for this upcoming senatorial election, my love for Maine, and my respect for the laws and opportunities provided in these United States for all.

Cleaves, Grace Fuller

WESTBROOK

Susan Collins is an embarrassment to People of this state who believe in the trust, honesty, and accurate representation of Maine constituents. Though I live in Westbrook now, I am a native of Washington County, and am related to families and residents who live close to the bone. They need our help. I am a retired Leadership Trainer for physicians, and am fully steeped in the needs of both the people of our state who fall between the cracks of eligibility for health care, and the needs of those who provide it. I believe in an honest court and governmental departments that are led by people of integrity. I believe in restoring trust. I'm a lifelong Democrat, and have never missed an election. I will work tirelessly to see that the residents of Cumberland County are well represented at the convention, and will carry the message of our candidate choice(s) as decided in the county delegate meeting. I am not committed now to any one candidate.

Coco, Austin

WINDHAM

Youth

Coffey, Suzanne

YARMOUTH

I'm an interested citizen, female, democrat, gay, homeowner, consistent voter, who will add to this process. I've raised 4 children here—my children and grandchildren have settled here as well. My children are all Dems who are also political motivated. Thanks for considering my nomination.

Coffin, Alesha Elizabeth

BRUNSWICK

I am running to serve as a delegate because I refuse to accept politics as usual. Democrats across Maine voted for a bold, unapologetically progressive vision in June. I believe delegates have an obligation to carry that mandate forward, not dilute it, not reinterpret it, and not allow those in positions of power within our party to substitute their own judgment for the will of Democratic voters. I want to help nominate a candidate who will inspire people to believe in this party again. We will defeat Susan Collins by giving people a reason to volunteer, knock doors, make phone calls, and bring their neighbors with them. Enthusiasm is not a luxury in politics. It is how movements win. That means fighting for economic justice, reproductive freedom, universal healthcare, climate action, workers' rights, an end to forever wars, and a government that answers to working people instead of entrenched political interests. I have never been content to watch from the sidelines. I do the hard work of building this party by volunteering, donating, working the polls on Election Day, and encouraging others to participate because I believe democracy is strongest when ordinary people get involved. My commitment has never been passive, and neither will my service as a delegate. The energy we saw this year did not come from party leaders. It came from volunteers, first-time activists, and everyday Democrats who believed their voices mattered. That energy should not be viewed as a problem to manage or a moment to

Youth

Cogan, Chelsea

PORTLAND

As a Mainer, I firmly believe in government representation that actually represents the people of Maine. We need a strong candidate who will fight for the working constituents of this state and that candidate is Troy Jackson. It would be an honor to participate in a representative democratic process at this level to help Mainers get their needs met through a competent representative. Troy Jackson understands what it is like to live and work in Maine, and he understands how private interests and the wealthy elite are working against Maine. Not only does he understand this, but he has a proven history of fighting against it. Voting for him as a delegate in this process would not be my only contribution to continuing the groundswell we have seen in Maine. I would volunteer my time to his campaign to unseat Susan Collins and would actively work to enlist others to support true change in Maine. I believe that what we have seen in Maine and other states across the nation is just the beginning. People are itching for true change, they are done with career politicians and centrists who do not strongly advocate for the people. Even once Susan Collins is defeated, I believe the Maine Democratic Party can serve as a bellwether for the nation as it works to incorporate more significant leftist policies. Beyond serving as a delegate in this process, I would be incredibly excited to be involved in creating a party built around these beliefs.

Coleman, John Richard

PORTLAND

Collins, Ashley C

SCARBOROUGH

I'm not a lifelong Mainer. I am someone who came here 15 years ago on a whim and stayed to build a life, because I could not imagine living somewhere better. Maine has become so incredibly important to me. It's where I have raised my child. It's where I started my business. It's where I continue to grow and develop into the best human I can be. Over the years, I have watched with horror at how Susan Collins has not demonstrated that she is aligned with what Mainers hold most dear. And yet, she keeps getting elected. She wrings her hands and votes anyway. She shoulda/coulda/wouldas and sides with Trump again and again. This has to stop. Maine and its people are hurting. We need someone in Washington who speaks up, who has the courage to fight for what is right, and who can steer the ship toward healthcare, immigration, and tax solutions that support and sustain the backbone of our communities, rather than just benefiting the rich. It would be my honor to serve as a Delegate to determine who will challenge Susan Collins in the fall. It would be the first step in mobilizing Democrats and others who are sick of the status quo toward fighting for a better future. By coming together now and unifying around the right person, we have the power to shape the future of this state in a positive way. We have the ability to be a force for good.

Collins, Daniel

PORTLAND

Hi, my name is Dan and I'd like to be a delegate. This may be the most important election of my lifetime, and I'm a young fella! Regardless, I believe we all have our own duty to our country, as well as each other, and my duty right now is to make sure we don't screw this one up. I really believe we have a chance here to turn things around, and create a future we're proud of, instead of a future we dread. Maine deserves a candidate they can rally behind. They deserve someone who can win. Not just in Portland, but in the County too. The Democratic party has a chance to retake not just the senate, but the north as well. We need to get back to our roots, as a party for the people, undeniably so. We need to make our beliefs so clear cut and honest, that anyone who makes a wage will have to understand, we're the only smart choice for you. Above all else, we need a candidate who can deliver that. I'm prepared to do whatever it takes to win the senate. Hope is industrious, and the Maine Democratic Party is rapidly changing. I plan to knock doors, phone bank, go to events, and do what I can to build the democratic party both before and after the election. This has been a tough one, but we'll win in the end. Thank you!

Collins, Graham

WINDHAM

My name is Graham Collins; no relation, but a challenging name given recent history... I would be a strong delegate for three reasons: my Maine roots and understanding of its politics, real-world business experience, and ability to turn enthusiasm into action. I was born and raised in Maine and graduated from Greely High School before attending Babson College. I then spent my twenties in Austin, Texas, where my experiences pushed me to examine my political beliefs more deeply and ultimately change my party affiliation from Republican to Democrat. That journey helps me understand how people's views evolve and how we can welcome voters who may not yet see themselves as Democrats. Today, I am Vice President of Partnerships at a high-growth software company. My third startup, following two successful acquisitions. I bring practical experience building coalitions, developing strategy, solving problems, and bringing people together around shared goals. From childhood, I have always been an organizer and motivator: from Model UN at Greely to leading company departments of more than 50 people. As a delegate, I would use those skills to support our nominee, recruit and energize volunteers, activate my personal and professional networks, and help turn grassroots enthusiasm into the sustained organization necessary to defeat Susan Collins in November and elect Democrats throughout Maine.

Collins, Joh

BRUNSWICK

I have been involved with national and state policy information outreach for 50 years. I have paid my dues as a muddy boots army veteran. I am generational military. I am strongly a Democrat

Collins, Kathy F

CUMBERLAND

I would like to be a delegate because I want my voice to be heard. As a member of Indivisible Greater Portland, Day for Democracy, and Maine Democrats, I have helped to run rallies, meetings, canvased, and phone banked in support of candidates that oppose Collins and the current corrupt, lawless administration. During No Kings rally in Portland, I organized writing and mailing over 2,000 post cards urging Collins to oppose devastating budget cuts. For most of my adult years, I have fought for equity and justice, and I'm determined to use my voice and vote to ensure that those rights remain intact and that the democratic process is preserved. I would be honored to represent fellow Democrats in the delegate selection process and to help choose a strong U.S. Senate candidate who reflects our shared values.

Collins, Nancy

BRUNSWICK

I will run as delegate. I will attend the delegate selection meeting and vote for Troy delegates.

Colson, Kaleigh

WESTBROOK

I would love the opportunity to help Troy Jackson get the democratic party nomination to be on the ballot in November and hopefully beat Susan Collins.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Comaskey, Lucy Daisy

PORTLAND

Compher, Kevin

BRUNSWICK

I'm seeking to serve as a Cumberland County delegate because I believe Dr. Nirav Shah is the candidate who can finally retire Susan Collins. Mainers know Dr. Shah as a steady, honest voice who led us through the pandemic with competence and compassion — exactly the kind of public servant we need in the Senate. I want to be part of the team that nominates him and carries that message to November. Professionally, I've spent my career in business and venture investing, building companies and the networks that support them. Those are skills our party can put to work. Winning a Senate race in Maine requires resources, and I intend to be a fundraising asset: hosting events in Cumberland County, activating my professional network of donors here and beyond Maine, and helping the campaign and county committee build the war chest it takes to compete with Collins' incumbency advantage. Beyond fundraising, I'll show up. The grassroots energy in our party is real, and it grows when new people are welcomed and given meaningful work. I'll help connect first-time donors and volunteers to the campaign, encourage others in the business community to get off the sidelines, and support our county committee's organizing efforts through Election Day. Susan Collins has spent decades telling Maine one thing and voting another. Defeating her will take discipline, resources, and unity behind a strong nominee. I'm ready to contribute all three, and I'd be honored to serve as a delegate.

Conathan, Michael

SOUTH PORTLAND

For two decades I have worked in public policy – as a US Senate staffer, for national organizations including the Center for American Progress, and as an independent consultant serving the state of Maine. Since moving to Maine in 2013, I have led a blue economy task force for the state, and I co-wrote South Portland's Clear Skies Ordinance. The process we followed in both examples was open, thorough, and reflected the will of the majority, not grandstanding based on rhetoric and obfuscation. The results? The establishment of an entity that will create economic opportunity along the entirety of Maine's coastline and an ordinance that has withstood every legal challenge the American Petroleum Institute could muster. This is the standard I envision for our future U.S. Senator and all elected officials: sound decision-making based on the will of their actual constituents. This nomination process is an opportunity to rebuild the kind of politics Maine is known for. Our thoughtful, informed, independent citizens want someone to represent them, not stump for the priorities of big businesses and the uber-rich. Policy goals must include meaningful climate action, universal healthcare and early childhood education, an equitable tax structure, social justice, humane immigration reform, and a diplomacy-first foreign policy that ends our cycle of endless wars. As a delegate, I will support the candidate who has the best chance to win this Senate seat and deliver change that represents progressive Maine values, not national, partisan talking points.

Conley, Chad

PORTLAND

I'm interested in engaging with this unique process, representing my community's interests, and helping to steer our politics in a productive, healthy and positive direction.

Conley, Julua Kyle

PORTLAND

Things have gotten stagnant in the process and regular people feel unrepresented. Platters screw up made me feel defeated, but the policies were correct and invigorating for Dems and independents. Getting a candidate that holds that up will re-energize any appeal to move center is dismissing a successful campaign and the will of the people due to one person's blunder.

Connelly, Michael

BRUNSWICK

I am keenly interested in serving as a delegate. I view all the potential candidates (or which I am aware) as qualified but I am most concerned therefore with electability and would vote for and try to persuade others as well to vote for the candidate most able to defeat the incumbent. I previously served as a delegate (for Dennis Kucinich) to the State Convention.

Connolly, Patrick J

FALMOUTH

As a family doctor practicing in Maine for 33 years, I am deeply concerned about the looming health care crisis in Maine. Cuts to Medicaid, the ACA, attacks on immunizations, preventative care, public health and reproductive rights by the current administration can no longer be tolerated and must be reversed. Universal Health care with single payer is the best option we have to hold down costs and deliver high quality health care for all. Senator Collins has failed us by supporting the Trump Administration in these draconian cuts, and by confirming RFK Jr. to HHS and Brett Kavanaugh to the Supreme Court.

Connolly, Rebecca

PORTLAND

I worry what anyone in the establishment is going to do.

Connolly, Thomas

SCARBOROUGH

I am Tom Connolly of Scarborough and am asking for your vote to be a Delegate to the Special Senate Selection for Democratic US Senate Candidate . I will give all that I can if you do. Democratic Credentials Member Maine Democratic Party 1976-present; Delegate to State Convention 15 time; Delegate to National Convention 2 times, Maine Democratic Party Candidate for Governor Nominee 1998; progressive litigator, activist and pamphlet writer. Both Grand mothers voted for FDR four times SAVE THE REPUBLIC DEFEAT SUSAN COLLINS The path to stop the Trump madness flows through this Maine Senate race. The enemy is at the gate and there is blood on the wire. It is still just beginning and will intensify in pernicious, vile, brutal, violent, lie filled, corrupt ways. Stopping Trump is the first and last agenda item now. November 3, 2026 will in large measure determine whether “government of the people, for the people, by the people shall not perish from the earth.” Our Democratic Party and its choice to defeat Susan Collins for U.S. Senate is a specific, powerful and practical tool to save the republic. The system to wrest back our sacred rights and understandings of equality, rule of law, liberty are not down yet. Now, here ,we can take a strong, powerful act in voting and preserve the republic. Let us serve, united and together. “We did not defeat fascism in Europe only to see it appear here in America .”-Eleanor Roosevelt. Thank you

Cook, Elizabeth Shasta

PORTLAND

My daughter was born on the day that Roe v. Wade was overturned. My mom came into the hospital room with tears in her eyes and to my newborn daughter said “I’m sorry we failed you.” But the fight is not over. We can still do right by my daughter, my mom, my neighbors, and our country. Defeating Susan Collins is the critical step in that fight. I would be honored to carry forward the will of Cumberland County Democrats as a delegate to the convention and to work tirelessly to rally Mainers behind the nominee. We must defeat Susan Collins. Now is our time. - Elizabeth (Betsy) Cook, Peaks Island

Coon, Irene G

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am an 81-year-old woman who has lived in Maine for almost 17 years, and I have been a registered Democrat the whole time. In the early years I voted for Susan Collins – until she supported Brett Kavanaugh. At that point I woke up to the fact that she didn't represent her constituents and that maintaining her power was her priority. Her "concern" is completely inadequate – she needs to stand up for us instead. I would like to be selected as a Delegate to the convention so that I will be involved in selecting the Democrat who is most likely to accomplish that. My whole life, I never envisioned a United States like the one we live in now! Defeating Susan Collins a step in the right direction. Taking control of the House and the Senate are vital if we have any hope of changing the direction of the dangerous path we're on. Whether I am elected as a Delegate or not I will help in any way I can – hold a neighborhood "Meet the Candidate" event, distribute signs and doorknob hangers, and canvas my neighbors. This may be my last chance to help my country.

Cooney, Meredith

CAPE ELIZABETH

I'm seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe deeply in strengthening democratic participation and ensuring that Maine's future is shaped by voices like mine that crave a thriving community and planet for generations to come. I see a world of potential, and want to be part of driving a broader vision for the Democratic Senate Candidate beyond defeating an opponent. I consistently hear new and old Mainers say they don't feel their voice is heard, and I want to help elevate those voices from the community and ensure candidates move forward who reflect the priorities and concerns of people across our state. I look forward to contributing to efforts to support a candidate that will fuel excitement and broaden participation in the political process.

Coons, Jannika

PORTLAND

Susan Collins has been in office since I was eight years old. I, like many Mainers, are exhausted by the old guard and are energized to make real, substantial change for the betterment of ALL Mainers - not just rich, straight, white ones.

LGBTQIA+

Cooper, Janice Ellen

YARMOUTH

I have significant experience in elected Maine politics. I currently serve as a Councilor on the Yarmouth Town Council. I served as a Representative for Yarmouth, Chebeague and Long Island from 2012 to 2020, until I was termed out. I was a staff assistant to Maine Congressman Tom Allen in his Portland office from 1999 to 2012. Prior to moving to Maine in 1997, I served as legal counsel to the US House Judiciary Committee for almost 10 years. As a former supporter of candidate Graham Platner, I am eager to ensure that his message as a populist favoring a more equitable society and stronger democratic safeguards are promoted by our next candidate.

Cooper, Maxwell Robert

PORTLAND

I have knocked doors in every Maine election since 2018, I was one of the top ten door knockers in the state in 2022, I spent every weekend of 24 in CD-2 knocking. I ran canvasses and trained volunteers in 2018 and 2022. I will knock thousands of doors to win this race. If asked I can and I will run canvasses, help organize offices, run GOTV, train volunteers in canvassing and GOTV. I have talked to voters in a dozen cities and towns in Maine and look forward to doing it again for a candidate we can all be proud of.

LGBTQIA+

Corbet-Duddy, Patricia

WESTBROOK

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Disability

Corbett, Thomas B

STANDISH

As a lifelong proud Democrat, I welcome the chance to serve as a delegate to Nominating Committee. Unfortunately, I'm not available to attend the special nominating meetings but will be available to attend the convention on the 25th. I consider myself a moderate, non-Bernie Democrat who nonetheless sees the increasing need to be more strident as a party, especially in regards to overturning Citizens United, pushing for Medicare For All and taking Climate Change seriously. I very much like Platner's articulation of the vital role government must play in providing an effective counterbalance to private economic interests and accumulated power. I'll be looking to nominate a candidate who can best articulate the vital role that an effective, well-funded government must play in a market economy.

Corcoran, Amy

SCARBOROUGH

I am very interested in this democratic process. I have never missed an election and am a registered democrat. I feel Susan Colkins must be beat and I will volunteer, protest and help in any way I can.

Cornwall, Megan

PORTLAND

As a native Mainer who is raising three children in Maine, I represent a generation who grew up with Collins in office and is tired of watching her fall in line with Trump and abuse her seniority. I also represent a large voter base of progressives who understand change is possible and we can defeat Collins if we choose the right candidate who does not leave us feeling like the establishment isn't listening. I want to support Maine Dems in selecting a viable candidate who also represents the progressive and common sense values of my generations of Mainers.

Cosmedy, Sarah

PORTLAND

I am interested in being a delegate because I am a young person who is connected in organizing circles and is ready to see Susan Collins out of office. I am a member of the Portland Tenants Union, helping everyday people in Portland stand up to their landlords. What the Platner campaign built was a movement of Mainers who know that together they are stronger than the people in power. But our movement is much greater than any one person, and as a delegate I will seek to find the person who will continue to build that people power.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Costello, David A

BRUNSWICK

I'm currently running as one of the DEM candidates for the US Senate

Costello, Sally Elizabeth

BRUNSWICK

I look to support my husband's efforts (and other Democrats efforts) to defeat Senator Susan Collins in November for having failed to adequately serve and deliver for the people of Maine and to fight the outrageous and unprecedented actions of the Trump Administration.

Cowie, Joe W

PORTLAND

I support Troy and will do everything I can to defeat Susan Collins

Crabtree, Brian Kenneth

PORTLAND

I have been a registered Democrat voting in Portland for the last 10 years. I work as an election worker regularly in Portland. I am a practicing physician in both Maine and New York. I remain politically active and informed reading and subscribing to quality news sources. I call our senators' offices regularly and urge Susan Collins to represent our state better and am consistently let down. I will whole heartedly support whoever the nominee is, financially and in any other way possible.

Crain, William Earl

POWNALE

I want to help nominate the candidate who has the best chance to defeat Collins I did legal research for the Sarah Gideon campaign regarding Cavanaugh's voting record and volunteered and canvassed for Jared. Golden. Collins is a tough opponent -- the polls were hopeful six years ago. Choosing the candidate who can both shape the key issues and has the acumen and presence to effectively link Collins to Trump is the key to finally defeating her. the recent Supreme Court campaign contribution decisions mean we are likely facing well over $100 million in Republican Party/PAC money. given that reality, making sure that we nominate a candidate who could not only maintain the number and enthusiasm of the 15,000+ Platner volunteers, but can build on and increase This number is critical to our chances to defeat Collins. One reason for Platner's success was his willingness and ability to engage with voters and inspire Mainers and others to volunteer for his campaign, in Stark contrast to Collins unwillingness or inability to do so for that reason it is critical that we nominate a dynamic candidate who will relentlessly engage with the public and the media.

Cravinho, Albert

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Crespi, Andaria Elizabeth

PORTLAND

As a psychiatric nurse practitioner serving Mainers, I see every day how public policy affects people's lives. I work with individuals experiencing mental illness, substance use disorders, homelessness, and financial hardship, and I believe our elected leaders must prioritize accessible healthcare, economic opportunity, and compassion. I want to serve as a delegate because I am committed to helping nominate a strong Democratic candidate who will fight for Maine families and represent our shared values. Defeating Susan Collins will require conversations rooted in trust, listening, and community engagement. I plan to volunteer by phone banking, canvassing, talking with friends and neighbors, and encouraging voter registration and turnout. My experience working with people from diverse backgrounds has taught me the importance of meeting people where they are, listening respectfully, and building authentic relationships. I also want to help our party continue building grassroots momentum by welcoming new volunteers, supporting local Democratic committees, and engaging younger voters and first-time participants. Lasting change comes from sustained community involvement, not just during election season. I believe Maine Democrats are strongest when we empower people to participate, support one another, and stay focused on creating a healthier, more equitable future for all Mainers.

Crichton, Peter

WINDHAM

I was very active in the Maine Democratic Party in my late teens and twenties serving as chairman of the Aroostook County Democratic Committee from 1980-86, as well as a member of the Maine Democratic State Committee, and engaged in several political campaigns. I was also fortunate to have the opportunity to be an intern for Senator Edmund Muskie in Washington, DC following college. After a 35 year career in local government as a city and county manager, and assistant city administrator, I am once again able to be involved in partisan politics and political campaigns. Thus far this year my wife and I have contributed nearly $1,000 to Maine Democrats vying for Congress and Governor. In addition, I have served as a member of the planning committee for the Cumberland-York County Democratic Committees highly successful Democratic Gubernatorial Debate at USM. I have made phone calls and attended events in support of my candidates, and enthusiastically attended the Maine Democratic Convention as a delegate. For the remainder of this election season I intend to continue my activism and support of our Democratic candidates through political contributions, phone calls, and in whatever way I can be of assistance to a Democratic victory in November. I hope to be a delegate to the Nominating Convention and look forward to a new United States Senator representing Maine.

Crispin, Sydney

WESTBROOK

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe strong grassroots leadership is essential to building a Democratic Party that reflects the values and priorities of working people across Maine. I want to help nominate candidates who will fight for affordable health care, reproductive freedom, economic opportunity, and a government that is accountable to the people it serves. This November, I am committed to doing everything I can to help defeat Senator Susan Collins by volunteering, talking with voters, supporting voter outreach efforts, and encouraging turnout in my community. I believe elections are won through conversations, relationships, and sustained organizing, and I am ready to contribute my time and energy to that work.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Crosson, Katherine

CAPE ELIZABETH

Defeating Senator Susan Collins in the November 2026 election is not only important for Maine citizens but also for our nation! The Senator's votes, usually aligned with President Trump, have consistently negative consequences for Maine's most vulnerable populations – children, the elderly, Veteran's, women, farmers, fisherfolk, lumberers, individuals living in the most rural parts of our State and immigrants fleeing war, famine and injustices in their countries. After thirty years with the US Department of Health and Human Services (National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, MD), I retired from my position as public health administrator and relocated to Cape Elizabeth with my husband, also a retired Federal employee. We strongly believe that funding must be restored to the Federal agencies that fund vitally important scientific and medical research both in the US and overseas (e.g., EPA, NIH, AID, NASA). We have painfully watched former colleagues' decades of work be dismissed, defunded and devalued. Programs and staff must be restored to insure scientific, public health and medical research advances. I served as a Peace Corps Health Volunteer in Togo, West Africa – an experience that changed my life. Today, I continue serving, assisting New Mainers as they learn to speak English, navigate new systems and become engaged and active members of their communities. It would be a privilege and honor to serve as a delegate to the Democratic Party Convention to thoughtfully select the candidate we believe can defeat Senator Collins.

Croteau, Adam

WESTBROOK

Im a registered democrat who voted in the primary. I would like my vote to still count. We should all be able to decide. Just like we did in the primary.

Underrepresented Religion

Crouse, Steven

BRUNSWICK

As a former State Representative from Aroostook County and Government Relations Director for the Maine Education Association, I spent 29 years at the State House. I worked with 4 Governors, 4 US Senators and 8 US Representatives in my time with the MEA. In coordination with the National Education Association, I lobbied Congress on issues of importance to educators in Maine. The most important issue that we need to make collectively is to nominate the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins. I have a solid record of directing the MEA endorsement process to support candidates that support public education. My review and promotion of viable candidates has been fair, thorough and objective. I worked with Hannah Pingree in the primary to remind Democratic voters of her strong support for public schools during her 8 years in the House and especially her 2 years as Speaker. I wrote a letter of support for her in the Bangor Daily news and spoke at her press conference on her rollout of her Educational Agenda. I would be honored to be selected as a delegate to one day Nominating Convention in Bangor

Crow, Ellen

SCARBOROUGH

I care deeply about democratic party priority issues and believe that participating in the political process is a right and responsibility. I want to make my voice heard and represent my neighbors.

Crowley, Janel

GRAY

I am a NICU nurse and mother to a now adult child with a chronic illness, I see everyday how our country's healthcare industry mistreats its most vulnerable populations. I'm a woman with many family and friends in the LGBTQIA+ community, who as a nurse cares for the immigrant population every day, and I want to make sure these marginalized communities have a voice and are heard. I am also a leader in my union, the Maine State Nurses Association, and participate in many actions both locally and nationwide that promote the progressive platform of our union. Maine overwhelmingly chose a progressive candidate in our primary and therefore must chose a candidate who shares that platform in this replacement process. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion

Cunniff, Michael Andrew

SCARBOROUGH

I am committed to supporting the Democratic candidate for Senate because of a deep concern that Susan Collins, along with the Trump Administration, have abandoned the rule of law and continuously undermined the principles upon which our nation was founded. In doing so, I will bring the Democratic nominee's message to my friends, family, neighbors, and other community members -- this is a critical inflection point in our nation's trajectory that must be addressed carefully, consistently, and persistently until and after Susan Collins is replaced with a responsible, respectable, and respectful candidate. As a veteran lawyer currently in practice and a veteran federal law enforcement agent (retiree) who has been involved in a multitude of international rule of law initiatives, I know that this is not a time to remain silent about the future of our nation -- and of our grandchildren, and their descendants.

Cunningham, Willow

PORTLAND

I'm resubmitting because it looks like I'm not on the confirmed list to be a delegate? I've spent the entire summer talking to folks at their doors about the democratic primary and subsequently affordability and taking on trump as part of my full-time canvassing job. As such, I'm in touch with what the average democratic and independent voter cares about and where they're at. I am utterly dedicated to defeating Susan Collins and will be canvassing for whoever we select as a party every day. Outside of my work, I will also be organizing my community to get out the vote and win this midterm. Failure is not an option.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Curcio, Dominic

GRAY

I would like to serve as a delegate for Cumberland County so that I can play a part in electing a candidate who puts the needs of Mainers first, recognizes the issues that matter (such as healthcare access, affordability, and climate change), and demands radical changes to the systems that have been failing us for years. It's worth noting that Susan Collins has been in the senate for longer than I've been alive. I don't think she's deserving of any accolades for that feat, though. If she was a senator for the people at some point, that was before my time. In my eyes, her legacy is one of loyalty to Trump. To defeat Susan Collins, I will continue to volunteer for our senate candidate, as I have done over the past several months. My time as a political activist has only just begun, but I've loved the opportunities to talk with people, invite friends to get involved, and find my community. Thank you for your consideration.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Curley, Jacqueline C

FALMOUTH

I have attended Democratic Party conventions in the past representing Falmouth Democrats. I am ready for the long day and evening required as well as being available not only on the 25th but also on the 24th and 26th. I look forward to hearing what the candidates will have to say and I intend to keep an open mind primarily with the intent of selecting a candidate who can beat Susan Collins as well as be a proud representative of the values of the State of Maine.

Curry, Jason A

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have served several times in the past as a delegate for State Democratic Conventions, and ran for the State House in 2004 from South Portland. I have been a high school teacher in Cumberland for 29 years. I serve on The Board of Directors in my professional union, the Maine Education Association, and am about to start a three year term on the Board of Directors of the NEA.

Curry, Stacey

CAPE ELIZABETH

I'm asking to serve as a delegate because I've spent my career building trust across very different rooms — Wall Street trading floors, NYC real estate closings, and now Maine town committee rooms — and I know how to bring people together around a shared goal. Defeating Susan Collins is that goal. As outgoing president of my town's Middle School Parent Association and current Grants Chair for our local Education Foundation, I've learned that grassroots power comes from showing up consistently, not just during election season. I plan to bring that same discipline to this race: organizing my network of parents, small business owners, and neighbors; hosting house parties and phone banks; and using my platform — I'm active on social media with real local reach — to cut through noise with clear, direct messaging about what's at stake. I understand persuasion. Nearly a decade in real estate taught me how to read a room and close. Years in finance taught me how policy translates into people's actual lives — healthcare costs, retirement security, housing affordability. I can make the case against Collins in language that lands with independents and disaffected moderates, not just the base. I also bring a storyteller's instinct — I've won multiple Moth Story Slams and know how to make a stump speech memorable instead of forgettable. In a race this important, we need surrogates who can move a room, not just recite talking points. I'm ready to put in the work: organizing, fundraising, door-knocking, and

Curtis, Mariah

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have been a fan of Troys since the gubernatorial primaries and he is a candidate whose merits and platform I can speak confidently about.

Cyr, James

PORTLAND

I am a life long democrat.

Dalton, Clare

PORTLAND

Since the fall of 2025 I have been part of a digital citizenship project aimed at using social media to promote Democratic messaging and candidates, and undercut support for Republicans seeking state or federal office. In 2026 that project, recently renamed the Chickadee Network, is focused squarely on defeating Susan Collins and electing the Democrat seeking to replace her. Like so many, I was thrilled to see the groundswell of support for the solidly progressive agenda laid out by Graham Platner, and, like so many, dismayed by the revelations that have forced him out of the race. But I believe strongly that if we choose the right candidate to replace him, we can sustain the momentum generated by his campaign, and send Susan Collins packing. I lived in Portland in the seventies, and moved back ten years ago. I spent time in Washington DC as the spouse of a Cabinet member in the Clinton Administration, and in Massachusetts campaigning for my spouse in a Democratic gubernatorial primary - which he lost to a Democrat who then lost to the Republican candidate. I add those pieces of personal history just to underscore that I'm no stranger to electoral politics, and to explain my commitment to being involved in this pivotal moment for the Maine Democratic Party. We can't afford to lose in November, which means we can't afford to choose the wrong candidate on July 25.

Underrepresented Religion

Damour, Sue Ellen T

BRUNSWICK

I want to take part in taking back reasonable governance in our country by nominating a respectable, informed, and committed person to represent me and all others in Maine.

Underrepresented Religion

Dana, W Benson

CAPE ELIZABETH

Collins is a liar, a coward and a traitor

Dancause, David

CAPE ELIZABETH

My name is David Dancause, and I am applying to serve as a delegate because this Senate race is too important to treat casually. I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. My reason is simple: Maine Democrats need to nominate a candidate who can win the general election and finally defeat Susan Collins. I am not interested in a symbolic choice or a feel-good effort that falls short in November. I want a nominee who can build trust, expand support, and make the strongest possible case to Maine voters. If selected as a delegate, I will take the responsibility seriously. I will listen, participate in good faith, and cast my vote with one goal clearly in mind: helping Democrats win this race.

Daniels, Richard

WESTBROOK

I wish to be part of the process that chooses the candidate who will defeat Susan Collins in November and will truly represent and reflect the morals and values of all Mainers as well as those of our nation. As a US Senator, the candidate will be required to strike a delicate balance between the needs of Maine and the needs of the country. I feel the person chosen to represent our state has to have the resolve and leadership skills to bring together a strong, ideally bipartisan, coalition which will reestablish the Constitution as our guiding document and enact legislation to better define the gray areas and helps to ensure that one individual or entity can not use ambiguity for personal gain and power or strip individuals of their rights. Ideally, our candidate is someone who not only Mainers can rally behind, but the country as a whole and serve as a national leader going forward. Additionally, I would like to network with individuals across the state that share my values and increase my involvement in local, state and national politics. We can no longer rely on our elective officials to act in the best interest of the nation and not use their office as a means to directly increase their personal gain. We need to hold our officials accountable for their actions and their words, and remove the layers that insulate them from the burdens and concerns of ordinary citizens.

Darling, Kathleen L

YARMOUTH

I want Shenna Bellows to be our Senator. She has worked to protect our voting roll data from the Trump administration. When I called the information line because I was worried about my mail in ballot Shenna answered the phone. I will never forget it. She puts the citizens of maine first.

Darling, Sage-Taliya

GORHAM

Daughtry, Hallie

BRUNSWICK

As a lifelong dedicated Democratic volunteer in almost every capacity, I want to help out in any way I can to ensure that Maine Dems have a strong vetted candidate who can defeat Susan Collins this fall! I would like to be a delegate to help select the best candidate to run for US Senate

Davidson, MaryBeth

WINDHAM

I will listen to all candidates, to voters, and support a progressive, effective Democrat who can defeat Susan Collins. I supported Graham Platner because his platform was and is far more important than his past words. I'm devastated by how this has played out; I believe it was engineered by Susan Collins and the GOP, and I will work to move us forward. I'm an activist Dem, working with Windham Democratic Town Committee, Cumberland County, Democratic Committee, and I'm chair of Lake Regions Dems. I'm active in Lake Region Indivisible and hosted a well-attended No Kings event in Windham last October. I'm working on Tim Nangle's District 26 Senate Re-election Campaign. I want a candidate who: Is strongly and vocally anti-fascist, anti-racist, anti-war. Will work for women's reproductive rights, immigrant justice, health care for all, LGBTQ+ rights, justice for Palestine and safety for Israel, Will protect unions and workers, fair wages, safe working conditions, and decent benefits, Will work against wealth inequity, corruption, the influence of money in politics, Will prioritize climate, fair taxation, and stand up to trump and the GOP, Will listen to all Mainers, keep Democrats focused on our core values and not engage in appeasement. I believe in Maine Democrats, our Democratically-led Legislature, and I will keep working to elect Maine Democrats. Thank you.

Davis, Aaron

WESTBROOK

We need someone on the ballot who, once they've won, won't be swayed by money. Who won't be a scumbag. I will be putting Mr Jackson down as my choice.

Davis, Andrew Burnham

FREEPORT

I believe I should a delegate because I am currently working on the frontlines as an Infection Preventionist in Lewiston. I have spoke with many people and helped persuade them during the governor primary. Speaking to Dr Shah on the phone made me realize he is the right choice.

Davis, Benjamin L

PORTLAND

I will go all out to defeat susan collins. Im active in the community, and an experience door knocker. I want to be there!

Davis, Mary A

PORTLAND

I have worked as a teacher in a low income neighborhood, a defender in a tribal court and for most of my adult life, a defense attorney in state and federal court. I am committed to a government that champions civil liberties, faithfulness to the Constitution, diffusion of authority and shared financial wealth. I will speak against Susan Collins and attend whatever training sessions are available to have facts and data at hand to refute claims she is “ good for Maine”. I will work to promote the excitement that Graham Platner and his values developed in Maine. I will help with rallles and events to encourage support and donations.

Davis, Matt

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am a South Portland-based high school science teacher and I am running to be a delegate because I believe this convention is the most consequential moment the state party has faced in my lifetime. The primary sent an unmistakable message; 72% of Democratic and unaffiliated aligned voters backed a campaign built on economic populism and a genuine fight for working people. That mandate does not disappear because circumstances changed. It is our job as delegates to honor it. I support the progressive agenda, and I expect our candidates to support and honor it as well. I feel Troy Jackson or Shenna Bellows are best suited to carry that momentum and mission forward. As an educator, I am enmeshed in two communities that speak to these values; the labor movement and public education. I will work in these networks to help organize teachers, union members, and supporters in the community around a campaign that speaks to the economic reality our neighbors face. I will be encouraging student engagement as they turn 18, it represents an investment in the future, as civic engagement is aligned with good citizenship. I want to help keep the energy of our primary season alive through town-level events and forums, so working Mainers stay organized, informed, and invested in this nascent progressive movement.

Davis, Steven R

BRUNSWICK

I have long loathed Susan Collins and longed for a Democratic senator to replace her. I have contributed funds and time in the past for Democrats who have run for Senate and plan to continue in the future. The energy and sense of hope that has been generated in this latest bid to unseat her should be strongly reflected in our Senate candidate. I will support and work with that candidate. I am a retired lawyer and have more than sufficient time to devote to this campaign.

Day, Beverly A

SCARBOROUGH

I am interested in becoming a delegate to participate in the Democratic process of selection of a candidate for Senate for the Democratic Party. I am a life long Democrat, a Retired Nurse, interested in healthcare initiatives, climate change, financial equity for all, reversing citizens united. Nationally I wish for the Democratic Party to take back the Senate and House of Representatives. I will assist in anyway possible to ignite the base and get out the vote in an attempt to replicate the 150,000plus votes cast in the Platner primary vote

De Leon, Fernando

PORTLAND

I am a life long Democrat that firmly believes that the chaos in Washington needs to end and firmly restore our democratic principles. One way to do that is defeat Susan Collins this November.

DeBery, Anthony

PORTLAND

DeBortoli, Mitchell

PORTLAND

Myself and others want a delegate who is going to vote for someone who does not have a political reputation to be bound by. A vote for someone that Mainers all over the state can relate to and trust. Despite Susan Collins carefully cultivated brand as a moderate, she repeatedly shows she is not willing to actually be a moderate. Democrats showed they want a principled Mainer who will only vote for the interest of the people who actually elected them, not out of staters or lobbyists.

DeCristoforo, Jennifer

YARMOUTH

I have actively followed and participated in supporting Democratic candidates and issues for my whole adult life. (I'm 66 now.) Most recently, I have worked with Indivisible Greater Portland as a way to harness my volunteerism to what is most at hand in a constantly changing landscape of resistance, democracy and election cycles. I participate in frequent protests, events and rallies, including at the Collins office. In the senate race reset, I feel equipped to listen to the candidates with an open mind and a serious attitude to help lead our state to the very best choice to run against and defeat Collins. We are in a good position with so many outstanding people.

DeLucia-Harting, Elizabeth

PORTLAND

After Trump won in 2024, I committed myself to do everything I can to protect and improve progressive policies in Maine. This is my home, and I know state and local politics truly matter. The issue I'm most passionate about is taxing the rich. I know firsthand the epic amount of tax loopholes that wealthy people take advantage of every year. In 2025 and 2026, I organized Maine Democratic donors to support the Millionaires Tax, which passed. Graham Platner played a key role in this huge win as his movement demonstrated the pent up desire for a more fair tax code, and I'm very grateful for that. In 2025, I served on the steering committee of the campaign to Save Absentee Voting in Maine. I did significant fundraising and organized house parties across the state. I'm proud and relieved that we defeated the referendum 2:1. For transparency, I am a donor to progressive politics in Maine, including political nonprofits, ballot initiatives, candidates and the Maine Democratic Party. Rich Republicans fund the conservative efforts that have destroyed so much in our nation and state, and I believe funding the progressive movement with equal vigor is an important part of my role. I'm from Vermont and moved to Portland in 2023. I love skating outdoors in the lucky times when the rivers and lakes freeze.

DeVoll, Willys

SOUTH PORTLAND

I've been interested and involved in politics my entire life, but having and raising young children in Maine has motivated me to get even more involved in the day-to-day political and social life of our community. I've been appointed to South Portland's Public Art Committee and have served for several years now, and recently I was a part of our successful No Flock for SoPo campaign to remove AI surveillance cameras from our community. Local political work has given me far more hope than I've had about our politics in a long time, and I'm eager to continue expanding how much I can contribute in South Portland, Cumberland County, and Maine at large. Defeating Susan Collins this fall is imperative to making our state better, and to saving our country from the unabashed tyranny and bigotry of the Trump administration. I will canvas for the Democrats' candidate with everything I have. My life and those of my kids depend on it. I also firmly believe that Troy Jackson is by far our best (and maybe only) chance to defeat Susan Collins in November, and I would be honored to be a part of his nomination at the state convention this month. We deserve representatives that stand up for our values, not just pursue pork-barrel spending. Troy Jackson has a proven record both electorally and legislatively, and I will work to ensure that he wins a U.S. Senate seat back for Democrats.

Youth

DeWolfe, Joanna

WINDHAM

I wish to serve as a delegate in support of Troy Jackson for US senator at the Maine Nominating Convention. It is imperative we defeat Susan Collins in November. We need a Congress that realizes and acts as a co-equal branch of government, providing checks and balances on the executive and judicial branches; one that will fight for and legislate policies to help and support working people and families; and one that will ensure a cohesive and coordinated agenda toward foreign policy and immigration. We must seek to promote democracy, freedom of the speech/press, transparency, and the responsible stewardship of public funds. It is time to end the corruption, the self-promotion, and the use of the justice department to attack the president's perceived enemies. We must end Susan Collins' reign in Congress. Her decision to support Brett Kavanaugh for the Supreme Court was a decisive vote which ended a women's right to choose. I am willing to work to elect democrats for the presidency and for Congress in order to enact the democrat's policies and platform. For the presidential race in 2024, I helped the democrats to canvas and get people to the polls to vote for Harris. In 2018, I lived in Texas and made calls to get out the vote for Beto O'Rourke as he ran for Senate against Ted Cruz. As a lifelong Democrat I want to do all I can to defeat Susan Collins and the rest of her Republican cronies.

Deakin, Robert Jennings

STANDISH

As a veteran and father of 3 bilingual and biracial daughters, I support Democrats, especially Shenna Bellows and her New Deal for Mainers. As a former civil rights investigator for the US Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights, I support Democrats like Shenna Bellows who support equal opportunity, liberty, and happiness for us all. I support the fight to defeat Trump's fascism. At age 76, I'm still working and know that the survival of working families, new immigrants, and those with disabilities is tough. Housing, health care for all, affordability, and the survival of democracy are key issues in our struggle against oligarchs and their big-money power groups. Shenna Bellows will support social security, medicare and medicaid and more to help families. Together, we must overturn Citizens United; end the billionaire and large corporate tax breaks destroying working-class families; and empower unions and those who support all of us and not just the rich few. As a former labor organizer, I believe in the responsibility for each of us to help others, so I cofounded a FOOD Pantry that serves vulnerable and hungry people from four counties. I want to serve as a delegate to select a Democrat like Shenna Bellows to be our US Senator. I'll canvass and work tirelessly to help defeat Susan Collins, and keep building our grassroots momentum. Together we shall overcome.

Disability

Deangelis, Rosemarie

SOUTH PORTLAND

Dee, Barbara H

SOUTH PORTLAND

I never considered myself an activist until Trump was elected for a second term. Immediately after the Inauguration one of my friends suggested we needed some kind of support group. We started meeting bi-weekly, named ourselves "The Resister Sisters" and I was asked to chair the group. Around that time the first rally was announced in Portland and I thought we needed to have a rally in South Portland as well so I organized one. The first rally I have listed in my schedule is April 1 and we have rallied every Saturday from 11-12 at Erskine Park in South Portland. We have rallied on other occasions, notably September 11, 2025 when we lined the bridge. I have been active in South Portland politics for many years including chair of the Conservation Commission; Chair, Open Space Committee; O'Neill Street Committee...So I now consider myself an activist. I am deeply committed to democracy and this Senate race in Maine supports my dedication because the democratic process, integral to the Constitution, is being followed. The current national situation is a disaster but in Maine solid adherence to the framework provided by that document stalwartly persists. "As Maine goes, so goes the nation"; we are leading the way in this special situation, showing the rest of the country and the world what America stands for, and I would like to be included in this historic endeavor.

DelTergo, Sarah

FALMOUTH

I believe that We the People of the United States need to ensure that our government starts promoting the general welfare. I'm sick of the republican party and their lies. No republican deserves to hold public office. I'll do what I can to help the democratic candidate except Shah. He's a big nope for me.

Delaney, Eileen

NORTH YARMOUTH

I hope to named delegate to support Dr Nirav Shah. I have spent over 40 years as a nurse in Women's Health and have seen how the Republican Party have impacted women's rights. I feel strongly that we need to restore Rowe vs Wade. Susan Collins needs to go.

Delgado, Jakobi

PORTLAND

I am 18 years old. My father was naturalized as a citizen in the 2000s, my mother gained the right to vote in 1998. Yet only one thing has remained the same: Susan Collins. In a world where AI threatens the future of my generation, where climate change has already taken its toll on millions and affects the lives of Mainers in every generation, we cannot continue to have a Senator who builds political power while leaving future generations to live with the consequences of today's decisions. If we as a people are going to break the bi-generational hold Collins has had on our state there is one word we not just as a party but as a people need remember. Hope. This movement grew because people had hope and believed that change was possible. To keep that hope alive in this moment we need the next generation to have a voice and a vote at this convention. Send me. send a message to the next generation that it's time to be involved. Let the youth have a voice at this convention so that when a nominee emerges that same energy and hope that brought 150,000 of us to a primary, will carry us to the general. The movement is there, it's up to us as a party to ensure we pick the candidate this movement of people can put their hope for change into. So that people like me will go out, talk to their neighbors and vote.

Youth

Demambro, Wendy Nicole

PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe Maine deserves leaders who will actually represent the views and interests of people they are supposed to, especially at a time when fundamental rights and democratic values are under increasing attack. The recent fatal shooting of Joan Sebastián Durán Guerrero by an ICE agent in Maine deeply, deeply disturbed me. He was legally authorized to work in the United States, and his death has raised more issues with the overreach of the ICE government agency and their spree of unmitigated and unconstitutional violence against Americans. I am equally disturbed by the continued erosion of reproductive healthcare access. I believe women and people who can get pregnant should have the freedom to make their own healthcare decisions without political interference, and I want to support leaders who will protect those rights nationwide. While I respect anyone who has dedicated years to public service, I believe Senator Collins has become too focused on entrenched political and financial interests rather than the needs of her constituents. It is time for new leadership with fresh ideas, greater energy, and a willingness to actually confront the issues facing working families, not just give a performative statement. Serving as a delegate would give me the opportunity to help advance leaders who share these values and to ensure that Maine's voice reflects compassion, accountability, and a commitment to the future that would most benefit our beautiful state

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Demicco, Marie

SCARBOROUGH

We are at a critical point. We need to put as many democrats into congress as possible, lest we will no longer have a democracy

Denk, Joshua T

WESTBROOK

I envision a kinder, more equitable, more open society freed from the yoke of billionaire whims. I also envision a community with an established infrastructure for mutual aid and support from our senator's office for that work. To that end, I want to nominate someone with a vision that protects immigrants, protects the rights of ALL parts of our LGBTQ+ community without exception, and makes universal healthcare a priority. I will call, knock doors, advise the campaign where desired, and marshal support from my network from such a candidate. I want nothing more than to replace the poor judgment and jaded outlook of Susan Collins in the senate with someone who has our best interests - ALL our best interests in mind. I've become more deeply involved in mutual aid and organizing work over the last two years and I intend to bring that experience to this process along with the passion of this movement and the rigor required to nominate and elect a qualified progressive champion to the senate. I've waited over twenty years for the chance to dispatch Collins to her book tour. I'd be truly thrilled to be part of this process - both during nomination and after, when the hardest work begins.

Desjarlais, Linda

FREEPORT

I love the people of Maine and they have made it abundantly clear they want and deserve a candidate who will listen to them and work for their interests and needs. Graham Platner's message strongly resonated with Mainers, and I want to ensure the candidate who runs against Susan Collins this November carries forward these policy positions. I have repeatedly written to Susan Collins's office, most recently expressing my deep disappointment with her decision to supply ICE with an additional $70 billion. In the aftermath of the murder of Joan Sebastian Guerrero in Biddeford by ICE agents, it's clear her continued incurious gullibility and partisan conformity have literally hurt the people of Maine. I will continue to write to her office to ensure she knows that citizens are closely paying attention to what she is doing. Additionally, I have volunteered to be a poll worker in Freeport and will be working in the upcoming election this November. In this time of severe dysfunction and corruption in our federal government, it is not enough for people to continue as they have in the past, trusting that their elected officials always have their best interests at heart. As a former teacher, I strongly believe in the transformative power of education. Marching in a No Kings rally, I have been heartened by the enthusiasm and shared humanity of the people of this state. Continuing to dialogue with friends, family, and neighbors will ensure we all remain informed, vigilant and engaged.

Dewolfe, Serina Marie

GRAY

I am a lifelong labor representative who currently represents members in teaching, higher ed and healthcare here in Maine. I work for American Federation of Teachers. I am on the Board of the Maine AFL-CIO and also an appointed representative for the Labor side of the Maine Workers' Compensation Board. I have known Troy for 20+ years and in light of this debacle with Platner, Troy is the best candidate to defeat Collins. I am in a position to help mobilize Democrats as well as undecided Independants to push Troy over the line to replace Collins and return power to the working class. Troy's mesage most aligns with Platber's and if we want to continue this movement, Troy is our only answer. American Federation of Teachers is one of the country's most powerful unions and is ready and able to defeat Collins in November.

Dexter, Cynthia

CUMBERLAND

Exercising my right to vote, promoting Democratic values, and representing my neighbors makes this an important opportunity. I feel I have an understanding of the direction this Senatorial campaign was headed and I hope to continue that path for the state. I will be as informed as possible to make the best voting decision so we can elect a senator to uphold the best values for Maine and defeat Susan Collins.

Diamond, Patrick

PORTLAND

Democrats want to elect leaders with ideas that inspire and plans to make them real. I want to ensure younger people like me are represented in the process of selecting Maine's next senator, so that our state can not only forestall entrenched corruption but also model what a real alternative looks like.

LGBTQIA+

Dilg, Stuart

CUMBERLAND

I am an Emergency Medicine physician at Midcoast Hospital, raising my six and nine-year-old boys with my wife Sara in Cumberland. We send our boys to Greeley. I am and have been deeply committed and involved with living wage and labor organizing, prior to med school and becoming a father. I am a progressive Democrat who would like to see someone as passionate and capable as Graham was in mobilizing the left and some former Trumpers for common sense gun control, renewable energy, creating a just economy for middle and low income Mainers, Medicaid for All, and democratic reforms, both in terms of the Supreme Court and the recent ICE violations. In order to defeat Senator Collins, we need to leverage the energy of the recent nine months of the Platner campaign by remaining as bold as Graham was. Priorities are to find a candidate with a similar platform, similar ability to appeal to non-progressives, and an appropriate choice that reflects the context which forced Graham out. At this point, Shenna Bellows may be able to embody the priorities of the Platner campaign but also reflect our stance on women's rights in general and a woman's right to choose. For all of the faults that Graham had, he created a moment in Maine similar to Mamdani in New York City. We need to pick someone who can keep the same laser like focus on the issues that animated the campaign in order to ensure voter turnout.

Dilworth, Molly

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would be honored to serve as a delegate because my roots in the Maine Democratic Party run incredibly deep. Even before I could vote, I was a proud Maine Democrat—a passion sparked when I accompanied my dad to the state convention as a little kid, watching him serve as a delegate. We are at a monumental turning point in both Maine and US history, and it is absolutely essential that we select a candidate who can definitively defeat Susan Collins. Having spent my entire career in public education, I know firsthand what is at stake for our communities, our teachers, and our children. I was raised here, spent 12 years living in other states, and ultimately chose to return to Maine to continue my career in education and raise my own children. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will use my deep community connections as an educator to organize robust voter outreach. I plan to mobilize friends and working families to systematically expose how her voting record has failed Maine's public institutions and working-class families. Bringing a unique blend of lifelong Maine loyalty and 12 years of out-of-state perspective, I understand why there is momentum within our party to disrupt the status quo. My varied experiences would allow me to serve as an effective, unifying voice, helping to build a permanent grassroots operation that wins this November and beyond.

Dimoulas, Gregorios

PORTLAND

I am twenty-seven years old, born and raised in Bangor, and a graduate of UMO. Susan Collins has been my U.S senator for as long as I can remember. I respect her years of service, but things need to change. Modern politics is broken. It's difficult for friends and family to have a civil discussion at the dinner table, and nearly impossible to find motivation to get involved. That's why I want to be a delegate. I want to be the catalyst for change that society needs. I want to show my peers that there is something we can do -- that there's a light at the end of the tunnel. I've never been more involved in politics than right now. I've gone to rallies, multiple town halls, and met and/or followed the candidates. I believe Troy is the best one to replace our previous Democratic nominee and beat Susan Collins. If I'm given the privilege to be a delegate, to be a part of something bigger than myself, to contribute with my voice, I'll also show other young people that we're not just stuck living in apartments. I'll show my peers that our generation will be given the opportunity to afford a house and a family. I'll show that we can fix the problems left to us by the previous generations. With the entire nation watching Maine, why can't we be the next national and world leaders? As goes Maine, so goes the nation.

Dolan, Daniel

SCARBOROUGH

I have participated in Democratic politics since I was an adolescent, helping to support and elect strong leaders. I believe Maine must field just such a strong Democratic candidate to unseat Sen. Collins. Such a person must have strong integrity, leadership experience, charisma, and vision. This special convention is a unique opportunity to help choose that person and I would be honored to help.

Dolci, Elizabeth

FREEPORT

Our collective goal is to defeat Susan Collins in the November election. We need a candidate who is organized, energetic, and effectively communicates with the broad range of Maine's voters. As a delegate, I will take seriously my responsibility to represent Freeport's Democrats in the selection of our candidate for U.S. Senate.

Dolley, Michelle Anne

BRUNSWICK

I want to represent the interests of the people of Cumberland County. I want to be part of the conversation regarding stances on the issues and platform of our next Senator.

Donahue, Margaret O

YARMOUTH

I supported Dr Shaw as Governor for Maine and support him fully as our US Senator representing the great State of Maine. I work in healthcare administration at Maine General in Augusta and believe strongly that Dr. Shaw understand the critical healthcare issues facing Maine, as well as other vital issues like affordability. I believe it's vital to have a moderate democrat in this US Senate seat that cares about the issues facing all Mainers in a non-partisan, respectful manner that will look out for the greatest good for our state. Thank you.

Donnelly, Charles Joseph

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am spearheading a movement called Compassion Forward (compassionfwd.org) aimed at promoting Compassion as foundational for civic healing. As a delegate I plan to poll people in our movement to ensure that the vote I cast as a delegate represents as broad cross section of our democratic voters as possible.

Donovan, Anthony J

PORTLAND

I am a life long Maine Democrat. I have volunteered for actions and events for decades including while in leadership of the Maine Chapter of the Sierra Club for 12 years. In that role have been involved in vetting and in the process of supporting candidates for state and Federal elections. I am knowledgeable about most (all) of the policies of the Democratic Party federal and state. Ive spent many years in the statehouse supporting environmental and social justice issues. Most Elected Maine reps and senators know me for my passionate advocacy for safe alternative transportation. My life is committed to family and to the American ideas of Liberal Democracy. I am committed to volunteering my time this election season for legal accessible 2026 vote. I am committed to making sure Democrats win the house and Srnate

Donovan, Paul

WINDHAM

Donald Trump is a problem, but not THE problem. The threshold issue that Trump and our elected officials in general are manifestations of is the influence of money in our political system. We have good candidates before us. My choice will be the candidate that rejects corporate or big money. If we nominate a good candidate that funds their campaign as has been the norm for so long, we might replace susan collins for a short term win. But the real issue that has provided fertile ground for the Trumps of the world will remain.

Dorais, Craig Carl

PORTLAND

I intend to continue to work for a society the Democratic Party's stated platform encompasses. This includes volunteering and donating as I have for a good number of year.

Dorsey, Adrian

SOUTH PORTLAND

The democratic process can't be given up despite such sudden circumstances. The movement the people of Maine built together is still in motion, and I believe the best way I can keep it in motion is to be a delegate for Troy Jackson. Maine needs to set an example for the nation that nothing is worth abandoning the will of the people.

Dosch, Christopher

NEW GLOUCESTER

My wife and I moved to Maine last fall to be near my mother-in-law (MJ) as she battled cancer. MJ was also new to Maine; moving here less than a year prior for the birth of her granddaughter. She immediately started helping her community, including volunteering with Habitat for Humanity and the Platner campaign, phone banking and knocking on doors. She wanted to have a positive impact on the state and country her granddaughter would grow up in. MJ lost her fight with cancer in January, but we will stay in Maine. We love it here, love being close to family, and want to finish what MJ started. MJ believed our responsibility to one another was essential. Her commitment to justice and service was unwavering, and she believed in the possibility of meaningful change. Picking a candidate who would make MJ proud is one we should all want. Volunteering for a campaign will be new for me, but I want to serve as a delegate to carry on MJ's legacy. My goal is to bring others off the sidelines with me as I learn from those who have been in this fight longer than I. MJ believed that showing up mattered, and she did so time and time again. Now it is time for me to show up to ensure we have a candidate on the ballot in November who supports bold action on healthcare, housing, and an economy that works for working people and not just billionaires.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Doss, Virginia A

PORTLAND

I believe it is important for the Senate candidate to be reflective of the 70 plus percent of people who voted for a progressive mission to stand up to the establishment and fight for choice, healthcare for all, and fighting to overturn as much of the damage that Susan Collins, Trump and the Republican Party have caused over the last few years. I will canvass regularly for the candidate that is chosen

Douglas, James R R

BRUNSWICK

My name is Jim Douglas and I am a 69 year old native Mainer. I served as a delegate during Obama's first campaign and I have been donating and volunteering in the current election cycle since last October. I have served the people of Maine my entire professional career in human services. I believe in the progressive platform that has so inspired Mainers in this year's primary race. As a delegate I will bring my passion and skills in community building to the process of choosing the best candidate who will work for the deep changes in our politics that we need, and who has the character, values, and competence to defeat Susan Collins this fall. The grassroots movement that has emerged in Maine must continue to grow, include all Mainers who care about their neighbors, and fight together to reshape the political and economic foundations of our country. I fully intend to continue to support our chosen candidate financially and with volunteer time.

Douin, Karl Eliot

PORTLAND

Platner deserved the nomination. The media hit job on his unprecedented ascension to the nomination was unwarranted and deserves justice. As a delegate, I would vote for Troy Jackson, the only comparable Democratic candidate.

Dow, Ritchie D

CUMBERLAND

I have been a delegate in all state conventions since 2016 and I consider this one to be occurring at the most critical moment for our democracy and our party's direction. The candidate we select must be able to defeat Susan Collins and I intend to support our nominee and reach out to communities. We need to have a rapid, effective campaign going forward.

Dowdy, Kerrie

PORTLAND

My name is Kerrie Dowdy and I am an elementary school teacher from Portland Maine, currently serving as the Portland Teachers' Union president. I have been a resident of Portland for 34 years. I taught elementary school in the PPS for 29 years before moving into my current role four years ago. During the last school year, I invited Graham Platner to a union meeting; he came and engaged with a middle school library packed with educators. I hosted Troy Jackson and Hannah Pingree to spend a day in one of our schools and met Nirav Shah and Shenna Bellows at state union events. Note: no endorsements were involved; currently, our local only endorses for School Board seats. I have a solid pulse on my community of educators (and homeowners) in Southern Maine and understand what people are looking for in a candidate. MANY solid candidates are vying for this position, which makes this moment all the more challenging, yet hopeful at the same time, as I believe there is tremendous momentum in the state to move Susan Collins OUT! Everyone around me wants CHANGE. I do not have one "pick" already established in my mind; I apply to be a delegate with an open mind. I just returned from Denver, where I was a delegate at the NEA (National Education Association) conference and was excited to see this opportunity pop up in my text thread. Thank you for your consideration. Applying as an individual

Dowling, Tara

SCARBOROUGH

It would be a honor and privilege to serve in this process.I am proud to be a Maine Democratic.

Downey, Laurie J

WEST BALDWIN

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because this is an absolutely pivotal moment for both Maine and the nation. It is absolutely imperative that a Democrat beats Susan Collins in November, and I want to do everything I can to help keep the momentum going that Platner's groundbreaking campaign has generated. That can only happen if a candidate is chosen that can continue to energize the base, and reach out to voters outside of that base. Given the overwhelming success of Platner's message, I believe it is crucial that the replacement candidate shares the bulk of his platform and has the same passion for fighting moneyed interests and supporting working families; in my view, that candidate is Troy Jackson. As longtime chair of the Baldwin Democrats, I will help support the fight by organizing a canvassing drive and by publishing promotional pieces in our local regional paper, the Shopping Guide. We can win this fight, but not by playing safe - we must pick up the ball and run with it!

Doyle, Jane Acton

CAPE ELIZABETH

I voted in the June 2026 primary and I want to have a voice in choosing the next Democratic candidate who will run against and defeat Susan Collins for the Maine senate seat. If chosen I will contribute monetarily to the campaign, display a yard sign, engage with my neighbors and friends in order to persuade them to vote for the chosen candidate, and participate in get out the vote activities. These are also the ways by which I will keep the grass roots momentum going.

Doyle, Lynda

FREEPORT

I am Lynda Doyle. I live in Freeport and I have worked as a mental health therapist in Yarmouth for three decades. I was appointed to the Maine Board of Education by Governor Baldacci and served for five years. I have served as a Guardian in custody cases for the last two decades. In my counseling practice, I work with individuals and families on issues of depression, anxiety, domestic violence, gender issues, struggles with cancer, physical disabilities, and learning disabilities. Politics had never been a part of my practice until the 2024 election. Now, hour after hour, I have to deal with the damage inflicted on Maine families as a result of Donald Trump's and Susan Collins' policies and actions. Lack of access to health care, not being able to afford food or gas, people being shot in our streets because of an irrational immigration policy, women's rights being trampled on, primarily because of the judicial confirmation votes of Susan Collins. I feel I have a unique view of how the Trump / Collins' policies have detrimentally affected the lives of our friends and neighbors. I would like to offer my services in this important process. I have no agenda in this matter other than to try to get a consensus on a candidate who can defeat Collins in November. This is my first step in going out into the community to explain the dire need for change in Washington, and supporting whichever candidate gets selected by the convention participants.

Draeger, Michelle

FALMOUTH

I am asking to serve as a delegate because I have spent my career doing the work Democrats stand for, and I want a voice in choosing our nominee. I am a native Mainer, born and raised in Lewiston, the daughter of first-generation Americans whose families came from Canada to work in the mills so their children could have a better life. That upbringing shaped everything I have done since. Early in my career, I represented survivors of domestic violence at Pine Tree Legal Assistance. I later spent over a decade as a federal prosecutor at the SEC and the U.S. Attorney's Office, holding corporate wrongdoers and fraudsters accountable. Today, as Executive Director of the Maine Justice Foundation, whose mission is to ensure access to justice for all, I have grown our assets by 85 percent, launched a $1 million Racial Justice Fund, and helped secure a sixfold increase in state funding for civil legal aid. I also serve on the board of Good Shepherd Food Bank, working to ensure food security for all Mainers. To defeat Susan Collins, I will bring the same relationship building I have used across Maine's legal, corporate, and civic sectors into this race. Our grassroots momentum will only last if we give people concrete reasons to stay engaged, grounded in the issues I have worked on for decades: food security, access to justice, and economic fairness. These are not abstractions to me. They are the values I will carry into this fight for Maine.

Dresser, Mark F

SCARBOROUGH

I've thought long and hard about sending this email. I'm a live long Mainer and Democrat. Over 40 years ago I help to organize and coordinate Senator Kennedy's presidential bid with the Maine caucus. My mentor was Rodney Quinn from Gorham who believed in bipartisan government, After that period in politics, I've raised a family and started a business while taking a break from politics. I believe it's imperative that we take back the Senate and Congress to save this country and put morality back in our government. Maine has a history of strong and courageous Senators - Margaret Chase Smith, Cohen, Muskie , Mitchell and King. Senators who have put country before party. Margaret Chase Smith said it best with her declaration of conscience - movement: She felt they needed to address a sense of decay in morality and the threat to the constitution and the American way. With that said the campaign going forward needs to build upon Gov. Mill's organization, Graham Platner organization and include of needs of Mainers in the 1st & 2 Districts and with independent voters. The campaign needs to be all inclusive to beat Senator Collins. Thank You.

Drew, Megan

PORTLAND

I would like the opportunity to serve as a delegate for Cumberland County for the Nominating Convention for the State of Maine Democratic Party to help ensure a fair and equal process in choosing who will be put on the democratic ticket to beat Susan Collins this November. I have been active in politics significantly over the last decade and have participated in door knocking, call banking and attending events for candidates in both South Carolina and Maine. I understand the importance of grassroots politics and how much work it takes to bring people to the table to help fight with you and not against you. We have a very short time to build a movement that can beat Susan Collins and it is imperative that we choose wisely. I will do my homework prior to the convention on all candidates but also remain open minded and vow to be an active listener to each and every candidate's ideas. I want to pick who will not only be the best for me and my family but for every single Mainer and American. This vote is vital in helping to flip our Senate to help protect the democracy of the United States and ensuring a fair and just nomination process is the first important step. Although I come from away, I have called Maine home for nearly 5 years, I love this state more than anywhere and want to see it flourish. Thank you for your consideration in my nomination.

Drinan, Janice E

SCARBOROUGH

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Duarte, Eduardo

PORTLAND

I'm writing to you today because I would like to serve as a delegate in the Democratic Nominating Convention. First and foremost I have been a lifelong Democrat, voting in every election since 1984. I bring a unique perspective to the current challenges we are facing in the US today. I am the child of immigrants from the Dominican Republic. I am a 33 year educator. I am an avid outdoors person. I am a father of three children. And I am a person of deep faith who believes in the overlap between spiritual practice and social justice. I am a supporter of Dr. Shah, who I believe to be the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins. I support Dr. Shah because he is the only candidate with experience in state and federal government, as well as international relations. He is a brilliant person, with both MD and JD degrees. He is an exceptionally gifted listener and compelling speaker. He welcomes discussion, and understands that democracy thrives on vigorous debate that leads to sound policy. Dr. Shah will prosecute the case against Sen. Collins, and compel Mainers from throughout the state to vote in record numbers. Mainers know him well as the calm yet confident voice who led us through the dark and difficult days of the pandemic. I hope I am given the opportunity to participate in the Democratic Nominating Convention as a delegate.

BIPOC

Dugal, Michael

PORTLAND

Very excited about the progressive momentum being built here and Maine and would love to be a part of continuing that momentum and securing a seat in the senate.

Dunfey, Robert

PORTLAND

I ran against Susan Collins in 2002. I entered the race since no viable candidate was running. I had just finished 7 successful years working in the Clinton administration as Regional Administrator of the General Services Administration. I proved that the government can work and can be responsive to constituent needs. I was the most influential federal executive in New England. I made things happen. Chellie Pingree was running for governor. I was told she will not enter the US Senate race. 6 months after I entered the race party bosses forced Chellie out of the race for governor into the US Senate race. I endorsed Chellie immediately since I thought she had a better chance to beat Collins than me. I am not committed to any candidate. We have some great Democrats running. I want to select the one who will defeat Susan Collins in November.

Dyar, Melinda

FREEPORT

I've been a Mainer since I was a teenager, living first in Owls Head, then Tenants Harbor, before recently retiring to come home to Maine in Freeport. As a geologist, I worked for 20 years in western Maine and came to know and love the entire Sebago region, which I walked nearly every square foot of. Over my lifetime of experiences, I have worked with and gotten to know Mainers from the tourmaline miners of western Maine to the community support system in the town of Rockland, where my mother worked with teen parents. I also worked closely with colleagues at UMO and the State Geological Survey to bring my love of Maine geology and natural history to the general public. As a scientist, I can bring a different viewpoint to the selection process, along with the perspective I share with all Mainers: concerns about child care, taxes, health care, and the cost of living. I sincerely hope to be selected as a delegate.

Dyke, Megan

PORTLAND

As a lifelong Mainer who is being priced out of the state I love and call home, this election is extremely important to me. I've been engaging with Mainers all across the state of all demographics both online and offline for many months with a priority in swaying independents and republicans who are more moderate and unhappy with Susan Collins to vote blue for this election cycle. I've successfully bridged the divide with many and will continue until Susan Collins is voted out.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Eastty, Heather

PORTLAND

As a Doctor of Physical Therapy who has spent over a decade advocating for patients navigating fragmented healthcare systems, including nearly three years exclusively working in the healthcare deserts of Maine, I understand firsthand how policy decisions in Washington ripple down into the lives of Mainers trying to access care, afford medication, and rebuild their independence after illness or injury. Serving as a delegate to the Nominating Convention would let me bring that on-the-ground perspective, built through my work at Maine Medical Center - Portland, Rehab Without Walls throughout Southern and Central Maine, and my leadership roles with Maine APTA, into the process of choosing candidates who will fight for all Mainers. To defeat Susan Collins, I plan to use the coalition-building skills I've developed as Chief Delegate for Maine APTA: organizing colleagues and speaking at a national level on how federal healthcare and disability policy affects the patients I treat every day. My experience representing Maine nationally, combined with my years bartending in rural Maine before becoming a Doctor of Physical Therapy, gives me a unique perspective and has honed my ability to translate complex issues into clear, motivating messages for diverse audiences, which is a skill I can bring to phone banking, canvassing, and community forums. To build on our grassroots momentum, I'll keep doing what I've done throughout my career: showing up, mentoring others into leadership roles, and connecting healthcare professionals (a trusted, high-turnout voting bloc) to the party's efforts across the state.

Eaton, Christopher

YARMOUTH

Retaking the senate is important. As a former Platner volunteer I saw firsthand the appetite for people-focused politics, and we saw that reflected in record breaking primary numbers. If we do not choose the nominee that can reflect this we will lose this race to apathy and I want to do all that I can to prevent that.

Eaton, James

YARMOUTH

I spent the previous six months knocking on doors and calling voters, primarily Cumberland County Democrats and Unenrolled voters, asking them to describe their top issues for the 2026 U.S. Senate campaign. Responses were as varied and diverse as the Mainers I spoke with. People raised their pressing need for universal healthcare, affordable child care that allows parents to work so they can afford to raise a family in Maine, their horror at the way our government is mistreating immigrants and the list went on. But the overarching concern expressed was the grave threat to our democracy. I am asking to participate as a Delegate at the Nominating Convention because given where Maine is at this moment, we must do everything in our power to restore confidence in the democratic process. Voters must be assured that their voices still matter as we move forward and select a replacement for the former nominee, Graham Platner. For me the work of defeating Susan Collins begins anew with participating as a Delegate at the Nominating Convention. I plan to use my voice and the experience I have gained as a campaign volunteer, former labor leader, and veteran, to help us nominate a candidate who can unite a party very much in need of unity. Once we have a new candidate I plan to return to canvassing, phone-banking and volunteering in any way I can to ensure we rebuild a dedicated field team. Respectfully submitted, James Eaton

Eaton, Robert W

HARPSWELL

I wish to serve to unite the Democratic Party with a broad unity ticket that will defeat Susan Collins and expand the Democratic majority in the State House. I am a 15-year resident of Harpswell where I serve on several Harpswell Town Committees - most particularly, on the Harpswell Comprehensive Plan Task Force. Locally, I am Secretary-Treasurer of the Wallace Shore Road Association. I serve on the National Corporation of the American Friends Service Committee. I am a member of Harpswell Indivisible and curate the "Songs of Resistance, Love and Hope" section of their Scouting Report. In every election cycle I have actively canvassed for Democratic candidates. Recently, I led a small but happy Quaker contingent to the No Kings demonstration. This election cycle I plan to spend a major portion of my time driving candidates, canvassing, and accepting any other assignments to get Democrats elected. I will work to activate my pretty wide circle of friends in the Harpswell and Brunswick-Bath area to increase their active support for a Democratic victory in November. I am retired. My work career is largely with three organizations: 1. Vietnam Veterans of America Foundation - Director for Humanitarian Affairs doing war victim rehabilitation in Angola and Cambodia, 2. United Nations - manager of the UN Rural Rehabilitation for Afghanistan after the Soviet withdrawal, 3. Survey Action Center, an International Non-Governmental Organization, I founded that conducted rigorous surveys of land mine fields around the world to facilitate their destruction

Edgecomb, Elizabeth Ann

SCARBOROUGH

As a 3x former DSC, I understand the importance & want to free my State from the reign of Susan Collins. I knocked doors, made calls, talked to neighbors... I am committed to winning!

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Edmonds, Oliver

BRUNSWICK

I believe that Susan Collins is a threat to Mainers so long as she is still in office, especially as she continues to support the policies that resulted in the recent ICE murder in Biddeford. As Maine democrats we need to select a candidate that can defeat her and continue the fight in the senate to protect democracy and the constitution. In being a delegate, I feel as though I will help ensure this occurs. I also intend to continually support whichever candidate ends up getting the nomination.

Edmondson, Caleb

PORTLAND

I will do what's right and support Troy Jackson, as well as Paige Loud and Shenna Bellows. Victory in November requires adherence to the strong progressive vision that prevailed on June 9th.

Youth

Edwards, Julia

SOUTH PORTLAND

For years, I have quietly worked to make my community better. Not for recognition or influence, but because when I see a way I can help, I help. To me, leadership isn't about personality and spotlight. It's about empathy, listening, and speaking up for others with a fierceness that lets others know they're protected, they're safe, and they will not be taken for granted. I feel deeply that so much needs to be repaired, and I am not committed to any one personality. I'm committed to doing what's right, saying the truth out loud, and always keeping in mind who is NOT in the privileged room. Accountability is everything. Collins is done - that much has to be true. But she doesn't deserve my anger. Instead, I work every day to connect with people to help chip away at the ideas and beliefs that have allowed her to remain in power far beyond her usefulness. My young daughter has fewer rights than I did because many of us collectively got complacent, lazy, selfish, and naive. I almost died during a miscarriage and only lived and wasn't investigated, because of where I happen to live. I'm civically engaged, fiercely protective of my community and this state, so much so that I am back in school to try and help more people as soon as possible. I want to participate in this process because I need to be able to tell my daughter I tried.

Disability

Edwards, Marketa

SOUTH PORTLAND

We are at a critical juncture for American democracy. For its survival, Democrats must regain control of the House and Senate, and defeating Susan Collins is imperative for that to happen. As a delegate to the Senate nomination convention, I would listen intently to the words of the nominees and fairly weigh their intentions for wholly representing the people of Maine. I would like to be a delegate, because I have no preconceived bias for or against any of the candidates who have already applied and would remain open-minded towards those who have yet to apply. Once a new nominee is selected, I would, to the best of my ability, canvass for the nominee in my county and throughout Maine where needed. We need a strong candidate who will stand up to the bullies in D.C., who will help end fraud, waste, and abuse in government, who will not be beholden to billionaires, who will not lie to the people of Maine, and who will fight for the rights and dignity of all people.

Efron, Karli Alyse

PORTLAND

The strongest Democratic Party is one that is grounded in community, equity, inclusion, and action. Throughout my career as a clinical social worker and as the director of a basic needs bank, I have worked alongside people from a variety of communities, listening to their experiences and advocating for policies that help families meet their needs with dignity. Those experiences have shaped my commitment to building a more just and inclusive future. I am a proud parent of students enrolled in Portland public schools, active in synagogue life, proudly pro-choice, an ally for the LGBTQIA+ community, opposed to ICE's harmful immigration enforcement practices, and committed to protecting Maine neighborhoods by opposing the development of large AI data centers that threaten our environment and local resources. These values motivate me to stay engaged and organize others to do the same. Tikkun Olam translates to "heal the world" - we are required to make this world better than we found it and this next Senate candidate has the opportunity to make real and lasting change. I will work to help defeat Senator Collins by talking with voters, amplifying Democratic candidates and issues through my personal and professional networks where appropriate, and encouraging consistent civic engagement - I want to represent Cumberland County in a fair and equitable way. We win elections by building authentic relationships, listening to people's concerns, and connecting Democratic values to the everyday challenges families face.

Underrepresented Religion

Egan, Emma

PORTLAND

Like many Democrats across Maine, I was excited by the energy and optimism that grew throughout the Senate primary. While the events of the past week have been incredibly disappointing, they have only strengthened my belief that this election matters and that it's worth stepping up when our party needs thoughtful, engaged people to help move us forward. As a librarian and educator, I care deeply about civic participation, listening to others, and making informed decisions. I would approach the responsibility of serving as a delegate with an open mind, taking the time to thoughtfully consider which candidate is best prepared to unite Democrats, inspire voters, and defeat Susan Collins in November. No matter who our nominee is, I plan to support them however I can. The enthusiasm that brought so many people into this race shouldn't end here. I want to help ensure we build on that grassroots momentum and channel it toward electing a Democratic senator who will represent Maine with integrity and help move our state and country forward.

Egan, Katharine

BRUNSWICK

Egee, Karen

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate to pardon this democratic process as we fight to save our democracy. Susan Collins is one of the obstacles to doing this and I would like to help the clearheaded fight to defeat her.

Eisenhauer, Tiffany

FREEPORT

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Elicker, Elizabeth G

CAPE ELIZABETH

I will do whatever is required to support the democratic candidate and beat Susan Collins. I will rally, make phone calls, canvas, attend meetings. I am passionate about winning this Senate seat for the democratic party - it is crucial!

Elie, Melissa

NEW GLOUCESTER

Supporting my candidate during these chaotic times feels quite important. I want to help save our democracy.

Eliscu, Kathryn J

SCARBOROUGH

As a 50+ year resident of Maine, I have witnessed and participated in many grassroots campaigns - door-to-door, financial contributions, speaking out when appropriate. I'm a retired RN, an author, and a good thinker. Consider myself a solid Democrat, left leaning. As a 20-something, I worked to introduce a bill that would create non-smoking areas in public places back when smoking was allowed everywhere. It did not pass in committee, but several years later similar bills were enacted that protected public health in this regard. I have participated in peaceful protests, both here in Maine and years ago, in New York when Trump was first elected. I am disturbed by the current federal administration and by the Republican run Congress and Trump's agenda, which I believe hurts the average person, protects only the rich, and makes our country unsuitable for being the glorious multicultural country that it could and should be. A country where we treat every human being as worthy of dignity and respect simply because they are a human being. I very much want to see a Democrat voted in for Senator in place of Susan Collins in November.

Elliott, Harold W

SCARBOROUGH

I think its important to stop Susan Collins before we have a supreme court that has several trump picked justices. A more out of control donald trump. And we need a local picked candidate that has progressive policies. I want be involved in the process Thank you for my consideration

Disability

Ellis, Julie

PORTLAND

Why me? I've cared about Maine since 1991. This moment is as important as any I've seen. For nearly 20 years, I served USM, building engineering programs and research capacity. I learned Maine politics' tensions and tactics. My two kids grew up here, they started their tech careers here, and one started a family in Portland -- our new wee Mainer. I left Maine for a while for similar work in Kentucky — small, rural, Republican-dominated. In 2022, I tried to retire in Maine, gaining a hard education in Maine's affordable housing crisis, especially in Cumberland County. It drove me out then, but I'm back now, helping with my grandchild, again seeking a long-term housing solution. Maine is home, despite my southern accent. My experience here and elsewhere, and the accompanying pragmatism, will serve the party well at this convention. How I'll help defeat Collins? I'll help our nominee any way needed — phone banking, tabling events, assisting with voting plans. Election Day? I'll help people get to the polls safely. I'll study whatever stands between voters and defeating Collins, and build convincing answers. She's gotta go! Building momentum! Many Mainers already share the party's core values; the extraordinary energy before the primary proves that. Enacting those values in Washington, with better legislation and diminishing this administration's terrible damage, is urgent. We MUST take back Maine's senate seat. I pledge to promote local conversations — through the campaign and outside it — lifting people's concerns, making the case for voting

Underrepresented Religion

Ellis, Lorne

GORHAM

Fighting for maine and our country

Elting, Karen

FALMOUTH

Dr. Shah is brilliant, inspiring, and absolutely the right person to defeat Susan Collins. It would be an honor to support him at the Convention.

Elwell, Julia

SCARBOROUGH

I seek to serve as a delegate because I believe politics should begin with empathy and a genuine commitment to improving the lives of our neighbors. Every Mainer deserves leaders who listen with compassion, respect differing experiences, and work tirelessly to ensure that families, workers, seniors, and young people feel seen and supported. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I will volunteer my time to canvass, phone bank, and engage voters in honest, respectful conversations about the stakes of this election and the positive vision our party offers. I want to help build trust by meeting people where they are, listening to their concerns, and demonstrating that our values are rooted in kindness, fairness, and opportunity for all. I will also work to sustain and expand our momentum by welcoming new volunteers, uplifting diverse voices, and fostering a culture of inclusion and mutual care. Lasting change is built not only through campaigns, but through the human connections that inspire people to stay involved long after Election Day. I would be honored to help strengthen those connections as a delegate.

Youth

Emerson, Anthony Matthew

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat who has advised the campaigns of Betsy Sweet, Nirav Shah, and Graham Platner. I enter the convention uncommitted to any announced candidate, including Dr. Shah. I have a substantial following on Twitter and Substack, and I will continue to use my platform to promote Democrats, including whomever is nominated to replace Graham Platner. I believe my participation in the convention would be beneficial to the party, and — since I was a fairly prominent Platner supporter — I believe I would help smooth over any feelings that this convention is in some way looking to overturn the will of the voters.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Youth

Engel, Mary Lynn Lynn

YARMOUTH

I want to defeat Susan Collin's for the benefit of Maine and the country. I also want to be a delegate for a personal reason - I'm fascinated by the process, primarily by what the candidates say and how they say it. I've taught marketing, communications and particularly branding. What can the candidate say that will resonate positively with the voter? I can definitely help at the convention and through to November. I look forward to helping out.

Underrepresented Religion

English, Nancy

PORTLAND

The United States government is being undermined in multiple areas, from financial regulation to international reputation. We must elect a Democratic Senator in Maine who speaks against privilege and against corruption, and who upholds the rule of law. I am active as president of the Parkside Neighborhood Association, a stretch of city blocks in Portland that is the home of diverse and vibrant residents. We rose up to face the January surge of ICE action when we protected neighbors. We help each other in many ways, and we continue to work on behalf of the people who live here. Two years ago I ran for Portland District 2 City Council seat and came in a close second. Despite having no previous political experience, I canvassed the neighborhoods that includes the West End and St. John Valley and found supporters on every block. I am assisting current candidates for city council. I am familiar with the database maintained by the Democratic Party and would employ that system to knock on doors, discuss the issues and leave personal notes on campaign material at the doors that do not open, in support of whoever is chosen as the new Democratic Candidate for United States Senate. I would write postcards to gain access to voters in multi-unit buildings and make phone calls. I am impassioned by the issues in this election and eager to make the defeat of Senator Susan Collins inevitable this November.

Disability

English, Sarah Emily

PORTLAND

I am a nurse, a mom, and a union steward with the Maine State Nurses Association. I believe Troy Jackson is the candidate we need to win the U.S. Senate seat, fight fascism, and move forward to build a country that works for ALL OF US and not just the billionaires. I would be proud to be a delegate for Troy Jackson.

Ericson, Mary

SOUTH PORTLAND

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Esposito, Jean

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to help ensure our voices are heard. I am not one to be easily swayed by pretty words and empty promises. I have lived in Maine for the entirety of my 58 years. My husband and I own a small business in South Portland. Southern Maine Taekwondo has made a positive impact in the lives of hundreds of children and families. I believe our politicians should demonstrate at least some of the qualities we instill in our students: Courtesy, Integrity, Indomitable Spirit. Maine Democrats and Independents overwhelmingly voted for Graham Platner, primarily due to his platform and message. We deserve a candidate with the same goals and willingness to fight for what is best for the people of Maine as well as everyone in this country and those around the world who have suffered due to the poor decision making of the current national administration. We NEED to defeat Susan Collins and we NEED a candidate who will stand up and voice what the majority of this country believes in. We believe our representatives should truly represent us and not the donor class. We believe it is long past time to get money out of politics. We believe healthcare is a human right. We believe all hard-working Americans should be able to live a life of dignity. For our children and grandchildren to have promising futures, we must take back our country - starting with replacing Susan Collins.

Evans, Erin

PORTLAND

I have been volunteering for the Grahampaign since last fall. I have phonebanked, collected signatures, hosted events, helped at events, all to defeat Susan Collins. I want to be a delegate to make we nominate a candidate that will win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins, finally . I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously. I believe we need to reclaim our Democracy and I will continue to work tirelessly to do so!

Evans, Julie Dean

PORTLAND

I wish to be a delegate for the Democrats nominating committee because I am reliable, committed to the process of democracy and I am committed to listening to the perspectives of others. I believe in compromise as a tenent of a strong community.

Evans, Peter W

PORTLAND

I have been participating in the Graham Platner campaign by canvassing, door knocking, collecting signatures, hosting events, and talking with people about the need to defeat Susan Collins. I will continue to do this work until we beat Susan Collins.

Ezzio, David

CUMBERLAND

I was born in Yarmouth, and raised in Danforth, Portland, and Connecticut. With experience as a house painter (Connecticut), taxi driver (Chicago), bartender (New Haven and Chicago), communications repairman (U.S. Army, Naples, Italy), and shop owner (Freeport, Maine), I eventually found my living in Maine and put my degrees from Yale and the University of Chicago to good use as a software developer and consultant. For more than thirty years, I worked with teams around the world who were undertaking leading edge software development. We live in a world of rapid change: scientific, technical, and economic. Change creates issues and people requires leadership that confronts the challenges, explains the issues, and is willing to risk failure to achieve success. Nothing is “normal” in Washington today. We need a senator prepared to change the rules of the Senate and to propose amendments to our Constitution to rein in an overbearing Executive branch, reform an extremely conservative judiciary, and rejuvenate a senescent Congress. Graham Platner brought a message to Maine Democrats and many others that resonated. It focused on working class and lower-middle class issues of equity, a living wage, family sustainability, and the apparent abandonment their issues by both political parties. Having attended past Maine Democratic conventions, as well as the most recent where I served as a delegate for Cumberland County, I can help pick a senatorial candidate who resonates with Maine voters and is ready for the heavy lifting required in Washington.

Falero, Jessica

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe the momentum that we built during the senate race wasn't built under one man it was built through us. And it is our responsibility to maintain that momentum and defeat Susan Collins in November. The people of Maine have spoken, it's time for change. And that change starts with people like me who have faced systemic oppression and organized for liberation from it, stepping into the fight to help not only to defeat Susan Collins in November but to maintain the and build on the momentum. Our entire liberation depends on it.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Falk, Anne

PORTLAND

Susan Collins was a Government major in the Class of 1975 at St. Lawrence University, as I was. I have watched Susan's career with interest and ever increasing alarm. I have too many priorities that I believe this country needs to address, starting with mental health. I have been on the state board of directors for the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP), including advocating in DC (with Susan) and Augusta multiple times. I have helped asylum seekers since djt was elected, I work at a local food pantry, was President of Literacy Volunteers in Maine in the 1980s, currently volunteer at and am an active member of OLLI (Osher Lifelong Learning Institute) at USM in Portland and have worked as a Deputy Registrar at voting locations in Portland. At age 73, I am a 40 year taxpayer in Portland & a 50 year tax paying worker, now retired, in the state of Maine, I am living my dream of living in Maine, a dream I'd had since 6th grade. So I may be "from away", but there are many good people in Maine who can't claim ancestry (another huge interest of mine: genealogy)! I am very often the first person in any group of people to hit a political note, trying to solicit other viewpoints. I have often been told that I am easy to converse with, listening well and "hearing " it. I have been with the same Book Club for over 30 years. I believe you could

Fanburg, Jonathan

PORTLAND

I am running to be a delegate for the Special Senate Nominating Meeting because I love Maine, and I want to help pick a leader who truly represents us. I have proudly voted as a Democrat ever since I was old enough to cast a ballot, and my commitment to our party's values is lifelong. Maine has been my home for the past 28 years. My connection to this state started when I went to college at Bowdoin, and my roots here have grown deep ever since. My first job was as a physician for 10 years in Down East Maine. Today, I serve our community as a physician at Maine Medical Center in Portland, where I am the Chief of Young Adult Medicine. Every single day, my mission is looking out for the interests of children and young adults. In my clinic, I see firsthand the real healthcare, school, and economic challenges that the next generation of Mainers face. I want to bring this front-line perspective to the nominating process. Together, we can choose a strong, caring leader who will fight hard for working families, healthy communities, and the future of our youth.

Fannon, Nancy J

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to help select a nominee who will carry forward the platform Maine Democrats chose on June 9, when they nominated Graham Platner with roughly 72% of the primary vote. That result reflected strong support for his policy positions, and I believe the party's replacement nominee should reflect that same platform. I have been an active advocate in Maine politics, working alongside my husband to communicate policy issues to a network of engaged Maine voters. I also served as an election clerk during the June 2026 primary, which gave me direct, hands-on experience with how our elections are run and reinforced my commitment to the process. As a delegate, I would bring both policy knowledge and a demonstrated ability to communicate with and mobilize voters. My goal is to help ensure the convention selects a candidate whose positions align with what Maine Democrats voted for in June, so that the party can carry that support into the general election against Senator Collins. Beyond the convention itself, I am committed to this race long-term. Once a nominee is selected, I intend to volunteer approximately 10 hours per week supporting the campaign, drawing on the same advocacy and organizing experience I would bring as a delegate. I respectfully ask for the opportunity to serve in this role and to help carry forward the priorities Maine Democrats have already expressed at the ballot box.

Farber, Karen L

FALMOUTH

The Senate race against Collins is winnable and it will be accomplished by a strong candidate, who is backed by us—the canvassers, letter writers, phone callers and voters. As a delegate, I will do my best to represent the big tent of Cumberland County Democrats, not just those from my town of Falmouth. From my own campaigns (school board two terms, town council two terms and charter commission), in my role as chair of the Falmouth Democratic Committee and as a volunteer for numerous state legislative campaigns, I know what it is like to knock on a neighbor's or a stranger's door, to call someone you've never met, to speak before a crowd asking for their vote, and to write a public endorsement. I will bring all of this experience, my energy and my optimism to the work needed to select and elect a Maine Democrat to the U.S. Senate, even when the days are long or unpleasant, or the voters are fatigued. If elected as a delegate, I commit to continue researching and learning about the candidates and carefully listening to all Maine Democrats who wish to share their thoughts with me. I will attend the convention, uncommitted, giving each candidate at the convention the thoughtful consideration that is their due, assessing not only their capacity to represent Maine in the Senate but their ability to win this election, now, under these circumstances.

Farmer, David W

PORTLAND

My primary concern is that Cumberland County will have trouble filling all of its delegate slots. As such, I would like to serve as a delegate to ensure our county is represented. I'm a progressive Democrat from Portland who has been involved in Maine politics for nearly 25 years. I have not endorsed in the Democratic nominating contest and have not pledged my support to any candidate. The top priority for me is picking the candidate who is best able to defeat Sen. Susan Collins and who will work to stop the corrupt Trump administration and its dangerous actions.

Farnsworth, Ellen Jane

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong voting democrat and would be honored to be a delegate to nominate the replacement candidate at this final hour to beat Susan Collins. It will take a united front behind chosen candidate, We the people individually need to talk to our friends, neighbors, family, members of organizations we are in to point out how Susan has failed us and need to elect our candidate. We the people can generate the excitement and energy around our shared platform of healthcare for all, childcare, housing, women's rights, education, defunding ICE, safe neighborhoods, livable wage, etc. Facilitate getting folks registered to vote, helping them to navigate vote by mail, early in person, and to the poles.

Farnsworth, Richard Ransom

PORTLAND

1. Served 5 terms as a State Representative. 2. Member of the Cumberland County Committee for many years. 3. Active member of the State DEIB Committee. 4. Active member of the Stroudwater Neighborhood Association to keep up on the local issues.

Faust, Marya

SCARBOROUGH

I am afraid for our country and the loss of democracy. Susan Collins continues to support Donald Trump in his destruction of rights and of programs to support people. I am actively involved in the grassroots process by gathering petition signatures, doing door to door canvassing, phone calling, writing and creating materials, and will continue my active involvement. I am a 77 year old woman who has never been so worried about the direction of our country and will use all my energy to support the Democratic candidate.

Favreau, John

BRUNSWICK

Hi. As the former owner of 14 years of the Eveningstar Cinema in Brunswick I was very active with the peace community during the lead up and initiation of the war in Iraq. I am horrified at the current undeclared illegal war in Iran and will do everything I can to defeat Susan Collin's due to her support and letting it happen. Later in life I worked for the Brunswick School Department and served as the union president for grounds, custodians and bus drivers. My passions lie with anti war and pro hard working class.

Favreau, Tucker

BRUNSWICK

I was briefly a US Senate candidate myself from July of last year through January of this year. Defeating Susan Collins is absolutely paramount to any successful defense and eventual improvement of our democracy. I am committed to doing whatever I can to help. I attended the convention earlier this year as a delegate as well. I view participating in this convention as a continuation of my goals and as one of the best ways I can help defeat current efforts. I hope to offer my support to whoever wins the nomination in this process. Unity is key moving forward.

Youth

Fein, Matthew

BRUNSWICK

There's been incredible momentum to meet this urgent moment in our shared history and it's necessary to put forth a candidate and a movement that responds proactively. As a community member and a Democrat with experience as a progressive state party delegate, in activism, and social work, I feel an imperative to support the person who will hold true in action to a justice orientation, ethical accountability, and truly serve the needs of the people, particularly those most marginalized in our current systems including people of color, Indigenous, LGBTQIA2S+, and the poor.

Feiner, Susan F

YARMOUTH

I believe in democracy. With liberty & justice for all. My father went to jail & lost his college degree over this. McCarthy & Roy Cohen got him. I am a life long Democrat & I am spitting bullets mad angry & furious over the deliberate destruction of our country. My politics are every bit as left progressive as you'll find. I am an ace canvasser. Have knocked at least 20,000 Maine doors and am ready to knock 20,000 more. I am bringing outsized energy to this campaign. Susan Collins is an enemy of the people. We must defeat her. I'm ready to TAKE! HER! DOWN!

Fellows, Cory Richard

SCARBOROUGH

I believe that I am uniquely qualified to serve as a delegate given my extensive experience with consensus-based leadership – both as current Chair of the Scarborough Town Council and as past Planning Board Chair for Scarborough. This is a time of both grave challenges and unique opportunity, and I have a strong desire to help select the Maine Democrats' Senate candidate in a way that maximizes buy-in from all stakeholders and gives us the best chance to defeat Susan Collins in November. As a local leader I have taken pride in working with a diverse array of elected colleagues and residents – maintaining civil dialogue and working toward solutions even when we've disagreed. My day job in nonprofit affordable housing development has given me a profound appreciation for the importance of government policies and programs that empower people to live to their fullest potential. It's also highlighted the human damage done by the callous and reckless policies of the federal administration consistently enabled by Susan Collins. While recent developments in the Senate race have been traumatic, I do not buy into the national media narrative of a state Democratic party that's deflated and in disarray. I view the upcoming convention as an excellent opportunity to reset, and am confident that the nomination process can and will be done in a way that maintains and expands the grassroots energy that has clearly alarmed Collins and her party. I respectfully ask for the opportunity to be part of this critical process.

Ferguson, Nathaniel

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the convention to ensure Democrats select a senate candidate that is committed to the rule of law and that can defeat Susan Collins. It is critical that Democrats take control of the Senate and block lawless nominees from the Trump administration. I will support a Senate candidate who is serious about this fight and represents our best chance to take back the Senate.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Ferrazzuolo, Renee

FREEPORT

When I joined the Marines, I took my oath to support and defend the Constitution seriously, and that remains true to this day. The greatest threat we and our Constitution face today isn't external--it's Trump and the GOP. They are undermining our rule of law, destroying our economy, murdering our neighbors while pardoning predators, dismantling our right to privacy, and sending the message to our youth that being selfish, evil, and stupid pays off. Worst of all, many of the current crop of Democrats in D.C. are facing down this existential threat with little more than hand-wringing in a cowardly, Milquetoast attempt to "take the high road". Being a delegate gives me one more chance to fight for my country by ensuring we get a truly left-wing, progressive candidate that can actually defeat Susan Collins and help get this country back on the path envisioned by FDR, where all Americans have freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want, and freedom from fear. Aiming for anything less is deeply un-American, which is why I pledge to support Troy Jackson as candidate. I believe his platform is the closest to the platform Maine voters chose in our June primary to represent us in the Senate, and his domination of the gubernatorial primary in both the city of Portland and Aroostook County proves that he has broad support from both blue- and white-collar workers and stands the best chance of earning the votes of Republican-leaning independents and moderates also.

Fickett, Amanda Lynn

SOUTH PORTLAND

I believe strongly that the energy behind our former candidate's landslide win in the primary was about far more than one charismatic voice. Mainers are struggling and we deserve a Senate candidate who will carry forward the best of what energized so many people in our state over the past year. We also need a candidate who will unite Maine people and lead us to victory in November. I believe that candidate is Troy Jackson. Troy Jackson understands this race and this movement are so much bigger than one person. This race is about an ongoing genocide in Gaza; it's about 700,000 people around the globe who have died as the result of the dismantlement of USAID; it's about thousands of people denied due process and kidnapped or killed by ICE; it's about an unjust and illegal war in Iran; it's about a captured Supreme Court that continues handing more power to president and the billionaire class. This race is also about the promise of a brighter tomorrow. Troy will support Medicare for All so that no Mainer has to decide whether to keep the lights on or pay for their care. He will fight to unrig our broken system and make things better for everyday Mainers as a strong progressive voice in Washington. We must unite Maine Democrats, defeat Susan Collins, retake control of the Senate, and start building a system that works for the people. I believe Troy Jackson is the candidate who can do that.

Fields, Matthew David

GRAY

This election has me riled up. I am done sitting on the sidelines while our politics continue to devolve. I will do whatever is needed for the party to defeat Susan Collins. I will phonebank, I will write letters, I will canvas. Whatever it takes.

Filipkowski, Ronald

PORTLAND

I am the Editor-in-Chief of Meidas Touch. I have over 3 million social media followers individually. I write a daily column on politics that has over 900,000 subscribers and have been writing about the senate race multiple times a week for a year. We have over 5 million YouTube subscribers. I also have specifically covered Susan Collins and the senate for 6 years.

Fischer, Avital

WINDHAM

As a pediatrician who cares for critically ill children throughout Maine, I have become accustomed to advocating for the needs of my patients and their families - healthcare, equipment, energy bills, transportation, school support, and much more. During the Democratic Senate primary, I was inspired to see Mainers fight back against many of the same insurance companies, disengaged politicians, limited government agencies, and corporate interests that stand between my patients and the best care possible. I have directly witnessed what Susan Collins has cost Mainers - Medicaid cuts that have destroyed health insurance coverage, the closing of rural hospitals, and spiking health insurance costs. Collins makes the case that her handful of earmarks justify her powerful position. Through my role as a pediatrician I am uniquely positioned to make the case that Collins' cuts have cost Mainers far more than her earmarks have brought them. Eleven years as a practicing physician in three different states have shown me that a universal, single-payer system is the most practical path forward to meet our country's healthcare needs. Mainers' enthusiasm for Medicare-for-All has mobilized me to fight publicly for this transformation. During and after this election, I intend to provide a voice within the Democratic Party to push for universal coverage and a functional healthcare system that meets people's needs. I believe that embracing this movement will allow Maine's Democratic Party to absorb the energy of the moment and win support across our unique and resilient state.

Fischer, Carlie

PORTLAND

I'm a licensed master social worker and the Public Policy Director for a statewide nonprofit. I believe the role of a delegate is to carry out the will of the people they represent, and if we're going to defeat Susan Collins in November, we need Democratic voters to feel like they're being heard. The biggest mistake the party could make right now is deciding on behalf of constituents, because widespread feelings of disappointment and disenfranchisement will take years and several election cycles to overcome. If I'm chosen to be a delegate, I'll be looking for candidates who are committed to a progressive platform that's similar to Platner's, because Mainers clearly have an appetite for change. We also have an opportunity to vote in a nominee that addresses some of the concerns voters raised about Platner, like choosing someone with a demonstrated ability to pass strong policy and a track record of prioritizing the perspectives of women. Those are the three qualities that I would be evaluating candidates on if I'm selected to be a delegate. They're aligned with what I'm looking for in a candidate, but if my values or preferences ever come into conflict with what Maine Democrats are clearly asking for, I believe it would be my responsibility to put the will of the people first. On a personal note, I'm pregnant with a future voter and I care deeply about leaving behind a country that will allow them to grow and thrive. I know it's within reach.

Fishbein, Daniel

CAPE ELIZABETH

Please replace my prior statement with this amended statement: In order to win in November, we need a candidate who can unite us across a broad cross-section of views, including progressive and moderate Democrats, independents and some Republicans. I will support candidates who can meet this challenge and unite us. I also will support candidates who are well-qualified for and worthy of the office. As someone who in the past was a Maine independent, and has now been a registered Maine Democrat for many years, I believe I am well-qualified to represent this uniting point-of-view. Once we have such a nominee, I plan to support that candidate with both my time and expertise. As someone who has served for many years on the Board of one of Maine's largest non-profit organizations dedicated to those with behavioral health needs, I have seen first-hand how federal funding supports critical health care needs in our state, and how shortfalls in those funds can devastate communities in need. I will apply that experience and expertise to help our candidate in particular with advocating for better health coverage and funding for Maine, including for those with significant behavioral health needs and related disabilities. We are fortunate to have several excellent candidates to choose from in this process, and I look forward to being part of the process to help choose the one with the best chance to win in November.

Fitz, David

CUMBERLAND

As a retired physician, I am adamantly in favor of Medicare for all, and have been in favor of this for 30 years. I am absolutely opposed to Susan Collins' fake middle-of-the-road appearance, when she votes almost straight line republican/pro-Trump agenda, and against health care reforms. She has voted against her party only when she was allowed by Mitch McConnell, and Trump has never ever come after her with those votes, confirming his knowledge of an "allowed vote against him." A real insult: Susan Collins by chance used my second son, then 8 years old in a campaign ad when she first ran on a platform of term limits. I feel that it is of utmost importance to defeat Collins in this upcoming election, and will do what it takes to defeat her. I am also a director of the Maine Gun Safety Coalition, and in favor of blocking everything Trump attempts regarding his undoing of sensible gun safety measures. We must win this.

Fitz, Helen D Dickey

CUMBERLAND

The direction that the leadership of the country has taken is unacceptable to me. I was raised and educated to believe that leaders should represent the best of our country. I feel that I can represent my community with an open mind and with respect for all citizens. There was a time that I voted for Susan Collins when I felt that she considered all Mainers as she voted. Over the last 5 years, I've lost confidence in her and find that my priorities do not align with hers. I will go door to door, hold small group gatherings and write to her to let her know that She's had her chance and it's time to step aside. I would like to help organize small gatherings to take steps needed to address spreading the word about a stronger base for the Democratic Party. Being a delegate would be an honor.

Flaherty, Sean Peter

SCARBOROUGH

Jerry Garcia, a favorite philosopher, said, "Ain't no time to hate, barely time to wait," Clearly, we must avoid the same old establishment mistakes, Keeping true to the voices of the primary voters, Strong, bold, progressive leaders are needed, Open, transparent, and public participation is the minimum expectation, No matter what, we need to take back Maine's Senate seat for the people! My passion for progressive causes began here in Maine before I could vote in 2002: volunteering for Chellie Pingree's campaign (against Susan Collins!) by registering voters with the Maine Peoples Alliance. When I was eligible to vote, I became a delegate for Howard Dean, Barack Obama, and later, Bernie Sanders. When I was just 23, my neighbors elected me to serve as State Representative. I went on to Maine Law and worked as an attorney, but never ceased being active in our community. I am an environmental advocate who deeply cares about preserving our state and supporting access to our public lands. Everyday people haven't gotten a fair shake; we need a Senator who understands that in their bones. I'm asking for your support to help nominate a strong, progressive, populist vision to win this election. We need to ensure that our nominee is a champion for working people when they get to the US Senate. My first choice is Troy Jackson, and anyone will be better than Susan. ICE OUT - COLLINS OUT

Fleming, Lora

PORTLAND

I am a retired academic expert in public health and environmental health. I have been so enthused by the Governor race but distressed that all the excellent democratic candidates were running for Governor not Senator. And i am constantly dismayed by our current Senator, Susan Collins. I have been inspired by the campaign and approach of Dr Nirav Shah and for the first time in my life, i would like to volunteer to be a delegate in the Democratic special Nominating Committee. Regardless I will work for any democratic candidate who can defeat Senator Collins -- we need a US Congress that is truly democratic and representational and a Senate that stands up for the rights of all Americans.

Floyd, Tracy

CAPE ELIZABETH

The opportunity to become a delegate is a once-in-a-generation chance to shift Maine's Senatorial leadership. As a delegate, my priorities would be: • Unify Our Movement: Build a powerful, united coalition that rallies behind our chosen Democratic nominee. • Drive the Ground Game: Energize our communities by launching vital grassroots campaigns, knocking doors, and hosting local gatherings. • Bridge the Political Divide: Listen deeply to Democrats, Republicans, and Independents to build a broader, stronger coalition. • Amplify Real Hardships: Champion the urgent needs of rural Mainers struggling with housing costs, long commutes, and healthcare gaps. • Deliver Modern Infrastructure: Fight for solutions like affordable electric grid infrastructure to spark new business startups and create local jobs. • Shape Maine's New Story: Turn real constituent experiences into a powerful narrative that shows how Maine moves forward together.

Fochesato, Melissa Farrington

BRUNSWICK

(This may be a duplicate application, as I applied before the form changed - but unsure if those were accepted!) I would like to be a delegate to help choose a candidate who will honor the progressive platform that inspired so many Mainers. Who can excite Mainers who had never voted in a primary, never considered a Democrat, never volunteered for a candidate before Platner ran. Mainers like my young adult children and DownEast relatives telling me the progressive message makes sense to them. Once a candidate is chosen, I will continue dedicating time and money to defeat Collins, through my role as Brunswick Dems Chair and by volunteering, encouraging others to volunteer, and using my community mobilizing skills to continue the important grass roots momentum to turn out the vote. I am proud of the party for organizing a caucus so quickly, and am hoping this can reignite the statewide excitement and passion that will launch a successful candidate. I would be honored to be a part of the process, but would also be excited to see Cumberland County choose a diverse delegation that includes party veterans as well as new faces, even if that delegation did not include me! Good luck!

Foley, Shamus

PORTLAND

I'd be a good Maine delegate to choose a replacement for Graham Platner because I'm an open-minded, everyday Mainer. I live the same life most Mainers do - balancing work, family, and community without a political career behind me. That keeps me grounded. I'm not tied to special interests. I listen first, ask questions, and judge people by their character and ideas, not by labels. Maine needs someone who can represent the voters. I grew up here, I talk to fishermen, teachers, nurses, and small business owners every week. When picking a replacement, I'd look for someone practical, honest, and focused on what actually helps us: affordable living, good jobs, and protecting the Maine way of life. You'll get a regular person willing to weigh every candidate fairly, show up, do the work, and vote for what's best for all of us, not just some of us.

Follansbee, Fred G

SCARBOROUGH

A former HS History teacher, champion of the YMCA Maine Youth in Government organization, and current business owner, I believe the most important outcome of this election is to neuter Trump's executive power with Democratic control of Congress. I am a centrist Democrat who seeks to restore consensus in national and state politics, and I believe it is important to have a diversity of life experiences and viewpoints in order to nominate the best-positioned candidate to defeat Susan Collins in November. While I am not active in a local Democratic committee, I am an active member of my community's schools and land trust, and I plan to attend rallies, hang signs, make phone calls, and speak with voters of all stripes in the run-up to November's election just as I did in President Biden's successful 2020 campaign against Trump's re-election campaign.

Foote, Ryan Paul

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because Maine voters deserve a nominee who will fight for working people, challenge concentrated corporate power, and recognize that returning to politics as usual is not enough. The grassroots enthusiasm behind this campaign demonstrated that many Mainers are ready for meaningful change, not simply a different name representing the same cautious establishment politics. I will evaluate the candidates based on their records, independence, integrity, and willingness to support ambitious solutions to the challenges facing Maine and the nation. That includes making health care affordable and accessible, protecting Social Security and Medicare, strengthening workers' rights, addressing housing costs, defending reproductive freedom and civil rights, and confronting the influence of corporations and wealthy donors in our political system. After the convention, I will support the nominee by volunteering, talking directly with voters, sharing accurate information, encouraging small-dollar donations, and helping with voter registration and turnout. Defeating Susan Collins will require more than appealing to reliable Democrats. We need a candidate and campaign capable of reaching independents, younger voters, working-class communities, and Mainers who have stopped believing that government represents them. I also want to help ensure that the grassroots momentum built during this election does not disappear after November. Our party should continue organizing locally, listening to communities throughout the state, developing new leaders, and giving ordinary Mainers a meaningful voice in its direction.

Forest, Joshua

CUMBERLAND

I am a progressive, and we need progressives in this process as we the Mainers selected a progressive candidate. Anything less is a slap in the face to the choice we made

Forte, Katharine

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate because I will do anything to defeat Susan Collins. In the past I have been more of an observer, following closely and "trusting the process". I don't trust the process anymore. My disappointment and disdain has moved me to be more active. I will do whatever I can to support my Democratic candidate.

Forthofer, Catherine

PORTLAND

If a movement cannot survive without its leader, then it was never a movement – it was a cult. I believe that Graham Platner was a terrible choice as a figurehead, but I also believe deeply in the movement that gained traction behind him. Between now and November, my goal is to reach as many voters as possible and talk with them about why this progressive movement is still so important, and how they can most effectively shift their efforts from bolstering Platner specifically to beating Collins in November, regardless of the actual candidate. I was a staffer on Elizabeth Warren's presidential campaign in 2019-2020 and have a comprehensive understanding of the importance and methodology of relational organizing.

Fortier-Brown, Adam Arthur

PORTLAND

I'm running because Maine needs leadership that actually reflects where our state is today. As a young Mainer, I think we need a nominee who will fight to bring down costs for working people, make healthcare and housing more affordable, reform of a system that too often serves entrenched interests instead of Mainers, fight corruption, and carry forward the genuine grassroots energy of this cycle without the personal liabilities that have put this seat at risk. We can win in November if we choose a candidate voters can fully trust and rally behind. For twelve years I've worked to elect Democrats up and down the ballot here in Maine, including multiple Congressional and gubernatorial campaigns, and several state legislative races across the state. In that time, I've helped candidates win swing districts by double-digit margins. I want to bring that same organizing experience to select a winning candidate at our party Nominating Convention as a delegate from Cumberland County. If selected, I'll do what I've done in past cycles: organize local events and canvasses to drive turnout and reach into communities across the county and state - young voters, union halls, rural towns, and areas that don't always feel courted by Democrats - to build the broad coalition this race requires to win. I'd be honored to help select our nominee and to put my experience to work electing a Democratic Senator this fall.

Youth

Foster, Robert C

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am applying to be a delegate to the Maine State Democratic Convention on July 25, 2026. I am a lifelong Democrat, who voted for the first time for Senator George McGovern in 1972. I have voted in every presidential, mid-term, and every local and state election since then. As a career social worker and college instructor, I have a lifetime of advocacy for and participation in progressive policies and campaigns. I would like to continue that advocacy and participation at the Democratic Convention and beyond. Like many Maine Democrats, I have been excited and energized by the campaigns to defeat Susan Collins this election cycle. I would approach the Convention with a determination to nominate the candidate whom I judge is best able to harness and carry this energy through November, and ultimately defeat Collins. Beyond the Convention, I will dedicate myself to helping in any way I can to bring our nominee to victory. This would include participation in GOTV efforts, letter writing campaigns, phone banks, etc. Thank you for considering my application. Robert C. Foster

Fournier, April Dawn

PORTLAND

I want to ensure we have representation from many communities historically left out. I want to ensure we are hearing and representing all voices from my county. I want to ensure that the work that was done to attract more than 150k people to show up for the primary is represented in the candidate we choose. I am currently running for the Maine House to protect our state from the likes of Susan Collins. My day job is grassroots organizing around the country so I have the skills and knowledge to get people engaged, educated and moved to action.

BIPOC

Fournier, Casey

BRUNSWICK

I am passionate about protecting and strengthening the systems and ideals that make America special. I would like to be a delegate to push back against the erosion of the rule of law, which Collins' actions have helped perpetuate. As a delegate, I would work to ensure that all Maine democrats are represented in the party's future.

Youth

Fournier, Stephen

NORTH YARMOUTH

I have been a registered Democrat here for 40 years and want to stabilize and grow the Party for the future. As a small business owner and combat disabled veteran I can help the fight against Susan Collins with strengths people can relate to. The grassroots campaign and platform that Platner presented can make whichever candidate we choose stronger and build a party which will take our nation off the disastrous road it has been placed on and be a model for the rest of the country to emulate for the good of our people and the respect of our friends and allies across the world.

Disability

Fowler, Anne C

PORTLAND

I am an ardent supporter of Dr Shah and hope to see him elected to the US Senate. He has more than the qualifications needed as well as a stellar character and lovely personality.

Fowler, Timothy

PORTLAND

I backed Platner because he seemed to be a candidate of change. Troy Jackson is the best person to make the change I want to see in Washington. He knows the struggle of working and needing to make ends meet. I will volunteer on his campaign and work with grassroots orgs to help beat Susan Collins.

Immigrant/New Mainer, Disability, Youth

Fox, Brad

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'm running to serve as a delegate because this moment calls for judgment, not panic. I've spent decades making that kind of call: as a Vietnam-era conscientious objector and anti-war organizer in 1968-1970s, as principal of Solano County's Court and Community Schools serving justice-involved youth, and as a South Portland City Councilor weighing real tradeoffs for real neighbors. Today I'm a retired educator substitute teaching at South Portland and Cape Elizabeth High Schools, and a West End neighborhood organizer who has spent years holding my own landlord accountable — documenting mold and safety hazards at Brick Hill Townhouses until management fixed them. That's the instinct I'll bring to vetting our nominee: accountability first, and no illusions about what working families in this district need. To help defeat Susan Collins, I'll put my West End and South Portland networks to work immediately — canvassing, phone banking, and recruiting volunteers who know this community and trust me. I've organized block by block since I was 19. To keep building our grassroots momentum, I'll bring the same discipline I used facilitating PBS Frontline's "School Colors" and running a school for justice-involved youth: listen first, document what's broken, and follow through until it's fixed. Maine Democrats don't need more speeches. We need delegates who know how to do the work, and I'd be honored to be one of them.

Disability

Fox, Maria

PORTLAND

I would be thrilled to serve as a delegate for the Maine Democratic Party to select the next U.S. Senator. I am an employment lawyer and mediator of labor and employment law disputes in Portland. I have represented and been a voice for workers and employee rights for more than 25 years. I also represent small businesses. Additionally, I am proud to be the Chair of the Paid Family and Medical Leave Authority -- a 15-member board overseeing the implementation of this new monumental law. The seat that I hold is to be a voice for employees. Throughout my career, I have listened to countless Mainers who are dealing with a myriad of workplace issues, including sexual and racial harassment, unlawful discrimination, job loss, and non-payment of wages. I have also worked closely with many small business owners who are trying to make a living while providing products, services and good jobs for other Mainers. I am a long time Democrat but have no political ties and none of the candidates are backing me to become a delegate. My 22-year old daughter with a tremendous conscience pressed me to put my hand up to serve our State in this way. My values are aligned with that of true progressives. If selected, I plan to listen closely to Mainers and cast my vote based on the best available evidence so we can nominate a true progressive and who is most likely to defeat Susan Collins in November.

Fraioli, Olivia

PORTLAND

I would like to serve on the nomination committee because I am looking for a new way to take direct action in our increasingly frustrating political system. The rise and fall of Graham Platners campaign was disappointing for so many reasons, but a large one (other than the obvious unacceptable behaviors) was what seems to be a clear lack of momentum for a democratic candidate to beat the stalwart that is Susan Collins in our state. Platner attracted such a wide audience and as the country and the world keeps looking at our state I want to be a part of the process that moves our party, and hopefully our state & country forward with a progressive, WINNABLE candidate. It would be an honor to serve and try and do all that I can to work within our party to put forth the best person we think can get Susan out of office during this unprecedented time. Additionally, I am a professional and personal advocate for the intellectual disability community here in Maine and across the country and it would be an enormous honor to try and be an ally for this community and the issues that impact them personally as we seek to find the best candidate in this process. Thank you for considering me.

Franklin, Elizabeth

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

I'm running to serve as an Uncommitted delegate from Cumberland to the Democratic Convention. For over two decades, I have worked at electing Democrats at the town level in Falmouth, my former hometown, carefully vetting local candidates for town council and school board. I served as Treasurer of the Falmouth Democrats from 2007 until this spring, working with others in leadership to build the local party infrastructure and turn a previously red town blue. I served on the Falmouth School Board from 2005 to 2011, including as Chair in 2010–2011, where I learned the importance of listening carefully, working collaboratively, and making decisions grounded in the public good. I coordinated volunteer canvassing drivers for former Sen. Cathy Breen, Sen. Teresa Pierce, and Rep. Amy Kuhn. I am steeped in the business of electing Democrats at the national, state and local level. I am a strong advocate for single-payer health care in Maine. During nine years on the Board of Directors of Maine AllCare, I worked with others who believe that access to health care should be treated as a right, not a privilege. That commitment to a practical values-driven change in our system of healthcare delivery is central to why I am running to be a delegate. Once a nominee is selected, I will work as a volunteer—and in any coordinating capacity where I can be useful—to do the groundwork needed to win hearts and minds, turn out voters, and elect our nominee to the U.S. Senate.

Freeman, Aileen Catherine

BRUNSWICK

I am interested in serving as a delegate at the upcoming Democratic Convention to select a nominee to replace Graham Platner in the race against Susan Collins. I have been a registered Democrat since I became a naturalized citizen of the USA over thirty years ago. I always vote, and I have voted for Democratic candidates in every election. Since moving to Maine nearly nine years ago, I have supported Democratic candidates for office at the local, state, and national levels. I attended the March 1 Cumberland County Democratic Caucus in Brunswick this year, and the Democratic Convention in May, and I'd be honored to serve the party and my fellow Mainers as a delegate at this important time in our political life. I am committed to helping the party choose a nominee who embodies integrity, intelligence, creativity, commitment, and respect; one who will advance progressive democratic ideals here in Maine and nationally. We need a nominee who will work with the state party and at the national level to oppose Trump's and the Republican Party's tyranny and stand up for truth, justice, economic security, and the safety of Mainers and all Americans. I will support the nominee financially and as a volunteer in the race to replace Susan Collins with a Senator who truly honors and serves our state and our nation by defending our democracy, the US Constitution, and our human rights.

Freund, Daniel

FREEPORT

I am seeking a role in this special caucus because I believe the moment demands delegates who bring both judgment and genuine commitment to the process. Our task—selecting a candidate to defeat Susan Collins after the loss of our Senate nominee—is a very serious responsibility. That commitment is not new for me. I have voted in every election since becoming eligible 54 years ago, and my political engagement began even earlier, in boyhood, when my mother brought me to an anti-war demonstration while my father served overseas in Southeast Asia as a sergeant in the USAF. In the 1970s, I was active in Portland, Maine politics and served as a Democratic caucus delegate in a presidential election. More recently, I have worked on local issues in Freeport. I have also shown that my convictions carry real weight. I was arrested at a nonviolent demonstration in Seabrook, New Hampshire, protesting the construction of the nuclear plant there. Though this did not sit well with my colleagues in Carpenters Union Local 517, I felt it was my duty to obey my conscience—and I have never regretted acting on principle when it mattered. That same seriousness is what I would bring to this caucus. I have experience participating constructively in discussions that weigh the attributes, experience, and political acumen of competing candidates. We are fortunate to have both ample willing delegates and a strong field. The most important outcome is unifying behind the candidate best positioned to win.

Fromuth, Peter J

YARMOUTH

I will support Dr. Shah as our nominee for Senate. By experience, skills, temperament, relatability, trust, and knowledge of how to influence the federal government in ways that have advanced, and will continue to further the well-being of Mainers, he is the best qualified to represent us in Washington and to beat Susan Collins.

Fuchs, Adam

FALMOUTH

I should be a delegate because I am fully committed to replacing Senator Collins with a Democrat that will work for the people of Maine. Mainers need a representative that will fight for affordable healthcare for all , affordable housing opportunities , manageable energy costs, and not line their pockets at the public's expense. We need someone to protect our citizens from predatory government policies and fight against ICE terrorizing our neighbors. We don't need Washington outsiders to dictate who should represent Maine and that is why I want to speak for my fellow Cumberland County neighbors in choosing a candidate we can believe in to defeat Susan Collins in November. Clever like a fox, Fuchs for Delegate!

Fulcher, Caroline

BRUNSWICK

I am interested in having our U.S. senator reflect the momentum towards governance in the interest of the working people of maine. We have such an incredibly beautiful state, but Maine year-round depends on its working population to have not only be beautiful but livable for the people that call it home. I feel that supporting Troy Jackson, will help him stand up for the everyday Mainer. To keep Maine livable, and to give the people of Maine the opportunity to pursuit they lives "the way life should be".

Youth

Fuller, Abigail Anne

PORTLAND

Fuller, Spencer C

FREEPORT

I'd like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe local, grassroots engagement is what wins elections — and I want to be part of shaping our party's direction at this critical moment. My plan to help defeat Susan Collins in November centers on working locally to energize our Democratic base. That means staying engaged with our community, showing up consistently, and doing the groundwork needed to help ensure maximum turnout among our supporters when it counts most. Elections like this are won on the margins, and strong local turnout can make all the difference. To help our party continue building on the grassroots momentum we've established, I plan to stay active in local organizing and keep the issues that matter to our community front and center in the public conversation. Sustained visibility and consistent local presence are what keep momentum alive between election cycles — not just during the final push. As a delegate, I'd bring that same commitment to the convention: representing the priorities of our local base, advocating for the work being done on the ground, and helping ensure our party's direction reflects the energy and concerns of the grassroots members who will ultimately drive us to victory in November.

Fulmer, Amanda

BRUNSWICK

It would be a great honor for me to participate as a delegate in this historic convention. I have lived and breathed politics and activism since childhood, and like so many have been greatly distressed over the past decade over developments in national politics. The unprecedented opportunity we suddenly have to shape the political course not just for the state but also for the country and indeed the entire world has inspired me, and I would be so grateful to take an active role in making the most of this moment. From raising money to save the rainforest in elementary school to earning a PhD in Political Science, I have dedicated my life to making the world a better place through political action. Professionally, I teach college courses on law, politics, and human rights. As an activist, I am a committed member of Indivisible. Personally, I am mom to two young boys, who recently had to learn the meaning of the word “rape” from the news. I believe I would bring to the convention a perspective that bridges the radical and moderate wings of the party. I also bring experience as an international observer at community consultations, a grass-roots type of voting. I am committed to taking back the Senate. I will volunteer as I have previously to speak to college classes about why young people should vote. I will serve as a peace-keeping marshal at demonstrations. I will donate to campaigns, ring doorbells, and phonebank. Dirigo!

Gagnon, Suzanne

PORTLAND

This is an opportunity to do my civic duty in our democratic process to nominate a candidate for senate. This is very important at this time in history.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Underrepresented Religion

Gaines, Benjamin

BRUNSWICK

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee. I am an attorney with a Maine civil legal aid and economic justice organization that serves low-income clients facing varied public benefits and housing challenges. I've witnessed first hand many of the ways that the Trump administration has attacked our most vulnerable neighbors. Previously, I maintained a solo legal practice that advised and represented interest groups, tenants unions, and ballot measure campaigns working on issues like gun control, public power, voting rights, campaign finance reform, and rent control. I also represented a small group of former Maine lawmakers in a challenge to disqualify Donald Trump from Maine's presidential ballot. I serve on the Brunswick Housing Committee, and on the board of directors of the Maine League of Women Voters. It should go without saying that I am speaking solely for myself, and the views that I am expressing do not represent those of my employer, former clients, or anyone else. I want to make sure that we nominate a strong progressive candidate who will stand up for working people, low-income Mainers, and the most vulnerable among us, who will also stand strong against the Trump administration, and will help lead the way to a more progressive, compassionate government once we emerge from these dark times. While there are several good progressive candidates seeking the nomination I believe Troy best embodies what I am looking for in a candidate to take on Susan Collins.

Gale, Jon Christopher

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Dem and am dedicated to promoting the core values of our party. Our effort in attaining victory over Susan Collins will require a communal effort, and I will be a part of that effort regardless of who we ultimately select as our candidate. Serving as a delegate in this Nominating Convention would be a privilege and an honor. I have experience volunteering on campaigns in Maine, starting with getting out the vote on election day when I was in college in 1988 to helping organize and execute campaign events for Tom Allen in his campaign for Governor in 1994 to most recently putting out signs, knocking on doors and attending a caucus on behalf of a District Attorney candidate leading up to this most recent primary. I am confident that this experience can be helpful in making our case to the people of Maine leading up to the election.

Gallant, Susan M

BRUNSWICK

I'm motivated to do my part to revive our democracy. I'm mostly retired, but have spent my career working with organizations, groups, and individuals to change systems toward more democratic and inclusive organizations. Our democratic systems are broken. I want a candidate that is capable of complex thinking and can hold multiple truths at once while taking actions toward shared outcomes. A leader who can "see systems" and structures that drive behaviors, and create and execute actions to change them. Then assessing the actions, learning, and making adaptations.

Gallegos, Kathleen

PORTLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Gallivan, Cheyenne

BRUNSWICK

I am running as a Troy Jackson delegate because he is the working class champion we need. Troy gives us the best shot at defeating Susan Collins. The data shows Troy is the strongest general election candidate: an independent PPP poll shows him besting her by a 5-point margin (49 to 44), while every other candidate is, at best, tied.

Gallivan, Stephen

BRUNSWICK

Troy Jackson is the best person to defeat Susan Collins and I will do everything I can do make sure my voice as a Mainer is heard.

Gangewer, Thomas

PORTLAND

It is important to me that this nominating convention is fair, and that the Maine Democratic Party does not try to sway the outcome. I'm still sad that Graham won't be our candidate, but I appreciate the seven individuals who have stepped up to replace him, and I understand that it's time to move forward and defeat Susan Collins. I am not a political activist; I'm just a normal person like most of the 150,000 people who voted for Graham in the Senate primary. You won't find me canvassing neighborhoods on the weekend or making political phone calls during your dinner time because I don't believe in bothering people in that manner. I try to make positive changes by how I live. I've voted in every general election and most primaries for the past 50 years. I refuse to shop on Amazon or subscribe to Prime because Bezos is a Trump lackey. In January 2025, I deleted my Facebook and Instagram profiles because Zuckerberg is a Trump lackey; I drive an electric car that was subsidized by the federal government and State of Maine, and I burn pellets instead of fossil fuel. I don't expect to be selected as a delegate, but I hope that those selected are a diverse group that believes in country over Party and who understand the importance of preserving the environment, taxing the oligarchs, and keeping big money and corporations out of politics.

Ganter, Jessica

RAYMOND

I was raised in a Christian household that believed that the inky appropriate vote was for a Republican. After college and seeing more of the world I determined that there was more to consider than that. I am honored to vote for the best interests of my neighbors and my country.

Gardiner, Brendan

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe the Democratic nominee should be chosen by engaged people who care about Maine and our future. I will listen to each candidate, consider their vision, and support the person best prepared to win in November and represent Democratic values. To help defeat Susan Collins, I plan to volunteer, talk with voters, encourage people to vote, attend campaign events, and use my own network to help increase turnout. Elections are won one conversation at a time. I also want to help build our grassroots movement by welcoming new volunteers, encouraging young people to get involved, and supporting local Democratic efforts long after Election Day. I would be honored to represent my community and help nominate a strong candidate who can move Maine forward.

Garrett, Patrick Ryan

BRUNSWICK

I work as a care-coordinator/ case manager for a non-profit mental health and substance use clinic that covers Cumberland county, I attend HUB 2 (Cumberland) homelessness multi-agency meetings, I am part of the bath Brunswick resource coalition with catholic charities and united way. I also work with other local agencies to provide assistance to the people of Cumberland county. In my spare time I am a highly regarded foster parent who works close with the department. I am well aware of my communities needs and would provide a voice for my community as an advocate at this convention...

Youth

Garvin, James McKinley

CAPE ELIZABETH

This is a unique moment in our history, and I don't want to be a spectator. I want to be someone who gets off the sidelines to meet the moment. I'm running to serve as a delegate because our party can turn these unforeseen circumstances into an opportunity we seize, by selecting a new candidate who can lead us forward into the fall election and give Mainers a real alternative to Susan Collins. I bring practical experience to this work. I've served two terms as a town councilor, so I understand what it takes to build coalitions, listen to constituents, and turn energy into results at the ballot box. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I plan to focus on persuading voters who just like me once believed that Susan Collins was a good representative for our state, but see that is no longer the case and are frustrated and disappointed to the point of demanding change. Some critics say there isn't enough time to pull off a new nominating process. That's ridiculous. Our endless campaign cycles are unique to American politics. Most western democracies run entire national elections in weeks, not months or years. We can do this.

Gavin, Amanda

SOUTH PORTLAND

My name is Amanda Gavin. I am an aquatic ecologist focused on protecting rivers and lakes. I live in South Portland with my wife and am a proud union member. As a member of the Democratic Party, I have worked on campaigns for candidates that understand protecting our environment and dignity for workers are essential for Maine's future. I have also been a dedicated volunteer for reproductive justice work in Maine for 10 years. I was a strong supporter of Troy Jackson's gubernatorial campaign because he is a progressive candidate with deep ties to the rural Maine communities that we need to build a strong Democratic party. I will support whoever is the Democratic nominee, but I believe Troy is in the strongest position to finally beat Susan Collins.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Gedat, Roy G

NAPLES

I have a long history of activism and dedication to the Maine Democratic party. This includes over 10 years on the State Committee, held leadership positions with the Oxford County Democrats, running for office and being elected County Treasurer (Oxford County) and working for the House Caucus in two election cycles. I pledge to volunteer, contribute and support whoever is chosen as the party's nominee. I currently am a supporter of Troy Jackson for US Senate.

Gehrke, Magnus

FALMOUTH

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to help strengthen youth representation and engagement within the Maine democratic party while meaningfully uniting voters against Susan Collins this November. As a student at Brown University, I have had the opportunity to engage with students from across the country and around the world. A recurring theme is that young people are eager for leaders that they can trust and feel represented by in congress. As a delegate, I hope to bring the perspectives of young Mainers into the nominating process, supporting the candidate that I believe can resonate most with young voters across the state. Beyond serving as a delegate, I am committed to ensuring continued engagement to secure a win in November. I plan to canvass, engage in meaningful conversations with Maine voters, and recruit fellow student to do the same. Building a strong grassroots movement requires bringing together as many voices as possible. My personal experiences have helped shape the values I will bring to this role. As an aspiring physician, an LGBTQ+ individual, and someone who recently experienced a school shooting, I care deeply about protecting science and human rights, advancing gun safety measures, and protecting the rights of immigrants. These key issues will stay in the forefront of my mind as I select a candidate.??It would be an honor to serve as a delegate in order to engage young voters to win this November's election.

Gendron, Samantha

SOUTH PORTLAND

I love being from Maine and would be honored to represent the people of the state. I think its incredibly important that we continue the progressive movement that Maine Democrats voted for in record numbers. I promise to continue to yell “fuck you susan” anytime I see anything concerning her. I will encourage everyone I know to vote against her and “talk politics “ every chance I get.

LGBTQIA+

Gerding, Molly

FALMOUTH

I want to serve as a delegate to play a role in defeating Susan Collins and electing a progressive candidate. Collins became Senator twelve years before I was born, and I am now an adult of voting age. Especially recently, she has shown a consistent inability to stand up to Trump, depart from mainstream Republican policies, and respond to the voices of citizens like me demanding better. My friends and I recently graduated high school and are embarking into the world in this time of unaffordable housing and higher education, a lack of entry-level jobs, and the world-changing rise of AI. I, like many others, was pulled into Graham Platner’s movement as someone fed up with longstanding career politicians who misunderstand the experiences of regular people trying to make it in the world today, and I was deeply disappointed when Platner turned out to not be the person we thought he was. However, I recognize the momentum wasn’t about him but rather came from the widespread sentiment that our voices as citizens should matter. I hope and believe we can transfer this momentum onto a new candidate who similarly respects our views without all the controversy. I have phone-banked, contacted politicians, voted, and had conversations with people in my life to build support for progressive candidates and policies, and I will continue this in the future. I also hope to be a delegate to the Nomination Convention and plan on supporting Troy Jackson.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Geren, Catherine

WESTBROOK

When I retired from teaching, I began working for the City of Westbrook as an absentee election registrar. I have attended caucuses as well as working 46 elections (included in this number are primaries, State, and local elections. As an educator I have had the privilege of attending State and National conventions and trainings. Dr Nirav Shah has everything needed to be a successful candidate, ending Susan Collins reign as a career Senator. He has experience, drive, and commitment to Maine and her people. I look forward to his prosecution of Senator Collins in November

Gerry, Debra Ann

SCARBOROUGH

I am passionate about politics and even more passionate about defeating Susan Collins. During the 2024 election cycle, I volunteered for the ME Democrats by calling voters and urging them to vote for Kamala Harris and other Democratic candidates. I was also a poll watcher on Election Day in Buxton. I plan to do both again this year. When I lived in Saco, I ran for and was elected as an Election Warden and served until I moved to Scarborough. I want to see a candidate who can relate to Platner supporters.

Gibson, Catherine A

ORRS ISLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat and I've served in various capacities over the years. I want this to be a thoughtful, careful process. I was dismayed by the cult of personality that so quickly developed around the former candidate. My intention is to promote discretion, integrity, and kindness while accomplishing this very difficult task in a short time.

Gikas, Valerie Joleen

PORTLAND

I was one of the over 150k Mainers who voted for a progressive grassroots movement calling for an end to billionaire-controlled politics and a shift to policies that support working class Mainers. The voices of those people need to be heard during this unprecedented time. I believe that the delegates that are chosen to serve at the Nominating Convention MUST represent the overwhelming majority that voted for this movement by voting for a candidate that is not only representative of that same movement, but has a legitimate chance at unseating Susan Collins. If I am chosen as a delegate I will represent these wishes of the people in my community. Ultimately I will vote for whichever candidate is nominated because Collins HAS GOT TO GO and I will do everything in my power to ensure that she does not win in November. I am a lifelong working-class Mainer. I am a millennial woman currently working as a Direct Support Professional supporting people with disabilities in their communities and homes. I am passionately in support of protecting our immigrant communities, abolishing ICE, ending the genocide in Palestine, protecting reproductive rights, protecting LGBTQ+ rights, and fighting the oligarchy. I will only support a candidate who represents these interests and is prepared to fight for working-class Mainers.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Gill, Nicholas Robert

SCARBOROUGH

Our state and country is at a pivotal crossroads. As a LGBT lifelong Mainer I recognize the role our state plays in turning the tides with the midterm election. Additionally, the moment for our state is now, I want to be part of presenting the next senator for the pine tree state, my home state.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Gips, Robert L

CAPE ELIZABETH

I ask for your support as a delegate to help select a candidate who can lead the fight to rebuild a democracy that sustains a real progressive majority and delivers the fundamental changes we need. I've spent over 40 years building grassroots Democratic power in Maine. I co-founded and co-chaired Maine's Obama for President fundraising committee in 2007-08 and served on its steering committee in 2011-12. I've worked for and supported countless local, state, and national Democratic candidates. For four decades, my legal career has been devoted to representing Native American tribal governments and businesses in Maine and nationwide. I currently serve on the board of Hard Rock International — the country's largest Native-owned business — and as the sole independent board member of the Passamaquoddy Wild Blueberry Company here in Maine. I also serve on the board of Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, ensuring access to reproductive health care in our communities. I supported Graham Platner, organizing friends and co-hosting a house party, because we need fundamental change. I will support a nominee who will fight to abolish ICE, expand the Supreme Court, treat housing as the crisis it is, end the politicization of our Justice Department, support full tribal sovereignty in Maine, fight demonization of immigrants and trans people, attack wealth inequality, tax billionaires, fight corruption, and push hard for renewable energy and evidence-based policies. I pledge to work to elect our ultimate nominee. We need to unite after July 25th to collectively beat Susan Collins.

Glynn, Christopher Patrick

SCARBOROUGH

I want to serve as a delegate at the nominating convention because this moment calls for a Senate candidate—and a party—ready to fight for a politics that puts people first. I've spent my career doing that work: serving on Maine Democratic Party staff during the 2014 and 2018 cycles, organizing for a Democratic presidential campaign, working for Congresswoman Chellie Pingree and the Speaker of the Maine House, and now advocating for renewable energy policies that strengthen our economy and lower costs for Mainers. Those experiences have shown me that leadership starts with listening, organizing, and bringing people together. I hope to help ensure those qualities are reflected in our nominee. Graham Platner demonstrated that Maine is ready for a different kind of politics. How he connected with voters—sharing authentic perspectives instead of poll-tested talking points, telling real stories instead of focus-grouped anecdotes, and challenging assumptions about what government can achieve—was just as important as his progressive platform. Defeating Susan Collins is about more than one Senate seat; it is about reclaiming the U.S. Senate and stopping the Republican agenda. Collins' reputation for moderation depends on enabling that agenda while later distancing herself from its consequences. Her message of delivering benefits to Maine asks voters to overlook the harm caused in the first place. Our nominee must continue articulating what Democrats stand for, not simply what we oppose. As a delegate, I will support our nominee by volunteering, fundraising, organizing, and helping build grassroots momentum across Maine.

Goldberg, Gary

PORTLAND

I have done significant work in trying to protect our American Democracy. My family and I organized a fundraiser for Kamala Harris in Portland. We raised over 3 times the amount of money that the DNCC projected that we would. I was part of a group of 6 people who recently organized A Day for Democracy at USM in Gorham. There were 10 workshops that included groups like the Maine ACLU, the AFLCIO, Veterans for Peace, and the League of Women Voters. There was another workshop on Election Integrity. My wife and I have a particular interest in reclaiming the American flag from the MAGA right. We enlisted 30 of our friends to help us distribute 1000 American flags at the most recent Portland No Kings Rally. I understand the significance of defeating Susan Collins. The Maine Senate race may well determine whether Democrats control the United States Senate. I'll do everything in my power to work for a Democratic victory in the November election.

Goldberg, Margery Isaacson

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because I feel strongly about defeating Susan Collins and want the Democratic candidate to be someone that the majority of Democrats and Other Mainers will vote for. I think for the Democrats to be successful we need to find the candidate that both moderates and progressives will vote for. I am an LCSW and I think my skills will be useful in this process. I will volunteer for the chosen candidate doing door to door canvassing, phone banking and whatever else is requested to help elect a Democratic Senator.

Goldstein, Hannah

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate as I would like to help choose a senator who truly represents me. My experience working in nonprofit primary care gives me a unique perspective on what Maine communities truly need in a senator. As a queer person, I would like to be in the meeting to ensure that rights of marginalized communities are represented. In order to defeat Susan Collins, democrats need to have an united front, we cannot be splintered. Once a candidate is selected we as a party need to ensure there is little discourse after the fact about who is selected. To ensure this, a wide variety of individuals need to be selected as delegates so everyone feels they have a seat at the table and are represented. As a young queer person working at a nonprofit that is federally funded, I stand to lose the most if the wrong candidate is selected.

LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion, Youth

Good, Jeanette Anderson

FALMOUTH

Decades ago, I lived under the brutal Brazilian Military dictatorship. At one point, I was the Brazilian staff person for the Quaker A.F.S.C., working on non-violent social change. When my visa needed to be renewed, the federal police stamped on my paper work that I was a national security risk and gave me 48 hours to leave the country. When Donald Trump came down his escalator on June 16, 2015 and announced his candidacy for President by demeaning immigrants as rapists etc. I knew that this was a dangerous authoritarian man. That August, I began calling Senator Collins office saying in essence, “If you do not speak up strongly, we are going to become a dictatorship “ During Collins’ tenure, our democracy has been dismantled step by step to the point that Canadian friends told me that they canceled their Maine vacation, emphasizing that they no longer feel safe because of our “fascist militia, ICE.” Senator Susan Collins has repeatedly minimized the grave seriousness of this moment. Her recent statement about not regretting her Kavanaugh vote is inexcusable as well as her extravagant funding of ICE. I want to serve as a delegate to defeat Senator Collins. I am best at knocking on doors, talking with people, even MAGA people, having conversations about economic inequality and immigrant rights. I can work with everyone thus uniting our party ensuring that we have an effective, ethical and courageous next Senator to protect the well-being of “we the people.”

Goode, Jeanne

WINDHAM

I admire the work that Nirav Shah did for the Dtate during the COVID outbreak. He provided guidance and a sense of purpose and humor during a confusing time. He approach was honest and gave us a sense of direction and insight. I find him knowledgeable and most importantly trustworthy. I would be honored to be a delegate.

Goodman, Dale Robin Robin

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'd be honored to serve as a delegate in the selection of Maine's candidate for the US Senate. Clearly the current senator, Susan Collins, does not follow the wishes, needs, and goals of the people of Maine. We need to identify the candidate who can infuse our Senate with intelligent, compassionate, strong leadership. I look forward to hearing the visions offered regarding what Maine needs for a bright future, and help determine which candidate will best fit that role. I've participated in past years, and look forward to helping with: *phone conversations with voters; *help with campaign tasks from mundane to more complex; *assist with fundraising, where appropriate; *volunteer for tabling in public spaces and at public events; *build awareness and enthusiasm through my social media presence; *additional tasks as they become available. The Democratic Party in Maine can build true grassroots support and help regain majority in the House and Senate! As much interaction with the public as possible, with strong listening and open dialogue will be necessary to hit the right note and support the correct policies to turn the disastrous current ship of government around and garner the enthusiasm of all those who understand the meaning and implications of “consent of the governed.” This means that the conversations we seek MUST include young voters, voters of color, voters previously overlooked as allies. Inclusion is the challenge of building the strongest majority; conversations are the way to get there. I’m IN!

Disability, Underrepresented Religion

Goodman, Kate

PORTLAND

I am committed to ensuring a Democrat beats Collins this election, particularly one who is dedicated to a progressive agenda. I am involved in community organizing in Southern Maine and seek to represent Mainers searching for genuine progressive leadership and a change in the efficacy of our government. I intend to mobilize my community around this election and support initiatives to reduce barriers to participation, especially by those left out of political conversations. I care deeply about the democratic process and feel drawn to this unique moment in Maine’s history to practice democracy in a different way. I am a lifelong student of American government, community development, and political process. I will commit to bringing in the perspectives of my community, my knowledge and commitment to democracy, and my passion for progressive politics to the Convention as a delegate.

Goodman, Steven

PORTLAND

I will make the point that whatever candidate is chosen should not be seen as disassociating from Graham Plattner. Plattner is the most popular candidate in this race. It is not a question of finding a candidate who supports the same positions and policies Plattner stands for. What we need is a candidate who can articulate the political and social analysis of contemporary America and Maine the way Plattner has done. Several candidates have policies that line up with Plattner’s but the party needs to realize that none of them can articulate the need for these policies the way Plattner can. The nominee must embrace Plattner himself, not just his ideas. The candidate should court Plattner and seek his help on policy and seek his help in a full embrace and endorsement. That is the point of view I will bring to this convention. I have lived in the same home in Portland’s Munjoy Hill for over 17 years and have no criminal record.

Goodoak, Kay

PORTLAND

We must choose the right candidate to defeat Susan Collins and start to the process to end the federal government's assault on the people of Maine and the constant pain these forces cause across the nation. This is not the moment to compromise. We cannot settle for any less than a candidate that will fight to abolish ICE in it's entirety. Those murdered, harassed, or illegally detained by ICE deserve no less. We cannot settle for any candidate that will support genocide. Defensive weapons is a sweet lie we've allowed ourselves to believe. We must use our leverage over Israel and cut off all military aid and stop being complicit in genocide. The Epstein class cannot be allowed to fade back into obscurity. The rich cannot be permitted to get away with this. I'm a public servant that's worked with some of Maine's most vulnerable families. I feel like everyone works long days and working full time while fighting fascism can feel impossible. We must present a delegate that will fight. I believe our candidate must hold principled positions standing against these horrors. If I'm selected as I delegate I will do everything in my power to ensure we have a strong candidate that will fight for all of us and avoid another middle of the road Democrat who would lead us to defeat.

LGBTQIA+

Gotschlich, Emil

NAPLES

I am a retired obstetrician gynecologist who has lived in Cumberland County for 39 years. My professional life was devoted to the delivery of care to the women of Maine of all ages. I strongly believe that Susan Collins let down her constituency in Maine and in particular placed the health and the welfare of women secondary to her political career. I am very disturbed by the public health ramifications of the current administration and those republican lawmakers who are complicit. Millions of Americans are at terrible financial and health risk because of the health finance and public health decisions currently in force. I am very motivated to do whatever is in my power to change the balance of power in Washington in order to help remedy this.

Gottshalk, Erica

GORHAM

Defeating Susan Collins is one of the highest priorities if not the highest priority this midterm cycle. Graham ran an incredible campaign, mobilizing thousands of volunteers to help defeat Susan Collins. I was moved by his call to action and believe that if we want change, we need to get up and participate. So here I am, offering to participate and be a voice.

Gottwalt, Samantha

PORTLAND

I am the secretary for the Portland Democratic City Committee and have been a delegate to the state convention since 2024. I am dedicated to both the Democratic Party and making sure our candidate wins in November. I already help phone bank and drive candidates and plan to continue to help organize Portland meetings and voters well past November.

Grady, Rachael E

WINDHAM

I am a social studies teacher who cares a lot about protecting the Constitution, Human Rights and the Rule of Law in our fragile democracy. I have been consistently volunteering, rallying and working to inform and inspire people in numerous groups, building coalitions to step up to the challenges our nation is facing currently. One of those challenges is the need for a strong Senate candidate, and I plan to actively help our next nominee succeed in the upcoming election.

Graham, Anne Palmer

NORTH YARMOUTH

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating convention because I am a strong Democrat, representative of my community and its current State Representative (House District 105). I will serve with an open mind to who the best Nominee will be as many of my friends and neighbors supported the previous candidate. I will help to defeat Susan Collins in November by supporting the Nominee when I knock on doors for my own campaign. I will share my support in person and via the media. I will recognize and support all who supported Platner by listening and working for their grassroots movement.

Graham, Lani F

FREEPORT

This is an unprecedented and tragic time in the life of our 250-year-old democracy. Grifters, sociopaths and billionaires have their hands around the throat of this country. I so hoped that Senator Collins would show the courage of her heroine, Margaret Chase Smith, and call out clearly what is happening, but she did not. Now the people of Maine must lead the way and support someone who will speak for them and all others who care about preserving our constitution and our democracy. As a physician I bring important knowledge of the miseries of our people—struggles with health care, housing, even food all while watching the spectacular corruption of our federal government. To be successful and build on the grass roots effort, this campaign must be different from the traditional. It cannot be the usual yard signs, buttons and house parties. Young and old, well off and poor must work together and do things differently to achieve success. I have ideas about that and can share them whether or not I am a delegate. I will do all I can to assure that Senator Collins is defeated, by contributing my time, my money and my talents to the effort.

Grahame, Alyssa

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Grannell, Andrew

PORTLAND

The following are five reasons why I will be a valued participant: (1) experienced in listening discerningly; (2) mature judgement in assessment; (3) student of effective Maine leadership; (4) enjoy engaging wide range of persons in conversation; (5) native Mainer born in Waterville, graduate of Stephens High School (Rumford), professor/administrator of the former Bangor Theological Seminary; a leader among Quakers in Portland & Maine.

Underrepresented Religion

Grantham, Kerry

PORTLAND

As a Democrat in Portland, Maine, I am deeply committed to ensuring that our elections are conducted with integrity and fairness. With over 15 years of professional experience, I have successfully brought together regulators, communities, and stakeholders to advance clean energy initiatives. In addition to my professional work, I am an active volunteer in my community and a passionate public servant. I firmly believe that a vibrant democracy starts at the local level, and I will continue to channel my energy into supporting Maine politicians who are devoted to safeguarding our democratic values. Together, we can create a brighter future for our community and our state.

Green, Devin Lee

PORTLAND

Hi, my name is Devin Green (she/her). I am a 43-year-old single, independent business owner who lives in the East Deering neighborhood of Portland. I would like to be a delegate for the county because I care about my community being heard. I was originally a supporter of Platner's policies and the momentum behind him. My support started wavering with the texts, and I am now infuriated with him, how he handled stepping down, and the situation we are in. And honestly, I haven't loved how the party has handled this. But I see an opportunity in this moment – I hope this leads to us building a movement around US, the Mainers that believe in caring for others, in equality and justice and interconnectedness. We are hiring someone to represent us and what we care about. My priority as a delegate would be to select the person most likely to win. I want to represent what the people of my county want. I have developed a survey that I am already disseminating out to any Mainer that wants to fill it out and I will share all the results with the delegates so they know what their communities want. Every Mainer has a voice and deserves to feel heard and engaged. I am connected to many communities in the Greater Portland Area through my work with Community Organizing/Building, Social Justice and Advocacy. I am an Interspiritual/Interfaith Minister, Life/Relationship/Business Coach and Transformative Mediator. You can learn more about me at

Green, Ellen Elizabeth

FREEPORT

This is one of the most important senate elections in our country's history, and I would like to be participate in that process.

Green, Geoffrey

PORTLAND

I am a retiree who is a lifelong Democrat and has lived in Maine since 1980. I have seen many consequential elections in my lifetime, but the 2026 Senate race is probably the most consequential. Donald Trump poses the greatest threat to the institutions which sustain our republic that we have ever seen, and Susan Collins has been his accomplice. Defeating her is essential to establishing a bulwark against him and the autocracy of lies, hate, corruption and war he is creating. I intend to devote my full energies to this campaign and to support the Democratic nominee, whoever it may be. I believe that Troy Jackson would be our strongest candidate, for three reasons: First, he is a strong proponent of the progressive agenda that represents our Democratic values. Second, as a leader in the Maine Senate he has demonstrated the ability to negotiate in the space between ideals and reality in order to move that agenda forward. And third, he will have significant support in the second district which will be critical to defeating Collins in the general election. Let's make America good again. Thank you for your support.

Gregory, Layne M

FALMOUTH

Griffler, Paul Alan

PORTLAND

Here's what I'm not. A politician, and influencer, or a well known member of community. And a proud non-user of social media. Here's what I am. I've been a proud registered Democrat for 50 years, am an exceedingly informed and well read individual on multiple aspects of US history, government and politics, and take pride in listening to all sides of an issue before making a determination. I moved to Maine for a job opportunity in 2015 at the age of 58, met my wife to be (a year later) and have fallen in love with Maine...and my wife. The friends I've made, people I have worked with, and neighbors I have come to know are some of the finest people I've met in my life. I may be "from away", however Maine is my home- now and forever. During the last 10+ years and reaching a crescendo in the last 18 months, I have grown sad, angry, and highly disturbed at the state of our country and the body politic. And I am so disappointed in so many of our fellow citizens. I believe that being a delegate and having a voice in the next Senate leader from Maine, I can bring some intelligent influence and point of view. And sleep better at night no matter the outcome. I will add that when the Graham Platner situation arose leading to his stepping down, I wondered how this would resolve. Kudos to the Maine Democratic party for coming up with

Grinvalsky, Jeffrey Gary

PORTLAND

I have been a registered Democrat for my entire voting life spanning 30 years. Being politically active and informed is something that I take great pride in. I have voted in every election large and small since the early 2000's, canvassed neighborhoods all over Maine and New Hampshire, made the calls, knocked the doors and had the difficult conversations. All this and more is what I will do to beat Susan Collin's. Serving as a delegate for my county would be a great honor and responsibility that I will take very seriously, with the utmost respect for the people I would represent and the process put forth by my party.

Gross, Paul

PORTLAND

I have been a supporter of progressive polices and candidates for my entire adult life. I believe that we need to elect progressive politicians and enact progressive policies to once again out the working people of this country first. Our political system has been purchased by wealthy interests and that is directly harming the people of the United States. I believe that Troy Jackson is the candidate who is best suited to win the race against Collins and work to put the working people of Maine first.

Gruber, Jillian

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I am dedicated to seeing our party demonstrate our resilience and become even stronger by picking a candidate that will reinvigorate voters and help us move past Platner. I have prior experience faithfully representing my community in the Democratic Primary. In 2016 while living in Washington State, I was a delegate for the Democratic Party in my precinct and legislative district caucuses and then was elected as a delegate for the County Convention. Additionally, I served as a Precinct Committee Officer for the King County Democrats in Washington State in 2017 until I moved back to Maine in mid-2018. Although I ultimately voted for him, the tattoo revelation toward the start of Platner's campaign made me too uneasy to help canvas for him. Now this convention could give me a chance and a reason to actively reengage. Defeating Susan Collins will require having many many deep, personal conversations in our community, and I look forward to doing that for a candidate I believe in. In my personal life, I am a queer trans Portlander, a library worker, a union steward at the library, and a residential support worker. Outside of work I have multiple volunteer roles including helping at a mobile food pantry, peacekeeping at community events, serving on a committee for a local park, and event coordinating. I care deeply about my civic responsibilities and want this opportunity to serve.

LGBTQIA+

Guenette, William Wolf

PORTLAND

I am an engaged community organizer whether on my block or while working before and after school care for Portland Parks and Recreation. I am a local leader - Captaining softball teams and gathering people for no kings rallies. I am a brand new father who sees hope in the future and a need to make the best possible world for my six week olds future. Finally and most importantly for this moment, I am an open-minded Democrat who believes deeply in both the democratic process and the power of people working together. I value listening as much as leading, and I believe that learning, communicating, and cooperating are essential to building a stronger party and a stronger Maine. As a delegate, I would represent Cumberland County with a commitment to collaboration. I am a progressive democrat but my top priority is defeating Susan Collins, for no progressive actions are possible as long as the republicans hold power in the senate. I will bring the voices of my community to the convention and work tirelessly with delegates from across the state to build consensus strong enough not only to choose a strong new democratic senate nominee but to give them the momentum they will need to win. As a party we stand at a crucial moment and I would be honored to work with my fellow Mainers as we face this moment and show the democratic party the path to victory!

Youth

Guerin, William

PORTLAND

"THIS IS BLOOD." Is this the French Revolution? No. On July 13th in Biddeford, these words were scrawled where Johan Guerrero, a 26-year-old Colombian immigrant working legally, was killed by ICE agents. One month earlier, Susan Collins voted to hand this rogue agency $70 billion with zero independent oversight. This is what her "moderation" has bought Maine. As a Portland High School graduate and rising sophomore at Johns Hopkins University, I speak for the generation that will soon run this country: bright, resourceful, yet voiceless in "the room where it happens." Interning at Pine Tree Legal, I have seen the plights of the working poor, living one medical bill from ruin. Basic policy protects basic dignity, but defending dignity is insufficient. My generation refuses to choose between bread-and-butter issues and bold vision, and our nominee must not either. I seek a voice to deliberate with passionate Mainers, where disagreement sharpens truth: not simply to oust Collins and restore the Senate as a check on Trump's power, but to carry forth a transparent grassroots movement where political currency is votes, not dollars. I am the Campaign Treasurer for Jakobi Delgado, an eighteen-year-old running for Portland City Council; we aim to prove that with hard work, novel ideas, and sincerity, anyone can enter politics and win. My ongoing efforts for the Maine Democratic Party will focus on canvassing and registering young men, a demographic that catalyzed Trump's victory in 2024. Maine will decide the Senate and, in doing so, preserve our republic.

Youth

Guillemette, Ethan T

FREEPORT

As a lifelong Mainer, I would be honored to serve as a democratic delegate of Cumberland County and pledge my support for Troy Jackson. Mainers need a strong senator who will be aggressive in fighting back against the feckless Senate Republicans rubber stamping Trump's disastrous wars, tariffs, and death march towards autocracy. Senate Democrats watch while the country burns. We need a candidate who can speak to the economic hardships that Mainers from across the political spectrum are facing, and to reject the platitudes and compromises that have undercut this nation's faith in the democratic party. While I believe Dr. Shah's stewardship of the Maine CDC during the pandemic was commendable, a nomination for Shah would lead to a messy relitigation of his COVID-19 response and prior handling of the legionnaires' outbreak in Illinois. The Collins campaign would focus on dredging up all the rancor and negativity surrounding the pandemic era, forcing Dr. Shah to waste his time defending past COVID policy instead of advocating for the policies that will help Mainers, both present and future. Troy Jackson is the only candidate who can flip the 70,000 split ticket voters who voted for both Joe Biden and Susan Collins in 2020. Small ideas, tepid policies, and rising gas prices will not deliver us the Senate. Access to healthcare, data center bans, and a pledge to curb abusive corporate power are policies that resonate with Mainers from across the ideological divide, and are the foundations to build a 2028 push upon.

Gundersen, Erik Robert

YARMOUTH

I believe that Maine can be and is the path forward. We still have values and we know our opinions matter. We have the entire state, country, and world behind us - we can defeat Collins because she has lost the values we hold and we are ready for change. That is a lot coming from our beautiful state, we don't love change but we recognize it's a necessity. I am ready to help our state and country take a step forward, towards the future we voted for in June. - Erin G.

Gunnoe, Elspeth

NEW GLOUCESTER

Education and discussing the issues is my specialty. I plan to keep the conversation going, optimizing on the momentum that Platner's race started. I'm a member of my town's Democratic group and volunteer for events as I'm able, as a working mother of an infant. I care about our future and ensuring it's equitable for all, not just the wealthy and white minority.

Guy, Ethan

PORTLAND

I'm asking for your vote as a delegate because I'm not just fighting for Maine — I'm raising my family here, and I want my kids to grow up in a state that works for people, not just the well-connected. My spouse and I are building our life here, and every housing and affordability fight I work on professionally, I also feel personally, right in my own community. In my career partnering with cities nationwide on housing and economic development, I've learned to tell the difference between leaders who genuinely understand a community's struggles and those who are just saying the right words — a skill this convention needs right now. I've also watched the same story play out again and again: families priced out of the towns they grew up in, wages that don't stretch far enough, corporate money drowning out working people's voices. That frustration — the sense that the deck is stacked and no one in power is fighting for you — is what's been driving Mainers to show up, get engaged, and demand something different. With less than three weeks to name a new nominee, we need delegates who understand where that energy comes from and can help pick a candidate who can genuinely carry it forward. To help defeat Susan Collins, I'll bring my housing and economic policy expertise to sharpen our case against her record and connect it directly to what Maine families are living through every day. Beyond November, I'm committed to the

HICKOK, GAYLE

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am a 74 year old Maine resident who has voted Democratic since I was 18 years old. My generation has contributed to the Maine economy for many years- started working at 15 years old in my case. I believe I have earned the right to speak on behalf of the working class of Maine- college educated and graduated from USM Summa Cum Laude 1975.

Hach, Bryce J

FALMOUTH

The 2026 Maine senatorial election is extremely important, both to the state and the country. The reasons for this are manifest but, they all largely fall under the towering shadow of the Donald Trump presidency. This administration is on the wrong side of history on everything from clean energy to the soft power of international cooperation to abortion rights, all punctuated by the fact this president has such disregard for the democratic process and the checks and balances in government that have been in place since our nation's founding. Susan Collins role as a moderate voice in the senate, seeking common ground across both sides, has been greatly compromised and then exposed by this administration. I am a high school biology and AP Environmental Science teacher who also regularly partners students in internships throughout the state with organizations in environmental conservation, social services, and economic development. On multiples fronts, I see the challenges of this moment through the lens of the next generation. In addition to this, I am also the current Chair of the Town Council in Falmouth, regularly connecting with residents in my community. This is already a perilous time that is exasperated by the fact that after the primary, we need to hold a special delegation for this incredibly important position. I feel a strong duty to ensure we find the right person, not only for this unique moment, but who can also help build an upward and inclusive trajectory for our state and our nation.

Hagerman, Parnell

BAILEY ISLAND

Tied of listening to the puffed up Pieces and photo ops on Susan Collins. She denied her support of her gender by voting for those Supreme Court nominees and reversing her stand on abortion. I have done my research and we need a serious change and by the way how did you ever come up with graham planter, lack or vetting for sure.

Haile, Amy N

NORTH YARMOUTH

The bold, fighting spirit of the Platner Campaign which both named the cancer in our politics and set forth a vision for what life could be like for Mainers if our lives were not centered around access to poor health care motivated me like no other. I attended events, knocked on doors, and walked in parades for a message for the first time. People who hadn't voted before, who hadn't gotten involved before were moved to show up. This is the only energy that beats Susan Collins. Not the Democrats who always show up, but those Mainers who don't. It is not an overstatement to say we are living in dangerous times, and Mainers have the potential to make a difference for us and those around the country, but only if we uphold the message and reflect the true passion that brought a historic number of Maine voters out on June 9. I am eager to work together with a coalition of people to build on the momentum of the message that broke through the apathy and distrust in how governments works.

Hale, Mollie

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat and proud Mainer from a family of teachers and farmers. My values align with Troy Jackson's, and I think he is the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins in November. For the past ten years, I have been a public high school English teacher, and next month I will begin attending Maine Law to become an attorney. Although I loved teaching, I decided to pursue a legal career because I want to make an even greater difference for future generations. I care deeply about strengthening public education, protecting women's rights and health, supporting working families, preserving Maine's environment, and ensuring every Mainer has the opportunity to thrive. It would be a honor to serve as a delegate in support of Troy Jackson, who represents the values and voices of my community while helping shape the future of our party.

Haley, Christine

SCARBOROUGH

I am an active democrat and want to support choosing the best person to represent us in Maine. We need a democrat as our Senator to voice our concerns and help Mainers with housing affordability and these high prices we pay just to live. I will be volunteering at the polls in November and making calls for our Democratic nominee. Please allow me to have a voice.

Hall, Alexandra Sage

YARMOUTH

I believe deeply in The Maine Democratic Party, and want help elect the best candidate to UNITE a big tent of progressive, liberal, and moderate democrats, as well as independant voters, to unseat Collins. I also have years of volunteering for Maine democrats, and have hosted multiple successful fundraising events for Maine democrats at my home--including with Congressman Jared Golden and co-hosted for Sara Gideon. I will continue that this season. Moreover, I'm a lifestyle journalist and am excited to help readers be as excited about the process (and as proud of Maine for pulling this off!) as I am.

Hall, Nathan

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate because I don't think you get to complain about politics if you're not willing to do the work of showing up. I've spent over a decade doing exactly that with the Maine Education Association, as Falmouth Education Association's President, Rights & Responsibilities Chairperson, and on MEA's Government Relations Committee. I've learned from that work that momentum doesn't come from a slogan. It comes from knocking on doors, making calls, and talking to people, including the ones who don't agree with you. To help beat Susan Collins, I'll do what I know how to do: canvass, phone bank, and help recruit other volunteers for whoever we nominate. I also want to use my labor organizing background to get educators and union members active in this race. This can't be a one election effort. I want to help the party build something that lasts past November, strengthening local committees, bringing new volunteers in and sticking with them, not just riding a wave of energy until it fades. That kind of organizing is what I believe in, and it's what I'd bring to this convention.

Hall, William Evan Jr

PEAKS ISLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat and support the Maine Democratic Party financially and in door-to-door campaigns. I've served as a delegate to the state conventions on three occasions. I believe this moment is critical for the party to put forward the strongest candidate who can win the general election - this is literally critical to saving our democracy.

Halvorsen, Darcy E

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am committed to defeating Susan Collins by knocking on doors, talking to my neighbors, making phone calls, contributing money and rallying many people. It's essential that we, as Democrats, defeat her in November. We need to take back our democracy. The time is now and we must come together and unite in our common goal. We need to fight back! Please consider me to be a delegate from Cumberland county. Thank you.

Halvorson, Charles

PORTLAND

I am a progressive voter in the Democratic Party, and I want to make sure that the party chooses a progressive to run against Susan Collins and win her senate seat. Mainers were very inspired by the former senate candidate because of their outspoken progressive stance, and that needs to be on the ballot in November 2026. We cannot afford to have a moderate candidate that is barely to the left of Collins, that is surely a losing ticket that will hurt the people of Maine. We need to bring government back to being a governing entity that serves the people and provides for those who can't for themselves, not as an entity that supports business and helps the rich get richer. This is why I support Troy Jackson and would like to be a delegate that supports him.

Hamilton, Heather

YARMOUTH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe this is an important opportunity to help shape the future of our state and our party. I take the responsibility of selecting our Democratic nominee seriously and want to help ensure we put forward a candidate who can build a broad coalition and be successful in the general election. For me, this isn't just about winning an election. It's about choosing someone who leads with empathy, thoughtful judgment, and integrity, someone who listens, communicates respectfully, and brings people together even when there are disagreements. I want Maine to be represented by a senator who reflects those values and makes us proud through both their leadership and the way they treat others. I would be honored to participate in this process and will approach my role as a voting delegate with fairness, care, and a genuine commitment to selecting the strongest nominee for Maine

Hammett, Philip T

RAYMOND

Given the way that Platner quickly created a strong progressive movement, it might be tempting to desire a "carbon copy" of him to continue that movement. However, if we put some thought into this, we'll see that it makes sense to give a woman a chance to lead this movement. This will not only correct some of the wrongs done to women in this case, but looking at our current situation nationwide, we suffer from way too much heartless greed and hegemonic masculinity. We need more compassion in our policies. A strong woman would stand a better chance at achieving this. I've been working with ICC to help with election participation. We may seem powerless compared to billionaires, but in fact, when it comes to voting, we outnumber them 200,000 to 1. Thus voting is our Superpower! We will inspire "Super Voters," who are informed, consistent, watchful, and encouraging others to vote. I designed a logo, which is being developed for pins and T-shirts, and I wrote a song for the cause. Once people realize the strength of their “superpower,” it will create a growing movement that will conquer authoritarian billionaires, and help save the planet!

Hancock, Bruce

BRIDGTON

I am a life long Democrat. I have been involved in local politics for the last 35 years to include 2 terms on the SAD 61 School Board and 1 on the Bridgton Board of Appeals. I was involved with the Cumberland County Democrat Committee in the lat 80's

Hancock, Jessica

BRIDGTON

The democratic elites continue to misjudge and discount their progressive social democrat base. For too long we've tried to push forth these moderate agendas in fear of alienating the independent vote. But over and over given the chance and the opportunity these progressive candidates bring out the crowds and impassion the voters. Maine needs real change. Health care for all. Affordable housing. The courage to fight against big corporations who squander our resources. Bleed the environment. And actively work to suppress the people and set us back generations. Given the events that transpired after our latest primary, it is evident that Mainers are ready to see a more progressive approach. I will be that voice to move our party forward.

Hansen, Eric

CUMBERLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nomimating Convention because the Democratic party desperately needs change. I and many other young Americans find ourselves in a state of disillusionment regarding the current political system. We have known nothing but the politics of Donald Trump and an opposition incapable of battling back when the time calls. This inaction comes exactly when action is needed most and has left the democratic base hopeless. In order to beat Susan Collins I will continue having conversations in my community, and I will make it known that hope is still possible. Hope is the essence of this unique grassroots movement in Maine and this hope can be maintained if young Americans and their interests are represented at the national level. No one is more invested in the future than young Americans if they are just given a reason to believe.

Hansen, Paul

SOUTH PORTLAND

I follow politics very closely. I believe Maine Democrats have several candidates who will represent us well. I do not have a current favorite, but want to hear from the potential nominees. My priorities are 1. The candidate must be willing to support whichever candidate the party nominates; 2. The candidate who has the best chance to defeat Susan Collin's; 3. The candidate who can rally support across the broad coalition that is the Maine Democratic Party. I will donate time and money to help win back a Democratic majority in both houses of Congress.

Harari, Sara

PORTLAND

At 36, I've spent my life falling in love with Maine: first as a child visiting, then as a young adult working summers on a blueberry farm near Deer Isle, and now as a first-time homeowner and permanent resident. When my husband and I moved here last year, we joined a growing wave of people choosing Maine because we believe in its future. After five years working as a Connecticut state employee on climate finance innovation, I know that creative government yields real results. I've helped design policies that reduced utility bills for low-income families and got kids to school on electric buses without increasing district costs. We need leaders willing to think differently. Susan Collins represents the status quo, not our future. As a delegate, I'm equipped to choose the candidate who best represents Maine's future because I am part of that future. I understand what newer residents and younger generations need from leadership. I've knocked on doors, made calls, and managed a select board campaign in New Hampshire, proving I know how to turn fresh ideas into votes. Defeating Susan Collins requires selecting a candidate who can connect with people like me: those newer to Maine, those seeking real change. My volunteer experience reflects what motivates voters ready for something new. I'll bring that voter perspective and organizing experience to the convention floor to help us choose the strongest candidate to defeat Collins and represent Maine's future.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Harding, Randall

FALMOUTH

I am passionate about wanting to save our Democracy. I'm impressed and amazed by the number of people who also feel this way, and who showed up at the Civic Center with Bernie in support of Graham. The group of Democrats who recruited him had the right idea, but we now know something went terribly wrong. Which leads us to where we are today, and this failure can be our launch point to defining out next step to success. As a staunch supporter of our basic rights and believer of the Democratic Party who understands the right to pursue life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, I know we will right the mother ship. For this reason, I request the honor of being voted as one of our delegates. When enough of us do what is necessary to win against the bad apple we have with Susan Collins, we will prevail and our country will not just survive but also benefit from this crisis and overcome the threat to our freedom.

Harrington-Howes, Elizabeth

PORTLAND

Susan Collins needs to go! Republican control of the Senate and House needs to go! We need a strong Democratic candidate who can beat Susan Collins! Shah showed such great leadership during the Covid crisis. We need his intelligence and work ethic to help Maine.

Harris, Karen A

CAPE ELIZABETH

I will work tirelessly as an experienced fundraiser and organizer to elect a Democrat who can defeat Susan Collins in November. Maine is in the national spotlight, and I want to help make it a turning point for the progressive movement — pushing for Medicare for All, closing the income gap, honoring tribal sovereignty, passing real campaign finance reform, expanding affordable housing, and supporting environmental protection and equity. Protecting the rights of trans kids, the LGBTQIA+ community, immigrants, and new Mainers all matter deeply to me personally, and I will fight for that every day of this campaign. I've lived in Maine for over 50 years. I went to college here, worked in mental health and small business, and raised three daughters who all came back to Maine, bringing their own experience in public education and healthcare. I've been active in progressive politics throughout: supporting marriage equality through two of the three referendums, co-founding Obama for Maine in 2007, co-chairing the 60-member Obama Maine Finance Committee in 2011–2012, and later co-chairing Maine finance for Hillary Clinton and Mike Michaud. I've also given my time and money to women's organizations and animal shelters across the state. I'm energized by the pushback against stale, complacent politics, and I believe Maine has strong candidates ready to meet this moment. I'm retired, with the time, experience, and drive to work hard — from the grassroots to the finance committee — to send a real leader for fundamental change to the Senate.

Harris, Richard

PORTLAND

Harrison, Paul James

SOUTH PORTLAND

Graham Platner earned 75% of the Democratic vote in the primary because of his message. So, the job of a delegate to this Nominating Convention is straightforward - choose the candidate whose record, experience, and message most closely aligns with that message. It's not about who 'party leaders' want/believe offers the best chance to defeat Senator Collins based on 'establishment' beliefs. It's about satisfying as best we can what the great majority of the voters want. Any other motivation or intent not only defies the will of the voters, but risks alienating a large segment of the party who have been motivated for the very first time. This isn't about what existing members of congress or the senate want or believe, it's about what Maine Democrats want and believe. This is the only way to inspire and continue to motivate the same level of voter turnout in November. Platner is right, the system is rotten. And, right now, the Democratic Party is teetering on being nothing more than part of that system. My 20 year old daughters are engaged and scared that they and their generation not only don't have a voice, but simply don't matter to those in power. The single greatest achievement of this process is to begin to give them a reason to believe differently.

Hartnett, Catharine

PORTLAND

I am impressed with the agility and confidence displayed by Maine Democratic Party leaders in devising and executing a solution to the brand-new challenge presented by Graham Platner's drop from the Senat race. It makes me want to be part of the potentially messy yet inclusive process to determine his successor. The party is fortunate to have fully vetted candidates ready to step up to and into the race, and while my preference is for Dr. Nirav Shah, I am willing to support the candidate that ultimately is selected from the party process. I am a 40-year Cumberland County resident who gleefully participated in caucuses in the day and who truly appreciates the give and take that happens in the room. Graham Platner ignited a spirit and a movement in Maine that should be respected and carried forward. At the same time, there are Independent voters who have supported Senator Collins in the past, who disagree with her nearly constant support of President Trump's agenda but may not be as progressive as Platner. I feel that the candidate the party puts forward should have ideas and a track record that will also offer these voters a connection. Thank you.

Hascall, Corey Lyn

FALMOUTH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because this election is too important to sit on the sidelines. Maine Democrats have a rare opportunity to nominate a candidate who can build a broad coalition, inspire voters, and finally defeat Susan Collins. I want to help ensure our nominee is the strongest possible candidate for that challenge. I have spent my career building coalitions, earning trust, and bringing people together around a shared purpose. Those same skills are essential in politics today. As a delegate, I will listen carefully, engage thoughtfully with fellow Democrats, and cast my vote for the candidate I believe is best positioned to unite our party and win in November. Beyond the convention, I will do the work. I will volunteer, organize, make calls, knock on doors, contribute financially, and encourage others in my network to get involved. Elections are won because thousands of people each do their part, and I intend to do mine. Most importantly, I believe our party's greatest strength is its grassroots energy. We build momentum by welcoming new voices, treating one another with respect, and focusing on the values that unite us: opportunity, fairness, freedom, and a government that works for everyone. I would be honored to represent Cumberland County as a delegate and to help elect a Democratic United States Senator from Maine.

Hayden, Martin S

BRUNSWICK

I am life-long Democrat who believes to my core in our democracy. I'm a former legislator and House Democratic majority whip This is the most important political in Maine in my lifetime. Defeating Susan Collins, after 30 years, is truly within our grasp. I do what ever I can to make it happen.

Hayes, Jean C C

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Hayes, Steve F

BRUNSWICK

I am passionate about the protection of our democracy and have been actively protesting, contacting our legislators, attending meetings and trying to influence folks regarding their voting participation. I will continue to do those same efforts moving forward. I have a sincere interest in making certain that whoever our candidate is they are energized about continuing the movement that Graham was driving. I would cherish the opportunity to participate in this process.

Hayward, William Richard

PORTLAND

I am running to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because we need a Senator who will get ICE out of Maine and stand up to Donald Trump. I want to see every candidate demonstrate this commitment. Shenna Bellows and Troy Jackson have impressed me with their words and actions and I believe a delegate should press all candidates to live up to these goals. I am a Portland resident and a full-time student at Maine Law. Over the past year I have seen the desire among my classmates and neighbors for a new generation of progressive leadership in the US Senate. If selected as a delegate, I will aim to elevate the voices of my fellow students and my community. As the Voter Protection Director for the 2024 Maine Democratic Coordinated Campaign and an experienced voting rights and campaign finance advocate, I believe I am suited to the task of helping to select our new Senate nominee with the urgency and deliberation this moment needs. If selected, I will seek out as many people and perspectives as possible to inform my vote. The future of our democracy runs through Maine. Susan Collins has helped enable our national catastrophe and must be voted out as a result. Whether or not I am selected, I am committed to defeating Susan Collins in November by doing anything I can to support the party's voter protection and grassroots work.

Youth

Hebert, Kellie

WINDHAM

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Heidel, Brenton

PORTLAND

I think this election is very interesting for Maine. For once the political stands are packed with great candidates. I had much enjoyment tracking the governors race. My horse won so I'm pretty unaffiliated. I'm well connected in my community and am a whip fit picking up votes from my circle. I also donate and volunteer. Pretty good job on the plan, definitely a tough time.

Hemond, Richard

FREEPORT

Maine is more than blueberries and lobsters. So much more. I am a resident of Maine who has lived in 4 different counties (Kennebec, Washington, York, and Cumberland). I have been coming to the state since 1979 and possess a deep appreciation for the unique diversity of our residents, our cultures, and our land. I want to serve as a delegate to work alongside others who feel as passionately as I do to defeat Susan Collins. She must be held accountable by voters for her destructive voting record that has hurt so many Mainers. What appalls me most is her lack of compassion for those who have so little. She has failed to defend Mainers against ICE. She votes for unqualified cabinet members and Supreme Court justices. And she actively sides with Trump to tear apart our democracy. She must be stopped. This past March, I applied to be an election clerk in Freeport. My motivation is to stand up, be counted, and visibly participate in the voting process. I will also continue to show up - at Democratic town halls, protests, and forums. I believe grassroots movements are started, sustained, and successful when human connections are created, both formally and informally. My contribution here seems straightforward - each day I make time to reach out, often in simple ways, to others around me and extend a smile and kind words. We need to stand together, or we will be forced apart. This cannot happen.

Hennessey, John Joseph

PORTLAND

I have staffed or been a delegate to 13 MDP conventions and three DNC events. I am the president of the board of EqualityMaine, the states oldest and largest LGBTQ+ advocacy organization. I also serve on the board of the Maine Council of Churches, two very important constituencies if we are going to win this thing. Public records will show my donations to Dems up and down the ticket

Herrick, Michael

SOUTH PORTLAND

Maine needs a change in its policy making, leadership and gives its citizens hope again. That's why I need to make sure we select the right person to take down Susan Collins. Collins has been in office for longer than I've been alive that alone should mean new leadership. Time after time she has always been concerned with her political career rather than listening to the people of Maine. We need some one to bring hope and energy with them to Washington, that is why we must send Troy Jackson.

Youth

Herrmann, diane

PORTLAND

Winning control of the Senate is vital to safe guarding our country from Trumps continuing assault on our democracy and the Republican parties refusal to stand up for working class individuals, immigrants and people who need help with basic life necessities like affordable health care and food. I served as a democratic committee person and I have spent countless hours going door to door. As a former elected official I know the value of direct voter contact. If selected, I will do everything in my power to reach voters and raise money to elect our next democratic senator. n m 123

Hewey, James Everett

GRAY

I believe that Susan Collins needs to be defeated, as she has not served our state or country well. As a retired laborer and union member, I believe that Troy Jackson and other candidates are what are needed to set our state and country on the right course. I am well-informed about political concerns that affect the people of Maine. I have consistently done my part to advocate for the workers of this state and would like to be a part of initiating change for Maine people.

Higgins, Eoin

WINDHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate because, as a true neutral observer of the race, I believe I can make the best decision on who to nominate.

Higgins, Lindsey

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe our party is strongest when grassroots voices are at the center of the decision-making process. I want to help nominate candidates who will fight for working families, protect our rights, and deliver practical solutions for Maine. Defeating Susan Collins in November will take more than strong candidates, it will take sustained organizing. I plan to volunteer by canvassing, phone banking, texting voters, and helping recruit and support other volunteers. I'll also use my personal and professional networks to encourage voter registration, turnout, and participation in local Democratic events. The energy we've built over the past several years is one of our greatest strengths, and we cannot afford to lose that momentum. I want to help expand our grassroots movement by welcoming new volunteers, engaging younger voters, supporting local Democratic committees, and ensuring that people in every community feel heard and included. Winning elections starts with building relationships, listening to voters, and showing up consistently, not just during campaign season. As a delegate, I will represent our shared values with integrity and enthusiasm while working to strengthen our party for this election and beyond.

Hill, Emily

PORTLAND

I am a Mainer who grew up in Hermon. I now reside in Portland with my two young kids who attend Portland Public Schools, and I work as a family medicine and palliative care physician. I am also a trained abortion provider. I am a founding member of Groundswell, a progressive women's political advocacy group in southern Maine and this year have been actively involved in both the senate and gubernatorial races. I have been actively meeting with and advising candidates regarding healthcare policy, specifically rural healthcare delivery in Maine, and using my voice as a physician to advocate publicly for candidates in op-eds and press conferences. I also participated in in door to door campaigning, fundraising events, and arranging in person meetings with candidates to raise awareness amongst voters in southern Maine. I am well connected to various networks in southern Maine, and am skilled at bringing the perspectives of rural and northern parts of Maine to Democrats in southern Maine. I will continue to advocate heavily for the democratic candidate for Senate, particularly by highlighting the consequences of Collins' devastating vote for the BBB, where Maine is projected to lose over $5 billion in funding over the next five years, in addition to the devastating sequelae of abortion restrictions across the country. I completed medical school and residency with two young kids -- you can count on me to show up, speak up, reach out, and get the job done.

Hill, Maurie Smith

STANDISH

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention as a representative and community organizer from a large suburban/rural area outside of Portland and Westbrook. I have been actively involved in Democratic politics since 2008 and served a term on the State Democratic Committee. Currently, I am chair of the Standish Democratic Town Committee and actively involved as a volunteer and Treasurer of the Lake Region Democratic Committee that serves the towns around Sebago Lake. I also actively coordinate with the Buxton/Hollis Democratic Committee and the Limington Dems as well. Traditionally, our area has been seen as more conservative, but we have new people of all ages moving in from Portland, Westbrook and Gorham because of housing costs/affordability issues. In terms of defeating Susan Collins, between now and November 3, 2026 I plan to assist in: ~ sponsoring a large Rally/Fundraiser in our area for which ever candidate is chosen to run for the US Senate seat. ~ spending part of each day knocking on doors, and driving candidates for Maine House and Senate. ~ organizing a core group of local volunteers to knock on doors or to drive those door knockers/canvassers to reach more voters ~ to distribute materials concretely showing how Susan Collins has betrayed the people of Maine. ~ placing ads on behalf of our candidates in our local Shopper's Guide. ~using social media posting and ads to expand our reach. ~arranging for our candidates to march in parades and appear at other local

Disability

Hill, Timothy

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Hilmer, Belle

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention as a lifelong Mainer, small business owner and the spouse of a permanent resident this election effects every facet of our lives. As someone who has always called Maine home, I would be well suited to be a delegate as I have the best interest of my fellow Mainers at heart. My spouse and I have spent years going through the family immigration system, and we know how catastrophic the legislation that Susan Collins supports is for families like ours. There are so many creative, hardworking Mainers who deserve a representative who has them in mind, they deserve healthcare and protection from discrimination no matter who they are or where they are from. To defeat Susan Collins in November, I will continue to speak to my neighbors and fellow Mainers about how this senate race actually effects us. As many of us know, it is difficult to maintain relationships across the aisle more and more, and I have been applying the experience I have gained by bringing my brother back into the democratic fold on everyone I have the chance to talk to one on one. These conversations matter, we have way more in common than we have differences. None of us can take another 2 years + of Trump running amok with Collins giving him green light after green light. Enough is enough.

Hilton, David

PORTLAND

Hello friends. I have been teaching middle school social studies at a public school in Portland. I'm a longtime resident of Maine with two children who went through the public school system. I've taught English classes at the shelter for asylum seekers and assisted my students and their families with food and other supports during COVID and the ICE crisis. I'm so concerned for the safety of everyone in my community including new Mainers and all the resisters who are being persecuted for speaking out and trying to stop the spread of militant white supremacy. I also want to help us all afford to live and raise children in our communities in decent homes without concern for our basic needs and healthcare. Thank you for considering my candidacy.

Hilton, David H

NEW GLOUCESTER

Over the years as a member of the New Gloucester Democratic committee, I have put up a lot of signs and driven many Maine House and Senate candidates and others to knock on doors. In the last few weeks, I have driven the current local State Senatorial and House candidates and expect to do much more. I put up Hannah Pingree signs for the June Primary. I attended the Caucus this year. I was at the State Democratic convention this year and my first one was in 1980 at Bangor. I gave $5 qualifying contributions to clean election candidates this year and money to other campaigns including candidates running in the primary for governor and now monthly to Hannah's campaign.

Hinck, Jon

PORTLAND

From long experience in politics and public service, I have a well-developed sense of the key factors in play at this moment. I have served in public office and run for the U.S. Senate. I have lobbied Congress for pro-environment bills. We all need to assess who can win as well as who in office would accomplish the most for Maine people. That is what I am about today. I will do grassroots work for a historic win in November.

Hintz, Willis

SCARBOROUGH

I am a retired U.S. Army Special Operations Military Analyst Lieutenant Colonel. I have an experience working with both the Joint Operations Staff and Army Special Operations Command. My experience with national security and defense provides a deep commitment to insuring that our nation remains free and engaged with our international partners. To accomplish these objectives we need to replace Senator Collins with someone who will uphold the U.S. Constitution and the rule of law while serving Maine and not an oligarchy.

Hochschartner, Lucy

PORTLAND

I'm 28 years old, and I've lived in the shadow of the climate crisis my entire life. It was always there — in rising hay prices after droughts, shortened ski seasons, and neighboring towns that washed away in the floodwaters. At the same time, my government has not only failed to avert this crisis, they've also taken away my rights and criminalized my friends. I have volunteered on political campaigns since high school, because my parents taught me to leave a place better than I found it. That is the spirit I see in so many Maine Democrats and what I want to see in our next nominee. I know that we deserve better in this state, and in this country, than Susan Collins. And more importantly, I know we can do better. Between now and November, I will be ramping up work I've already been doing — helping candidates, organizing those struggling with their rent and electric bills, and acting in solidarity across many other progressive movements. I will be investing in relationships and grassroots structures that will last long after election day. As a volunteer movement leader, nonprofit advocate, and former campaign staffer, I mean it when I say that helping people to step into their own power and leadership, learn together, and take collective action, is my life's work. And of course, I will do the urgent work of knocking doors, making calls, and showing up at protests as well. It's all hands on deck.

Hodgkins, Allison Beth

YARMOUTH

I want to be a delegate because as a young Maine I have watched decisions that will affect my life and the lives of my generation be made without my voice being heard. I am tired of being a bystander to my own politics and future. I want to take an active role in deciding who our next Senator will be because Susan Collins has failed in her duty to represent Mainers from her confirmation of Brett Kavanaugh to her attacks on trans-people, and her failure to stop Israel's actions in Gaza. Too many students my age have checked out of politics. Being a delegate is a rejection of checking out and an example of how we make change and take charge. I also want to encourage more students to get involved and pledge to volunteer and play a role in organizing for our future.

Hofelich, Paul

PORTLAND

I'd be honored to be a delegate and to be involved in the selection of a US Senate candidate by the people of Maine for the people of Maine.

Hoffmann, Andrew

PORTLAND

I am part of the grassroots momentum already generated during this campaign cycle. I exited active duty and moved to Maine last May with twin infants. We didn't plan to immediately become politically active, however, the importance of this political moment in Maine drove us to canvass, attend rallies, and show up to protests. We have participated in displays of support for immigrants in Maine and plan to continue demonstrating our stance on issues that affect our lives like immigration, the Iran war, and the cost of living. Focusing on these relevant issues will continue to get more people involved in this grassroots movement. I plan to help the Democrats defeat Susan Collins by going door to door for her opponent. I have already canvassed in the primary campaign, and I intend to continue to do that for whoever comes out of this election process. I think individual contact is the best way to spread the word about a candidate and to convince people that an election is important. It is going to take face-to-face conversations to convince others that our election is key to regaining the majority in the Senate.

Immigrant/New Mainer, Youth

Hogan, Gregory John

SOUTH PORTLAND

I believe that it is crucial in this election that Maine holds Susan Collins accountable for her complicity in enabling the Trump agenda. She has hurt Mainers with Medicaid cuts, SNAP benefits, Healthcare subsidies cuts, the war, and many other important issues to all of us. With her help, ICE has again expanded its unlawful and outrageous tactics. The killing of a resident this morning in Biddeford puts blood on her hand by aiding and abetting the funding. It is time to elect an honest, ethical and good person that will make Maine proud. I am willing to do the work to see this happen.

Holland, John C

HARPSWELL

1. My interest in being a delegate is to select a candidate that generates so much support and excitement they win and also help the other races across the State. I love the State of Maine and want to be part of that difference after Susan Collins is defeated. 2. Applying my skills that were used as Project Manager COVID-19 for the State Department of Health and Human Services to help in all areas possible to defeat Susan Collins period. 3. Build on my previous role on the Harpswell Dems Executive Committee to continue to make a difference by being involved on a local and state level. I know that given the opportunity I can make a difference and help with the non glamour work which is where elections are won and lost. For COVID-19, I joined as Project Manager and we had to set up a state-wide hot line in three weeks which involved working with so many stakeholders with different views. On a personal note, I have had Multiple Sclerosis for over 25 years and have had to navigate numerous health issues/insurance/expenses to be as healthy as possible. It has allowed me to develop the skill to work very efficiently and also build buy-in of the people I've had to work with.

Disability

Hollyday, Katy

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'm a new Mainer, having moved from Washington DC two years ago seeking a welcoming, more nature-focused place to raise a family in the future. I'm 31 and I've worked in Democratic politics for over 11 years, primarily working in small dollar fundraising ads to help Democratic candidates flip Republican seats. For 7+ years I've worked with Sandy Hook Promise to pass gun safety legislation. I'm passionate about immigrant rights, women's rights, and climate change. Helping make Maine more affordable, stopping data centers, stopping ICE raids, and improving health care access are the local causes most important to me.

Holmstrom, Elizabeth

SOUTH PORTLAND

Though I have voted in every election since turning 18, I have never felt more compelled to engage more actively in saving our democracy. I believe Dr. Shah is the best candidate to win against Susan Collins and am stepping up to support this win.

Holt, Nicole

PORTLAND

I'll be honest about how I got here: I liked the version of this race where a candidate talked to Mainers in every sense of "where they are." I still think that idea matters — there's real room in this state for someone who reaches people who don't usually feel like politics is for them. That part of it, I haven't given up on. I'm disappointed, not disillusioned. The idea survives even when a particular candidate doesn't. That's exactly why this convention matters — it's the chance to carry the energy of June 9th forward into a nominee who can actually earn it in November. I've lived and voted here my whole life. For the last twenty years of it, I've done the systems work behind people brave enough to do the harder, more visible stuff — most recently leading annual giving and donor systems for a Portland nonprofit serving people experiencing homelessness and poverty. That's given me a close-up view of what it actually takes to keep people engaged past the launch party: the follow-through, the unglamorous maintenance work. I want to bring that same instinct here — showing up for my county, helping select a nominee who can unite the coalition we need, the energy that got 156,000 Mainers to the polls in June plus the swing voters we'll need in November — and then doing the unglamorous work of the fall campaign itself.

Hoose, Shoshana

PORTLAND

Underrepresented Religion

Houlihan, Shannon

CASCO

I'm a nurse from New York and have been in Maine since 2021. I'm so proud of this community and the ranked choice voting system. I am a very liberal Democrat who believes in universal healthcare and beating Susan Collins who has been an embarrassment to my community. I am always encouraging my coworkers to get more involved and myself looking for ways to become more involved.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Howe RN, Brenda L

PORTLAND

I would like to be a delegate because I love democracy! I believe Susan Collins cannot love, democracy and support a demented authoritarian fascist dictator at the same time. We have seen what Susan Collins has chosen. Suzie must go! I had signed up as a delegate for the MAINE democratic convention this year. I'm an unemployed registered nurse who has been volunteering for Graham Platner's campaign. I'm in Portland. I have the time. I have the energy and I have the drive to volunteer for which ever candidate we choose to defeat Susan Collins in November. This is our time to stand up and fight for our freedoms. I'm committed to defeat Susan Collins to protect American Democracy.

Howell, Emily

PORTLAND

As a delegate I plan to vote in this order: 1. Troy Jackson 2. Shenna Bellows 3. Paige Loud 4. Jordan Wood 5. All others. If this aligns with your vote, select me to represent you at convention. My job as a delegate is to represent you, the voter. Carrying out the voters' will with this nominee is how we maintain the progressive movement that prevailed in the primary, and win in November. I will support any candidate to defeat Susan Collins, but today is not about my politics or preferences. It is about yours.

Youth

Huff, Laura Jean

WESTBROOK

I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention and help unite our party around a strong nominee who can defeat Susan Collins in November. This election will take all of us working together, and I am ready to do my part. I will help by talking with voters, knocking doors, making calls, and supporting our eventual nominee enthusiastically. I believe we win when people feel heard, respected, and invited into the process. I also want to help our party keep building on its grassroots momentum by welcoming new activists, supporting local organizers, and keeping people engaged after the convention. I would be proud to carry that unity, urgency, and energy through November.

Humeniuk, Jack

STANDISH

I am interested in becoming a delegate to the state convention for Troy Jackson.

Hunt, Hannah

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate to the Maine Nominating Convention because I can responsibly represent Cumberland County. We need a nominee that will stand for immigrant rights, the environment, and working-class Mainers. We have to get Susan Collins out of office and hold her accountable for her unethical votes. After the convention, I plan to join local phone banks and voter registration drives to help make sure we mobilize every voter in Cumberland County. I'm ready to bring energy to the convention!

Hunter, Ruben

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Mainer and current college student looking to help replace Susan Collin's in the senate. I would ideally like to see a progressive candidate like Troy Jackson be the Democratic Party nominee.

BIPOC, Immigrant/New Mainer, Youth

Hunter, Tyrrell

BRUNSWICK

I volunteered with the Platner campaign; attended strategy meetings, offered advertising advice, and canvassed Brunswick neighborhoods. In past elections, I made thousands of calls helping to elect Governor Mills, Chellie Pingree, and Jared Golden. My point being, I'm not new to electing Democrats. I would like to serve as a delegate to support the following ideas. I believe our party needs to capture the momentum and energy that our Platner volunteers brought to his campaign. We already have a grassroots network of thousands of people dedicated to a progressive platform. Tapping into this resource and including progressive positions will defeat Susan Collins.

Huntley, Pauline C

SOUTH PORTLAND

I want to ensure that we nominate a strong Democratic candidate for Senate who can not only finally defeat Susan Collins but also stand strong in the US Senate for our democratic values. This is a crucial time in our history to have a Senator of integrity who can work across the aisle and convince the few remaining Republicans to vote their conscience and not the will of the current administration.

Hurd, Jane Newcomb

PORTLAND

I admire Shenna's work as Secretary of State and supported her in the gubernatorial race. Having phone banked, door knocked and talked to people for the Platner campaign, I am reminded of my people skills and have morphed from a mainstream liberal to a comfortable, unapologetic but compassionate progressive. I loved working with the young staff. I wish to continue to show the contrast between Shenna and the incumbent. I have rekindled skills selling ideas, I enjoy people of all ages, I can write and can formulate and refine policy ideas if that would help. I am a retired widow. Though born in Boston, we moved to Portland when I was 7. I grew up in Portland and Boothbay Harbor, went to Bates, was a Peace Corps Volunteer in Micronesia, worked on immigrant support issues in Honolulu, and went to DC where I developed a career first in women's issues at the National Women's Political Caucus and later in international telecommunications policy in developing countries in the Federal government and finally as a consultant. I married a trade negotiator for the Federal Government. We lived on Capitol Hill. I chaired the board of a Honolulu-based international non-profit until moved to Boothbay Harbor where I was an elections clerk, served on the board of LincolnHealth, volunteered for New Hope for Women and was a partner in a women's clothing shop in Boothbay Harbor. I was a delegate from Lincoln County to a Maine State Democratic Convention in Portland. We moved to

Hutchison, John

WINDHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate for this process because I am a proud Democrat. I believe strongly in the power and voice of real Maine people. I have lived in Maine my entire life and I would be honored to help my party. I plan to help whatever candidate wins this process by volunteering my time.

Hyde, Jennifer

PORTLAND

Hynes, Nancy Jo

BRUNSWICK

Nancy Hynes from Brunswick, reporting for duty. Susan Collins could have been another Margaret Chase Smith, but instead she chose to increase her wealth and vote with MAGA. Collin's chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee kills Mainers: Joan Sebastian Guerrero was killed with ICE money approved by Collins. Collins' fiscal decisions are responsible for the poor health care that marginalizes fragile Mainers, strips women's rights, and erodes the middle class. I have volunteered in local, state, and federal elections every year since I was 18. As a 21yr-old paid staff member for the Maine Democratic Party, I led the state-wide Get Out The Vote. I learned that in each corner of Maine, voters want honesty: a Senator who will keep their promises. Fifty years later I am on the Action Team of Brunswick Area Indivisible where I work tirelessly to promote and organize events to fight the Collins/Trump regime. Our Senate candidate cannot be everywhere. Events featuring well-known Mainers should visit towns on busses with the slogan "On The Road For [Candidate]." Events across the state throughout Autumn will create buzz and concentrate on GOTV. John Lewis Day in Brunswick features two well-known Mainers that I've recruited: Shay Stewart-Bouley and Julia Gagnon Haven. We must ask for support from every avenue to achieve grassroots momentum. Let's nominate a candidate who is going to bring Maine values back to Maine voters. I would be honored to serve as a delegate. This is our year. ByeBye, Susan.

Insley, Richard

BRUNSWICK

I am a lifelong Democrat who is painfully aware of the need to prevent further damage to this country by not removing power from the Republican party. I am dedicated to doing what I can to nominate the most likely person to defeat the incumbent senator and bring sanity back to the Senate with a democratic majority. as a Democratic committee person and retired judicial officer, I am in a position to make an intelligent decision to accomplish that goal.

Irving, Matthew Sean

WINDHAM

I am asking to serve as a delegate because I believe what we accomplish in this convention will be used to judge progressive movements across our nation. Our party and our country need to witness Democrats coming together to elevate our values over any one candidate and to demonstrate our belief in a government where power serves the interests of people first. This movement that activated in Maine these past months was already alive before Graham became a candidate. The attention his campaign earned allowed us all to recognize each other in the message he carried, to share the weight of our common burdens, and to see that we are already united on so much. It allowed us to feel our strength. The danger to this movement now is that we stop recognizing each other and give in to cynicism toward our party and the value of our participation. Republicans are already trying to sow that cynicism and declare our movement illegitimate. We can bet Susan Collins will do the same. Beating Susan Collins will require a unified, excited, activated party of volunteers. The best way for us to do that is ensure that our process respects the will of the vast majority of voters and the issues they voted on in our primary. As a delegate, my vote will support those issues that brought out a massive majority in June; anti-genocide, fighting the oligarchy, healthcare and human rights for all, and protecting our LGBTQ community.

Isaacson Pfueller, Jenna

CAPE ELIZABETH

We can't let this turn of events slow us down or stop the movement-- but selecting a viable replacement requires delegates with a keen sense of public sentiment. I want to be a delegate to the nominating convention because, as a former journalist, I consider myself a student of the human thought process and well versed in gageing public sentiment. After spending 6 years as a political photographer on Capitol Hill in DC and following local politics here in Maine for the last 10, I've got the chops to understand who has the best chance to solidify enough support in our state to get Collins out for good and finally pull us out of this national tailspin.

Disability

Jackson, Christy

BRUNSWICK

My name is Christy Jackson, and I'm stepping up to be a delegate in Cumberland County in hopes of guiding our state in a positive direction for the November 2026 elections and beyond. I am a 51-year-old woman residing in Brunswick. I immigrated to this country at age 3 and became a naturalized U.S. citizen in college. I am a licensed clinical psychologist who has worked with people from many different backgrounds and life experiences. I have always promised myself that I will remain active in the political process as long as I can - whether that be in advocacy work, voting regularly, protesting, etc. Our future is too important for us to not to be involved. We have a responsibility to take care of our neighbors. I have always chosen my vote based on who will look out for the most vulnerable among us. All of us can easily find ourselves in a situation where there are no safety net to keep us in food, housing, clothing, safety. We have seen how quickly the rights that we have long believed would protect us and other residents can be taken away. I believe in equal rights for everyone. Food, housing, healthcare, etc. are not "luxuries." Every human being should have access to what they need to lead a productive and successful life. I'm hoping that, by participating in this process, I can help to push our Democratic Party in a more progressive direction. We do not need to "appeal to

Immigrant/New Mainer, Underrepresented Religion

Jackson, Georgia

SOUTH PORTLAND

I was born and raised into a very politically active family in Vermont that has followed the scripture of Bernie Sanders since my birth. I am a public school teacher with a background in criminal justice. I worked as a paralegal for a large defense firm in Fairfax Country Virginia for a decade and became very passionate about advocating for justice and on behalf those without a voice. My vote represents my neighbors and all the students and families I have worked with and for over the past 25 years. I believe in the collective power of community and the importance of compassion and understanding for all. As an educator I believe it is only through compassionate and patient engagement that we can open the eyes of many Mainers to see who is actually responsible for our collective suffering. I've been told since I was a child that I can talk to anybody, I consider this a super power and one of the reasons I'm a highly regarded educator. I care a lot about everyone in my community regardless of their political affiliation. I want to help educate others about exactly how we got here.

Disability

Jackson, Heath

PORTLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Youth

Jaehnig, Adrea L

WINDHAM

I am a lifelong Democrat, born and raised in Wisconsin. I have been registered to vote and have voted in Maine since I moved here in 2010. I care about the future of our country and the State of Maine. I will work to defeat Susan Collins by speaking up and out about her voting record on issues that impact everyday Americans and Mainers - access to affordable health care and housing, the right to choose, and keeping our communities and our country a democracy. I know that we the people can and must work together to defeat Senator Susan Collins and create much needed improvements to the quality of life in Maine, in our schools, better jobs, and affordable housing. I will work to elect whoever becomes the Democratic party nominee to represent the great state of Maine.

LGBTQIA+

James-Olson, Lucy

PORTLAND

I am interested in becoming a delegate because despite the disappointment of Graham Platner, the working class people of Maine are more powerful together, and we must defeat Susan Collins.

Janick, Herb F

CAPE ELIZABETH

As a lifelong Democrat, I have become increasingly disappointed with the party. My service as a volunteer and board member in local non-profits (Preble Street and the Southern Maine Agency on Aging) highlights for me the terrible human costs of a society that sanctions a vast disparity in wealth and considers health care a privilege rather than a human right. The Party has not effectively dealt with these issues. Indeed, Graham Platner's grass roots success, despite his glaring personal flaws, is both a testament to his forthrightly speaking to the key issues of the day and an indictment of the Democratic Party's failure to do so. I believe our most effective way to defeat Susan Collins is to nominate an intelligent, clear and forceful communicator who is not closely associated with the institutional Democratic Party. The nominee needs to stop talking about what Democrats are against (Trump and his daily outrages) and instead talk about what they are for (universal health care, curbing the grossly excessive power of corporations and the wealthy, humane treatment of immigrants); and they must explain clearly Susan Collin's role in undermining the quality of life of all Mainers. Given his training, intellect and extraordinary communication skills, I think Nirav Shah is the party's best chance to defeat Susan Collins and I would be honored to serve as a delegate for him.

Janosik, Carla

WINDHAM

Why do I want to be a delegate for the Maine Democratic Nomination Convention? My reason is both simple and perhaps one of the most complex emotions that has existed since the beginning of time: the deep love I have for my children. For all of our children. For my future grandchildren. For my neighbor's children. For Joan Guerrero's daughter. For Liam Ramos. For Renee Good's son. For Lorenzo Araujo's children. For all of the children whose lives become headlines for one atrocity or another. I've shed tears for every single one of them but tears do not elicit change. They all deserve so much better and I will take any opportunity I can to put my voice and my time and my effort towards helping build them a better future. So while I may simply be just a mom, I'm also a Mother. And I wholeheartedly believe that when the voices of Mothers come together to be heard, that's ultimately where change is going to begin.

Jenkins, Christopher

BRUNSWICK

It is imperative to defeat Susan Collins in the 2026 midterm election. Since the Trump administration took office last year, she has demonstrated time and again that she does not represent the interests of neither Maine or the nation. I've lived throughout Maine, having been raised in Washington, Kennebec, and Aroostook counties, and I now reside in Cumberland County. While Maine people hold a diversity of values, we also share the common principles of community, service, and looking out for our neighbors. I want a Democratic candidate who can best carry forward these ideals that I have been fortunate to witness through my family, close friends, and the communities I have called home across our great state. If I am selected as a delegate to the Nominating Convention, I will bring my principles and perspectives, along with the serious consideration and thoughtfulness required to vote on the candidate to best represent the Democratic Party. Like any Mainer, I have my preferences, but I also have an open mind, and our party is fortunate to have a strong field of qualified Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate. Regardless of who is selected, that candidate will have my vote, my support, and my full effort this November. What is at stake is not only electing a Maine Democrat to the Senate, but also helping shape the future of our country during the remaining years of the Trump administration and beyond.

Jenkins, Daniel Frank

PORTLAND

I am a multi-generational Mainer, born and raised in Portland, living most of my life in Maine, both Portland and Lewiston. I have been involved in Democratic campaigns from council and commissioner to state house and US House for nearly a decade. I have knocked doors, donated, provided advice, and staffed campaigns. I care deeply about the direction of the state, who represents us, and am most concerned that we nominate the candidate best prepared to beat Susan Collins and win this seat. If I am fortunate enough to be a delegate I will do my best to represent the voters of our county, where more than 70,000 Democrats weighed in on some of the declared candidates for Senate. I know and like several of the candidates, but there are some declared that I don't know. I seek to go to convention with an open mind about who is best positioned to win the general election, and to best represent the people of Maine in the Senate. I will go to the nominating convention without pledging for a specific candidate. My vote as a delegate would be informed by input received from democrats in our community. To collect this input I will: create a form to gather voter preferences, answer calls and emails, and if a space can be reserved, hold a public listening session for Democrats to share what they want. Regardless of whether I am chosen, my dedication to electing Democrats to public office will continue unabated.

Jenkins, Kristine Lynn

PORTLAND

As a regular voter for 45 years, a former international and domestic election observer, a voter registration volunteer, campaign volunteer, and contributor, I am a big democracy nerd. I go door to door, make phone calls, and give money for Democratic candidates in Maine, and key elections elsewhere. I would like to join others in discussing and considering the next best step for our state, in order to finally unseat Susan Collins. We need to replace her with someone who is ready to deliver on democratic values for the people of Maine. Thank you for considering me.

Jepson, Sheila

PORTLAND

I am running to be a delegate so that we can beat Susan Collins. I am interested in being involved in campaigning to make sure she is out of office. As a recently retired administrator I have the energy and time to commit to this important work.

Jerosch, Anita-Ann

YARMOUTH

I'm running to be a delegate because this nomination is too important to get wrong. Susan Collins has won five terms by outlasting opponents who couldn't build the coalition needed to beat her statewide. I'm asking for your support so that, together, we nominate a candidate with the strength, message, and electability to finally defeat her in November. I don't take this responsibility lightly. As a delegate, I will stay informed, listen to the concerns of voters across our district, and cast my vote with the sole purpose of putting our party in the strongest possible position to win. This isn't about any one candidate's ambition — it's about giving Maine a real chance at change. I'd appreciate your support and your vote.

Jewell, Jennifer

PORTLAND

Delegates must look beyond ideology to select a candidate with the broad statewide appeal required to win. Defeating a five-term incumbent like Republican Senator Susan Collins is an opportunity for our party and is important to the goal of securing a Democratic Senate majority. Because of the timeline, it is important to select a nominee who can build a platform. We must choose a candidate who can unify our base, appeal to independent voters, and run a formidable campaign. While multiple qualified and viable contenders have stepped forward, Dr. Nirav Shah is a candidate with name recognition and leadership experience. As the former Maine CDC director, his public health leadership earned him respect across the state. His early momentum suggests he has the readiness to campaign effectively. My ultimate commitment as a delegate is to the end goal: flipping this seat. Whether the convention nominates Dr. Shah or another contender, I will evaluate every option through a single lens—electability. As a delegate, I will responsibly cast my ballots to ensure we are united behind the strongest nominee capable of defeating Susan Collins and contributing to a Democratic Senate majority.

Johnson, Kathleen

SOUTH PORTLAND

I believe the anti-corporate, people-focused movement that the Platner campaign built can still be leveraged to defeat Susan Collins. I will support a candidate that demonstrates their commitment to putting all Mainers, including our immigrant community, ahead of corporate interests, as well as their ability to win a general election. Domestically, our next senator should do everything they can to roll back Trump's agenda and aim to restore Medicaid funding, support scientific research, and protect our natural resources. Internationally, they should prevent further ego- and profit-driven military engagements, condemn Netanyahu's government for the genocide in Gaza and stop carte-blanche funding to Israel, and re-fund USAID as the U.S.'s primary arm of soft power. I commit to contributing my time (tabling, phone banking, speaking to neighbors etc.) to support this candidate however I can after they are selected. After a decade of living in South Portland, I know the power that our communities have when we work together. Tax billionaires, f*ck Trump, ICE out.

Johnson, Rebecca

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to become a delegate for this upcoming convention because I strongly feel there needs to be BIPOC representation at this convention. I am a member of Maine's Black Community and if given this opportunity, I want to represent my community well. I want to make sure my community has a say in the process. My plan to help defeat Susan Collins, is whoever the nominee is I will use my personal platform on social media to make sure voters are aware of the nominee, talk about the nominees platform and beliefs, and to spread the word also at the University that I attend. I want to help unite the Democratic Party as well as the Black Community & I want to make sure our voices are heard and not left behind.

BIPOC

Johnson, Thomas B Jr

NEW GLOUCESTER

This is in response to the request for a delegate statement of interest. I have always registered as a Democrat while living in Maine. I would be honored to serve as a delegate. At this time I support Dr. Shah and his agenda particularly regarding the health care of Mainers and the need for Medicare for all as well as the need for housing and affordability. Like Dr. Shah my background is in health care having started as a US Public Health Fellow at Brown. I also have graduate degrees in psychology from Harvard and Berkeley. I have served thousands of Maine patients and students over the years. I welcome your vote to serve as a delegate.

Johnston, Geoffrey MacArthur

BRUNSWICK

My name is Geo Johnston. I am a lifelong Democrat, a small business owner, and a Quaker. I've been working to advance the progressive movement as a volunteer community organizer since March 2025, through Indivisible and for the Graham Platner campaign. As someone who believes that the hard work of everyday people has immense value, I'm angered when I see a rigged system take wealth and power away from working Mainers, putting it into the bank accounts of billionaires and behind the closed doors of corporate boardrooms. The June 9th primary saw record voter engagement. Not just with Democrats, but also unenrolled voters who selected the Democratic ballot for the progressive platform championed by Maine's people powered movement. It's clear that Mainers are thirsty for change in Washington, not just registered Dems. The job of a delegate is twofold. 1) to discern which candidate is best suited to defeat Susan Collins, and 2) capture the energy of this moment and build a broad coalition around progressive Democratic politics. As the country watches, let's show that Maine Democrats believe that political power belongs in the hands of the people and not with whoever writes the biggest checks. I am deeply committed to my work as a progressive community organizer, and until working Mainers have the voice they deserve in American politics, I will be in this fight. I believe it's my civic responsibility. As goes Maine, so goes the nation. Thank you for your support.

Johnston, Loren Frank

SCARBOROUGH

I have been a registered Democrat for over 50 years. I am a foot soldier, not seeking positions of authority but supporting candidates that I felt best represented Democratic ideals of economic, social, and political justice. During the 2018 election, I worked as an organizer with the Bernie Sanders campaign and became a Sanders delegate to the Maine Democratic Convention. Recently, I also volunteered with the Platner Campaign, canvassing neighborhoods in Scarborough. I have found that my professional training in relationship-building has been an asset in sharing information with voters who may not initially have a positive perception of the candidates or policies. My issues with Senator Collins include, but are not limited to, her support for the current regime's attack on rural health care, her continued support of the Netanyahu government's genocidal behavior in Gaza and the West Bank, and her lack of willingness to make herself available to her constituents through public meetings. My contributions to replacing Senator Collins and fighting the corruption of our political system have also included op-eds published in the Portland Press Herald and the Bangor Daily News. I plan to continue supporting the foot soldiers of the Democratic Party with my writing and my willingness to do the work of organizing and getting the message out to voters.

Johnston, Stacie

YARMOUTH

As a devout fan of HCR, I can't think of a better way to help! I have 7 grandkids that I am so fearful for. I have a trans granddaughter. Talk about what keeps me awake!! Shah is THE MOST qualified in terms of education, experience and demeanor. I want him to be LOUDER, but that will come!!! I said I would vote for a BLUEberry, but I WANT Dr. SHAH to be our next Senator!!!

Joiner, B Jill

WESTBROOK

I want to serve as a delegate in this nomination process because I believe Maine is at a pivotal moment, and I want to help move our state in the right direction. Too many Mainers are struggling to afford housing, and too many families are one medical bill away from financial hardship. I believe our next Senator needs to be someone who will fight hard for real solutions — expanding access to affordable housing and championing healthcare that actually works for people, including a serious path toward Medicare for All. As a Democrat, I care deeply about making sure our party's nomination process reflects the values and priorities of everyday Mainers, not just the loudest voices or the most well-funded campaigns. I want to be part of the room where that decision gets made, bringing a grounded, practical perspective on what our communities actually need. I'm committed to showing up, listening carefully to the candidates and to fellow delegates, and casting my vote for the person best positioned to fight for working families, expand opportunity, and represent Maine values on the national stage. Being a delegate is a responsibility I take seriously, and I want to earn it by being engaged, informed, and accountable to the people in my community throughout this process. I'd be honored to represent Maine Democrats in selecting a nominee who will fight for the affordable housing, healthcare, and economic security that Mainers deserve.

Jones, Jennifer

SOUTH PORTLAND

Hi, I'm an adoptive mom of three siblings with autism and a therapist. I cofounded the resistance group March Forth in 2017. We focused on civil rights and resisting Trump policies. I organized the 2nd Women's March in Augusta in 2018 and our group held rallies/protests around Portland. Remember the Bye Bye Susan campaign? That was us! I also co-founded the Hub, a centralized forum for Indivisibles and resistance groups from all over the state to strategize and create co-ordinated actions and elect Ds. Our state was called the Gold Standard by Erza Levina and Leah Greenberg because of the success of our co-ordinated protests. I had to take a break from my political work for the past 5 years caring for my husband with cancer and my 90 year old parents. But I am back! I have energy, positivity, and skills in consensus and team building as well as conflict resolution. I am an ethical, can-do person. I am learning a lot as a member of Simon Rosenberg's Hopium community, attending weekly zooms and communicating daily on our chat. I feel the Dems need delegates like me who are not insiders. This is crucial for the legitimacy of this process. If we do not get this right, we are going to lose many voters and Collins will win again. So pick me! I can help! I appreciate how tough this process is and I thank you for doing such a great job. Thanks, Jennifer Jones

Jones, Ryan

BRUNSWICK

I want to be a part of the support for my friend, and Maine's ally, Troy Jackson. I also want to be of service to the democratic party, and put someone who has working class Mainers interest in mind, in office.

Jordan, Anne H

SOUTH PORTLAND

As a life long Mainer, we need folks who believe in good fair government. A Senator who represents all Mainers, not just special interests and is a true public servant not someone who is looking to personally gain from the position. Governing should be hard work based on true moral beliefs and love of your fellow human beings, not love of money or power. We need someone who will work with and talk to and with all sides, not a rubber stamp.

Jordan, Haven

YARMOUTH

I'm a life-long Democrat. I'm qualified to serve as a delegate as I have taught Government for 36 years at Brunswick HS and Cape Elizabeth HS. I'm willing to contact voters to underscore the importance of our party winning back the House & Senate. I'll call them on November 3 to remind them to vote in the run-up to the election

Jordy, Lauren Eldridge

FALMOUTH

I would like to be a part of the nominating convention because I have supported candidates in this election cycle with donations, door knocking, attending the ME Democratic Convention at Thompson's Point, I work for the Town of Falmouth during elections, & I help the League of Women Voters register new voters. We need to win the Senate seat, we need to defeat Susan Collins. I want to be a part of the movement to bring Mainers together in the effort to defeat Susan Collins and push forward with a new democratic movement.

Joy, Pamela A

SCARBOROUGH

I am 70 years old and fit the demographics of many Maine people. I am retired and worried about my expenses. I am also very worried with the politics at the national level and am convinced that Susan Collins needs to be replaced. I have been involved with local politics over the years and helped campaign for local state representatives and the governors race. This race is one of the most serious for many many years. I would like to support the delegate process and identify the right candidate that can beat Susan Collins and support the needs of our state and nationally.

Juniewicz, Cheryl

PORTLAND

I would be interested in serving as a Shah delegate representing Cumberland County at the Nominating Convention on July 25th. I would be proud to be a part of this opportunity to actively participate in this monumental decision-making process. I have been fortunate. I led a full life in Westbrook and Portland, working as a teacher, a social worker, and in the fishing industry. I was able to get an education, have medical insurance, and afford to buy a home. These are things I want to see be available for the next generations of Mainers, be they born here or arrive here by choice. I am saddened to see the dismantling of beneficial programs and the blatant disregard for the Constitution. I am disgusted by seeing the rights of women and immigrants being trampled, climate change being denied, and the environment being degraded for profit. There is a desperate need for change in our state and national government, and I believe Nirav Shah can make a difference. During the campaign, I would be happy to host neighborhood gatherings to support Nirav Shah in defeating Susan Collins in the upcoming election. Previously, I represented the East Deering Neighborhood Association at the Portland City Level. I can also assist in distributing signage. Sincerely, Cheryl Juniewicz

KIFFNEY, GUSTIN

PORTLAND

Nothing is more important than restoring sanity and true justice to the United States, and Susan Collins has shown time and again that she is a servant of a party that seems intent on destroying the institutions of justice, law, citizen protection, science and medicine that have made us a great country. I will canvass in any neighborhood to get out the vote and encourage voting Democratic.

Kabongo, Boniface

SCARBOROUGH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe this election will shape the future of Maine for years to come. Throughout my career, I have worked to empower young people, strengthen our communities, and build grassroots movements that create lasting change. From organizing youth leadership programs and advocating before the Legislature to helping pass legislation, I have seen firsthand that meaningful change happens when ordinary people get involved. This fall, I will do everything I can to help defeat Susan Collins by organizing volunteers, knocking doors, making calls, and having conversations with voters about the issues that matter most like affordable housing, lowering costs, protecting our democracy, quality public education, and expanding opportunity for every Mainer. Elections are won through relationships, and I am committed to meeting people where they are. Beyond November, I want to help build a stronger Democratic Party by recruiting and mentoring new volunteers, especially young people and first-time activists, and ensuring they remain engaged long after Election Day. Grassroots organizing cannot end with one election; it must become a permanent movement that develops the next generation of leaders and keeps our communities connected and involved. I would be honored to represent my community as a delegate and help ensure we nominate a candidate who can unite Mainers and win in November.

BIPOC, Youth

Kalajainen, Carol Hartman

BRUNSWICK

As a life-long Democrat, I am very interested in being part of this nomination process as we work together to defeat Susan Collins. To reach that goal, I am willing to participate in the needed tasks of contacting potential voters and following up with them. This might include office tasks, co-hosting an event, or staffing a table at a public event. My particular area of knowledge is Maine's immigrant community, resulting from the 15 years I spent working abroad in Asia and Europe and, most recently, 9+ years of extensive volunteer work as one of the founders of a small, all-volunteer non-profit, MidCoast New Mainers Group. Looking through the lens of the immigrant community as they rebuild their lives has increased my awareness of the essential elements needed for ALL community members to thrive: food, housing, jobs, transportation, and schools that address student needs. To continue to build Democratic grassroots momentum, I will collaborate to nominate a candidate whose vision aligns with our Democratic values and recruit others to work toward the nominee's election.

Kallich, Joel David

FALMOUTH

We meet at one of those defining moments: a moment when our nation is at war, our economy and the world are in turmoil, our government has become corrupt, and people are being killed in our streets. The American promise—our freedoms, our ideals of kindness and neighborliness, and our duty to help one another—is being eroded day by day. This moment is the direct result of the failed policies of Susan Collins and the Republican Party. It is clear they do not represent the values Mainers hold dear. I pledge to support a candidate who believes it is their duty to uphold our ideals, unite Mainers, and win in November. Thank you for your support

Disability

Kane, Alex

SOUTH PORTLAND

As a canvasser, I have talked with hundreds of Democratic voters in southern Maine. This work has given me an intimate perspective on their priorities. Of these, affordability and defeating Susan Collins loom large. As a USM student, I have dedicated my time to becoming an informed and skilled teacher who will serve the next generation and give back to my community. My education has given me the tools to speak out about important issues. As a lifelong Mainer, I have nothing but love for this state. I'm thoroughly disinterested in deepening division within the party; now more than ever is a time when we need to rally around the fundamental concerns of Mainers. The process of choosing a Democrat who will flip this Senate seat in November demands the political experience and dedication which I will bring to this position.

Kane, David Michael

SCARBOROUGH

I support Troy Jackson. Troy is the most aligned candidate with Graham Plantner's stances and would provide the different viewpoint that Washington needs to hear. He has been effective working with others in Augusta and can bring those skills to DC.

Kane, John

CAPE ELIZABETH

My name is John Kane. I may be From Away but I'll never be To Away. I grew up in Buffalo, NY. I have a Math degree from Holy Cross, a Masters in Materials Science from Rutgers, worked in IT for 20 years, was a Middle and High School Math Teacher in NYC for five years. In retirement I worked at SMCC for ten years as an Adjunct Instructor until Covid ended my career. I live in Cape Elizabeth with my wife Ronnie and love walking our dog at Fort Williams. Ronnie and I were Bernie Delegates in 2016 but have lately become disillusioned with the Democratic Party. I supported Governor Mills (See You In Court) and Dr. Shah in the Primary. Now I support Shenna Bellows as the Senate Candidate who has the best ability to beat Senator Collins and serve as a distinguished US Senator. I want to be a part of the most exciting democratic endeavor ever: As a Maine Delegate to the Democratic Snap Convention, I am excited to be in the room where it will happen! To make a long story short, vote for me!

Kane, Paula Marie

SCARBOROUGH

I support all of Troy Jackson's platform and will donate to his campaign to win the nomination.

Kasser, Alex Mochary

CAPE ELIZABETH

Katilus IV, George

PORTLAND

My name is George Katilus, and I'm stepping up to be a delegate in Cumberland County to help usher in Maine's political future. I'm a marketing leader for a climate technology company helping keep the electric grid more affordable, so I spend my days thinking about climate change and how rising energy costs are affecting everyone. Outside of work, I'm a surfer who's pushed for sustainability and better public beach access in my community. I also help with my fiancée's art business and organize community makers markets for artists and entrepreneurs statewide. I have been an active volunteer in the 2026 Maine Senate race through canvassing and organizing events, and I plan to work even harder to make sure the Democratic candidate wins the general election. The race in November will likely be decided by a razor-thin margin, and the only way to victory is through an organized, people-powered movement. I plan to be an active participant in organizing and getting my hands dirty with groundwork: knocking on doors, phone banking, and using what I know about messaging and communications to help sharpen how we can empower voters. I am asking for the honor of representing my state, and more importantly, my diverse circle of working-class peers who call this wonderful state home. I pledge to selflessly work to choose the best candidate to represent the people of Maine, our land, our water, our air, our ecosystem, and to bring Susan Collins' reign to an end.

Youth

Kaufman, Heather Michelle

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to honor the more than 150,000 historic votes cast on June 9, 2026. This monumental turnout proved that our grassroots movement belongs to the platform, not a single candidate. While Maine Democrats suffered a recent gut punch, we will pick up the progressive mantle and charge forward. To defeat Susan Collins in November, we must offer an undeniable, progressive alternative that re-energizes the working class. I will support a candidate who promises to fight for exactly what Mainers voted for: Medicare for All, an end to taxpayer-funded genocide and forever wars, robust protections for strong unions, and jobs with a living wage. We must stand firmly on a platform that bans billionaires from buying our elections and calls to abolish ICE. Collins wins when voters stay home; we defeat her by giving working people a champion who genuinely represents them. Thank you for your consideration.

Kearney, Jaime Teresa

WESTBROOK

I'm running to serve as a delegate because our party works best when it reflects the everyday lives of the people we represent, and because this moment calls for careful, good-faith participation rather than division. I want to help our party approach this process thoughtfully and respectfully, so whoever we select enters November united and ready to win. I bring a mix of experience I think reflects a lot of Mainers. As a former public school teacher, I saw firsthand what real investment in students and communities makes possible. I also know what it's like to lose health insurance after a layoff: I was out of work from last July until late February, right as federal subsidies for marketplace coverage were cut, which reinforced my belief that healthcare shouldn't depend on a paycheck. Today I'm in a more stable place: I work remotely with good benefits, and I was fortunate to buy a home at the right time. That stability hasn't made me forget what came before it, and it's part of why I care about expanding opportunity, easing our housing crisis, and defending voting rights and women's rights for everyone still working to get there. If selected, I'll work hard to help elect our nominee, using my background in data and reporting, plus phone banking, text banking, and grassroots organizing. I'm committed to supporting whoever our party selects, listening closely throughout this process, and helping build the coalition we need to defeat Susan Collins and keep growing after November.

Keck, Jesse

CUMBERLAND

Lifelong Mainer born and bred, many things to be proud of in this state and many things to improve on. As a young Dem I am excited to contribute to our future direction in congress.

Keenan, Daniel

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have been committed to Democratic causes, candidates, and values for years. I believe in thoughtful civic engagement and want to help represent my community in an informed manner, and I want to bring my perspective on the major issues facing our State and country today. As a solo practitioner attorney, a large part of my practice involves representing asylum seekers and non-citizens in green card and naturalization matters. As a result, I'm keenly aware of the cruel impact that the current administration's anti-immigrant policies—which Susan Collins has enabled, and continues to enable—are having on our State's noncitizen residents. As a small business owner, husband, and father of a one-year-old daughter who has significant medical needs, I understand and have daily, first-hand experience navigating the maze of healthcare and health insurance in America is like (made more difficult by Collins' enabling), as well how this administration's economic and social policies (again, enabled by Susan Collins) are resulting in rising costs of operating a business and raising a family in this State and country. I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I'll bring these and other political, social, and economic perspectives. I believe I can play an important role in judiciously choosing the party's nominee and ensuring that this nominee for Senate reflects the values, priorities, and voices of its members and the State of Maine.

Keene, Spencer

BRUNSWICK

I'm running to serve as a delegate because I believe the strongest Democratic Party is one that's built from the ground up by everyday members who are willing to show up, listen, and do the work. I've been active in my union and know the value of bringing people together to solve problems and stand up for working families. I want to make sure the voices of working people are represented throughout the nominating process. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I'll volunteer my time to knock doors, make phone calls, talk with voters in my community, and encourage others to get involved. Elections are won through conversations and relationships, and I'm committed to doing my part to help elect a Democrat who will fight for Maine families, protect workers' rights, and defend our democratic institutions. Beyond this election, I want to help keep our grassroots momentum growing by welcoming new volunteers, encouraging younger people to get involved, and staying engaged long after Election Day. Building a stronger party means investing in local organizing, supporting candidates up and down the ballot, and making sure people know their voices matter. Serving as a delegate would be an opportunity to represent those values while helping strengthen our party for the future.

Keezing, April

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am the mother of two young children who are growing up in the state of Maine. I teach music to children and adults in my community. I have a vested interest in making Maine a better place, both as a parent and worker, but also as a community member who has experienced the challenges of life in Maine, as well as its beauty and spirit of camaraderie. We need empathetic, genuinely caring people to step up and serve as delegates. I believe that with the right leadership, we will defeat Susan Collins and send a powerful message to the rest of the country. We do not want billionaires and corporations ruling over us like monarchs. We want our neighbors and friends to have a voice in politics, and my intention is to help those voices be heard. I will continue to support the eventual nominee and do everything in my power, including phone banking, knocking on doors, and engaging my own community. Thank you for your consideration.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Youth

Keleher, Amelia

PORTLAND

I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe Maine deserves a Democratic Senate candidate who understands the challenges facing our communities and will fight for working families, immigrant communities, and policies that improve people's lives. Since 2022, I have volunteered and served on the board of Food For All Services (FFA), an immigrant-owned halal pantry in Portland. This year, I helped FFA respond to increased ICE presence in Maine while continuing to deliver culturally relevant food to immigrant families. As a board member of Friends of Congress Square Park, I help organize and run free, public community events that bring people together and raise awareness of our vibrant city and the people who inhabit it. As a Policy Associate at the Center for Science in the Public Interest, I advocate for state and local policy change by writing testimony, mobilizing constituents, and meeting with policymakers. Outside of work, I have advocated for legislation to curb abuses of power by ICE and Border Patrol, stop the genocide in Palestine, expand free school meals, and advance other policies that strengthen Maine communities. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I will continue organizing, advocating, and having meaningful conversations with voters about the issues that matter most. I am committed to building on our party's grassroots momentum by supporting community-led organizing, encouraging civic participation, and helping elect leaders who will govern with integrity and put Mainers first. Thank you for your consideration. Sincerely, Amelia Keleher

LGBTQIA+

Keleher, Tom

HARPSWELL

Maine has a unique opportunity to change the national political landscape. The candidate we nominate will likely defeat Susan Collins and help determine the balance of power in the United States Senate. I will actively engage voters in my local communities of Harpswell and Brunswick. As a college radio station DJ, avid USTA tennis player, founder of Brunswick Walking Soccer, and employee of the largest community foundation in New England, I have built a broad and diverse network that spans many backgrounds, interests, and perspectives. I will leverage these relationships to encourage civic participation, support our nominee, and help expand Democratic voter engagement throughout the campaign. As a delegate, I will support the candidate who best demonstrates the integrity, intelligence, judgment, and respect necessary to defeat Susan Collins and effectively represent Maine in the United States Senate. We are at a unique moment in history, and voters are looking for leaders who can address real challenges while bringing people together around a positive vision for the future. The nomination process must be transparent, democratic, and trusted by voters. A fair and open process will help unite Democrats and build the enthusiasm needed for victory in November. Delegates with integrity, sound judgment, and deep community connections can help ensure that the nominating process is viewed as legitimate and representative. I can effectively serve in this role and would be honored to represent Cumberland County as a delegate to the State Nominating Convention.

Kelley, Deborah Ann

NORTH WINDHAM

The promise of America is not dead. We've seen the overwhelming support and community that came together, answering a passionate call for economic justice, universal healthcare, well-funded public schools, stronger unions, and for protecting the rights of all members of our community. While I am horrified, stunned, and heartbroken as the goodness of America is trampled by a criminal administration, I choose to fight back. I choose to fight for the America I dream of, where everyone's rights are protected, workers receive fair treatment, and all of us have healthcare, homes that are affordable, immigrant neighbors who are appreciated for their substantial contributions, LGBTQ friends who are fearless, and no one is above the law. As a member of the Windham Town Democratic Committee, I serve on the Outreach and Finance Committees. During this election cycle, I've helped to organize and co-host fundraisers for Shenna Bellows, Troy Jackson, and with my Senator, Tim Nangle, for the SDCC, and work with our SummerFest committee yearly to raise money for WDTC scholarship awards. I organize and canvass for our Senator and our House candidate Bradley Youngs to collect Clean Elections contributions, and support other Clean Elections candidates outside my district with campaign seed money. There is more I can do, but the biggest impact I can have now is to make sure our nominee will beat Susan Collins. We must send a Democrat to the Senate. I promise to choose carefully and to support our candidate. I appreciate your consideration for delegate.

Kelley, Thomas

FREEPORT

I grew up in a working-class family in Portland, attended Portland public schools and Cheverus High School. I worked for over 40 years as an attorney for one of Maine's civil legal aid providers and represented poor and disabled people in a variety of legal matters. The US desperately needs universal health care, adequate housing support, pro-labor policies, protection from consumer fraud, and reform of a tax system tilted in favor of the super-rich. Yet Republicans give highest priority to the concerns of America's wealthiest individuals, at the expense of addressing the needs of the middle class, the working class, and the poor. Susan Collins has long been an enabler of this sad state of affairs. This is a critical election, and I would like to serve as a delegate to lend my voice to the selection process. We have a talented group of candidates willing to challenge Collins. I would vote for the candidate who, in my opinion, has the best chance of defeating her. I am still assessing who that may be. I will contribute funds and volunteer time to the party's nominee.

Kelley, Tom Jr

BRUNSWICK

We have 17 days to give the people of Maine the Democrat who both best represents them and is the strongest candidate to defeat Susan Collins. I am a lifelong Mainer who lives in the Midcoast, and have been a social studies teacher in Central and Western Maine for over a decade. Politics and civic responsibility have always been essential in my life. This summer and fall I will be campaigning anywhere I have a connection to, for whoever our candidate is. This is a Senate seat we cannot afford to lose during this turbulent time in our country.

Kelliher, Natalie Jeanne

BRIDGTON

I want to serve as a delegate to represent the Democratic voters of Cumberland County and make sure we pick the best candidate to unseat Susan Collins. I will listen to my fellow Democrats and vote based on, not just my own personal interests, but the interests of my entire county and what issues they are most concerned with. I will do everything in my capacity to support the chosen nominees grassroots efforts to defeat Susan Collins.

Kelly, James

YARMOUTH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate at the nominating convention because I want to work with my fellow Democrats to elect a nominee who shares the values, ideals, and policy positions of Maine's Democratic voters. This convention needs to nominate the candidate who not only has the best chance of defeating Susan Collins in November but who will also best serve the people of Maine in the Senate. I have served on boards and organizations that rely on a consensus-building process like that used at the convention. I would like to put my experience to work for the people of Cumberland County. Drawing on that experience, I will enter the convention educated on the positions and backgrounds of the candidates so that I might better understand where we agree, and the nuances and differences that keep us apart. I will approach my fellow delegates and voters with an open mind, respect, and genuine interest in their positions, arguments, and beliefs, and I will work tirelessly until we have a nominee that we can all unite behind. With your support, I would be honored to represent Cumberland County at the nominating convention.

Kelly, Jessica

YARMOUTH

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Kelsey, Emily Katherine

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe our party is strongest when it is rooted in community, solidarity, and a shared commitment to improving people's lives. As a delegate, I will advocate for upholding the progressive policies that people have already responded positively to in this election cycle. Policies that I am particularly committed to will contribute to implementing Maine's Climate Action Plan, expanding access to affordable and fair housing, and protecting our neighbors from harmful ICE tactics. I believe government should work for people, not corporate interests, and that we must continue fighting for economic, social, and environmental justice. Once a new candidate has been determined, I will dedicate time to organizing and engaging my local community in progressive activism and voter outreach. I will explore coalition building within my professional and personal networks to encourage resource-sharing and open dialogue. I believe the success of our party's grassroots efforts will be found in the strength of the relationships we build and foster; relationships that encourage participation and empower action. Lasting change comes from neighbors supporting neighbors, and I am committed to doing that work every day.

Youth

Kelsey, George

PORTLAND

Representation of the young adults and younger generations of Maine motivates me to be a part of the 2026 Nominating Convention. I staunchly believe that being born and raised in Maine bestows me with the civic duty to advocate for the best interests of my town, community, and overarching demographic of young people across our state. Having seen the impact the opposition has had on our rural population and how personal interests have been prioritized over the interests of the people, I aim to use my voice on the issues afflicting Maine to aid in the nominating process for the 2026 Nominating Convention. I believe that my unique perspective will be deeply beneficial and will not only better represent the people of my community, but provide insight to how younger generations of Maine view politics.

Kennedy, Alexander W

WESTBROOK

I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because the stakes of this race couldn't be higher, and defeating Susan Collins will take a candidate who can bring Democrats together and build support across Maine. I have lived in Maine my whole life. I was born and raised in Jay and now live in Westbrook. I have seen how different communities can have very different needs while still sharing many of the same concerns about affordability, healthcare, opportunity, and the future of our state. In my professional work, I help people navigate the state and federal systems meant to serve them. I regularly see how decisions made in Washington show up in people's daily lives, impeding our access to healthcare, housing, economic security, and eroding our fundamental rights. I also understand that winning in November will require a broad coalition. Democrats may have supported different candidates or approached the primary from different perspectives, but now we need a nominee who can earn the support of the whole party, motivate volunteers, and reach Mainers who may not always vote Democratic. I plan to help in any way I can: knocking on doors, making calls, recruiting volunteers, attending local events, and using my communications experience to clearly explain what is at stake. I also want to build on this movement by keeping new volunteers engaged and strengthening the grassroots organizing necessary to both win this race and strengthen our party for the future.

Kennedy, Matthew Alden

PORTLAND

This November, Maine plays a pivotal role in the fight to restore national democracy and resist the Trump Administration's abhorrent policies. The nomination of Maine's Democratic candidate for US Senate is a critical step in that process and I would be honored to participate. I was a delegate for the Maine Democratic Convention in 2016 and have been closely following this race for over a year. Whomever is chosen, I'm committed to volunteering to help get them elected to defeat Susan Collins, sending texts, making calls, knocking on doors, etc. I look forward to this process and am confident that the Maine Democratic delegation will make the correct choice to unseat Senator Collins.

Kent, Keenan

PORTLAND

Maine voters knowingly supported a deeply flawed person in the primary because they believed in the things he was saying. Graham Platner, the person, was always an albatross around the neck of the agenda he espoused. Despite who we knew him to be, Maine voters gave a clear mandate to his platform. I believe our nominee must be a champion of labor rights, Medicare for All, and a free Palestine. Anything less is a betrayal of the voters, and they will punish us for it in November.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Kerr, Kathleen

PORTLAND

I'm putting my name forth as a delegate because I, like many Maine Democrats, have been on the rollercoaster of this election cycle, and instead of continuing to sit back and Monday morning quarterback, I'd like to participate more fully. It's time for a new wave of Maine leadership— one focused on making this incredible state livable, welcoming, and affordable for all who choose to call it home. I work in health care, and my work affords me the opportunity to walk alongside people who are struggling every day. I'm inspired by how hard people in this state are working to afford a roof over their heads and food on the table and the ability to see their doctor once in a while. And I'm entirely disheartened by the number of people for whom those simple things have become out of reach or unattainable. I'm hoping for a process where we come out in full force against the policies of the extremist MAGA agenda but where we make room for conservatives who have felt left behind by Trump, this economy, and a world that is increasingly angry. My political bent is progressive, but the way we move forward needs to create space for others to join us. I'm ready to put my time and effort behind whichever candidate comes out of this process. Whoever we choose, the Democratic Party must come together with logic, passion, and compassion to advance this campaign. It's time to help Susan Collins retire.

Kessler, Christopher John

SOUTH PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because as a State Representative for my district, I am uniquely tuned into who my community desires to see as our next US Senator. It is my personal goal to engage unenrolled voters constructively about our economic message and disillusioned Platner supporters to dispel suspicions of a larger conspiracy led by the Democratic party "establishment".

Khoriaty, River

BRUNSWICK

I'm River Khoriaty, from Brunswick, Maine. The Platner campaign brought an energizing and refreshing energy to the state, demonstrating that Mainers want a candidate who focuses on the concerns of everyday people and stands up to the establishment rather than being in its pocket. This convention is an opportunity to regroup around a message that resonates with voters, while ensuring that our candidate is qualified and competent. Before moving to Brunswick, I held one of the Topsham seats on the MSAD 75 school board. Holding a seat on the school board made me truly realize the depth of the large, but often overlooked impact that town councils and school boards have on their regions. I typically prioritize working with local campaigns because of how critical it is that officials at all levels support their constituents. But in our current political situation, we need someone who will defeat Susan Collins, and work to put checks on the presidential overreach once they're in Washington. We are facing a federal administration that is trying to cut programs and services that benefit lower and middle income people while providing tax breaks for the wealthy. And as we have so freshly been reminded, they are doing so while using ICE as a force of terror against those who are most vulnerable. Facing them requires candidates who know how to get things done. Shenna Bellows, as secretary of state, and Troy Jackson, as Maine Senate president, have proved they have such political ability.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Kibbie, Ann

BRUNSWICK

I am dedicated to helping Dr. Shah defeat Susan Collins.

Kilcullen, Katherine

PORTLAND

Sincere thanks to the Maine Democratic Party for working so hard to support the progressive agenda of the current moment, and so quickly working to find an equitable solution to include as many Mainers as possible to select a new candidate for Senate. Senator Susan Collins is responsible for taking away the fundamental human right to abortion. She has stated she has no regrets. She does not deserve another term in the Senate. The events bringing Maine Democrats to this tumultuous crisis, at a mission critical time for the entire country, is a blow, but we are Mainers. We have momentum. It is time to make lemonade! The ongoing campaigns for Governor, House and Senate have produced many qualified candidates. Shenna Bellows is an articulate candidate who has built momentum supporting a progressive agenda for the people of Maine, and our country: universal health and child care, reproductive rights, workers rights, housing crisis, protecting our environment, tax fairness. Unchecked monopolies and corruption have usurped the rights, and undone the welfare of ordinary Americans, both young and old. I believe Shenna Bellows has a strong track record, and will hard to effectively address the needs of Maine people as our Senator. It is an existential moment in time. We, the people, must unite together behind the progressive agenda our state so desperately needs, and support the one final candidate, no matter who it may be, to ensure Senator Collins' defeat becomes reality!

King, Christen

YARMOUTH

I'd like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because my yard signs and small donations are not enough. They probably never were. I debated how to rank my votes during the recent democratic primary for Governor and need to hear more from many of those same candidates who are now interested in serving as our next Senator. The candidates share many of the beliefs and opinions that I do, but I would like to understand first-hand how they prioritize those opinions and what their legislative priorities will be. No matter who is ultimately selected during the Nominating Convention, I intend to join canvassing and phone banking efforts on behalf of that candidate. It's time to remind those around us that our lives are not better after another two years of Trump, and that Susan Collins has supported and enabled him at every opportunity. Our groceries are more expensive and less safe, our neighbors are in danger of kidnapping at murder at the hands of ICE, healthcare and reproductive rights are under constant threat thanks to the judges that Susan Collins has voted to confirm, and the world is less stable because of the limitless war powers that she has voted to grant. Every one of these issues needs to be stated explicitly and repeatedly, and I'd like to be a part of the effort to do so, beginning with the privilege of helping to select Maine's next candidate for Senate.

King, Jessica

SCARBOROUGH

I am requesting to serve as a delegate because I believe change happens when people get involved, listen to their communities, and take action. As a lifelong Mainer and licensed mental health counselor, I see how decisions made at the federal level impact families, health care, education, and the well-being of our communities. I want to help support a candidate who represents Maine's values and works toward a stronger future. I plan to help by encouraging voter registration and turnout, having conversations with friends and neighbors, and supporting local campaign efforts. I believe honest and respectful conversations help people feel heard and encourage more people to participate. I am committed to helping strengthen our grassroots movement by encouraging civic engagement, sharing accurate information, and helping people feel connected to the democratic process. I believe that when communities come together and more people participate, we build a stronger future for Maine.

Kinney, Dale

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat. Yes, like many, I have voted for Non-democrats, including Susan Collins on occasion. I do not believe we have always had the best candidate in some races. That being said, this Senate race is of utmost importance to all. Sen. Collins needs to go. She supports the President's agenda, causing undue harm and hardship to her constituents and our country as a whole. I am a firm believer in our democratic process and fully support the process outlined to choose the Dem. Senate candidate. I am a Warden for the City of Portland and have worked the Polls for close to 40 years. I know first hand that our elections are fair and the results can be trusted. Through the years I have attended many Dem. caucuses and found the process to be lively and really representative of how a democracy works. At this point in time I have no one candidate that I champion. I have been and will continue to Poll my neighbors, friends and others as to what they are looking for in our next Senator. Collins must go. Thank you for your consideration.

Kinsler, Cole

WESTBROOK

My name is Cole and I'm a web developer and musician in Westbrook. I have been participating in the senate race for the past ten months as a volunteer. Over that time, I've engaged with countless Mainers who are energized by the prospect of a bold progressive platform that provides economic freedom and dignity to all working people. I would be thrilled to represent these interests in Bangor by identifying the candidate who is best positioned to carry this platform forward and defeat Susan Collins. I have a firm belief in universal human rights that drives my worldview. I believe healthcare is a human right. I believe we must stop funding atrocities abroad and invest in our communities instead. At a time when productivity continues to soar and wages remain stagnant, I believe we must make structural changes to redistribute wealth back to working people. I believe we must strengthen and empower labor unions. I am confident we will defeat Susan Collins in November. In June we saw a historic showing of Mainers who rejected the status quo in favor of a new kind of politics. I am committed to supporting and organizing for any candidate that is explicit in their commitment to a bold progressive agenda that puts working people first.

Youth

Kirsh, James

FALMOUTH

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously

Kleeman, Christopher

CAPE ELIZABETH

As a father of 5 girls, I want to help select a candidate that will ensure that Maine is a place they can live and work as adults. Good jobs, affordable housing, clean energy, universal healthcare, fight climate change, ban assault weapons, and protect reproductive rights. I am a 53 year old physician and have worked in Portland for close to 20 years.

Klein-Christie, Anna

SOUTH PORTLAND

As a longtime member of the Democratic Party, an educator, and the Executive Director of a public STEM high school in Portland, I see every day how public policy shapes opportunity. My work is rooted in the belief that every young person deserves access to an outstanding public education, a healthy environment, and an economy that offers meaningful pathways to success. Those values are what have kept me engaged in both my community and our party for many years. There is no question that this election comes at a time when politics in Maine is affected by the decisions made by our Senator in unequalled ways. Any financial benefit Mainers have received from Susan Collins being on the appropriations committee is far outweighed by the harms that have been experienced by our people. Our nominee must be able to inspire voters, defend democratic institutions, protect reproductive freedom, invest in public education, and address the economic and environmental challenges facing our state. I want to help ensure our party puts forward the strongest possible candidate. As an educator, I have been privileged to engage with people of all backgrounds. Working in the public sector requires an open mind and an open heart. My advocacy with them has been to fight cynicism and maintain their belief in democracy - as high school students, as parents, and as grandparents or friends. The energy we are seeing across Maine comes from people who believe they can make a difference. I want to help grow

Klinge, Benjamin

BRUNSWICK

As a young Mainer, Susan Collins has been my senator my entire life. I've grown up seeing her position as the status quo until this past year. Something special is happening in Maine, a grassroots movement that is uniting young and old in a shared crusade to fight for a better future for our state. I worked on Graham Platner's campaign for the past several months and believe it is essential we harness the energy and excitement he helped generate to not only defeat Susan Collins in November, but elect a Senator who will fight for working Mainers and take on the Trump administration's corruption and authoritarianism. I am interested in sharing my voice and perspective as a student and as a biracial Mainer. I feel these two perspectives differ drastically from the majority of Mainers and the majority of Democrats in our state and I want to share my voice in the process to select our nominee and our next Senator. I know what it feels like to grow up differently but I also know what it feels like to be welcomed and accepted by my loving community in Brunswick. Maine's next senator needs to be able to create coalitions, across lines of age, race, class, and gender, to strengthen the bonds that unite us and weaken Trump's power in Washington. Diversity is the Maine Democrats' greatest strength and I want to lend my unique experiences and perspectives to the selection process.

Knight-Wise, Kathryn

YARMOUTH

Here's the updated draft (still under 250 words): --- I'm asking for your support as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I bring a perspective few others can offer. As a Mainer who grew up in Northern Maine, lived in Midcoast Maine, and graduated from the University of Maine, Orono, I understand this state in a way that's shaped by real roots here, not just a talking point. After some years away, I've since made my home in Southern Maine, giving me a firsthand view of how our party's message lands differently across every region of this state. I'm currently in my third year of a PhD in leadership and organizational studies, and I bring decades of experience leading large organizations and building high-performance teams, including 40 years running a fashion business, along with deep expertise in marketing, branding, and communications. I also serve on the Board of Trustees for Maine College of Art & Design and the Board of Directors for the University of Maine Alumni Association, work that's sharpened my ability to think strategically about building institutions that last. Defeating Susan Collins in November demands a disciplined, well-branded campaign that speaks authentically to voters statewide. I want to help sharpen our messaging, build high-performing volunteer and canvassing teams that tell a clear, consistent story on the doors and online, and bring organizational leadership that keeps our teams effective rather than burned out. I also care about what comes after November. Grassroots momentum compounds only if we develop

Kniseley, Donald

BRUNSWICK

I very much want to serve as a delegate. Life-long Democrat. Not a native Mainer, but I came here by choice in 1978. I'm retired and very active in things in Brunswick—including Rotary, the Brunswick Downtown Association & more. Love this town and this state. I want to be part of winning this election and sending Collins to her next venue.

Kohrman-Glaser, lila

PORTLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Koocher, Alise

FALMOUTH

I've become more involved in the Democratic Party in the past few years. Really want to help in anyway I can. Also trying to learn about the process of how our government works. I feel this particular election is very important. We have to pick the right person that can win against Susan Collin's. It's so critical that we win. Our country is depending on Maine. We all have to work together as a united Democratic Party and that's what I will do in voting as a delegate

Kopelman, Alison

PORTLAND

Our state deserves a person of integrity, with common sense, and the ability to represent their home constituents. As our country struggles with division, I hope to help elect a person who can build bridges.

Underrepresented Religion

Korobkin, Robert

GORHAM

I am a lifelong progressive Democrat, former labor organizer, and progressive community leader. I lead the Courage Network, a publicly funded agency that provides safe housing, clinical counseling, and medical care to low-income survivors of substance use disorder and incarceration across Cumberland and York Counties (www.CourageMaine.com). My writing, which I'm currently publishing on Facebook, focuses primarily on furthering Democratic causes and has received 868,076 views in the last 90 days alone. I am running to do everything I can to see that Troy Jackson becomes the next US Senator from Maine. Solidarity!

Kremer, Lacey

SOUTH PORTLAND

When I heard Platner was withdrawing, I knew I wanted to drop everything to participate in whatever selection process followed. Democracy matters to me, and this is a pivotal decision for our state. I'm a female civil engineer, a municipal employee, and a Democrat who has voted consistently since turning 18 and since moving to Maine in 2019. To defeat Susan Collins and flip the Senate, we have a duty to nominate the strongest, broadest-appeal candidate. To build on the grassroots momentum I plan to door-knock for whoever is selected and talk about them with my peers, friends, family, and coworkers. I'll also share my experience at the nominating convention — I think it matters that people know someone who took part in the process.

Krieger, Megan

PORTLAND

My name is Meg Krieger. I am 26 years old and want to help shape the future of the Maine Democratic Party. I graduated from Bates College in 2022 with degrees in education and politics. During college, I worked with educators in the Lewiston Public Schools and immigrant- and refugee-led community organizations to learn how best to support families and students, particularly those learning English as a second language. That experience inspired me to stay in Maine after graduation, and I've lived in Portland ever since. I now work for an education nonprofit, where I focus on workforce development across industries and across the state. Through my work, I've seen how expanding access to high-quality education and career skill development strengthens both our communities and our economy. I believe the best way to defeat Susan Collins is to make a clear, unapologetic case for how a progressive agenda will improve the lives of all Mainers: making health care more affordable and accessible, protecting reproductive freedom, investing in education and housing, and ensuring immigrants and refugees are welcomed and supported. Maine's population is aging, but it is also home to a vibrant and engaged community of young people who are ready to get involved. We need to choose a candidate with the energy, vision, and integrity to inspire voters of all ages.

Kruger, Ian

CAPE ELIZABETH

I met Troy Jackson when I was in highschool visiting the state house. He was a man who I believe truly supported the people of Maine as a whole. Especially after seeing him work in the State Senate in person, I believe he would be a perfect candidate for the U.S. Senate. When it comes to helping to defeat Susan Collins this November, I plan to donate monthly to the winning candidate for the Democratic Party. If Troy Jackson wins, I will do work to help with his campaign such as speaking with my friends about him and door knocking.

Kuech, Janet H

GORHAM

I plan to phone bank, write postcards, drive candidates, put out (and take down) signs, donate money, and talk to voters to continue to build our grassroots movement. I am uniquely qualified to be a delegate to Bangor, because I served on the Maine Education Association Screening and Endorsement Committee. I have had a front row seat to hear Nirav, Troy, and Shenna answer questions regarding their positions in person. I also attended the York and Cumberland County debate. As treasurer for my Town Committee for over a decade and attendee of the County Committee Zoom meetings, I have had the opportunity to hear the other candidates as well, including when they've come to Gorham or Scarborough. I sit in on all of our local School Committee meetings and am serving a second term on the Gorham Town Council. I have been an educator for over 25 years with plenty of training in active listening and having hard conversations. I have an open mind and will take into consideration the informal straw polls that some towns are taking. We cannot lose the unenrolled voters in this process. The following organizations receive our financial support: Maine Women's Lobby, Maine Conservation Voters, Preble Street, ILAP, Wabanaki Alliance, Maine People's Alliance, Planned Parenthood, Maine Public Broadcasting, and 100+ Women Who Care Southern Maine. I am ready, willing and able to do great work in Bangor on July 25th.

Kupfer, Allison Macy

SOUTH PORTLAND

I've been volunteering for Democratic candidates since 1999 and have lived in Maine since 2011, canvassing for statewide and federal races each cycle. I have published letters to the editor to encourage women to see that she has turned her back on us. I run a national boutique executive search firm serving justice movements and I am committed to building grassroots power through human interactions driven by organizations like Groundswell, of which I am a founding member. I want to capture Platner's progressive message in a candidate that can unite Mainers to expand civil and women's and immigrants' rights, grow the economy, and protect democracy.

Kuun, Sierra

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe strong grassroots engagement is essential to building a Democratic Party that represents communities across Maine. I want to be part of a transparent, thoughtful nominating process and help ensure we put forward the strongest candidate to represent our values in November. Defeating Senator Susan Collins will require more than enthusiasm—it will require sustained organizing, meaningful conversations with voters, and a commitment to showing up in every community. I plan to volunteer by canvassing, phone banking, supporting voter registration efforts, and encouraging friends, family, and neighbors to participate in the election. I believe personal conversations remain one of the most effective ways to build trust and motivate people to vote. Beyond this election, I want to help strengthen our party by welcoming new volunteers, supporting local Democratic committees, and encouraging greater civic participation, especially among younger and first-time voters. Building lasting grassroots momentum means creating an inclusive environment where people feel their voices matter and their contributions make a difference. I would be honored to serve as a delegate and help advance a positive, energetic campaign that not only works to win in November but also strengthens our party for years to come.

Kuzma, Joseph

PORTLAND

I work nights so I'm usually pretty useless when it comes to canvassing, bell-ringing, etc. but I'm willing to help with what can be done in the dark alá putting together mailers, emailing, writing, etc. I am also the father to 2 brand new lefty voters who could absolutely be wrangled into helping. I'd delegate for Troy Jackson if asked to attend.

Kyle, Katherine

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because I believe there are many experienced and capable potential candidates for Senate in Maine who can defeat Susan Collins and work to promote agenda that helps the people of Maine. Participating as a delegate would be my most important contribution to electing a Democrat to represent Maine in the US Senate and bringing back a more balanced and representative government to our country.

LaCasse, David Ralph

PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the upcoming nominating convention because Maine stands at a truly critical crossroads. Following Graham Platner's withdrawal from the U.S. Senate race, our party has a profound responsibility to select a replacement nominee who exemplifies our highest ideals and possesses the integrity, vision, and strength necessary to defeat Susan Collins this November. As a proud Mainer and dedicated Democrat, I am fully prepared to help lead this vital transition. If chosen as a delegate, my priority will be to evaluate all candidates thoroughly and objectively, ensuring we unite behind a fresh, inspiring voice capable of mobilizing voters across every single county. To win in November, we must immediately pivot and harness the unprecedented energy and passion of our local volunteers. I plan to actively engage with neighbors, collaborate with county committees, and launch robust door-to-door canvassing efforts. By championing critical issues like working-class economic relief, reproductive freedom, and environmental protection, we can rebuild trust and translate grassroots momentum into historic voter turnout. I am fully committed to attending the convention in Bangor on July 25th to help deliver a senator who finally works for all of us.

LaCasse, Pandora Dawn

PORTLAND

I am applying to serve as a delegate because I want to play an active role in selecting the Democratic nominee for Maine's next United States Senator. I believe delegates have an important responsibility to represent Democratic voters with fairness, integrity, and respect for the democratic process. I am committed to listening to others, considering the qualifications and vision of each candidate, and making thoughtful decisions that reflect the values of our party and the interests of the people of Maine. I value public service, civic engagement, and the importance of building a stronger, more inclusive future for our state. Serving as a delegate would allow me to contribute in a meaningful way while working collaboratively with fellow Democrats. I would be honored to represent my community, participate in the nomination process, and help strengthen our party as we prepare for the general election.

LaForge, Michele

BRUNSWICK

Hello! Thank you for everything you are doing for our state, and for consideration as a delegate. I am 56 year old professional Maine educator. I was born in Presque Isle and grew up in Cumberland. I have raised my family and been a long time resident of Brunswick. I am a 25-year veteran educator. I taught math at Freeport High School for ten years, and I have been Principal at Baxter Academy of Technology and Science in Portland, at South Portland High School, and now going into my fifth year as Principal at Maranacook Community High School in Readfield Maine. I love our state and am obviously especially invested in our youngest citizens. I would always rather be reading; and I always want an iced tea; and I am always a Mainer. Michele

LaPlante, Theresa Lucie

CUMBERLAND

Over the last two years I have contacted Susan Collins numerous times to express my dismay and frustration with her complicity in MAGA policies and ideology. I follow the news closely and I see it as my responsibility as an American to contribute in upholding our democracy through advocacy. I volunteer at a food pantry and I see an uptick in the number of people needing help feeding their families. In particular I am passionate about addressing climate issues and have worked with two national organizations that lobby Congress and encourage people to vote. Attending the caucus and the convention, as well as attending several rallies have given me hope and optimism for Democratic majority in the US Senate. I will continue my efforts to highlight the Democratic platform as the better plan to address climate issues, affordability for everyday people, voting rights and our goodwill to our allies.

Lacombe, Aidan

FALMOUTH

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention and bring the voices of young voters to the convention. I am 22 years old, have lived in Maine my entire life, and recently graduated with a degree in political science. While in college, I served as President of my school's College Democrats, where I worked to engage students in the political process. I understand the perspectives and priorities of young Democrats because I have spoken with countless young Mainers about the issues that matter most to them and the candidates who inspire them. Young voters will be essential to building the coalition we need to defeat Susan Collins, and I believe we must continue to engage, listen to, and mobilize them. I also know that winning elections takes hard work. I have worked on and volunteered for state legislative, congressional, and gubernatorial campaigns across Maine, where I learned that our success depends on grassroots organizing. I will continue knocking doors, making calls, and encouraging more young people to become active in our party as we work to defeat Susan Collins. I would be grateful for your support and the opportunity to represent Cumberland County as a delegate to the Nominating Convention.

Youth

Lacy, Lauren

POWNAI

I want to serve as a delegate because I care deeply about my community and want to represent the voices of people who are engaged and invested but can't attend every meeting or participate in every campaign activity. We need a candidate who reflects Maine values and can bring together people from different backgrounds around shared priorities. Although I'm new to political organizing in Maine, I have previous experience canvassing and phone banking in Ohio. Professionally, I'm an engineering director, where I've built my career by listening to people, solving problems collaboratively, and leading teams with diverse backgrounds and perspectives. Living in both urban communities like Cincinnati, Ohio, and rural communities like Pownal has reinforced my belief that we have far more in common than what divides us. I'm especially passionate about affordable health care, economic opportunity, and supporting working people. This fall, I plan to canvass, phone bank, help drive voter turnout, and encourage others in my community to get involved. I also believe our party's long-term success depends on building relationships beyond election season. We should create year-round opportunities for moderately engaged people to connect around the values that unite us, building trust and goodwill before campaigns begin. By showing up as neighbors first and partisans second, we can expand our grassroots movement, strengthen our communities, and elect leaders who will fight for Maine families. The grassroots momentum built, in part, because people felt seen and heard, and it's important to foster opportunities to continue that.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Lake, Catherine

FALMOUTH

To be a vital part of ensuring our democratic Senate majority at this critical time. I am familiar with the candidates and feel a strong desire to ensure Maine presents the best possible candidate to win the Senate seat.

Lamoureux, Daryle

SOUTH PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe strong Democratic candidates are built through an open, grassroots process that reflects the voices of communities across Maine. This election is about more than one race—it's about protecting our democracy, expanding economic opportunity, and ensuring every Mainer has a government that works for them. I want to help nominate the strongest candidate who can unite Democrats and win in November.

Landis, Story

FREEPORT

I would like to be a delegate to nominate the candidate for the November election. We must defeat Susan Collins in November. The Maine Democratic party has done an amazing job of creating a fair and open process for selecting a candidate who can do that. I am a registered Democrat and as a committed supporter of democracy have voted in all midterm and federal elections since my husband and I moved to Freeport Maine in 2014. Before moving to Maine I led an NIH institute, testified before Congress on several occasions and met with senators, representatives and their staff. I know firsthand how critical it is to have the right person representing the state of Maine and its people. I am excited to be able to contribute to this effort and promise to take my responsibility very seriously.

Lane, Nancy

PORTLAND

I've been a registered Democrat since I was 18 years old. I've held the position of Deputy Register of Deeds for Cumberland County. Along with the appointed position as Registrar of Deeds. Along with being the assistant to the Secretary of the Maine State Senate during the 112th session.

Lapham, Crystale

FALMOUTH

I'm seeking a delegate seat because I've spent hundreds of hours doing the unglamorous work that keeps a party functional: serving as treasurer for my Democratic Town Committee, rewriting our bylaws to reflect how we actually operate now, and building volunteer networks that can be activated fast when it matters. I know how to organize people, and I'm eager to continue to learn how the party's internal processes work, which is exactly what this moment calls for. To defeat Susan Collins in November, I plan to keep doing what I've been doing: building volunteer infrastructure that outlasts any single campaign cycle. That means coordinating outreach to county committees across all 16 counties, running high-turnout voter contact events, and making sure our organizing doesn't collapse into a handful of overworked volunteers. I've built the systems including recruitment pipelines, event host guides, coordination tools, and I know how to scale them statewide. On grassroots momentum: this cycle proved what's possible when we invest in people, not just events. I've watched new volunteers become organizers, and organizers become leaders, and I want to keep that pipeline open. As a delegate, I'll push to treat volunteer infrastructure as a permanent asset, not something we rebuild from scratch every two years. That means better onboarding, clearer paths for people to take on responsibility, and real investment in local committees so momentum doesn't stall between elections. We have more engaged Democrats right now than we've had in years and I am excited to make sure that

Lavey, Matthew A

PORTLAND

I'm a senior citizen with grave concerns about our political future: economic equality, healthcare, éducation, environment. The Maine Democratic party is on the cusp of electing officials to pull us in a new and productive direction. Matthew Lavey

Lawrence, Barbara Kent

BRUNSWICK

I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to help nominate the candidate who will run successfully against Senator Collins. Nominating such a candidate in a credible process that chooses a person acceptable to the people of Maine is a challenge, particularly when there is so little time in which to accomplish it. I may have skills and experience that could be useful. To defeat Susan Collins we must be open and fair in listening to other delegates, evaluating our options, and choosing a candidate. I've spent much of my life with people of different backgrounds and ages, and enjoy learning about their thoughts and concerns. I like working with diverse groups because I always learn something and I think serving as a delegate offers such an opportunity. I'm a long-time "year-round summer person," and have worked with people in diverse communities. I ran a real estate brokerage and construction company in Maine, but then returned to teaching and taught in two universities while working as a consultant to the Rural School and Community Trust. The experience of working with schools and communities through our country could be helpful in further developing strong connections to and between our own communities. I've also started and run three non-profits in Maine that serve communities where I've lived. I think I could help shape ways to communicate with people in varied communities and build strong local networks.

Lawrence, Christopher C

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am a 47 year old husband and father of two. I have worked in South Portland as a freight train conductor for 25 years, am a General Chairperson for SMART-TD Transportation Union, State Legislative Representative for Local 1400, Secretary of the New England Leglative Board, and life long Democrat. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Lawrence, Lauress L W

PORTLAND

Since moving to Maine in 2014, I've gotten to know many residents and grassroots community organizations in Cumberland County and across the state who are working tirelessly to make "the way life should be" a reality for their communities. They support and advocate for: workers' rights; racial, economic, and environmental justice; access to health care, childcare, and affordable housing; Wabanaki sovereignty; safety and belonging for those who were not born in the US; and learning and leadership opportunities for elders for current and future generations, and for people who are differently abled. I believe strongly in Maine's "people power" and, with the right people in positions of power, I know that reality is a goal worth fighting for. Like many Maine voters, I enthusiastically supported Graham Platner and was disappointed that he turned out not to be the right person for Maine to send to the US Senate. But I'm grateful that he showed us that ordinary people can make a huge difference if we step up and speak up. That's why I'm applying to serve Cumberland County as a delegate to next week's State Democratic Convention. If selected, I will do my best to speak not only for myself but for those in my County who promote fairness, equity and justice for those who are being left behind. I'll work closely with other delegates to help elect the person who will unify our party and invite others to join the movement to restore democracy to our state and country.

BIPOC

Lawton, Diane Seibert

PORTLAND

I trust Nirav Shah to bring fresh, honest, intelligent energy to the Senate. He did a wonderful job during the pandemic, navigating a difficult public health and political quagmire. He was an excellent communicator during that time. I trusted his decision making. His dry humor was a plus. I also love that he's not an Old White Guy. Collins has thrown Mainers and all Americans under the bus for years and years. She dug this horrible hole our country is in. Despicable! Nirav Shah would be a champion for us all.

Lazcano, Danielle

NORTH YARMOUTH

I have always been an independent or democrat. At the time I am a dependent because Trump needs to go. But... I have always voted for Susan Collins despite her being a republican. She used to care but interest the last 12 years she has changed drastically. It's time for a change!

LeBrun, Lauren

WINDHAM

LeClair, Andrew

NORTH YARMOUTH

I have beef with Susan because she was rude to me personally 20 years ago. I'll do whatever it takes to put that miserable bat in the dirt (not literally, legally speaking)

LeComte, Michael

PORTLAND

I am interested in improving the quality of life of my community. I do this through outreach, mutual aid and elective politics. I participate in phone banks and calls to action. I consider myself informed regarding the issues which are most important to Democratic success in this senate race.

Leavitt, Grace E D

RAYMOND

My name is Grace Leavitt, and I seek to be one of your delegates to this special convention. I taught for over 40 years, and throughout nearly my entire career, I served as a union leader at local, state, and national levels. Most recently, I was President of the Maine Education Association, representing diverse educators in roles across our preK-12 schools and institutions of higher education, as well as retirees and aspiring educators. I am active in my community and now, in retirement, serve on our school board. This spring, I dedicated many hours to our party's platform committee and subcommittees, and I am again driving local Democratic candidates as they campaign. I listen to and respect others' perspectives and will do so as your delegate to represent you the best I can. I have always been a strong advocate for the common good, for equity, inclusion, and justice — not only in public education but in all aspects of our society. This election, we all must work to reverse the devastation caused by the current administration in D.C., to protect our democracy, our environment, and the rights of women and all who are marginalized. We must ensure everyone can meet basic needs and have the opportunity to thrive. I will continue to help elect Democrats at all levels, as I have for decades, but it is especially crucial at this moment that we work together to defeat Susan Collins and keep building the momentum of our always people-powered movement.

Lechner, Karen Burns

CAPE ELIZABETH

Thank you for consideration as a delegate to the Nominating Convention for a democratic candidate most likely to defeat Susan Collins this November. I am a 73 year old retired Maine public school counselor who served in Penobscot and Cumberland Counties, four school districts for a total of 37 years. I have resided in Maine since 1975 along with my husband, a retired public school teacher and administrator. We raised two children. Our daughter is a child/adolescent psychiatrist in the Portland area. Our son is a hospice social worker in the Portland area. We are a family of committed Democrats who believe in social justice, caring for our neighbors, supporting those less fortunate than us, including immigrant families, and following our Constitution and the laws of our nation. I have been active in state issues regarding the pay of public school educators through the Maine Education Association, and also active in my community of Cape Elizabeth in canvassing for support of a recent school renovation initiative. It's not enough to quell my sense of urgency to see change happen in our national government. I am disheartened to see the direction our country is moving in. The vitriol and divisive discourse that has become a norm in our society leaves me bereft and feeling quite inconsequential in affecting change. I'm ready and available to give my full energy to the upcoming endeavor of the Maine Democratic Party to elect the most promising candidate to defeat Susan Collins in November.

Ledoux, Debra G

GRAY

I grew up in Augusta in the 50s and 60s, embedded in a long line of proud Democrats, the daughter of a bluecollar working dad and the granddaughter of "personal role model" who worked in the office of Health and Welfare. How I remember the phrase of the party, "working for the little guy." I was a first-generation college grad, majoring in Child Development at UMO and later earning two advanced degrees in Education and School Psychology at USM. I have taught in both public and private sectors, as well as owning my own preschool for a total of 38 years in education; I helped develop a Kindergarten curriculum for Maine, as well as doing State curriculum work. Why am I sharing this? I love Dr. Shah's vision for young people and the hopeful promise of a grand life in Maine. I think it is important to have delegates like myself to speak of the hopes and dreams of Mainers of all ages. I am a retired teacher now and write letters for Vote Forward; volunteer weekly at Maine Needs to help less fortunate residents obtain basic needs in all our 16 counties; work the polls in Gray; and write letters to Susan Collins questioning her votes. Last, perhaps most proudly, I aspire to be a role model for my daughter and granddaughter as we must stand up for our rights to make our own reproductive choices. I will end with a note of gratitude to Dr. Shah: you provided

Ledue, Rebecka

GORHAM

We have an urgent need to support what Maine Democrats overwhelmingly voted for in the Primary—not for Platner but for the values and policy he was platforming. The Nation is watching us and I think so far we have organized and risen to the challenge with transparency, equity, and integrity. I want to contribute to the decision-making process and be part of this historical moment. We must put forth the best candidate to defeat Collins and do right by all of Maine’s people.

Lee, Diana C

CUMBERLAND

As a lifelong Democrat, I feel a deep sense of urgency about this election and would be honored to serve as a nomination delegate for our Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate. I am especially passionate about protecting a woman’s right to choose and ensuring that the freedoms we have fought so hard for are not taken away. I am determined to do everything I can to help unseat Susan Collins, who has repeatedly supported the current administration’s agenda while too many of her constituents here in Maine are struggling. I care deeply about my state, my community, and the direction of our country, and I do not want to sit on the sidelines. I have the time, energy, and commitment to serve, and it would be deeply meaningful to me to contribute in this way.

Lee, Eliza

CUMBERLAND

I am passionate about the need to defeat Susan Collins in November. I would be honored to serve as a delegate for Cumberland County and to help determine which candidate is best prepared and able to win and represent all Maine in the US Senate. I pledge to commit all of my time and energy to building a network of support for the selected candidate, through fundraising, building a social media presence, knocking on doors, phone banking, organizing and attending events throughout the state and making sure all Democrats get out to vote in November. I will work tirelessly at the convention and everyday until the election to help gain back control of the Senate and limit the destructive power of Donald Trump. I believe Maine can do this and I am eager to be involved on the front line of this critically important effort. Thank you for considering me for this important role.

Disability

Lee, Kelsey

PORTLAND

As an immigration attorney in Maine, I am committed to ensuring we select the best candidate for not only defeating Susan Collins, but the best candidate to further a progressive agenda in Congress. I will engage in canvassing and community engagement ahead of the November election to ensure our community feels heard by the democratic candidate.

Lee, Susanne DM

NORTH YARMOUTH

I am writing to express my interest in serving as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. I believe this is an opportunity not only to select the candidate who will defeat Susan Collins but also to energize the Democratic Party for victory. By championing the proven vision articulated by Graham Platner, I am committed to making it the party's guiding principle in Maine and beyond. I am thrilled that this vision accurately reflects the desires of Mainers, and I will work to spread its message throughout the party. My strong marketing and communication expertise will be instrumental in building on the grassroots movement leading up to the midterms, where we will turn the tables and reclaim the House and Senate. I want to be a delegate to the Convention that "started it all!"

Lehne-Gilmore, Lisa

GRAY

I am applying to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because defeating Susan Collins is imperative. I want to be an active participant in this historic event. We must build on the grassroots momentum already underway and reach out to every voter—Democrats, Unenrolled, remorseful Republicans, Green Party voters, etc. We need to recruit new voters and listen to registered voters who do not vote. We must inspire Mainers to support leadership that is bold, honest, and focused on common, everyday struggles and issues important to Maine. Within weeks of moving to Maine, I joined the Maine Democrats and became involved with my local Gray Democratic Committee, where I serve as treasurer. Our committee joined forces with neighboring New Gloucester, allowing us to plan collaboratively, host more events, engage voters, and use the power of local organizing to advance progressive reform. If selected, I will work to choose the strongest candidate to win this Senate seat. I will dedicate myself to the work needed: knocking on doors, organizing supportive events, talking with voters, and mobilizing volunteers to turn out our base and persuade undecided voters of the importance of this Senate seat, not only for Maine but also for our country. I believe our party's strength comes from strong grassroots efforts. I am ready to do what it takes to turn this seat blue. Susan Collins has shown time and again that she can, and will, calculate what is politically safe for herself rather than stand firmly with Mainers.

Leighton, Shelby Hannah

SOUTH PORTLAND

As someone who has been deeply involved in local organizing, I see being a Delegate as an opportunity to build power with and be accountable to the people in my community, especially those who are not able to participate in this nominating process. I believe that beating Susan Collins requires a transparent and democratic process to select a candidate who will boldly stand for the values that Mainers believe in, not compromise for the sake of corporate interests. For me, that candidate is Troy Jackson, and I hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Underrepresented Religion

Leighton, evan

BRUNSWICK

I believe I represent people in my age group but also I have lived in towns from Old Town to Sebeco, I have many friends and even more family members spread across the state, I have younger siblings still in elementary school, I don't have kids yet, but I want kids someday, it's just hard and expensive, and I wish it wasn't so much. I used to volunteer when Bernie was running, I had done some volunteer work with the DSA too, I'm just afraid if the state doesn't try to help young people it'll just lose them all, then there won't be much left. The only people I know in my friend group who has a house are the people whose aunts uncles or grandparents passed away and gave it to them. It's so expensive to be a young person and I have a good job and it still doesn't pay enough. I have a college degree and I still feel like I'm struggling every week to make ends meet.

Lennon, Sara

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am interested in being a delegate for Shenna Bellows. She is intelligent, experienced, kind, tough, and fair. She has worked in many jobs, including executive director of the ACLU and HHRC, a state senator, secretary of state and myriad other roles. In all of them, she has worked across the aisle for practical solutions, been an attentive and empathic partner in the process, and persisted to create a solution. During her time as secretary of state, Shenna has been brave and principled. I have no doubt that as a US Senator, she will fight hard for laws that help Americans build a better future for themselves, our state and nation. I hosted a coffee in our home in 2014 during Shenna's campaign to beat Susan Collins, and again this year in her bid for governor. I will continue to work for her campaign in any way that is helpful, including fundraising, outreach, hosting a gathering, etc. I am energized about the possibility that Shenna could beat Susan Collins—and confident that if we all work hard for this critical goal, she will prevail. I would be honored to attend the convention and cast my vote for Shenna Bellows. Thank you, Sara Lennon

Leonard, Catherine A

BRUNSWICK

As a lifelong Mainer and Democrat I want to do everything I can to defeat Susan Collins. We must make sure that every voter knows the importance of electing a Democrat and stopping the Trump agenda.

Levandoski, Dennis

BRUNSWICK

I will research the positions of the candidates before the convention and try to meet them all. I promise to vote for whoever I believe is most likely to win in November. I will absolutely support whoever is nominated as a volunteer as I have done for numerous Democrats, starting with Joe Brennan.

Levey, Khristin

BRUNSWICK

As a millennial, social worker, and lifelong advocate for human rights, I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe our party is strongest when it reflects the voices and values of everyday people. I am committed to leading with honesty, integrity, and a willingness to bring fresh ideas to the table while listening to and learning from others. In my work as a social worker, I see firsthand how public policy affects families, workers, older adults, and vulnerable communities. Those experiences fuel my commitment to electing leaders who will protect fundamental rights, expand opportunity, and put people before politics. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I will organize, volunteer, engage voters through meaningful conversations, and use both grassroots outreach and digital platforms to encourage participation in every election. I believe that personal connections and authentic conversations are the most effective way to inspire people to vote and become involved. I also want to help our party continue building on its grassroots momentum by welcoming new voices—especially younger voters—and creating spaces where people feel heard, respected, and empowered to take action. Together, we can build a stronger, more inclusive Democratic Party that is ready to meet today's challenges with courage, compassion, and a vision for the future.

Levi, Michael H

SCARBOROUGH

I was a strong supporter of Mr. Platner, but he has disappointed most of Maine Dems. I have been fighting for justice since Vietnam and want to help find a fighter who can defeat Collins. I am 74 and bring some wisdom .

Levison, Jeyn

PORTLAND

I have been working and voting to protect small d democracy for many years, as an on-the-ground activist and from work positions inside many non-profits that focus on immigrant rights, labor rights, racial justice, LGBTQIA+ justice, and countering authoritarianism. We are in a strong position in Maine to build on the momentum that has been catalyzed around the country - including NY and Colorado - and to catalyze the grassroots volunteer base that wants different representation in Washington. I want to be a part of building a multiracial, feminist, anti-war, anti-genocide coalition of solidarity that stands firmly for the people of Maine and far beyond.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Underrepresented Religion

Lewis, Gloria

BRIDGTON

Want to be part of the process I feel it is important for me to be a doer and not just a talker! I say I want change for the better in government so here is my chance. We need to put people in the house and senate to hold Trump from destroying our country!!

Lewis, James Charles

FALMOUTH

(Please replace my earlier narrative with this one) I am honored to submit my application to participate in this important democratic (and Democratic) process. While I have only been a Mainer for 14 years, I greatly appreciate both the tangible and intangible benefits of life in Maine. I have been committed to the Maine Democrat agenda, and value volunteering as a delegate, attending conventions and local meetings and working to promote our candidates. I am an active volunteer with SCORE Maine, serving as a mentor to Maine entrepreneurs and small businesses. I have common sense, am a good listener, and play well with others. I am a veteran of the Marine Corps and the US Army and had a long career in business. I enjoy retirement with my wife, and we have 4 adult children. I will work tirelessly to elect any Democrat nominee for Senate.

Lincoln, Josh

BRUNSWICK

I'm a parent of a young child and want to make sure that she has a free and fair future ahead of her. I'm certain that any Democrat would be better than Susan Collins, and I think Troy Jackson would be particularly great at representing Mainers.

Liscord, Paul S. III

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am a recently registered resident of South Portland, having returned to Maine having lived in NH for 20 years. Prior to living in NH, my wife Barbara and I lived in Windham, ME, (1976 to 1981) and Cape Elizabeth,ME. (1981 to 2002). My daughter is an ER Doc in ME. My son is a lawyer who works on expanding public housing in Me and elsewhere. For many years I owned a construction company, incorporated in Maine from 1986 to 2002. I have been active in Maine politics for many years; 1) Co Chair of Cumberland County for the first Me. Nuclear referendum, 2) canvassed door to door for Bill Clinton's election, 3) door to door for No on One referendum last fall, 4) door to door for Hannah Pingree in primary this spring, as well as door to door for Graham Platner. As Co Chair on Mont Vernon, NH Dems, I supported Barack Obama, Elizabeth Warren (primary) US Sen. Jean Shaheen, US Sen. Maggie Hassan, US Rep. Maggie Goodlander, NH Rep, David Woodbury, NH State Sen. run by Matt McLaughlin...a superlative candidate. In a decade, I helped turn Mont Vernon red to blue. Helped develop an excellent grassroots canvassing metric. Going forward, I plan to canvas for all Dem candidates up and down the ticket, and help So Po /Cape Dems to enhance their boots on the ground voter outreach program.

Liss, Ellen Potocki

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am a lifelong Democrat and mother of two young women. I have worked hard my entire life, especially to help my daughters, and am appalled at the current state of our nation. Oligarchs and billionaires control our politics and it must end before it is too late. Our environment, health, education, economies, civil rights, and justice under the law are under extreme threat. We need to move forward with progressive candidates who bring power back to the people. Maine is a precious gem of a state and we need to stand up to help our citizens and our lands. Peace, prosperity and progress. We need to do this, now, and I am ready, willing and able to help.

Lithgow, Benjamin Joseph

PORTLAND

I was passionate out the movement we built and want to help continue that momentum to bring down Collins. We have some great candidates and I want to be a part

Litzler, Jesse

FALMOUTH

It is vitally important that Maine replace Susan Collins this November. I will judiciously work to select the candidate best suited for that task. Regardless of who the nominee is, I will do everything I can to make sure they prevail. Phone banking, volunteering in any capacity needed and making financial contributions are a given. More importantly, I will reach out to everyone that I know to make sure their vote is counted, and work to persuade them if necessary. A unified party is the only thing that will work, and it is necessary to move on from the past; both recent and distant, and make sure our nominee is prepared to fight and win for Mainers and our country. The promise and opportunity of what is possible, and the change that can happen is too great to allow fear, despair, and disappointment to derail it. The movement for change and fresh ideas is real. It is incredibly important to recognize this, while moving forward with a high quality candidate that has the party's full and unified support. I will work tirelessly to make sure that becomes reality.

LGBTQIA+

Livneh, Danielle

SOUTH PORTLAND

My name is Dani Livneh, and I am a 32-year-old South Portland resident determined to see Susan Collins and the fascist administration she enables defeated. It would be an honor to help select the Democratic nominee who will beat her in November. While I currently work for a maternal healthcare company, I have spent much of my career working to elect Democrats up and down the ballot and across the country. I am well acquainted with the hard work it takes to defeat an incumbent, and I'm under no illusion this race will be easy, particularly given the unprecedented situation we find ourselves in. And yet, I have never felt more confident in our ability to pull this off after standing alongside hundreds of volunteers to protect our neighbors from ICE this winter. Once we have a nominee, I am committed to making phone calls, knocking on doors, and mobilizing my peers. I know I'll be in good company because our community has proven we fight back when things get hard. I care deeply about nominating a candidate with a progressive platform because I believe it is both a moral and strategic imperative. I am less interested in the individual so much as the policies they will fight for and their ability to build the broad coalition needed to defeat Susan Collins. If elected as a delegate, I will vote for the person best positioned to win and then do everything I can to guarantee their success.

Youth

Lizanecz, Ryan David

PORTLAND

I'm 28 years old and have lived in Portland for most of my life. I've been involved in local Democratic politics since I was young, and at 23, I was elected to office with the backing of the Portland Democrats, after personally knocking on nearly 1,700 doors. That experience taught me the value of direct (and sustained) contact with voters. Since then, I have practiced law, served on municipal boards, and continued organizing in support of local candidates. I am seeking to serve as a delegate because our party faces a compressed timeline to select a new nominee against Susan Collins, and this moment calls for delegates with genuine organizing experience. I will fully support whoever the party nominates. Defeating Collins in November will require sustained, door-to-door organizing and real engagement with communities across the state. I intend to canvass and work with community organizers in the Greater Portland area, which will be crucial for our nominee to win. I believe we need a nominee committed to fighting for Medicare for All and other progressive priorities that will meaningfully improve the lives of Mainers. The grassroots movement that was built this cycle should not fade after July and we need to continue that important work.

Youth

Lloyd, Judith E E

BRUNSWICK

I've been active in Democratic politics since the 1980s, often as a delegate, and managing GOTV efforts, and certainly want Susan Collins out of the Senate. I'm willing to volunteer for the Democratic candidate, whoever it is, though I currently support Shenna Bellows. What matters is healthcare for all, abolishing ICE, restoring reproductive rights nationwide, raising the minimum wage, defending communities of color, working for environmental and economic justice.

Lobner, Colleen

SOUTH PORTLAND

Locke, Taylor Clark

STANDISH

Troy Jackson for Maine Senate. I will keep this short and direct. My name is Taylor Locke and I am running as a committed delegate, supporting Troy Jackson in his bid to be the Democratic nominee. The best way to beat Susan Collins and Donald Trump is to elect a progressive Democrat who will be on the side of every day Mainers. We need someone who will carry on the movement that has been started and take the fight to Republicans. That person is Troy. If you are supporting Troy, I would ask for your vote to send me as a delegate to the state convention. This is a major responsibility and something I do not take lightly. My position is that I am running to be a delegate, but I am telling you exactly how I will vote if I am selected. The moment is too serious to “wait and see” or “decide at the convention.” I am a 6th generation Mainer, I have volunteered to get Democrats elected since I was 16 years old. Susan Collins has been a Senator since I was 4 years old. The best way to defeat her is to nominate Troy Jackson, bring the party together, and run an aggressive campaign calling out her hypocrisy, corruption and support for Donald Trump. Thank you for your consideration.

Youth

Loneman, Olivia Kathleen

WESTBROOK

I’m an Indigenous single parent to a transgender middle school student. We must be represented in the delegation!

BIPOC, LGBTQIA+

Lookner, Grayson Benjamin

PORTLAND

I'm a state representative from Portland, but I was an organizer long before I was a legislator. I've been a UFCW union steward, a field organizer on both of Bernie Sanders' presidential campaigns, an EMT, and a behavioral health worker. Real change comes from patient, unglamorous work and in order for it to be a success we need organizers with movement bona-fides. I'm a trusted voice among progressives in this state, and I sponsored one of the bills to open our primaries to unenrolled voters. That matters here. Independents won't have a seat at this convention, so the room should at least include people who fought for their right to participate in our primaries. I'll bring that perspective, along with a commitment to a process that is transparent, fair, and unifying. We must defeat Susan Collins, the oligarchs supporting her, and those enabling Donald Trump's delusions of dictatorship. That mission comes ahead of any personality or faction. Between now and November I'll do what I always do - knock doors, train volunteers, and use my social media influence to reach Mainers with straightforward explanations of policy, to make the case for our nominee every week until the polls close. The grassroots energy of this past year was real, and it belongs to the volunteers. Many Platner supporters feel alienated right now. As a progressive they trust, I can help bring them back into the fold, into our county committees, and into organizing that lasts beyond this cycle. We have a

Louden, Robert B. B

PORTLAND

I have never served as a delegate before, and I have become increasingly interested in the forthcoming senate election. I believe it is of paramount importance that we nominate a viable democrat who can beat Senator Collins and help democrats to achieve a majority in the Senate. At present, I do not have a favored candidate. Although sympathetic to Graham Platner's platform, I was concerned about his candidacy from the start. As a result, I left the "Senator line" blank when I voted in the recent primary on June 9.

Loughran, David Joseph

PORTLAND

The Democratic Party is the last chance for many and the only hope for some. Those words were first uttered decades ago. But with ICE terrorizing communities, reproductive freedom under attack, the climate crisis being ignored, billionaires rigging the rules against us, and those in power turning a blind eye to the struggles and suffering of everyday Americans, they have never been more true than they are today. My first campaign was as a volunteer for Chellie Pingree's in 2002 against Susan Collins. In the 20 years since I have worked alongside many of you to protect voting rights, pass marriage equality, expand MaineCare, advance gun safety legislation, combat climate change, and protect some of Maine's most scenic spaces. Additionally, I have been involved in campaigns in every legislative district in Maine, helping build and protect Democratic majorities that have given a voice to working Mainers who so often go unheard. Now, President Trump threatens the progress we have won and the gains we have made. Susan Collins isn't just letting him, she is enabling him. Beating Susan Collins is the single biggest thing we can do as Mainers to stop Donald Trump and I am committed to doing all I can to see that it happens.

Louisos, Grey

PORTLAND

I am a disabled, queer/nonbinary mom and my decision-making as a delegate will be primarily guided by racial justice, trans youth and elder protection, Indigenous-led land practices, abolishing ICE, ending military aid to the genocide in Gaza, accessible housing, class justice, reproductive justice and healthcare access. We need to be fighting for what we actually want to become right now. Not making compromises that shrink our humanity and discard the most vulnerable people in our communities.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Lourie, David A

CAPE ELIZABETH

I remember when everyone said they were as Anti-Fascist as I am. It is time for true Democrats to take back their Country.

Love, Jonathan

FALMOUTH

I am 78 years old - too old to run for office - but not too old to help select the Democratic candidate for US Senate. I am a former Platner volunteer but uncommitted delegate, mindful that the our party's prime directive must be to defeat Susan Collins. To that end, I will look for the candidate who commits to holding frequent town halls, is effective in calling out Senator Collins for being but a cog in the sycophantic Republican party that says and does nothing to oppose Trump's worst tendencies. Further, our candidate for Senate should rededicate government to provide for the common good - universal health care, housing policies to reduce costs, affordable higher education (like it was 60 years ago when I attended college), accelerated transition to renewable energy and a return to science and science-based public health. Beyond policy stances, however, our candidate must recognize and advocate for needed structural political changes that so engaged Platner campaign supporters: reducing record breaking wealth and income inequality, completely overhauling the individual and corporate tax codes to make them both fair and effective, addressing our ever increasing national debt - now at $39T, the financialization of our economy that turns wealth-building lending into vampire capitalism via crypto, hedge funds & private equity, and relaxed banking regulations that makes a repeat of the 2008 economic crash more likely.

Lowery, Susan V

HARPSWELL

I feel that delegates are needed who can listen and form decisions without prejudice or prejudgment. I have that skill. As to defeating Collins, I'll participate as best works for our local efforts.

Luce, Maggie

CASCO

I am a strong member of my community and participated in the caucus for Bernie Sanders' presidential bid. My political beliefs strongly align with Platner's platform. I have been very active in rallies and protests, as well as letter writing and calling representatives to voice my opinions and concerns about the future of Maine. Susan Collins needs to be gone, as she does not represent Mainers in the least bit. She represents herself and her husband's monetary investments.

Luce, Trevor

CASCO

I have participated and meetings of Maine Dems in the past and I have caucused. I have been active in the call to get others to turn out and vote. I have made leaflets and PDFs with maine voter rights information and how to become a poll worker. I have worked as volunteer medical support and candidate town halls and protests. I plan to stay active through November and beyond.

Lukens, Spencer

CUMBERLAND

I am registering to become a delegate to help guide our party towards a meaningful and thoroughly debated convention where all voices are heard. I believe that my background as a working class automotive mechanic with a background in union organizing will help lend a different voice to the room than the average person who may be there. I previously organized several automotive shops (Kal Tire) to unionize with IAM in 2022 in Burnaby, BC, Canada. I've been on the front lines of minimum wage jobs and I have a passionate interest in history, politics, and international relations. I'm also a card carrying member of DSA since 2023. I want to be there to advocate for progressive causes and the working class so that our voices are not drowned out by those who will not feel the repercussions of making the wrong choice. I do not want my voice or those of my siblings or my wife to be sidelined in the name of corporate interests. I do not want to see the movement that was built around Platner discarded and fragmented; I want to see it built on, fortified, and to see the hopes of the masses come to fruition. It is for these reasons that I believe I would be suited to attend the Democratic convention as a delegate. It is imperative that all voices from all classes are able to contribute to this process, and I believe I am a good choice to help do so.

Lumpkins IV, Winston

PORTLAND

I will vote for Troy Jackson. If he's eliminated, I will support Shenna Bellows and or Paige Loud. If they are all eliminated I will support whomever else is closest to their policy positions. I believe that we must select a candidate who can carry the energy and momentum of the last year to November, and who represent the values voted for in the Primary. A candidates who: 1) Centers working people and our existential terror about healthcare and housing in their campaign. Universal health care! NOW! 2) Will abolish the unnecessary, murderous and fiscally irresponsible garbage fire that is ICE 3) Supports both tenants and workers right to organize 4) Does NOT support military aid for any foreign power credibly accused of genocide 5) Stands with women, LGBTQ folks, immigrants and all people of color 5) Plans to tax the ultra rich (whose excess is destroying the planet and our democracy) A little about me: I was born in Maine. I have been living in Portland for the last 13 years working as a baker in the food industry. I rent and do not own a home. I have helped with various campaigns, starting with the 2 campaigns for ranked choice voting in Maine and including all pro-rent control campaigns in Portland. If we select a candidate who's policies I'm excited about, I will volunteer to help get them elected. If not I may focus on other important races, like city council races and the Governors Race.

Lundgren, William

PORTLAND

I have been a Teamster for nearly 50 year having served as shop steward for Local 344 while working as a package car driver for United Parcel Service. After 15 years I quit UPS and started and ran an organic farm in Vermont and then, for the past decade and a half i have been a teacher, most recently an adjunct English professor (and union member) at Southern Maine Community College. The decrease in quality of life for American workers has happened becasue of the attack on unions and plummeting union membership. Electing Troy Jackson can be the start of reversing this trend and taking back our country.

Lundh, Bente Eik

FALMOUTH

I am a retired Pediatrician, a career that requires good communication and advocacy skills. I worked in Bermuda for 24 years and have volunteered with the Maine Democrats since moving to Falmouth in 2015. I hope to serve as a Delegate to represent the voices of 156,000 voters and 15,000 grassroots volunteers who enthusiastically supported Graham Platner in the Primary. This was never about a single candidate, but a people-powered movement built on Democratic values: healthcare as a right, housing affordability, an economy that works for all people, and more. I pledge to elect a candidate who explicitly adopts these core values and to continue organizing and volunteering for her/him. Earning the opportunity to participate at a higher level: 1. Walking the walk # 44 total canvasses (> 20 as organizer, trainer or host) for Graham Platner Estimated 1800 doors knocked > 130 total canvas hours > 40 hours phone-banking > 45 hours of volunteer/leadership/community organizer training Surrogate speaker for Graham, Falmouth Town Caucus Delegate to MDP State Convention Canvassed to Save Absentee Voting, MDP 2025 General election canvassing, MDP 2016-2025 Deep Canvassing on abortion stigma, Planned Parenthood 2017-2018 2. Actively listening: understanding values and issues voters care about # Hundreds of conversations with Cumberland County residents Top concern: Defeating Susan Collins!! Also: healthcare, affordability, saving our democracy While our current situation is unprecedented, our goals remain the same: to defeat Susan Collins and elect a Senator who is not bought by the oligarchy and will fight for all Mainers!

Immigrant/New Mainer

Lunt, Sarah A

SCARBOROUGH

I would like to serve as a delegate because I feel strongly that it is important to have regular people who understand the day to day struggle of fellow Mainers. I'm a full time working single parent of a freshman in college, and I believe in the power of Democrats to come together in the fight to defeat Susan Collins, someone who has become bad for our state and bad for the country. I would like to participate in choosing a replacement for Graham Platner and represent for many people who feel the same way I do. The motivating factor for me doing this is the shooting death of the young man in Biddeford two days ago by ICE. It doesn't seem like our elected officials are doing enough, and I would like to see us do more. I will work to see this through. Thank you!

Lynch, Christopher

SOUTH PORTLAND

Hi, My name is Christopher Lynch. I'm a life long Democrat. I've been a resident of Maine for 26 years. I'm a self employed contractor and farmer. I care deeply about equality, education and health care for all. I'm honest, loyal and hardworking. I care deeply about our country and feel it's time for change. Thank you for your consideration.

Lynch, J Richard

PORTLAND

I've listened to Dr. Shaw speak many times. I find him to be humble, authentic, brilliant in many areas of interest, highly informed, committed to humanistic values, highly articulate, a person who listens respectfully, and who is effective in discussing issues with others who may not agree with him. I believe he is by far the best candidate to unseat Susan Collins.

Lynch, Tyler

SOUTH PORTLAND

I believe our country, not just Maine, is facing an active threat to its democracy, and this Senate nomination process represents a unique opportunity to demonstrate democratic rigor to a weary populace. Direct democracy is not always possible, and where it is not Maine reserves the right to delegate citizens to serve as ad hoc representatives. Susan Collins has all but abdicated the responsibility and privilege of representing Mainers, and in so doing has ceded an opportunity to the opposition. This opportunity comes at a time when a fresh, critically needed policy platform is ascendent within the democratic party. As delegate, I intend to represent the interests of the community I know and love in the Portland area, of which I am an active member. I have heard from and spoken to many in this state, especially in Cumberland County, and feel confident in representing their desires for a Senate representative in Washington. The weight of this responsibility, even within a delegation as large as Cumberland County's, is not to be taken lightly. It is no exaggeration to say our very democracy is at stake.

MARSHALL, HOWARD Zachary

HARPSWELL

I have knocked on doors for the Democrats in every November election since moving to Maine about 10 years ago. (I also did so previously in Massachusetts and New Hampshire from my home in the Boston area before that.) I plan to do so again this year. I have been quite engaged in the process this past year, attending a number of candidate events and active in Harpswell Indivisible. I have wanted to see Collins defeated since before I lived in Maine. Given the current mess our country is in, I plan to do whatever I can do to see any and every Trump Cult Member (i.e. an Republican) defeated.

MacDonald, Margaret A

PORTLAND

I am the publisher (under the name Amy MacDonald) of "Maine Matters," a Substack started when Trump was re-elected, that is dedicated to resisting his administration, protecting democracy, and electing Democrats to the US House and Senate. My editorial policy has been to give even-handed coverage to all Democratic candidates until after the primary. That policy will continue no matter whom we select on July 25 and will be the major focus of Maine Matters through November. I have worked extensively with all the resistance groups in Maine since 2020, when I was the Regional Coordinator for Swing Left Maine, with the sole goal of defeating Collins and re-electing Golden. I also created my own voter registration group in 2022 called Southern Maine Voter Team, which was dedicated to registering students in Southern and Central Maine as Democrats (my small team of volunteers registered over 1000 new Democrats.) I currently have over 2500 subscribers to my Substack, comprising largely Democrats and Independents.

MacDougal, Isaac James

PORTLAND

I'm running to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe in a Democratic Party that fights for working people — the ones trying to buy a home, keep a small business alive, or just get ahead in a state where costs keep climbing. As a small business owner myself, I know what it means to build something with limited time and resources, and I want that perspective represented in how we nominate and support our candidates. Defeating Susan Collins will take a united, energized base across the whole state, and I want to help however I can — spreading the word in my community, backing our eventual nominee, and helping keep the grassroots energy from this cycle alive heading into November.

LGBTQIA+

MacEwan, Alan D

FALMOUTH

My primary objective in representing Cumberland County to defeat Susan Collins is really quite simple: every Maine Democrat, in my view, should expend whatever time, energy, and available resources one is reasonably able commit to defeating Senator Collins and to ensure a Democratic majority in the U.S. Senate. This is perhaps our best opportunity in years and this nomination process will play a critical role in selecting the candidate who will stand the best chance of securing the necessary votes statewide. Our family has been committed to doing what we can to facilitate a strong Democratic presence in the Governor's office and in the next Senate election. Although we all supported Graham Platner financially, we are excited now to have a candidate emerge who will present a strong challenge to Senator Collins without the negative exposure. There are several such excellent candidates already. The first and most important step is choosing that candidate. Participation by people from all counties is a critical component in this statewide election, and I would be remiss in my convictions if I didn't offer to participate. That includes campaigning, financial support, and hosting events at our home in Falmouth, whoever is the ultimate choice. But it starts with this selection process.

MacLaurin, Euan Edward

SOUTH PORTLAND

There is a strong grassroots movement growing in Maine. I commit to vote and organize for a candidate only if they align with, and will carry forward, that progressive message that won decisively in July. The people of Maine want change, and many individuals in the political establishment have shown that they are not prepared to meet the moment we are in. I believe that nominating someone who doesn't agree with the movement will both alienate the new voters who we have brought to the table, and give Susan Collins another term in Congress. If the Democratic Party is serious about finally beating Susan Collins, we must nominate a candidate who knows how necessary it is that we end the genocide, pass Medicare for All, get money out of politics, enact supreme court term limits, codify Roe v. Wade, elect new leadership for the Democratic Party, and beat back Donald Trump's fascism. Not with strongly worded letters, but with action.

Youth

MacVane, Lesley

FALMOUTH

I would like to be a delegate to the nominating convention because I feel very strongly that we are at a crucial point in history regarding our democracy and it is time for our party to stand together and defeat Senator Collins in November. I will do everything within my abilities to work for whoever is chosen to represent us.

Macon, James

PORTLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Maddock, Casey

SCARBOROUGH

As both a 23-year-old lifelong Mainer and public school teacher, I had high hopes for Platner's campaign and admired its grassroots momentum. As a woman, I was devastated to learn of the allegations against him because I knew it meant we were now facing the challenge of rallying behind a new candidate in a short timeframe. I want to be a delegate because I stand by what I teach my students: that participation in democracy only works if we all answer the call. In the face of recent challenges, it is now more important than ever to come together to oppose fascism and far-right ideologies. I am always outspoken about my beliefs and embolden everyone in my circle to use their voices and vote. Being a delegate would be a responsibility to Maine's people that I would not take lightly. As I do when I cast my own ballot, I would do diligent research into each candidate's platform and campaign. My vote would prioritize preserving our progressive grassroots momentum while maintaining a strong moral compass. Answering the call to participate as a delegate and my work as a teacher feel one in the same: they both put me on the frontlines of shaping the future. Regardless of who wins the nomination, I will work to promote their platform and inform friends and neighbors of the importance of defeating Collins. I am a young, excited, and civically involved woman and educator who would take great pride in serving as a delegate.

Youth

Madeira, Frederick

FREEPORT

I seek to support and reinforce the democratic process in Maine, and to choose a candidate who will represent our state with integrity, morality and an ability to affect change in our national political stage.

Madeira, John

PORTLAND

I'd like to serve as a Cumberland County delegate because I'm tired of watching Maine's housing costs, aging infrastructure, and stagnant economy get worse while Susan Collins grows more comfortable in Washington. Mainers are working harder for less, and her record shows a pattern of voting in line with Donald Trump when it matters most. Professionally, I work in social media strategy, so I understand how campaigns win attention and build trust online. I want to put that experience to work for our nominee: helping sharpen our digital messaging, making sure our story reaches voters where they actually spend their time, and countering the noise with clear, honest communication about what's at stake for working Mainers. Beyond this election, I care about the grassroots energy our party has built. That momentum doesn't come from the top down. It comes from neighbors talking to neighbors, local organizing, and people showing up because they believe change is possible. As a delegate, I want to help channel that energy into a communications effort that feels authentic, not manufactured, and that keeps people engaged long after November.

Youth

Madore, Denise

NORTH YARMOUTH

We the residents of Maine need to choose a replacement for Platner that will be a passionate champion for the working people of our great state.

Madore, Zachary

STANDISH

As a proud union member, I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. Troy has a long track record of being an upstanding man, and doing the required work for the working class. He has been outspoken against the abuse of the federal government in this moment of our history, and I feel can reach across political lines of Maine voters to become our next senator. I have been speaking to those in my personal life about Troy and what he is capable of doing and continue to advocate for everyone to show up and vote. thank you for your time. -Zach

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Madsen, Rolf

BRIDGTON

We need to work together to have the strongest candidate possible that will defeat Susan Collins in November. We are starting late with because of the issues we have with Platner We need to select the strongest candidate that will represent both our Progressive side of the party as well as our moderate side who will work to bring the party together in a comprehensive that will defeat Collins and win back the Senate in this years midterms

Magras, Michael

FREEPORT

The way to defeat Susan Collins is to shatter the illusion once and for all. For 30 years, she has pulled off one of the greatest magic acts in Maine political history. She has convinced the electorate that her votes have been a net gain for Maine. They are actually a net loss. She's an expert at a clever trick: Always respond to constituents about day-to-day business to create the mirage that she's working on behalf of all Mainers. The opposite is true, as her votes on issues with bigger ramifications prove. She voted to confirm Alito, Gorsuch, and Kavanaugh, which led to the Dobbs decision overturning Roe v. Wade. She supported GOP tax and budget bills that are likely to hurt rural hospitals. She has consistently voted to fund and support ICE. She opposed tax credits for the Affordable Care Act. She doesn't support an assault weapons ban. One could go on. And she promised to serve only two terms. Then she drank the Kool-Aid and discovered that she liked the taste of power and craven fealty to a retrograde political party. To defeat Susan Collins, we have to relentlessly articulate unapologetic support for Democratic values and explain how those values benefit all Mainers. If I'm a delegate, I will do what I can to select the candidate who can best articulate that progressive vision and continue my involvement thereafter through online videos, social media posts, letters to the editor, and more.

Maher, Megan

BRUNSWICK

I don't need 250 words to show why we need to defeat Susan Collins. Our rights are at risk, Maine is no longer the safe and welcoming place we know and love, and no one should be afraid that they'll be killed as soon as they step outside their door. We need to vote and we need a nominee who will represent Maine better than Susan Collins ever could.

Youth

Mahoney, David John

GORHAM

I believe every worker deserves a living wage, affordable housing, and health insurance. I believe a person's race or sexual orientation is their own business and not anyone else's. I believe there should be basic civil rights for all people in this country. I believe that all citizens have the right right to vote whether that be in person or through the mail. I believe in the integrity of our election process. Susan Collins has become a reliable lackey for Trump and must be defeated! We need a Democratic majority in the Senate to curb Trump's disregard for the law and disregard for basic human rights.

Mahoney, Patricia

GORHAM

I've carefully watched the process for the primary we recently held. I listened and considered where my vote would best benefit the state of Maine. I believe in the sanctity and honesty of our electoral processes. I believe that Susan Collins must be defeated in order to keep both Maine and the U.S. safer for all citizens. I believe we have the right to due process in the courts. That a person's sexuality is their business not ours. That supporting the current administration under Trump is a detriment to all citizens. That ICE has no place here. That all of us deserve medical care and housing. The progressive voice of Mainers has spoken and been heard. We must carry on .

Mahoney, Rosemary A

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am running for the Maine Democratic Party nominating committee to help choose our next U.S. Senate candidate. As a 61-year-old lifelong liberal Democrat and proud union member, I bring decades of dedication, hard work, and unwavering progressive values to this critical decision. Maine's working families deserve a nominee who understands their daily struggles. My labor roots run deep; I know firsthand the power of collective bargaining, fair wages, and robust workplace protections. On this committee, I will fiercely advocate for a nominee who stands shoulder-to-shoulder with working people and refuses to let corporate interests dictate our future. Our party must move forward with transparency, equity, and strategic vision. Having organized and campaigned for Democrats my entire adult life, I know what it takes to energize our grassroots base, unite our diverse coalition, and win tough federal races. I will evaluate potential candidates with a rigorous focus on ethical character, accountability, and a proven commitment to expanding healthcare, protecting Social Security, and lowering the cost of living for everyday Mainers. The upcoming election is a pivotal moment for Maine and our nation. We need a strong, unified voice to carry our values to Washington. I ask for your support and your trust to participate on this committee. Together, we will select a champion who fights for labor, honors our liberal heritage, and delivers real results for all of Maine.

Maine, Julia

YARMOUTH

I first participated in the democratic process in sixth grader. I'm from Chebeague Island, which seceded from the Town of Cumberland in 2007 and I testified to the legislature about why we should be allowed to become our own town. We were successful! That experience showed me that we can and must participate in our government! Even small groups of individuals can make a difference. I've always been proud of Maine's independent attitude and our ability to cross party lines. Susan Collins likes to say she represents that, but she isn't when it matters most. Too many Democrats voted for her in the last election because they are afraid of change. She stays in power because "she brings so much money to Maine" but it's time to flip that narrative. Susan Collins is the past. I'm 32 and she is not my future. I want to stand behind a candidate who will think independently and help to bridge the aisle that Susan Collins is cowering behind. I am committed to defeating her! I proudly drive around with my "Bye, Bye Susan" bumper sticker 9and I have been for six years!). I will galvanize my friends and networks to do the same. I will talk personally with the democrats who I know are too afraid to vote for anyone but Susan Collins. It's time to start a new future for Maine and find our voice and power in a new senator!

Maker, Andrea

PORTLAND

Malloy, Samantha

BRUNSWICK

Maine has a unique opportunity to tip the Senate blue. As an attorney I know how vital it is that we take back the senate to restore the US Supreme Court to protect our rights for decades to come. I intend to continue to participate in grass roots efforts and lend financial support.

Mancini, Azi

NEW GLOUCESTER

I am a 45 year old transgender Mainer who grew up in the Raymond, Gray, and New Gloucester areas. I am very passionate about defeating Susan Collins because she is a direct threat to not only my own healthcare and rights as a trans person, and as someone in a same sex marriage, but also that of everyone with a uterus that I care about.

Manglass, Eileen Mary

BRUNSWICK

Manning, Kyle

GORHAM

I have served as a canvasser. We need a pragmatic choice to defeat Collins. In light of the recent departures from the US upper chamber. Our choice matters more than ever.

Manson, David Aaron

WESTBROOK

I am a regular working class Mainer with an agricultural and data science background, and I want to speak for my neighbors at this historic state convention.

Mantenieks, Andrew

PORTLAND

During my time living in Orrington, Orono, Orland, Saco and Portland, I have talked to thousands of voters while working to elect progressive candidates up and down the ballot. From this experience, I know Americans are tired of politicians who work to protect the status quo, politicians who fail to deliver for working people. We all know that the richest country on earth can provide single payer healthcare, universal childcare and clean cheap energy to its people. It is time that Maine has a senator who will fight to deliver for us! For too long our tax dollars have been spent funding genocides while many among us live in extreme poverty. We need a senator who will raise taxes on people like Elon Musk to pay for the services we all depend on. We need a senator who will help deliver a transformative vision of prosperity and abundance to the working class to definitively show Americans that democracy can deliver. I have been and will continue to work tirelessly to elect progressives who will bring substantial change to our party. I would be honored to be a delegate so I can be a voice for the thousands of young people I have spoken with across the state. Please vote for me to represent our party and please vote for other young people who still have hope that the American experiment has a brighter and more just 250 years ahead of it.

Margolin, Lee David

HARRISON

I want to help select the best candidate that will make a significant difference in the effort to defeat Susan Collins. I plan to stand firm in my belief that Collins has diminished our democracy by her slavish fealty to Donald Trump and her earmarks for Maine do not compensate in the least for that. I will be vocal in my hometown regarding my support for the eventual Democratic candidate.

Margolis, Henry

GORHAM

I am a life long Democrat, having voted for almost 50 years in every election. While I have contributed to campaigns in the past, I lacked the time, and candidly, the impetus to get involved in a campaign. Now, the deterioration of our democracy and of our integrity as a nation have compelled me to get involved in whatever capacity I can be helpful. I'm retired from a career in sales leadership and social media marketing and I'm hoping these skills might be leveraged to help defeat Susan Collins in November..

Markham, Eli

FALMOUTH

I previously submitted this form but accidentally clicked the button for Waldo county instead. It should have been for Cumberland county, where I live. You should use the answer I submitted previously, but in case that doesn't work, know that I want to be a delegate in order to help us defeat Susan Collins and the Epstein class.

Markowitz, Jacob

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate at the nomination convention to help ensure we select a candidate who will fight for all Mainers. I am a special education teacher who works tirelessly to support and advocate for some of the most vulnerable students in our school systems. Over the past decade, I have worked with new Mainers in Cumberland County and believe our communities are stronger because of our new neighbors. I want a candidate that can defeat Susan Collins, but I firmly believe the way to do this is by selecting someone who has strong policies that they stand for. We need a candidate who fights for the vulnerable with actions not just words. The Democratic Party has spent too long campaigning on being better than the Republican candidate rather than what they will do for the community. We need a candidate who is going to fight for what's right and not be afraid to split from the current leaders of the Democratic Party when necessary. Our new senate candidate needs to sway undecided voters that they are bringing so many positives to the state that it outweighs

Susan Collin's place on the appropriation committee. Maine is a state full of hard working people who care about their community. Our next senate candidate needs to be a reflection of these qualities as we build momentum to reshape who politicians are looking out for.

Martin, Elyse

PORTLAND

I would like to be part of this historic moment.

Martin, Geoffrey

CUMBERLAND

We need to restore the rule of law in Washington, remove Trump and all of his cronies, and improve life for middle and low income Americans.

Underrepresented Religion

Martin, Janet M M

BRUNSWICK

As a long-time student of American politics, political scientist and teacher of courses on Congress and the American Presidency, I want to be a part of a process to get a candidate on the November ballot who will defeat Susan Collins. We need a Senator who meets with voters in Maine, and is willing and able to rein in a President bent on destroying fundamental tenets of our system of government. As an educator, the more I can explain why and how our nominee for this key race was selected in a fair and representative process, the more I can assure voters in Maine their voices will be heard. Maine needs to get this right, both on July 25th and November 3rd. The US Senate must again play its Constitutional role as a check on presidential ambition. Using my expertise I will do research as needed to respond to questions Mainers pose as I work on phone banks and engage in daily conversations. I will attend candidate events, watch debates, and work to activate and interest students, and young, new, and lapsed voters, to register, learn about the candidates, and get out the vote. Change is possible; participation matters. While physically limited in canvassing, I can recruit others for that job. The enthusiasm generated by Graham Platner across generations is infectious. If sustained, it provides the votes needed to defeat Collins. Turnout of Maine voters on June 9th demonstrated that Democrats will show up. As a long-time student of American

Disability

Martin, Janice

BRUNSWICK

I am an active and committed Democrat who is keen to do whatever possible to help our party cope with this difficult moment and choose the individual who best represents Mainers' concerns -- and who can defeat Susan Collins! I will work tirelessly to help our candidate win in November, and beyond November, help our grassroots movement keep growing and fighting.

Mascia, Michael

YARMOUTH

I care deeply about the future of Maine and our country. I grew up on dirt road in Oxford County, was educated in Maine public schools, and graduated from Bowdoin. I left for a career in public service, working to strengthen communities, conserve nature, and fight climate change in the US and around the world. After 20+ years away, I returned to Maine to raise my kids in the place I call home. I am a Yarmouth resident. My commitment to defeating Susan Collins is likely similar to most prospective delegates: a willingness to rally friends and neighbors to go door-to-door, work the phones, solicit donations, and turn out the vote. I am also willing draw upon my personal expertise in environmental policy and nationwide peer networks to advise the prospective candidate, if helpful, and to highlight Collins' vulnerabilities. If there is any other way I can help defeat Collins, strengthen democracy, and help craft a better future for our state and our country, I am willing to serve.

Maser, Brandon J

PORTLAND

I have been a life long Democrat serving as far back as a Maine college Democrat vice president. Susan Collins' teck record has been troubling to me for her most recent last two terms and we need to do everything we can to replace her in the senate. I have run for local office myself and understand what is needed to run a successful campaign. I am willing to do so to defeat Susan Collins.

Massicotte, Steven

FREEPORT

I am proud to support Dr. Nirav Shah for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate. Throughout his career, he has demonstrated thoughtful, compassionate leadership and a steadfast commitment to serving the people of Maine. I also supported his campaign for governor by attending events and contributing financially. At a time when our country faces deep divisions, we need leaders who bring people together, listen carefully, and focus on practical solutions that improve the lives of working families. Dr. Shah has the experience, character, and vision to represent Maine with distinction in the U.S. Senate. I believe he will be a strong advocate for affordable health care, economic opportunity, and the values that matter most to Maine people. When choosing a candidate to support, I look for three things: intelligence, character, and determination. Dr. Shah clearly has all three. He is highly intelligent, has shown time and again that he is a man of character, and will be relentless in his fight for this Senate seat. In my view, he is the most qualified candidate to become Maine's next U.S. Senator.

Mathieu, Philip E

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'm 31, meaning I was a toddler when Susan Collins was elected, and elementary school when she held her last town hall. As a Sierra Club Maine ExCom member and a former chair of the Portland Rent Board, I know how important grassroots and local organizing are to the future of our state, and have grappled with environmental and housing issues that face real Mainers. As a data scientist by training, I'm prepared to bring my technical expertise to the table to help navigate (or more often, dispel) numeric electability claims. It's going to be an uphill battle but I for one am more ready than I've ever been to fight!

Youth

Mauer, Christopher

SCARBOROUGH

I'm running to be your Cumberland County Delegate because working families here deserve someone casting their vote who understands what they're up against. Young and working class people in this county get priced out of homeownership, put off starting a family, and struggle to afford basic healthcare. Wages haven't kept pace with the cost of living, and too often, decision-makers favor outside interests and well-connected "elites" over the working people who actually live here. As your delegate, my vote in the primary won't belong to insiders or special interests — it will belong to you. I'll cast it for candidates with real plans to strengthen unions, make homeownership and raising a family affordable again, and protect access to healthcare. I'll vote for candidates who reject funneling taxpayer money to the super-rich, and who will defend the rights of our most vulnerable neighbors. I believe in: -Standing with local unions and workers -Making homeownership and family life attainable again -Protecting affordable healthcare and essential services -Defending the liberties of vulnerable populations -Protecting our neighborhoods from fascists -Rejecting candidates bought by outside money I'm backed by the experience of facing the same affordability struggles you do. I'm asking for your vote so that when I cast mine in the primary, it truly represents you — not whoever's writing the biggest checks.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Mazur, Margarita

PORTLAND

I am dedicated to voting for Troy Jackson, who I believe has the interests of the people in mind and will not be bought out by lobbyists or special interest groups. I care to support a candidate who will help Mainers keep our hospitals and birthing centers open, who will support our fragile environment that working folks depend on, who cares about affordability. I will put my resources behind getting Troy Jackson elected to the Senate, representing the people of Maine.

Mazziotti, Lisa L

WESTBROOK

We need a progressive candidate that wants billionaires to pay their fair share to help our Country to be the best it can be. We need a candidate that stands with the people of Maine. We need to reform the path to citizenship, Immigration reject ICE. There has to be a better way. Mainers need help now alot are struggling to make ends meet. Just barely able to get the necessities to live. Healthcare is a human right for everyone. The systems in the federal government need to be fixed. Everyone deserves to be treated fairly. Not just the wealthy! Women, minorities, children, veterans disabled, homeless and the elderly deserve to have a roof over their heads, food and heathcare. Everyone deserves to have the same rights as all. I want to be a delegate to the Special Democratic Convention to represent the progressive candidates to replace Graham Platner. I have been involved in the Democratic party for years and I have phonebanked for a few candidates, I have been a delegate before, rallied and donated to campaigns. Thank you for considering me to be a delegate

Disability

McAuley, Jennifer Adrienne

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a Delegate for three reasons: to help restore the Senate as an independent branch of government, support a candidate who can meaningfully advance Medicare for All, and represent the many Mainers who feel their voices were not heard. I have lived in Maine since 2012 and have been represented by Senator Susan Collins throughout that time. While I initially respected her despite our political differences, that respect has eroded as I have watched her repeatedly enable the current administration at the expense of Congress's role as a coequal branch of government. Although many people close to me supported Graham Platner, I had reservations and voted differently in the primary. At the same time, I respect the message sent by voters demanding leaders who better represent the needs of working Mainers. As a healthcare provider, I see firsthand the consequences of inadequate insurance coverage and the administrative burdens created by our fragmented insurance system. The promise of choice is often illusory when coverage is tied to employment. While the Affordable Care Act expanded access, it did not fix the underlying system. I remain deeply committed to advancing Medicare for All. I have canvassed for Democratic candidates in the past and am prepared to do so again. I will work to mobilize voters, support our nominee, and help build the grassroots energy needed to defeat Susan Collins and strengthen Democratic representation in Maine. J. Adrienne McAuley

McAvoy, Wendy

FALMOUTH

I have been involved in Graham's campaign as a volunteer. I have always been a Democrat and believe it is essential that we defeat Susan Collins so we can begin to take back our country. During Graham's campaign as a volunteer I met a lot of people who had not been involved in politics before who were motivated and excited by Graham's policies. I think it is important to pick someone who will carry on those policies and keep people especially young people involved.

McCann, Sarah

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to help ensure that the values and will of the people are represented in the selection of a new Democratic nominee. I plan helping to nominate a candidate using a process that is as democratic as possible given the circumstances, and that honors the platform that the voters overwhelmingly supported in the primaries. Given what is at stake, we cannot risk compromising values of transparency and democracy in the selection of a new candidate. I appreciate what party leadership has done so far to ensure a smooth process, and I am eager to help see the process through.

LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion

McCartney, James

BRUNSWICK

My name is J. Will McCartney and if selected, I plan to support Troy Jackson for Senate as our nominee. As a husband, father of two girls, and a court appointed criminal defense attorney, I am passionate about political reform and advocating for democratic ideals. I work with people every day who are suffering from the disastrous policies of Susan Collins and Donald Trump. I have also experienced firsthand the consequences of the healthcare cuts orchestrated by Trump and enabled by Collins. I would be proud to use my skills and experience as a grassroots organizer, volunteer, and engaged citizen to fiercely advocate and serve as a delegate for Troy Jackson. Having known him for nearly a decade, he is one of the most down to earth, caring and knowledgeable people I know. He understands the needs of Maine people and stands for policies and reforms needed in our state and our country, from healthcare to abolishing ICE. I will be canvassing, phone banking, and reminding everyone that a vote for Collins is a vote for Trump and his catastrophic and corrupt agenda. A vote for Troy is a vote for our children and a brighter future.

McCauley, Richard L

CUMBERLAND

I wish to be a delegate to support Nirav Shah. Dr. Shah has demonstrated a leadership ethic that is not seen in politics today. Dr. Shah showed us how to weather the Covid storm with his leadership in a way that brought people together. Today, we are in another kind of storm that is putting friends and families in conflict that does not serve anyone. I believe Dr. Shah's track record of leadership and outreach to all constituents is what is needed to unify Maine.

McClintick, Alexander

FALMOUTH

I am 18 years old, a first time voter. I was an active volunteer for the Platner campaign, knocking on more than 150 doors, as well as distributing yard signs, etc. I am on a gap year before college and had intended to volunteer full-time on the campaign through November. I am willing to shift my efforts to an alternative candidate, as I am strongly committed to attaining Democratic control of the Senate. My first "door knocking" experience was for Biden in New Hampshire in 2016, when I was only 12 years old.

Immigrant/New Mainer, Youth

McCormack, Morgan Catherine

PORTLAND

I want to be a part of the solution. I want to be part of a process working towards proving that this enthusiasm is not because of one man, but because we are all hungry for change. And I will help by continuing to have conversations with my friends, neighbors and especially those who may have had differences in opinion from me these past seven months. This is so important, and while it is within my ability to do so, I feel it is also my duty to try. Thank you for your consideration.

LGBTQIA+

McCurry, Casey

BRUNSWICK

It would be my honor to support Troy Jackson as our party's nominee. I have been a long-time Jackson supporter, and one of the most inspiring and overwhelmingly positive moments of my life was when I served as a Sanders delegate in 2016, watching Troy Jackson light up the stage with a unifying message. He's the one to get it done in 2026, exactly ten years later, and I am so motivated to help our party take out Susan Collins once and for all.

McCurry, John

SCARBOROUGH

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

McDaniel, Sarah A

NEW GLOUCESTER

I was a delegate for my town (New Gloucester) at the convention this spring. I am committed to ensuring that the nominee reflects the vision of the 70% of primary voters who are looking to put the concerns of working people first. As E. Warren said, we don't need just any D to only flip the Senate in '26, but we need a D who will FIGHT TO DELIVER CHANGE in the Senate so that our democracy survives.

McDermott, Maura P

FALMOUTH

We all know that Maine has been failed by the representation of Susan Collins. We saw it with "Justice" Brett Kavanaugh, her rolling over as appropriations chair, forwarding the OBBBA, then voting against it when her vote didn't matter anymore. Collins has consistently let us down, and will continue to support the wealthy and special interests - not the hardworking people of Maine. I am a single mother of a special needs child and I have the grit and determination to fight for what is right. We can't stand back and wait - we need to move forward together. We need to voice what we need to successfully raise our families and run our business in our great state of Maine. I am that voice. I can connect. As a recently retired special education teacher for 26 years, I am used to working with many types of people to create something that supports people, and the need to protect civil rights. I am alarmed at the corruption at the federal level and the rollback of important protections which we, as Americans, need to keep our communities healthy. I see and hear the alarm of people around me. We can't wait. We need to take this energy and move it forward. I can help by meeting with diverse groups, reaching out to people, having fun activities like sign making parties, and planning activities (with food) to get people interested and conversations flowing. We need to turn out everyone. I am ready

McDonald, Jeffrey

STANDISH

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I believe Maine and the nation need a progressive answer to our challenges, one not supported by Mr. Schumer and most middle-of-the-road national party leaders. I worked phones for the 2024 election and drove to get-out-the-vote on Election Day and plan to do so again this fall. I have taken an oath to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States of America and if sent to Bangor will represent Cumberland County and Maine by making Mr. Jackson our candidate.

McGehee, Peggy

YARMOUTH

As a former town councilor and school board member, immediate past president of the Maine Gun Safety Coalition (and proud of our work to gather signatures and advocate for the passage of the red flag referendum in 2025), a participant in Indivisible events (including No Kings Days, where I tend an MGSC table), an organizer of the June 6 EverOrange rally where 4 gubernatorial candidates spoke, as well as the spouse to an active retired Maine Supreme Court Justice (Andrew M. Horton) who has given talks in 2026 on the importance of democratic rule of law, I would like to participate in this important, and unique Democratic convention. I have not yet decided which declared candidate to support among our excellent choices, but want to listen to their speeches. I intend to support the nominee selected with a financial contribution as well as hands-on advocacy. Thank you.

McGivney, Nathanna

STANDISH

I am seeking to serve as a Democratic delegate because I believe Maine deserves leaders who understand the realities facing working families, rural communities, and those who often go unheard. As a 46-year-old mother of two living in Standish, Maine, I have dedicated my professional life to serving others. As a Director at Spurwink in Bridgton, I see every day how access to quality healthcare, especially behavioral health services, can change lives. I also see the challenges that rural communities face, including provider shortages, transportation barriers, and limited access to essential services. These experiences have strengthened my commitment to advocating for policies that expand healthcare access, education and improve the well-being of all Mainers. Every Mainer, regardless of where they live, should have the opportunity to build a secure future close to home. As a delegate, I would bring the perspective of a working parent and healthcare leader. I am committed to listening, collaborating, and representing the values of fairness, compassion, and opportunity that define the Democratic Party. I would be honored to help ensure that Maine's voice reflects the needs of families, workers, and communities across our state while advancing a vision of equity, economic opportunity, and accessible healthcare for everyone.

McGowan, Jeremy S

WESTBROOK

Im a lifelong Mainer. Been with the party for 34 yrs. Ive been a delegate multiple times and understand the esponsibility that goes along with representing my constituents! I look forward to helping Maine move towards the future! We The People

McGregor, Russell

BRUNSWICK

I support Troy Jackson as our nominee!!!! Susan Collins' policies kill Mainers! Susan is WEAK - Maine is STRONG. She must be defeated. Abolish ICE Healthcare for all! Protect Union rights. Support Indigenous self-determination. WE NEED TO DEMAND BETTER FROM OUR POLITICIANS - HELP ME DO THIS! Maine needs the most progressive possible candidate for Senate in order to defeat Susan. Vote for me as your delegate and I will make sure that my vote always goes to the most progressive, forward-looking, and positive candidate that Maine can have. I am an Orono High School graduate. Bowdoin College graduate. Brunswick resident. I CARE ABOUT MAINE AND ALL PEOPLE IN MAINE. I CARE ABOUT OUR COUNTRY AND ALL PEOPLE IN AMERICA!

McGuigan, Michael P

WINDHAM

I would be honored to serve as a delegate representing the people of Maine. Before becoming a union representative and organizer with the North Atlantic States Regional Council of Carpenters, I worked as a union carpenter in the field and experienced firsthand the opportunities and challenges facing workers in the construction industry. Today, I work to help carpenters find employment opportunities, advocate for fair treatment in the workplace, and support strong standards throughout the industry. My experience both in the field and as a representative has given me a practical understanding of the issues affecting working families and skilled tradespeople across our state. I have lived in Maine for many years and currently reside in Windham. Maine is my home, and I care deeply about the future of our communities and workforce. If selected as a delegate, I will approach the role with integrity, professionalism, and a commitment to representing the people of Maine to the best of my ability.

McGuire, Harvey Paul

PORTLAND

My interest in serving as a delegate to the upcoming Maine Democratic Party Nominating Convention is explained succinctly and clearly by two wise democrats: Foremost is Justice Louis Brandeis, who said "We must make our choice. We may have democracy, or we may have wealth concentrated in the hands of a few, but we cannot have both." Second and third are from Jim Hightower, former Texas

Commissioner of Agriculture, who said "If we want to clear the water, we must drive the hogs out of the creek"and, referring to middle of the roaders (centrists), "there's nothing in the middle of the road other than yellow lines and dead armadillos." I have been an active Democrat for over a half-century during which I served as municipal chair in two towns Bethel and Farmington, as county chair in two counties (Oxford and Franklin) as a member of the Democratic State Committee. In all that time (1970s -2000s) the party experienced strains and stresses caused by issues such as gay rights, war in VietNam, abortion rights and more. But none were more vital to democracy itself than what we face today.Since moving to Portland a decade ago I've been less active. This moment, however has kindled the old fire. And it is an old one (I turn 87 later this month). Still, I'm willing to do what I can to help revive the whole idea of "We the people...."

McKee, Nina T T

SCARBOROUGH

This is my 2nd application because I neglected to check off the three agreements! I want to be a delegate to be part of the honor of participating in this democratic process. I want to vote. I want to support the MDC's inclusive process. I will support and finance the US Senate Candidate whom ever that may be and I will support the grassroots movement by the work I do for our candidate.

McKeen, Patricia A

WINDHAM

Want to make sure that this important decision is made correctly

McKenna, Catherine

YARMOUTH

Graham Platner's campaign did a lot to remind us that we, the people, have the power to change a system that no longer works for most of us. I was one of the many people who were energized by his clear eyed assessment of our problems AND his commitment to build a popular movement to create a just, more sustainable future for all Mainers. Of course, we need to defeat Susan Collins—she has stood idly by while the Trump administration has descended into incompetence and corruption—but we also need to rebuild voters' faith in our own collective power as citizens in a democracy. I want a charismatic and principled senator who will relentlessly promote the needs of regular Mainers. I also want a senator from a younger generation, one who will work with his/her fellow senators to find sustainable solutions to the many crises before us: health care, inflation, housing, climate, etc. I want to help chose our a candidate, and then I promise to work tirelessly with my fellow Mainers to get that person elected. I'm ready to raise money, knock on doors, and talk to anyone who will listen. This is where the tide turns.

Underrepresented Religion

McKinney, Jessica

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

McLaughlin, Penelope

POWNALE

I am running to be a delegate to ensure a nominee is chosen who will undoubtedly defeat Susan Collins in November. As a woman, a Mainer who grew up in the fifties, and a grandparent of a young Mainer, I worry about the future and the legacy that is being created for future generations. We are being led on a path destined for complete disaster by the ilk of Susan Collins and her cohorts. I am eager to hear from all of the candidates and their blueprints for our country's future as well as their plan for defeating Susan Collins. I'm looking for a dynamic speaker who has a cohesive agenda and the energy and commitment to take the campaign to a win. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously and with the same commitment I expect from the elected candidate. I sincerely hope I will be allowed that privilege .

McLaughlin, Peter

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate to participate in and help ensure a democratic process that respects the will of the Democratic Party voters of Maine.

McLoon, Linda S

PORTLAND

I would like to support Shenna Bellow's candidacy for one of Maine's two seats in the United States Senate because I think she is the most qualified person wishing to be the Democratic candidate to face current Senator Susan Collins. Based on her education, her background (particularly as the current Maine Secretary of State), her excellent way of speaking and presenting herself, and her history of standing up to President Donald Trump, I strongly wish to support Shenna Bellows.

McMurray, William Cooper

PORTLAND

McNerney, Kristen

FREEPORT

I am a Maine elementary teacher and a member of Generation Z. All of my Maine colleagues and I deserve to make more than $50,000 a year to sustain a life in Maine. Myself and others my age are a decade out from being able to afford a home, meanwhile ultra wealthy out-of-state individuals are buying second and third vacation homes without taking on a fair share of the tax burden and contributing to our state economy. Like many of my generation, I have approached $100,000 in student loan debt and have to budget week by week to ensure I can afford both rent and my monthly loan payment. I want to start a family in this beautiful state and ensure that my children have access to affordable quality childcare, public schools that lead the nation, and outdoor spaces safeguarded from development. I want to feel like my health is protected and insurance companies do not get to decide which necessary screenings I can afford at the doctor's office. I want to live in a state where those battling substance use and mental health challenges are not thrown out into the street and turned away from the communities they grew up in. I am horrified by the way asylum seekers are being portrayed as violent criminals and those exercising their rights to live and work here are being gunned down by state-sanctioned militia because of the color of their skin.

McRae-Cyr, Nicholas

SCARBOROUGH

LGBTQIA+, Disability

McTigue, Pamela D

CUMBERLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat, a Maine native and former town manager. I have campaigned for local and state candidates, ballot initiatives and for presidential candidates. And having been involved in local and state politics for so long, I fully understand what is at stake in this moment, for the state and for the nation. Susan Collins has made every effort to portray herself as a moderating presence in the Senate, but her voting record shows otherwise. Maine and the nation cannot afford anymore of President Trump's yes-men – or his yes-women – rubberstamping his policies and undoing the good work of previous administrations and grassroot initiatives. And with the Senate so closely split, the election in Maine might very well decide if the Senate flips back to us and reestablishes a needed check and balance on the President. In this moment, we can settle for nothing less than the best candidate. If nominated as a delegate for Cumberland County, I will not forget the stakes. I promise to use all my experience to come together with the other delegates and determine the best possible candidate; for the sake of the party, for the state and for the nation. Thank you for your consideration.

Meade, Kathleen P

FREEPORT

DELEGATE CANDIDATE STATEMENT OF INTEREST I would like to attend the MDP Nominating Convention as delegate to be able to contribute to choosing the candidate to replace/remove Susan Collins. I am a lifelong Democrat, and currently have been a coordinator of VISIBILITY FREEPORT, a weekly stand out in Freeport from the end of February '25 through the present. The format is to be visible with presence and signage. It has been a significant space for networking, communication, and support for attendees as well as reminding the greater community of the vulnerability of our present situation. VISIBILITY FREEPORT has also held 10 specialty stand outs, including all three of the NO KINGS demonstrations where we had thousands line Main St (Rte 1) with signs, shared purpose, and determination to save democracy and get through this troublesome and sad period in our country. I am an artist, educator, and a problem solver with life experience that helps me relate to and understand people of different ages, backgrounds, and sensibilities. I am adept at connecting people and would like the opportunity to help resolve the current situation to find the best Senate candidate. I will support the democratic party finding balance for this midterm election. I will continue helping the Freeport Dems re-invigorate their efforts in outreach to expand democratic engagement, communication, and potentially be able to offer workable suggestions to help energize other town committees. Thanks for the consideration. Kathleen Meade

Mehigan, Michael E

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I care deeply about the future of our party and the direction of our state. I believe Democrats are at our best when we listen to our communities, organize year-round, and make room for new voices to be part of the process. I'd be proud to help choose candidates who share those values. Defeating Susan Collins in November is going to take more than campaign ads; it will take people showing up. I plan to do my part by knocking doors, making phone calls, talking with voters, and encouraging friends and neighbors to get involved. The strongest campaigns are built on real conversations and volunteers who are willing to put in the work. I also want to help keep the energy going after Election Day. That means welcoming new volunteers, supporting local Democratic organizing, and helping build a stronger grassroots network that lasts beyond a single election. Serving as a delegate would be an opportunity to represent my community, contribute to the nominating process, and help build the kind of Democratic Party that earns people's trust and keeps them engaged.

Meier, Emily

PORTLAND

I am running as a delegate for Troy Jackson. My name is Emily. I am a union representative with the Maine Education Association in Portland. In every election I've been eligible to vote, in every state I've lived in, I have knocked doors and made calls for Democratic candidates. From Pine Ridge, SD to Alexandria, VA, I have never experienced willingness amongst voters to fight for a new way of doing politics that puts people first like we have in this race. I am running as a delegate for Troy because he is the best positioned candidate to continue the work of championing the ideas that brought so many of us to this moment. He is a tested leader that understands how to govern and accomplish what people need without watering down what we know is possible to deliver when we have a government that works for its people. I moved to Maine when my home state was allowed to outlaw abortion because of Susan Collins's vote to confirm Brett Kavanaugh. My loved ones back home in South Dakota continue to live without that fundamental right. I now work daily alongside Maine workers who are building power in their workplaces because they have been left behind by an economy that doesn't serve them. Women, immigrants, LGBTQ people, workers, and all of us fighting for a better future deserve a candidate that can win and who fights alongside us instead of against us. For me, that fighter is Troy.

Melcher, Eloise Catherine

PORTLAND

I grew up in Maine and love this state dearly. It is very important to me that the democrats have a strong candidate capable of defeating Susan Collins. I would like to help pick the candidate. I am also 31 years old and think my perspective as a younger person will be helpful.

Melley, Maura L

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate for 2 primary reasons. First, it is absolutely necessary, for the future of our country, that Susan Collins be defeated and Democrats have the seat in the Senate. Second, I am a Maine resident for over 20 years, a lawyer and bring my experience as a former Connecticut Secretary of the State and Deputy Secretary. I want to be part of the group that picks the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins. We must choose the candidate who will appeal to the majority of Maine voters. I'm not biased against progressives or centrists. I only want someone who can win statewide and who'll stand against the Republicans. I believe party committee members and volunteers act with the highest integrity. I reject criticisms of them, especially by people who have never worked at the polls or served on a board or commission. I don't like any attempts by outsiders to control the selection be they US Senators or progressive operatives. We need smart, experienced leadership of the campaign who listen to Mainers and utilize national polling and research resources. We need to counter the hundreds of millions Collins has behind her. I will listen to all and keep my focus on the goal of winning statewide in November.

LGBTQIA+

Melville, Melissa

PORTLAND

Far too many of us sit on the sidelines and then complain that things were not done to our liking. The only way to bring about change, to make sure your voice is heard is to be involved. Our communities would look a lot differently, our politics as well if we all made some time for them.

Meng, Ian D

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would be honored to serve as a delegate because this moment calls for Democrats who will listen carefully, choose a nominee capable of uniting our party, and then work relentlessly to elect that person in November. I am committed to defeating Susan Collins and electing a senator who will stand up for Maine communities and our democratic values. My commitment is already active and deep. In the last election cycle, I canvassed for District 2 candidates. I have regularly attended No Kings and other protests in Monument Square, contributed financially, and signed up to volunteer for the candidate I initially supported before that candidate withdrew. My support was never about one individual; it is about building the strongest possible movement to win this seat. As a professor at the University of New England, I am especially interested in helping engage young voters. Outside the classroom and in accordance with university policies, I will encourage voter registration and participation, connect interested students and other young Mainers with volunteer opportunities, and support peer-to-peer outreach about the importance of this election. I will also canvass, phone-bank, fundraise, recruit volunteers, and amplify the eventual nominee's message. Grassroots momentum grows when people feel welcomed, heard, and useful. I will help create that culture, bring new volunteers into the party, and remain engaged after November so that the organizing we do now strengthens Democratic candidates and communities across Maine for years to come.

Merrill, Philip

CHEBEAGUE ISLAND

I have been involved in helping elect Democrats to local, state and federal office in Maine since 1968 when I was a Kennedy delegate to the convention in Augusta. In the 1970's I represented Cumberland County in the Maine Senate. I ran Sen. Muskies last campaign. I served on the Maine State Democratic Committee and represented Maine on the Democratic National Committee. I led the Democratic Redistricting Campaign in 2 different Decades. This year I was a contributor to the Pingree Campaign for Governor and the Platner Campaign for the Senate. I was in the organizing group for the Platner in my town. In short I think I bring a lifetime of experience to this role and count my self among the Cumberland County Democrats who have been active this politics this year promoting Democrats and actively protesting Trumps assault on our economy, our community values and our economy.

Merz, Nandini S

FALMOUTH

I identify primarily as a person of color and the daughter of immigrants. I've also been an activist here in the state since 2016. I've lead rallies, founded an Indivisible group (Cumberland County Indivisible), and met and talked to hundreds of people. I understand the deep frustration that people here have with the political process, and the decades that Susan collins has spent dismantling everything— all the while pretending to be a moderate. However, I also understand the need for process and inclusion. I believe that electability should be one of the primary factors in determining who should be the candidate to run against Collins. in addition, I once substituted for Jeyn Levison as a representative for the Dems. In those few meetings, I got to understand a little bit of how the party works as well. For all these reasons, I believe I could make a good delegate for the convention

Meuser, Thomas

PORTLAND

I'm a geriatric psychologist and very engaged in aging related issues in Maine. I'm also a former Maine Commissioner on Community Service. Senator Collins has done some good things for Maine's seniors. I want to give voice to the aging and volunteer sectors at this critical time. Collins must go!

Michael, Susan Elizabeth

BRUNSWICK

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Michaud, Gregory J

FALMOUTH

1. I am a lifelong Democrat from a long line of Democrats. Serving as a delegate is a privilege and responsibility to represent Maine in defeating Susan Collins and more broadly Trumpism. While Graham Platner was not the best candidate, the ideas and proposals his team put forth generated real interest and excitement for many Maine voters. We are not in a business-as-usual moment— we are losing our country, and Democrats must meet this moment with clarity, excitement, and strong resolve. I would like to be involved in making this happen as a delegate. 2. Susan Collins is nothing if not a wily, ruthless adversary. As Democrats, we are in a good position to provide a compelling contrast to her cynical pandering. We must successfully communicate that the “money” she says she has brought to Maine has come at too high a cost for the nation and Maine. I will help to communicate the seriousness of the moment we find ourselves in, the real wins that Democrats have had for people in the past, and a new vision for the future that helps us both rebuild/reimagine government for the people, while also holding those who have broken the law accountable. 3.I will help with communication, volunteering, or whatever needs doing. Also, reaching out to those who may not identify as Democrats (I am a woodworker), but are unhappy and struggling with making ends meet day to day, forever wars, unbridled corruption, and upending communities with unaccountable ICE militias

Mikulka, Kathleen Reilly

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am the coordinator of Third Act Maine Democracy Committee. I canvassed for the primary and am encouraging our members (1300) through our newsletter to get involved in the first and 2nd Districts beginning in July--and to continue to support democrats to accomplish our programs after successful elections!

Mikulka, Thomas William

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am an active member of the Cape/SoPo Dems and want to select the candidate that can best express the concerns of working class voters and articulate how the present system has been corrupted by corporate interests. At this point I feel strongly that Shenna Belows is that person.

Miles, Elizabeth Ann

PORTLAND

I continue to be active in many issues related to the Democratic Party, and specific candidate. I have been a delayed in the past and want to have a voice and continue time toward defeating Susan Collins. I often speak up and discuss facts, when faced with false information based on Republican lies.

Miles, Michael D

WESTBROOK

I have participated in scores of political campaigns at the local, state, and national levels over many decades, always door to door, often at the polls, and often financially, most recently contributing $800 to one campaign. I have met many of the candidates in their town halls, and am an enthusiastic volunteer. I co-led the successful gay rights campaign in Westbrook two decades ago, and have served on two dozen boards.

Miller, Brooks

PORTLAND

Democracy is under assault, and I believe this moment calls on normal people to step up and make sure their voice is heard. Defeating Susan Collins is essential to winning back a Democratic Senate majority, one that can check the worst impulses of this administration and deliver real change for everyday Americans. I'm a Special Educator and lifelong Democrat, and I want to bring that perspective to this process. Our state has been put in a difficult position, but this isn't the time to dwell on the past. It's time to choose a nominee who can unite Mainers and carry forward the grassroots energy this race has already built. At 27, I'm a young teacher who understands what young people in Maine need at a moment when so many are leaving the state. I've worked in both rural Maine and Portland, and I've seen firsthand how this state's challenges, and its potential, touch every corner of it. Maine is my forever home, and it's hurting. I've phonebanked and volunteered before, and I'm ready to do it again. They say "as Maine goes, so goes the nation," and we've been handed another chance to prove that true. This is our opportunity to tell this administration, clearly and decisively, that their behavior will no longer be tolerated under a Democratic majority. As a delegate, I will work rationally, civilly, and democratically to help select a nominee who can win in November and lead that fight.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Miller, Lee

FREEPORT

I want to be involved in voting for our next Senator from the state of Maine. I am fed up with Susan Collins and her pearl clutching and enabling of Donald Trump.

Miller, Linda Kay

BRIDGTON

I ran for the Maine state senate in 2024 & lost to Rick Bennett. After receiving an online threat, Troy personally called me and talked me out of quitting. Troy is genuine, ethical and deeply committed to fighting for Maine's working class people. I KNOW he will be an excellent senator. I would be honored to participate in the nominating convention.

Miller, Lynne C
BRUNSWICK

Miller, Mark A WEST BALDWIN

LGBTQIA+

Miller, Martha
GRAY

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Millett, Patricia L
SOUTH PORTLAND

I think it is time for the Democratic Party to take back the Senate and House. I feel Susan Collins is not representing the people of Maine in a way Mainers need.

LGBTQIA+

Millett, Rebecca J
CAPE ELIZABETH

The stakes this coming November are the highest in my lifetime. The future of our nation, our state and our lives as Americans are on the line. We absolutely must end Susan Collins' reign in the Senate and do our part to save our democratic republic. I would be honored to serve as a delegate and be a part of the process that brings us together for our nominee and unites us in this historic moment. As a long standing member of the MDP and state legislator, I bring years of on the ground organizing experience from fundraising, canvassing, peer to peer outreach, phone banking, letter writing campaigns and more. We need to reach those democrats that still believe the false narrative of Collins' supposed "moderate" position and support them as they consider a better alternative in our candidate and our vision for our state and country. We must offer a vision of hope for the future for all of us, one that does not sacrifice a quality of life so the super rich can continue to feed off of our work, our time, our natural resources, our lives. There is a hunger for authentic engagement and voices and finding that authenticity is job number one for the convention. Then we must invite and welcome people into the movement to take our county back.

Millett, Rhonda L

GORHAM

I would like to be considered as a delegate. I am currently a member attending Gorham Dems. In the past, I have been an active voter, supported Democratic candidates by donating financially, attending meetings and rallies, and door knocking. I have been, and plan to continue these actions to defeat Susan Collins and elect other Democratic candidates through 2026 and 2028.

Milliken, Margot

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate to participate in nominating the best candidate to beat Susan Collins in November. I will knock on doors, make phone calls, raise money and get out the vote for the democratic candidate. I am working on a social media project to engage and educate young men about the real sources of policies that are negatively affecting their lives and to promote Democratic candidates.

Milliken, Rebecca

PORTLAND

For 30 years I have voted against Susan Collins. She does not represent the values I would like to see the state of Maine portray. She stood by as the federal government has gotten more corrupt. She has supported Superior Court Judges who will take away our rights. We are watching the collapse of our democracy. I would love to take part in nominating someone who can finally beat her.

Mills, Samuel Bryant

PORTLAND

I support Troy Jackson for Senate because of his sincere commitment to the working people of Maine. I attended graduate school at the University of Maine while we fought one of the longest union contract battles ever against the administration. Troys support for labor rights across his career, his devotion to progressive policy and leadership within the state make him a candidate whom I would consider it a unique privilege to cast a vote for at the Democratic caucus. Maine should be represented by Senators that are consistent with the voting people of our state. Susan Collins does not represent the values of her constituents, her term in the senate has been underscored by moral failings. Her apathy toward the economic concerns of people in Maine further disqualifies her. Troy

Jackson is the moral and pragmatic answer the people of Maine deserve.

Youth

Milton, Samuel Penfield

CAPE ELIZABETH

Selecting the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins in the upcoming election is one of the most important activities we as Mainers must do. When Democrats control the Senate after the midterms, we will begin the arduous but essential task of reversion the damages done by Donald Trump and his lackey Republican colleagues in Congress. This fall, regardless of who the party nominates, I will be committed to the cause of electing our nominee to become the next US Senator from the state of Maine. I look forward to pursuing this mission as a delegate to this special convention.

Mitchell Toppan, Dennis

PORTLAND

I have been following the Senate and other races closely. I am familiar with the candidates, their values, and political policies. I would love to be part of the delegate conversation as a thoughtful citizen of Maine (and a supervoter).

Mitchell, Christina Rue Cork

CUMBERLAND

I am motivated to serve as a delegate by my belief in the values and my involvement as a Maine Democrat for more than a decade as a CCDC meeting/convention participant and as a CMDC (Cumberland Municipal Democratic Committee) officer (2020-2026.) I served on MSAD51 School Board (2022-2025) before being elected as the current State Representative for District 110 (Cumberland, Chebeague Island, Long Island.) My service as a legislator puts me in frequent contact with a wide-range of constituents, concerning a broad spectrum of issues important to Mainers. This role will enable me to represent the people of Maine well in this important nominating process. To win the Senate seat for our party, I will continue to promote the Democratic Party values and policies as I canvas doors for my re-election campaign. as well as continue to spend time actively driving other Dem candidates in other districts, holding coffees, office hours and canvassing for them. I will use these activities to increase public understanding of the importance of gaining the Senate seat in order to advance the priorities of our Democratic party. To continue to build on the current energy of grassroots momentum, I will utilize the activities noted above to make people feel heard, and reinforce that our party values each individual, their views and involvement. It's critical voters are heard and unite behind our next Maine Senator. I want to use my skills to be a part of this work.

Mitchell, Gregory

PORTLAND

I am a restaurant owner living in Portland, and am also the father of two kids in grade school. I have a good sense of the small business community, as well as the school community my kids are a part of. I care deeply about the future of Maine and the society we are creating and leaving for the next generation. With that in mind, I want to be involved in shaping the direction our state heads. This election is pivotal, both locally and nationally, and in light of recent events, we need to find a way to coalesce around a single candidate who represents the progressive ideas of Mainers, while also not carrying baggage into a general election that could tear them down. I believe I can communicate with people of all walks of life, and help direct a Maine convention to a place of success for the months and years ahead.

Mohler, Scott Theodore

PORTLAND

In my work with Maine Music Alliance, I have seen firsthand the importance of regulating corporate power. My group and I fought and won a battle against Live Nation, one of the worst actors in the entertainment industry. They wanted to build a venue in downtown Portland that posed an existential threat to the independent character and cultural identity of our city. We didn't win that battle by paying lawyers and lobbyists; we won it through organizing and coalition building. We activated constituents who were eager to be part of something bigger than themselves, and built a grassroots following that didn't bow to cynicism. It fought through it. The Democratic Party, writ large, has a chance, at least on a local level, to gain back some of the trust it lost in 2024, fairly or unfairly. The alternative is potentially disenfranchising a generation of voters who are hungry for real change they can own and celebrate. I want to be a part of that change and be able to tell my daughter that when things got hard, we worked harder.

Moll, Nicholas

WESTBROOK

Free Palestine, defund ICE, full release of Epstein Files, end/appeal Citizen's United, ACAB, Healthcare is a human right, stop corporate bailouts, etc. These are some of the values and initiatives I want to see spearheaded by the new senator from Maine. Actual change that would help actual people living in the community. As a delegate, I would hold the prospective nominees to these ideas. The democratic party has failed the working class for too long, it is time to change! With a candidate I believe in, I would be committed to phone banking and door knocking to get the word out and change minds. I would help the party by representing a different way to engage the community that focusing on long term growth. I would see a party that looks at electing the same names each year as a demerit by allowing a diverse coalition uplift more people to office. New names, new ideas, actual change.

Monaghan, Mara

PORTLAND

I'm a working professional that hopes for a better future for Maine and the country as a whole. Working for a Maine based business and participating in the thriving arts community as a board member gives me an understanding of their needs. I am also a renter with a strong desire to purchase a home so as to continue building roots. I represent a large and often ignored portion of the population in that I am financially stable, but am not thriving due to the rising costs of housing and healthcare, in no small part to a husband with a life long chronic illness. I have participated in efforts to protect the rights of tenants, and will continue to do so. I also have experience working to sustain a non profit community theater that provides a place for people to learn and grow as both artists and humans. I think it is deeply important that the nominee for senator captures the needs and wants that spoke to the 156,000 that voted for the platform the resonated with them and will continue to. Consistency of position is crucial in maintaining the momentum we so desperately need.

LGBTQIA+

Moncure, Nancy

HARPSWELL

I wish to be a delegate to nominate Nirav Sha for Senate to replace Susan Collins, who has not stood up to Trump and helped our State and Country

Monson, Douglas W

SCARBOROUGH

I am concern at the direction that the Country is heading. I have been a deligate before in Hancock County. The people in the State of Maine are hurting in every day life. I want to be involved in helping to make the State and Country a better place for everyone. Doug Monson

Monteiro Rosado, Jayden

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because I believe young Democrats must have a meaningful voice in shaping the future of our party and selecting the candidates who will represent our values. As a 19-year-old college student, I want to emphasize the importance of ensuring that younger voters, especially those who don't participate are not only encouraged to get involved in the democratic process, but are given a genuine role in the decisions that shape the future of our party and our great, beloved state. My involvement in politics has centered around engaging young people and expanding participation. I served as Chair of the Maine High School Democrats , wrote political journalism for The Progressive Teen, volunteered on Portland's 2023 mayoral campaign, became involved with the Bowdoin College Democrats, and currently serve as Secretary of the Maine Young Democrats. Serving as a delegate would allow me to bring the perspective of young Mainers into this important nomination process. Young people are not simply future members of our party—we are active participants today who organize campaigns, advocate for our communities, and help build the coalitions necessary to win elections. Our voices should be present not only when it is time to campaign, but when it is time to make decisions. I would be honored to represent young Democrats and grassroots voices across Maine, and to help ensure that our nominee is chosen through a process that reflects the participation, energy, and diversity of our party.

BIPOC, Youth

Moore, Amy

CAPE ELIZABETH

I feel strongly democrats have a chance to turn the tide on the Trump's administration efforts to diminish our democratic system(s). We need to ensure the guardrails that have historically reined in executive overreach are strong. The Senate has a 3-way responsibility to uphold the Constitution. The current GOP majority in the senate, and specifically Susan Collins, have shown by their actions they are incapable of doing their job. Their fear of Trump and lack of courage to stand-up for the average person will have ramifications for decades.

Moore, Bruce V

CAPE ELIZABETH

I have been an active Democrat since 1980 and have worked to help elect many of our local Maine representatives and Senators. I have been chair of our town committee and helped organize our caucuses during Presidential election years before primaries. I'm a hard worker and do everything I can to help get our good Dem's get elected. I'm excited by this opportunity to help our party select the candidate to defeat Susan Collins! We have great candidates to choose from and I am open to and willing to work hard for the one we select.

Moore, Christopher Malloy

PORTLAND

Some of you may know me by my nickname, which is "Buddy." I currently serve on Portland's Rent Board, and am a Field Director for a Maine-based Universal Healthcare ballot initiative. I was an organizer on the Red Flag Law campaign, am a housing advocate, and have led or been closely involved in several local Portland campaigns. I have on-the-ground experience building people-powered campaigns and fighting for progressive change, and will channel those strengths into supporting the Democratic nominee in November. This is a defining moment for Maine, and for our country. I believe that, as Democrats, we must choose a candidate who can harness the working class's energy and desire for change into a winnable campaign. We need a candidate who will combat bigotry and hatred, stand up for working families, fight for healthcare for all, and defend against the crisis of democracy with which we are now faced. Most imminently, we must nominate someone who can and will defeat Susan Collins in November, to take back control of the Senate from Trump's MAGA Republican Party. Doing so will necessitate a people-powered campaign that mobilizes the grass-roots momentum building in Maine. I believe Troy Jackson and Shenna Bellows are the candidates best suited for the job, and if elected as a delegate, intend to support Troy as my first choice and Shenna as my second choice.

Moore, Joshua

SCARBOROUGH

In May 1997, I stood before my peers and family and took the commissioning oath to become a Naval Officer. I swore to support and defend the Constitution of the United States and to bear true faith and allegiance to it. Though I've long since hung up the uniform, I still feel the weight of those words and the promise they represent. Today, I'm a husband, father, brother, friend, community member, and colleague. I'm also a deeply concerned citizen who wants to do his part to keep Maine and this country free, democratic, prosperous, and welcoming. I've lent my time to marches and protests, and I'm ready to do more by serving as a delegate at this pivotal moment in our state's history. I will continue to work for democratic causes, which I believe are fundamentally human causes. But I would be humbled to contribute through this important selection process. The oath I took 29 years ago still guides me, and it compels me to offer what I can to a party, a state, and a nation to which I owe so much. Thank you for your consideration.

Moore, Kaili Rose

SOUTH PORTLAND

I hope to serve as delegate because we have seen first hand the power of relationships and community organizing in making meaningful change here in Maine. As a former social worker and neighborhood organizer, I have spent the past year focused on exactly that, both in my town of South Portland and across Maine. In February, I, along with my neighbors, helped form a rapid-response network addressing the ICE surge in our town, mobilizing over 300 local residents to provide direct mutual aid. I have also been an active member of No Flock for South Portland, where we successfully organized to remove surveillance cameras that threatened our community's privacy and safety. Statewide, I've supported candidates by hosting events, text banking, and volunteering wherever the work was needed. To defeat Susan Collins, we need organizing, but we also need excitement and momentum from those who may otherwise sit out. Through multiple events and leveraging direct relationships, I have been able to help build energy for candidates and turn out the vote. Empowering and mobilizing others to get involved will be key in our success this fall. I plan to put the relationships I've built across South Portland and the state to work; connecting our nominee with local networks, recruiting, and doing whatever it takes to defeat Susan Collins while building a grassroots network across Maine that will serve us for years to come.

Moore, Susan R

BRUNSWICK

I am interested in serving as a delegate to the Democratic Nominating Convention to select a Democratic nominee to replace Graham Platner in the race against Susan Collins. A Lewiston native, I am the daughter of an immigrant family and first generation college graduate. After living and working out of State for several years, I returned in 1986; registered as a Democrat; and selectively worked to support Democratic candidates in local, state and national elections. I aim to be an informed voter who carefully reviews candidate positions and elected official accomplishments. I always vote and transport others to vote. I would be honored to serve with fellow Mainers as a delegate at this critical time when an experienced Democratic nominee with progressive values is needed to thwart Trump's and the Republican Party's attempts suppress our democratic system. I am committed to helping the party choose a nominee who will inspire Mainers to vote affirmatively for the Democratic candidate and decisively defeat Susan Collins. I will support the nominee financially and as a volunteer in the race to replace Susan Collins. We need a Senator who will serve our state and our nation by defending our democracy, the US Constitution, and our human rights.

Moore, Tom

HARPSWELL

I want to be a delegate to represent the democrats from Harpswell maine

Morales, Victoria

SOUTH PORTLAND

I want a senator who will fight for Maine by taking strong and swift action to protect our constitutional rights, make life more affordable, and resist this fascist and corrupt government. And this is clear for me — I want a senator with no history whatsoever of violence against women or silencing voices. Shenna Bellows is that person for me. Shenna leads with action, not rhetoric. As Secretary of State, she fearlessly defended voter privacy and stood against ICE overreach. Her tenure leading the ACLU of Maine, the Holocaust and Human Rights Center, and serving as a State Senator cemented a track record of securing victories for marriage equality, reproductive rights, data privacy, and student nutrition, among many others. Shenna embodies the Maine experience; her own journey through economic hardship makes her uniquely attuned to the affordability crisis our state faces today. She is an instinctive champion against injustice, and she is the smart, authentic, and dedicated leader Maine needs in the U.S. Senate.

Morgan, Genevieve

PORTLAND

In 2016, I was the first woman in Maine to hold up my hand to build a coalition of Maine women that marched on Washington DC during the Women's March. Our group became the Maine Women's March and helped to ensure that Susan Collins would vote to protect the ACA during Trump's first term. I worked going door to door to help elect Janet Mills for Governor after the primary and I have lobbied Collins and King in DC for accessible and affordable healthcare, kidney disease advocacy in Maine, and against Kavanaugh. I am a licensed mental health clinician and a long-term Democrat who has watched as Collins allows the trampling of civil rights and basic human decency. I am responsible, passionate Mainer and a Bowdoin grad whose grandmother was the sponsor of the No Bill Board Legislation and the Bottle Bill. My family has deep roots here and I care about restoring strength and health to our Institutions, and to ridding our government of corruption and lying liars who lie. I was a Platner supporter and I believe in his platform and I want to support a candidate who can govern in these times and speak truth to power, fearlessly. We need strong people to stand up to the machine behind Collins. I am one of them.

Morgan, Peter Shepard Jr

RAYMOND

I'm a seventy seven year old Massachusetts native. Married fifty three years with two sons in their forties living in New Hampshire and British Columbia (with dual U.S. / Canadian citizenship). I'm a four year U.S. Coast Guard veteran, with some college credits. Seven years' administrative automobile dealership experience followed by thirty four years of transportation industry involvement with trucking and railroad companies. Transportation engagement entailed employee supervision, computer support and logistics. The career required family moves which entailed twelve years in the Philadelphia area and sixteen years outside of metropolitan Atlanta until my retirement to Maine eleven years ago. In Pennsylvania; a neighborhood garden landscaping project achieved a Philadelphia Horticultural Society award and a Neighborhood Watch patrol apprehended an arsonist who torched a local mall. In Georgia; as a recent arrival I was fortunate to encounter plans for the inaugural "Paddle Georgia" and returned last year to celebrate its twenty fifth anniversary. In Maine; I was instrumental in attaining the local Veterans For Peace chapter membership in the Environmental Priorities Coalition. My interests entail environmental organization involvement, concerns regarding domestic community violence and our national military posture. I have enjoyed activities on the waters of Schuylkill and Chattahoochee in canoes, kayaks, sailboats and currently on a pontoon boat moored on Sebago Lake.

Moriarty, M Jane

CUMBERLAND

I have been active in Democratic politics for 50 years. I ran, unsuccessfully, for Maine State Rep in 2004, so I understand what's involved in campaigning. I've made calls, dropped leaflets, gone door to door, driven candidates while they campaigned, worked in field offices, among other things. I have more than enough experience to help defeat Susan Collins and will work hard on the campaign trail for the elected Democratic candidate.

LGBTQIA+

Morris, Stephen

PORTLAND

I have been a registered voter since the day I turned eighteen, and for nearly two decades I've voted in Cumberland County. Politics, local, state, and national, has never been a passing interest for me; I follow it closely and consistently, not just during election season. I care deeply about Portland and about Cumberland County, and I want to put that engagement to direct use. I consider myself an independent thinker, but my voting record has been consistently Democratic and progressive. I believe strongly in the progressive movement's values, and I believe just as strongly that this movement needs to be strategic and unified right now. Maine has a real chance to defeat Susan Collins, and I want to help make sure our county's delegation reflects a commitment to finding and supporting the candidate best positioned to do that: someone who can bring together the full spectrum of Democratic voters, not just one wing of the party. I'm not looking for a symbolic role. I'm asking to be a delegate because I take the responsibility seriously: showing up, staying informed on the candidates and the process, and representing the interests of Cumberland County voters honestly at the convention. I can commit fully to this process, including attending the convention itself and any preliminary meetings or gatherings required beforehand. I understand this is a job that requires reliability, not just enthusiasm, and I'm prepared to follow through on both. I'd be honored to serve in this role.

Morrison, Diane

NORTH YARMOUTH

I would be honored to be a delegate in support of Dr. Nirav Shah for Senate. He is highly respected, guided Maine thru COVID, tremendous communicator and has name recognition and most importantly get the votes necessary to beat Collins. By far the most recognized person out of all the candidates with experience in other countries and multi lingual. I stand by him for his integrity and impeccable reputation.

Morrison, Stephen H

NORTH YARMOUTH

I'd like to be a delegate to the convention on July 25th in Bangor. Today, July 13th, as I write this yet another Innocent human being was murdered in our state by ICE, so so very sad and unnecessary, just heartbreaking. Trump and the other politicians like Susan Collins stand by and do nothing and let these murders happen over and over again. Susan Collins has condoned this kind of terror over and over again it's time for her to go! I'm able to help at the convention, with some limitations, as live recently had foot surgery.

Morse, David C

WESTBROOK

As an elected Democrat and the Mayor of the City of Westbrook I am keenly aware of the need to stop the harm being done to our residents by the Trump administration and MAGA Congress. To do that we must defeat Susan Collins. I want to help lead our community to a resounding Democratic victory in November by knocking doors, talking to every potential voter, and making sure we break turnout records. The task before us now is choosing a strong candidate to rally behind who will make us proud, defeat Collins, and be a strong progressive voice in Washington. If we succeed we can stop ICE from terrorizing our streets, take away Trump's congressional blank check to support genocide and conduct endless and pointless war, and stop him from continuing to pack the courts with MAGA jurists. I'd be honored to represent my Democratic neighbors in this crucial task on July 25th.

LGBTQIA+

Morse, Robert

PORTLAND

Moses, Lori Marsha

SEBAGO

My top priority in wanting to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention is to choose the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins. She has not served Mainers well, is beholden to wealthy donors and votes 95% of the time with Trump. I contact Senator Collins regularly, even though it is a waste of time. I believe in free speech and the Constitution, the working class, accountability, following the law, equity, diversity, fairness and the common good. I believe in the aspirations of the United States and know that we need to change direction. Defeating Collins will contribute to this shift. I consider myself to be active in the election process, having canvassed door-to-door, made phone calls and previously volunteered in my town caucuses and town democratic committee. I had planned on volunteering for the Platner campaign. I heard him speak and liked the way he was willing to stand up for working people vs wealthy/corporations. He tapped into a movement that was bigger than him. Our nominee will continue this grassroots momentum. (I support Troy Jackson but will vote for the nominee.) Taking back the Senate will move us on track of pursuing that more perfect union. Policies that I support include universal health care, living wage, unions, universal/affordable/quality childcare, full reproductive rights, LGBTQ rights, immigration reform, a wealth tax, and an increase in the Social Security cap. And we've got to expand the Supreme Court. I am willing to volunteer my time to support this movement.

Motz, Patricia

SCARBOROUGH

I am Patricia Motz, called Patrice. I am a beneficiary of a single payer medical system as a female U.S. Army veteran. I supported Graham Platner since September 2025 and believe his platform is right for Maine, especially, healthcare, public education, childcare, public schools, small business, defend our air, water, land, climate, Maine shore, government out of private lives, stop mass deportation/incarceration. www.grahamforsenate.com. As a Delegate I will try to choose as the next democratic candidate for U.S. Senate the person most likely to beat Susan Collins. I don't know who that person is as yet, I am open to hearing from the applicants and working towards consensus among all Delegates to select the best candidate.

Moyer-Lee, Jason Abraham

FREEPORT

I will vote for Troy Jackson, a progressive fighter and our best bet to defeat Susan Collins in November.

Mueller, Julie

SCARBOROUGH

As a professor of political science, I encourage my students to participate in the political process, and I think it's important to practice what I preach. I support GOTV drives and make sure my students have the information they need to register to vote and to be informed voters. I've been an active member of the Maine Dems in Scarborough in the past, knocking on doors for GOTV and helping drive candidates around so they can meet the voters in person. But my enthusiasm has waned in recent years for statewide elections because I've not been excited by the candidates. So I'd like to add my voice to the process. It's crucial for both Maine and the country that we defeat Susan Collins and try to shift the Senate to Democratic control. It's clear that Collins will not stand up to Trump to fight for the rights of all people, humanitarian aid, free press, protecting the environment, the rule of law, or any of the other values we hold as Mainers. I'm hoping I can help pick a candidate who reflects the views of the Democrats who live in Maine and is also a strong candidate to win in November. I would be happy to have a voice in the process, and I will get behind the candidate chosen by the delegates and will work vigorously to help them get elected in November.

Muldoon, Jessica

PORTLAND

As a union activist and public school teacher, I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee. I think Troy is the best candidate for the nomination, and think he will work tirelessly in the interests of working people in Maine, and the US. I supported him for governor, and think he has an excellent platform, and also the best chance to unseat Susan Collins.

Munson, Mark Eric

GORHAM

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate who can actually win the general election in November and replace Susan Collins. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously. Dr. Nirav Shah, whom I believe to be a rational, conscientious, essentially apolitical candidate to truly represent the People of Maine deserves this opportunity to serve with dignity the People of Maine once again, as he has demonstrated he is fully capable of doing. As a side note, in my 52 years in Maine NO candidate has previously inspired me to become actively involved in our electoral process.

Murachanian, JEAN

PORTLAND

I am eager to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because Maine deserves a leader who represents our shared values and champions working families. For too long, Susan Collins has prioritized corporate interests and party loyalty over the needs of everyday Mainers. This election is a defining moment for our state, and I want to be on the front lines ensuring we nominate a candidate who will fight for our future. After spending many years running a non-profit organization, I believe my expertise in an executive capacity can contribute to the foundational machinery of local governance. To help defeat Susan Collins this November, I plan to volunteer my extensive administrative and managerial experience to optimize the efficiency of local campaign offices. Mobilizing a campaign requires strong infrastructure, and I can help improve office efficiency, manage data entry, and streamline volunteer coordination. By ensuring our field operations run smoothly and efficiently, I can help maximize our reach and impact. I can build on our grassroots momentum by applying the same capacity-building strategies I used in the non-profit sector. I can focus on strengthening operational foundations by mentoring new volunteers, designing efficient communication channels, and establishing organized workflows that make it easier for others to get involved and stay engaged. By turning energy into structured, effective action, we can ensure our grassroots network has the structural support needed to win in November.

Murley, Tom Scott

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would like to serve as a delegate to ensure that we select the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins and best represent Maine. Since moving to Maine 10 years after 20 years abroad my wife have increasingly become worried about the policies of the right and the indifference and judgment of Susan Collins. My wife and I have become increasingly involved in and have supported Maine Democrats. I have done phone banking and canvassing for Anne Carney and have contributed both to her and Michelle Boyer's campaign. We have contributed to the 2024 Maine Senate campaign fund to keep the Maine Senate in Democratic hands and to Young Maine Democrats to support the next generation of Maine Democrats. Moore recently I organized a seniors group to support the much needed $86 million Cape Elizabeth School bond and have been working on low income property tax relief in Cape Elizabeth. I am well versed in the many issues facing Maine and our Country, affordability, housing, education, human rights, climate change and a rogue Supreme Court. Being delegate is the next step in my involvement and I am keen to bring my knowledge and expertise to it.

Thomas Murley

Murphy, Douglas Jr

PORTLAND

I believe the people of Maine gave a clear indication of the type of platform that will energize them to defeat Susan Collins this fall. I wish to be a delegate to make sure the will of the people to implement this platform which address labor and wage reform, housing, education, healthcare, and childcare, is front and center in the conversations to replace our party's Senate nominee. Should such a candidate be nominated, I will contribute directly with financial contributions to the candidate and party's campaigns, as well as volunteer my time, and mobilize those in my daily life to support a platform that puts the people first.

Murray, Brendan

PORTLAND

This is a critical moment for not only our state, but our nation as well. I have volunteered in various elections and with numerous left liberal organizations over the last 20 years. As a delegate, my priority will be nominating a candidate who can defeat Susan Collins. At this point, ability to win must be the primary consideration, along with personal integrity and experience. I am a member of the Democratic party, along with the DSA, and will take the recommendation of both organizations into account. This is a serious responsibility for anyone who serves as a delegate and if chosen, I will take the role in the spirit it is given, as a speaker for the voters in the district I live in. Thank you for your consideration.

Murrow, Megan

PORTLAND

I am running to serve as a delegate because I am committed to the grassroots movement to defeat Susan Collins and secure a future for Maine built on our shared values. Our candidate who will defeat Collins must reflect the core values of Mainers, something that Collins has completely lost sight of. This means fighting for true affordability so Maine families can thrive, not just survive. It means ensuring respect and dignity for EVERY person in our community, creating safe communities free from unlawful and inhumane ICE practices, and protecting our land and waters for generations to come. I plan to continue the grassroots efforts that have already empowered voters, help neighbors who have never been involved before see their own power, and meet people where they are. I will ensure that voters understand exactly what is at stake regarding healthcare, public education, and economic security. Defeating Collins is not just a political goal right now; it is a necessity for the future of our state and our country. I believe Mainers deserve a voice in Washington that prioritizes people over partisanship. As an educator, I see the direct impact of policy decisions on our children and families, and I know that we need leadership that listens, acts with integrity, and centers the lived experiences of all Mainers.

Muzichuck, David

GRAY

As a local firefighter, I see (every shift) how the decisions made in DC affect Mainers on the ground. Whether it is substance misuse, homelessness, veterans at the end of their ropes, or women desperate for help. There has to be a change. We need to beat Susan Collins. This has to end.

Nagel, Raymond Allen

FALMOUTH

I believe I am uniquely qualified to serve as a delegate because I am a democrat who has served in the military for almost 23 years with combat experience, retiring as a Lieutenant Colonel in 2007. My father emigrated to this country, was a Union leader in Chicago and was a life long democrat.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Nappi, Jennifer A

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate at the Maine Senate Caucus to directly represent the voices of my community and ensure we choose a progressive nominee who champions working families, protects our environment, and fights to make life more affordable for all Mainers.

Nason, Stephen

YARMOUTH

I've lived in Maine for 25 years, raising 5 girls while working a freelance job. I have canvassed, and gotten signatures over the years and this time I'm ready to participate. As for beating Collins, I am producing a series of comedy videos starring a puppet Susan Collins, featuring her and all her issues.

Nathanson, Eric James

SCARBOROUGH

I would like to ensure that process is fair, transparent, and democratic, and that we continue the momentum to push for real progressive change which has clearly been the driving energy of both the senatorial and gubernatorial primary campaigns.

Neal, Stephen

SCARBOROUGH

I am a life-long Mainer and care deeply for both our State and the people who live here. I wish to apply to be a delegate from Cumberland County to the Nominating Convention on July 25th. I, like many others, would have preferred local caucuses to a Nominating Convention. Having said that, I believe it's important to stay engaged however I can. I grew up in Gorham and currently reside in Scarborough. Over the years I have lived in Sebago, Portland, Windam, Carrabassett Valley, and Kingfield. In each community I have engaged with local municipal committees and initiatives. I served as a volunteer firefighter in most communities, and as a professional Paramedic with Portland's MEDCU. My early years as a first responder led me into a career in Safety and Risk Management. As Portland's Risk Manager for 9 years. I was a trainer and ran workshops during the City's early diversity initiatives. I also served as a member of the Legislative Committee of the Maine Counsel of Self-Insurers. I share my background because I believe it's important. Mine reflects a deep commitment to Maine. Offering myself up as a delegate is the best way I know to contribute toward defeating Susan Collins. Choosing the right candidate will be imperative if we are to succeed. Whatever the outcome on the 25th, I plan to continue to work to get Democrats elected in November.

Nedwell, Cassandra

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am a community organizer and advocate who has spent the last 2 years heavily involved in the legislative sessions in Maine. I am preparing to be in the board for Maine Women's lobby and I am a social worker. I dedicate my life to improving Maine however I can, and I strongly believe that means getting Susan Collins out of office and replacing her with someone who will help advance the needs of Maine's people.

Nee, Fiona

GORHAM

As a Mainer, I am a very active supporter of the democratic party. I believe knowledge is power, so staying educated on the nuances and current events of our state, country, and the world itself is a vital practice for all those who want to play a role. I have donated when affordable, protested, educated community members on voting and elections, joined local movements at the grassroots level, and I regularly reach out to our Maine leaders and representatives with my thoughts and expectations of them as their constituent. I believe as a delegate, I represent an important, and often vulnerable, group of Mainers. In my late teens/early twenties, my health began to decline in various ways. I am now almost 28, disabled because of a connective tissue disorder that causes other serious conditions in its wake. I cannot work more than 15 hours/week. Last year, my food stamps were taken from me for 7 months which was terrifying and difficult. I reached out to my representatives for help as I am still being denied disability benefits. A call for help that often goes unanswered. Like many others, I worry how much longer I can rely on MaineCare with Collins in office. I am often helpless and powerless over my life, as someone who is at the mercy of public services and funding just to survive. I believe my voice matters in this election. I would be honored to have a say in Maine's future senator.

Disability, Youth

Needham, Barbara

NEW GLOUCESTER

I want to be a delegate because it's time for change in our state and in our country. I will be as vocal and as positive as I can about making the changes necessary to ensure the safety and well-being of all of our citizens. I think it is time that we stop allowing the rich and privileged to destroy our state/country and our citizens. I want this country to be the country I believed it was my whole life. What happened here in our state with ice was horrific and it can not be allowed to continue. The fact that Susan Collins voted to support them means she has to go and she has to go now. She is not representing the people.

Neil, Philip Matthew

SOUTH PORTLAND

Defeating Susan Collins is one of the most important objectives we as Democrats have. We need a progressive champion who can continue to build on what the Platner campaign started. We need a candidate who can deliver for Mainers who increasingly feel left behind. Fortunately, we are blessed with a choice of excellent candidates. Selecting our new candidate is the most important choice we have. However once that choice is made, we all need to do what we can to send that candidate to Washington. I intend to do whatever I can in my community to make that happen.

Neilan, Sadhbh

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate to support Troy Jackson as I believe he is the candidate with the best odds of defeating Susan Collins. Jackson has a long record of fighting for the least of us, particularly children. He earned the respect of his fellow senators as is evidenced by his election twice as President of the Maine Senate. On thorny issues such as a woman's right to choose and gay marriage he has shown an ability to change and grow. Jackson is the candidate most likely to appeal to people in our more conservative 2nd District. I will support whichever candidate is chosen in Bangor financially and by volunteer work.

Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+

Nelson, Randy A

HARPSWELL

I strongly support the selection of Nirav Shaw as the Democrat nominee for the U.S. Senate position in Maine. He has the strongest credentials of any of the other candidates, and has proven his electability by placing first in the initial round of voting in the Democratic primary for the governorship. His centrist positions should help in convincing independents and moderate Republications to support his campaign. If chosen as a delegate I will support him in the nominating convention, increase the financial support I provided in his run for the governorship, and work to obtain signatures for his nomination.

Nesbitt, Marylou

CAPE ELIZABETH

Please accept/consider, my application to serve as delegate at Maine Democratic Convention to identify the "winning" Democrat candidate for US Senate from Maine. Maine needs to identify someone, consistent with the Platner platform for health care, ending corruption, affordable housing, and ending the current war in Iran and more. The values driving his platform embody the human values and rights of Americans regardless of political party affiliation. Platner's ability to acquire ~72% of the Maine vote tells us the Maine Democratic Party needs a Senate candidate who supports this platform & more. Collins needs to go as she is a rubber stamp for MAGA movement, responsible for the loss of women's reproductive autonomy and essential health care by supporting Bret Cavanaugh, she favors Trump's Save America bill(AKA voter suppression bill) and ICE murders of US residents. With many excellent candidates running for this Senate seat, it would be a privilege to participate in the convention, representing Cumberland County & Maine. As a proud Maine resident & recently retired oncology nurse after 50 years of practice, my priority has been to be well informed politically, through reliable/responsible/competent sources, attending 2 Maine Democratic Conventions, and am scheduled with other oncology nurses to visit with our legislators on Capitol Hill in September 2026. I am ready to do the work such as phone banking, door knocking, and more to reverse so much damage which has been done by MAGA & Collins, and usher in the democrat platform for my children/grandchildren.

Neumann, Daniel Aaron

PORTLAND

I want to make sure the Maine Democratic Party's nominating convention on July 25th is as transparent and democratic as possible. I want to help nominate a candidate who will match the deep desire shown in the primary process for a bold working-class politics that can both activate new voters and bring back the voters who have given up on politics -- the coalition of voters we need to defeat Trump and push back against white nationalist authoritarianism.

Neuts, Louise J

FREEPORT

I want to see real change in this country. I have been watching our country go down hill since DJT'S first term. I rode on a bus to demonstrate against him then. Obviously nothing changed. Actually it has gotten worse. We need CHANGE.

Newell, Alexander

FALMOUTH

I believe in Graham Platner and what he inspired in us, but I sadly must agree with the decision that he should step down. We are a party of moral values, and we represent all in Maine by doing so. We need to elect someone that holds these values – affordability for all Mainers, getting money out of politics, universal health care, and an end to pointless wars – to the U.S. senate to represent Maine.

Newman, Deborah Lea

PORTLAND

As a public school teacher and senior citizen, I believe I can help defeat Susan Collins. I stay informed about issues critical to Mainers, and carefully evaluate candidates based on their values, policies, and ability to defeat Collins. I encourage others to become informed voters by stressing the importance of electing the candidate who will have the most positive impact for all Mainers. I have voted in every election for the past 50 years, and have a unique perspective of personally living through the civil rights movement. This personal experience allows me to engage in authentic, impactful conversations with family, friends, and members of my community about the issues that matter. As a public school teacher, I am professionally bound to remain politically neutral in the classroom and not use my position to advocate for or against any candidate. However, I do encourage my high school students—who are preparing to become future educators—to think critically about political issues, candidates, and public policies that affect the well being of Maine citizens and public education. By examining topics such as school safety, educational equity for all students, academic freedom, funding for public schools, and the constitutional principle of separation of church and state, I help my students develop skills needed to evaluate how government decisions influence the future. My goal is to help students become informed, thoughtful, engaged citizens who can analyze issues independently and participate responsibly in our democracy. For these reasons, I believe I would be an excellent delegate

Nice, Deirdre E

FALMOUTH

I would be honored to serve as a delegate because I believe this election is about more than choosing a nominee, it is about helping shape the future of our party and our country. I have spent my life building community, bringing people together through the arts, and encouraging civic engagement. I want to help ensure that the energy, hope, and new voices that emerged this year continue to have a seat at the table. Defeating Susan Collins will require more than television ads and party messaging. We need thousands of conversations with neighbors, coworkers, friends, and independents who are looking for authentic leadership. I will continue volunteering, organizing, donating, engaging on social media, and speaking about the issues that matter most to Maine families: affordable health care, reproductive freedom, good-paying jobs, affordable housing, ending endless, senseless wars, protecting Social Security and Medicare, and reducing the influence of corporate money in politics. I believe the Democratic Party grows stronger when we welcome new activists, value grassroots organizing, and remember that lasting change comes from ordinary people working together. I want to serve as a delegate because I believe in a Democratic Party that listens, inspires, and fights unapologetically for working people. Together, we can defeat Susan Collins and build a movement that lasts long after Election Day.

Nielsen, Douglas E

HARPSWELL

"It's not about the man. It's about the movement." I believe that. My wife and I contributed on a monthly basis to a campaign that touched important and inspirational principles. I collected signatures and went door to door to speak with my neighbors about the importance of their participation. Most of all, I felt a stirring of hope that needed nourishment. While disappointed with what has happened I remain compelled to lend my small weight to the scale that tips toward a democracy worthy of its name.

Night, Melissa

WINDHAM

I want to help Mainers choose a candidate who has the best chances of defeating Collins. To do so we need to find out who will have the most momentum and convince Platner supporters not to stay home, or write him in. We need to listen to voters to find out who they will support, or we will lose. I want to help stop tgat from happening.

Noack, Chloe

YARMOUTH

The only way we are going to beat Susan Collins is by selecting Troy Jackson as the nominee. The people of Maine liked Graham Platner because of his progressive platform. The most similar choice is Mr. Jackson. We do not want another do-nothing, say-nothing, thoughts-and-prayers Democrat. We want someone who is going to stand up for people—that includes people here in Maine, people across the country, and people around the world, including the people in Palestine. We want someone who supports abolishing ICE. We want someone who supports universal healthcare. We want someone who cares about the environment, not someone who vetoed a bill banning data centers. We want an anti-war candidate. We want money out of politics. We want ranked-choice voting nationwide. We want to end the filibuster. There's much more but these are among the things people voted for when they picked their candidate for Senate and it would be shameful (but incredibly on-brand for the Democratic party) to select anyone other than Troy Jackson. Democrats cannot keep expecting different results by running candidates who fail to inspire voters. If the party wants to win, it should nominate the candidate who best reflects the priorities the people of Maine have already shown they support.

Norsworthy, Sarah

YARMOUTH

I'm a teacher whose first day in the classroom was 9/11/01. On Friday, March 13, 2020, I was one of thousands of teachers who moved to online teaching. The following year I taught what I refer to as a virtual one room schoolhouse. I had a class of students, who could not return to in-person school. They ranged from 1st through 8th grade. This winter, I was teaching adult immigrants during the ICE surge designed to instill fear into our communities. As a teacher, I am practiced in responding in real-time to the events of the day. As a teacher of U.S. History, I am a scholar of the story of this country. Ours is a story of ebbs and flows, of genocide and civil war, of reconstruction and civil rights, of an arc that we can bend towards justice by our actions, collaboration and will. I believe that the vision of our democracy that Graham Platner became the face of - is a vision that is held by our collective. I believe that we can emerge from the next few weeks more united than we were on June 9th. I believe by staying close to and immersed in this intense process we will, in fact, be drawn closer. I am offering to serve because I have the time, the perspective, the desire and the practices of collaboration and compromise, and most of all belief and hope in us. I'm here to listen, learn and lean in as together we

Disability

Norton, John

BRUNSWICK

I'm very concerned over the abuse, fraud, lies of the current administration and a subservient Congress. As a retired military officer I've written to Susan Collin's several times and received not one response. Dr Shah is responsive, listens and has the experience to represent the folks of Maine and the Nation

Norton, Patrick

FREEPORT

The Democratic Party is the only hope for the preservation of democracy in Maine. By defeating Susan Collins, we have an opportunity to tilt the national balance of power towards the democratic party. As a delegate, I will continue to donate to the party and its nominees, to show up at demonstrations and to help with any "get out the vote" initiative. My goal is to do whatever I can to help the democrats win in November.

Noto, William

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would be honored to serve my community as a delegate for the convention that will select our 2026 Senator nomination.

Noyes-Fletcher, Joy

WESTBROOK

Hi, I'm Joy Noyes-Fletcher from Westbrook. I am running to represent Cumberland County as a delegate at the Nominating Convention. As a proud Democrat and a resident of Westbrook for the last 11 years, I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee. He will fight for healthcare, immigration reform (including abolishing ICE), union rights, reproductive freedom, voting rights, tax reform, and LGBTQ+ protections. As a mother of a 12-year-old, I care deeply about who represents the state of Maine and the values they fight for. I ask for your vote so I can take our community's shared values directly to the convention floor. Thank you for your support!

Nudd, Liam

CAPE ELIZABETH

I will support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope that those who share my belief in him will select me as a delegate. I am a young person, a group too often ignored while “the adults are talking,” and I’m eager to represent my generation and Cumberland County’s values by supporting Troy, a working-class hero who has spent his career championing the overlooked and believes in government as a tool to help the oppressed. In my own life, I’ve mirrored these principles by showing up for my community during these dark times, whether through volunteer work with Maine Needs and Planned Parenthood or grocery deliveries to neighbors confined to their homes during I.C.E.’s “Project Catch of the Day.” Standing shoulder to shoulder with Troy at Portland’s “I.C.E. Out!” rally gave me hope for Maine and its leaders, and while I will mobilize for any Democratic nominee I believe we deserve one in Troy who fights right alongside us and will work to abolish I.C.E., pass Medicare for All, and end the genocide in Gaza.

Nyhus, Erika Marie

BRUNSWICK

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe this election is a defining moment for Maine and our country. I want to help nominate candidates who will protect our democracy and ensure every Mainer has the opportunity to succeed.

O'Brian, Bridget C

HARPSWELL

I believe I bring a prospective as a member of Indivisible in Harpswell, as a volunteer door knocker for the Graham campaign, and as a strong Democrat who was born and raised in Maine, left for college and lived around the US and in Hong Kong, came back to Maine to be a small business owner in the marine industry. My husband and I imported goods from China and were hit with the crazy tariffs. We face medical care costs as aging business owners looking at retirement. Our young adult children are struggling to live in the Portland area with housing and healthcare and daycare costs. We need a candidate who can speak for all Mainers - not just Democratic progressive Mainers.

O'Connor, Jill J

CUMBERLAND

Supporting Platner gave me hope for a seismic shift in the way politics as usual could be run in DC. I have always been an engaged voter, but this year I have been inspired and committed in a way that felt fresh and exciting. I am looking for a Senate candidate to continue to listen to the stories & voices of Mainers in regard to health care, reproductive rights, environmental protections, housing, Indigenous Rights, and freedoms as defined by the Constitution. In an effort to defeat Collins, I will canvas and donate, as I have in the past. I will host listening sessions with my neighbors & interested townspeople. I am a librarian and, as such, am used to listening & discerning. I have an open mind and consider myself a fair-minded person who can balance message with electability. I want to be part of the process to nominate a new candidate because I am invested and informed.

LGBTQIA+

O'Connor, John

BRUNSWICK

I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention during this unprecedented moment for Maine Democrats. Graham Platner won the primary because thousands of Mainers demanded change, economic fairness, accountable leadership, and a senator who would fight for working people rather than entrenched interests. Although his withdrawal requires us to select a new nominee, the voices of those primary voters must not be forgotten. I want to help choose a candidate who can unite our party while honoring the values, urgency, and grassroots energy voters expressed. My roots stretch across Maine—from growing up in South China and attending Waterville High School to family connections in Monmouth, Kennebunkport, and Vassalboro, and my life and work in southern Maine. I understand that defeating Susan Collins requires engaging voters in every part of our state, including rural communities, working-class families, young people, and Mainers who feel ignored by traditional politics. After the convention, I will enthusiastically support our nominee by volunteering, making calls, knocking doors, sharing campaign messages through my networks, and encouraging others to contribute their time and resources. I will also work to welcome Platner voters and supporters of every primary candidate into a unified campaign. Grassroots momentum cannot simply be transferred from one candidate to another; it must be earned through listening, organizing, and trust. As a delegate, I will support a nominee prepared to do that work, defeat Susan Collins in November, and strengthen the Democratic Party for elections and movements still to come.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Underrepresented Religion

O'Malley, Patrick Vincent

PORTLAND

As a life long Mainer, and someone who has been voting since 1972 (I think I wrote in Shirley Chisholm) I cannot tell you how many times I have heard that “this upcoming election, is the most important ever! you fill in the years” I don’t think think it is possible to overestimate these upcoming midterm elections!!! I have had a lifetime of social and political interactions in Portland and across the state. I have run for political office, served in state government for a dozen years and I am a semi-retired but active 50 year member of my local union. I feel that I need to show up for democracy one more time! Solidarity Forever! Patrick (Vinny) O'Malley

O'Neill, Kristen

CAPE ELIZABETH

I want to make sure that the record breaking number of Mainers who turned out to vote in the primary are reflected in the delegates. I'm already organizing to raise awareness about different candidates and will continue.

O'Brien, Abigail Helene

WESTBROOK

I would like to serve as a delegate because I believe our party needs people who are both committed to Democratic values and grounded in how real voters actually think. I consider myself a very well informed voter, but my professional experience in Maine real estate and radio has also taught me the importance of distilling a message down in easy to digest sound bites and ways that resonate beyond our own base and reach across the divide. As a delegate, I would look for a nominee who can connect with the broad coalition needed to win in November. Maine elections are often decided by independents and pragmatic voters who care deeply about the cost of living, housing and health care. We cannot assume the same old Collins attacks of being a trump crony will work. We need a simple message of "this is what I will do as a senator from whoever the candidate is". Our candidate needs to speak to issues that are talked about at parties and around kitchen tables. We can't stay the same and we can't ride the wave of Platner's populism. If selected, I'll do more than attend the convention. I'll volunteer my time phone banking, talking with voters, putting up lawn signs, and helping wherever I'm needed. Our party has lost momentum because of Graham Platner. Let's not fall apart like we did in 2024 with Biden and Harris. Let's find someone strong who can reach out to independents as well as democrats.

LGBTQIA+

O'Brien, Nolan

SOUTH PORTLAND

I've been involved in Democratic politics for as long as I can remember. Having worked for a progressive U.S. Senator for six years, I understand the opportunities ahead and what's at stake in this election. I moved to Maine from Massachusetts for the woods and waters that sustain us all, but I've stayed for the strong sense of community I've found here. Like most Americans, Mainers are struggling to afford everyday necessities — groceries, utilities, healthcare, housing. I'd be honored to be part of the nominating body that helps select a Democratic candidate who can defeat Susan Collins in November and chart a better way forward for generations to come.

LGBTQIA+

OBrien, Robert R

PEAKS ISLAND

I have been trying to defeat Collins for 30 years. I have worked on many campaigns as a volunteer and paid staff, I've spent countless hours calling and canvassing for candidates, I'm a former Cumberland County Chair, a delegate to many state and a few national conventions, and an Elector for Barack Obama. I am committed to the success of this campaign. I would also be representing the People's Republic of Peaks Island, where we've raised two children, both of whom have homes in Maine. This convention will make a choice that may decide the fate of this nation. I'm the father of an Afghanistan veteran and a small businesswoman, and we're helping to raise a new generation of multiracial Mainers, including a week old granddaughter. I care deeply about Maine and America's future. If I am chosen as a delegate, I will make sure to sound out my neighbors in Casco Bay and determine what their wishes are and faithfully represent them. I started my journey in politics here with Jesse Jackson in '84. I'm acutely aware of the pain and anger of voters who supported the previous candidate. I will be looking for someone who can give them the champion they were hungry for, while helping them find a home in our party. Whatever happens, I will volunteer, contribute what we can, and commit to doing the work to organize and defeat Collins

ONeil, Joanne M

WESTBROOK

As a lifelong Democrat I have attended multiple conventions in the past, and believe fiercely in the power of democratic representation. In these times, representation matters even more than ever. Voters are looking for change, and my intention is to represent that change as a delegate for Troy Jackson

OSullivan, Donald

PORTLAND

Maine has gone from a vacation destination for much of America to a vital role in the future of its democracy. When good men (and, as in this case women) do nothing Evil flourishes. It would be too easy to try and demonize Susan Collins as the problem, but the truth is that she is simply a facilitator to the real threat to our country. A person who has lost her way and can no longer be tolerated as our Senator with the stakes as high as they are. I would knock on doors, contribute my small share of money, and do whatever is asked of me to help the Democrats win in Maine so that we can lead America back to a place of justice and respect!

Ober, Julian

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe the Democratic Party is at its best when it builds broad coalitions around our shared values. Our movement grows when we welcome people who are committed to making Maine better, even if they arrive with different experiences or perspectives. Lasting change comes from listening, finding common ground, and inviting more people into the work of strengthening our communities. That belief has shaped my work. Through the Maine Scholars Strategy Network, I knocked on hundreds of doors, phone banked thousands of voters, and recruited poll workers across the political spectrum. Those conversations reinforced what I already believed: people want to be heard before they want to be persuaded. My approach has always been to listen first, build trust, and have respectful conversations grounded in our shared values. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will continue volunteering as a door knocker and phone banker, just as I have in previous campaigns. Grassroots organizing is about showing up consistently, having honest conversations, and building enthusiasm one voter at a time. As a delegate, I will support a nominating process that encourages thoughtful debate while ultimately bringing Democrats together behind our nominee. I want to help build a party that continues to grow by welcoming new volunteers, energizing grassroots organizers, and inspiring voters to stay engaged long after Election Day. I believe unity, authentic outreach, and a commitment to our shared values are how we win in November and beyond.

Obolensky, Alexander

BRUNSWICK

I am running for delegate to this Nominating Convention from Cumberland County because, in this incredible moment for our state and our country, it is incumbent on all of us to do our part to carry on the movement for change that powered Graham Platner's decisive primary win — and ensure it defeats Susan Collins and elects a Senator we can trust to represent us and meet the crisis our state and country are in. I felt that movement firsthand when Platner's voice came echoing through my windows during his town hall on the Brunswick mall, and I walked over to listen. What I heard was a demand for a new generation of leadership: one that says plainly that healthcare is a right, that Medicare for All is the overhaul our system needs, and that working people deserve a Senator who fights corporate power instead of boosting it. That demand hasn't gone anywhere, and it deserves a delegate who takes it into the room where our next nominee gets chosen. Cumberland County holds the largest delegation at this Convention. That's real leverage, and I'm asking for your support to make sure it's used to demand bold leadership — not settle for the safest name in the room.

Okun, Rachel Johanna

FALMOUTH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I believe strong parties are built through trust, transparency, and meaningful grassroots engagement. As an attorney, business owner, and community leader, I have spent my career bringing people together, listening to different perspectives, and helping people navigate difficult conversations with respect. If selected, I will work to help unite Democrats behind our nominee and defeat Susan Collins by engaging voters, encouraging participation, and helping people understand why this election matters. Winning in November will require more than enthusiasm. It will require listening to our communities, earning trust, and building relationships that extend beyond Election Day. I also believe our party's grassroots momentum is one of its greatest strengths. That momentum grows when people feel heard, welcomed, and included in the process. Recent events have reminded many Democrats how important clear communication and transparency are to maintaining confidence in our party. As a delegate, I will support an open, respectful convention process and encourage greater civic engagement long after the convention ends. I am committed to representing my community with integrity, working collaboratively with fellow Democrats, and helping build a party that is united, energized, and prepared to win in November.

Oliver, Javier

FALMOUTH

I will bring a focused voice to the Nomination Convention on July 25th. While I yearn for a country where progressive values and candidates hold power at all levels of government, I recognize the existential importance of the 2026 midterms, and that our only goal must be electing representatives who will stop or slow President Trump's authoritarian policies. We are now on the backfoot in a must-win race. As Democrats, we must recognize the tragic reality of our situation: our policy dreams must wait until we have saved our democracy. As a delegate, I will engage with neighbors who oppose Trump but are likely to vote for Collins to identify the strongest candidate to run against her. I will bring this mindset: our candidate shouldn't be the one who I am most aligned with, but the one I believe will have the widest appeal among the electorate. I will work to activate my various advocacy groups to campaign for our new candidate through November, and prepare for the likely interference tactics planned by this administration. At risk of disqualification, I must share that I have been a vocal critic of Platner's candidacy since the initial revelations were reported. While I generally agreed with his policy priorities, I warned that a post-primary revelation would upend the general election and gift Collins another term. I wish I had been louder and more convincing, and I look forward to sharing my perspective through and after the nomination process.

BIPOC, Underrepresented Religion

Ollier, Dorothy M

BRUNSWICK

Olstein, Sheri Leigh

PORTLAND

I am passionate about defeating Susan Collins. I have attended candidate events to learn more about the candidates policy platforms and assess their ability to debate and campaign against the incumbent. With a strong candidate on the ballot, I will actively campaign to secure our success.

Onafowokan, Joyce Avweroda

WINDHAM

Continued active participation in the process, that will defeat Susan Collins in November, is my priority. My records in the Sheena Bellows, Graham and Senator Tim Nangle speak for themselves. A small group of us (WDTC) worked hard, last November, is having a fundraiser for Maine Democratic Senate Committee raising $5+K. My passion and commitment to my beliefs and core values (equal justice and non-discrimination) are ingrained in my psyche and are my moving forces. Thank you.

BIPOC

Orenstein, James

YARMOUTH

I want to be a delegate to represent the thousands of Mainers who want to find a candidate who will fight and win. I want to do my part to make sure we don't settle for someone who will work within the system and worry about pissing off the deep-red voters who will never support any Democrat. I want us to field the strongest candidate to defeat Susan Collins. That means picking someone who will harness the tremendous energy and enthusiasm of the many progressive voters who turned out to vote in the primary – including the many unenrolled voters who share that enthusiasm. It means someone who will support progressive policies – though that's absolutely necessary to get my vote at the convention – but also to making the structural reforms needed to reclaim our democracy. It means picking someone who offers a positive agenda rather than just a promise to oppose Trump. Someone who talks about bipartisanship isn't clear-eyed enough or aggressive enough to take on today's GOP. Whoever we pick – whether I think they're the best candidate or the worst – I will support the campaign with my money, my time, and my efforts. In the fall of 2024 I went to LA every weekend (a 2-hour round trip) to knock on doors in CD2 because that was where the effort was needed. I worked on phone banks and I gave money. I'll do more of all of the same this year to make sure we

Underrepresented Religion

Orenstein, Karin

YARMOUTH

I seek to help my party find the right candidate who can defeat Susan Collins. As a delegate, I would support a replacement candidate who demonstrates that they are: 1. well aligned with the progressive political ideology that energized Graham Platner's supporters, including economic equity, social justice, environmental sustainability and structural reform 2. electable in a race against Susan Collins 3. a hard worker who will not just hold a seat if elected, but develop expertise in national and foreign policy issues I have not pre-judged the potential candidates and will be open to what they and my fellow delegates have to say. I will bring my skillset of helping people find common ground and hear each other in what may be heated exchanges. I will support whoever is selected as a replacement candidate in the November election, amplifying their candidacy while running in my own election for State Representative.

Underrepresented Religion

Ostergaard, Benjamin

CUMBERLAND

Our country is in a crisis. Republican presidencies have eroded the Constitution and rolled back many rights. Right-wing judges bypass the legislative process to implement their unpopular agenda. The president wages illegal wars that greatly threaten world peace. The Senate Republican majority including Susan Collins have voted against war powers legislation which would enforce the constitution by returning the power to declare war to Congress. Collins has also supported all of Trump's nominees to the Supreme Court. It is imperative for our democracy that she be unseated this November. A strong Democratic Senator could not only help block Project 2025, but could also pave the way for legislation that would restrain future Presidents from eroding the Constitution. Critical to winning this race are two Demographics, youth and rural voters. Youth, by and large, participate less in politics than older voters, largely do to disillusionment, but also lack of knowledge about local political events. For example, last year, I attended a public discussion regarding a referendum in Cumberland to approve an affordable housing project. The next youngest person in the meeting looked to be at least 45 despite the fact that affordable housing is most important for young people. I attribute this lack of participation to unawareness that the meeting was taking place. Rural voters have long felt neglected and they are a big part of Maine and Collins' base. As a delegate, I would pay most attention to these issues in the convention.

Ostraat, Amanda Joyce

WESTBROOK

Ostrov, Richard

BRUNSWICK

I would like to be considered for a delegate seat to the Senate candidate selection convention. The 2026 November election will be a defining moment in modern day United States history and in the State of Maine. There is no time to waste on debating how we got to this point; the goal must be to select the candidate who can defeat Susan Collins. The candidate must be prepared to explain to all voters why Collins does not support their best interests and what the candidate will do, change or promote to make their lives better. The delegates will play an incredibly important role in the selection process if they can agree that their goal is to support the most electable candidate. By way of background, my wife and I moved to Maine three years ago to be closer to our son, daughter in law and now a grandson. I have never run for political office and I don't see myself as a political activist. However, the Trump election and the Susan Collins blind allegiance to his policies of hate, retribution, and misplaced patriotism have given me great pause about the country we will leave to my grandson here and grandchildren elsewhere. My commitment if selected will be to work with the other delegates and party Leaders to select the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins.

P. Paine, Lincoln Paxton

PORTLAND

I moved to Portland the same year that Susan Collins said that if elected she would serve only two terms. One thirty-year mortgage later, Collins is running for her sixth term and I am still writing about Collins's knee-jerk support for policies that go against the best interests of Mainers and Americans generally. My introduction to politics began as New York coordinator for the United Steelworkers of America when they represented copper miners on strike at Phelps Dodge Corp. plants in Arizona. I subsequently volunteered for, and heard Jesse Jackson speak at, the 1992 Democratic Convention, and I volunteered for Chellie Pingree's senatorial campaign in 2002. I am a supporter of Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, the ACLU of Maine, and the Portland Public Library. My volunteer experience includes board service with the Portland Stage Company, The Telling Room, and the Maine Maritime Museum, and I am a member of The Council for American Democracy. My progressive political views have been reinforced by my research as an historian. As the author of Down East: An Illustrated History of Maritime Maine and The Sea and Civilization: A Maritime History of the World, I try to look at issues from a range of perspectives. (For more on my political views, please see LincolnPaine.com or on Substack @LincolnPaine.) This election is the best opportunity Democrats have ever had to unseat Collins, but it will take fearless resolve and political insight to capitalize on the progressive ideals advocated by the Platner campaign.

Padian, Maria T

BRUNSWICK

I have been very active in the current election cycle, knocking on doors, gathering signatures, helping to organize events and donating money, all in the interest of DEFEATING Susan Collins! Nothing short of the future of our democracy is at stake. The Senate must flip blue and defeating Collins is key. I'm eager to donate my time and talent in that regard.

Page, Deirdre

PEAKS ISLAND

I've followed Troy. He most closely aligns with what we primaried. He served our state admirably and with consistency for 30 years. He is far away the candidate we need, who despite "lack of charisma" has proven electable and effective. Finest kind. We need and deserve him now.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Pajulo, Anna

PORTLAND

As a resident of Portland, a naturalized citizen originally from Finland, and an architect, I bring a unique perspective and a deep commitment to Maine. In my daily work, I collaborate closely with local businesses and skilled tradespeople, giving me a firsthand understanding of our local economy and the hardworking folks who build our communities. This grounded experience prepares me to advocate for a stronger, fairer future on the convention floor. I am stepping forward as a delegate to vote for Troy Jackson as our Senate nominee. Troy's unwavering dedication to the working class resonates deeply with me. Having grown up in Finland, I have seen firsthand how beautifully a high-quality public healthcare system can work for everyone, which is why I fully champion Troy's push for Medicare for All. I also stand firmly behind his fight for labor unions and ensuring the ultra-wealthy pay their fair share. Furthermore, as a woman and an immigrant, I deeply respect Troy's fierce defense of women's rights, reproductive freedom, and immigrant rights. He understands that Maine is at its strongest when we protect the dignity, health, and autonomy of everyone who calls this state home. As your delegate, I will proudly cast my vote for a nominee who fights for everyday people, ensuring our party stands firmly for equity, solidarity, and progress. I would be honored to earn your support

Palamountain, Kara

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Paley, Deborah Cabot

PORTLAND

Palmer, Nacole

BRUNSWICK

When Susan Collins voted to confirm Kavanaugh, who was credibly accused of sexual assault, to the U.S. Supreme Court, I was filled with a combination of rage, indignation, and deep commitment to unseating her. Collins is a lackey for Donald Trump who has sold out the Maine people again and again, and we absolutely must defeat her in November. I am committed to doing everything I can to ensure that our next Senate candidate is two things: 1. someone who understands and will fight for the needs of working Mainers, and 2. ready to defeat Susan Collins. If I am selected as delegate, I will take my responsibility as representative of the people seriously. To the fullest extent possible, I will represent the voice and wishes of the thousands of voters in Cumberland County who voted in June but who can't be present at the convention. We must defeat Susan Collins, and I still believe that we can do this.

Parenteau, Stephen R

WINDHAM

I am a lifelong Democrat and have been aligned with the principles that they represent. I am a strong believer in our democracy and I think that we are facing the biggest threat since WWII. The current administration has been taking a step wise approach toward authoritarianism. It has undermined our institutions. It has pitted neighbors against neighbors. It is self serving and has not put the people first. It only serves the big corporations and the wealthy. I believe in a government that serves the people rather than the other way around. I believe in an equal playing field for all Americans. As a healthcare provider for over 30 years I appreciate the necessity of good health care for all Americans. I believe in a fair tax system, equal rights for all, protecting the environment, the importance of international alliances, diplomacy, and a country that is a beacon of human decency . But we the people have the power to save our country. Democracy only works when the people get involved. I have been involved in protests, volunteering for our state senator, get out the vote, and clean elections. I would very much like to do more. That includes becoming a delegate to help in selecting the next Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate. It is imperative that we elect a Democrat for Senator and retake the Senate. Our democracy depends on it. Thank you for your consideration, Stephen Parenteau

Parker, Diane

GRAY

I'm a 70 y/o female Democrat inspired by JFK's calling "Ask not what your country can do, but what you can do for your country"

LGBTQIA+

Parker, Holly

CAPE ELIZABETH

I express my commitment to Maine, its people and its communities through my work and through my participation in the political process. I am an educator and policy expert who models for her students the value of building the trusting relationships we need, particularly in our rural and working waterfront communities, to create local, state and federal policies that serve Mainers. I have volunteered for campaigns and represented Maine abroad as part of state delegations to Iceland and Norway. I believe that we, Democrats of Maine, must embrace the message that was affirmed by more than 150k voters in June. I see serving as a delegate to this vital convention as an extension of my commitment to Maine's people and communities, as well as to the environment that has allowed Mainers and the Wabanaki people to endure and thrive.

Parker, Lynnda

GRAY

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Parrott, Leah

PORTLAND

When the school shooting in Parkland, FL killed 17 people, I was angry. As a sophomore in high school, I helped organize a school-wide walkout, demanding the passage of a gun control bill. For the first time I realized the power of grassroots advocacy in creating a more just world and have been an organizer ever since. My subsequent experience in movement building, legislative offices, and on the campaign trail has given me the insight to be a delegate at this year's convention. Since then, I have organized at my college for fossil fuel divestment, knocked thousands of doors to get progressives elected, and talked to thousands of Mainers on the doors about what matters to them. We must provide universal healthcare, childcare to all, and an end to funding genocide in Gaza. We, as Democrats, must do what is moral. We must give people here in Maine the things they need to thrive. We must also do no harm to those abroad. Growing up with a single mother is ultimately what informs my political stances. Too many single mothers like her struggle to achieve what has been called “the American dream.” As a party, we should ensure that the most vulnerable in our communities are taken care of. This will help all Mainers, as we will live in a state full of people who can reach their full potential. I would be honored to represent our collective voice at this year’s convention.

Youth

Pascone, Justin

PORTLAND

As a lifelong Democrat, stay-at-home father of two young children, and resident of Portland, I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I care deeply about the future of both the Maine Democratic Party and our country. The decisions we make today will shape the world my children inherit, and I want to help ensure Democrats continue fighting for fairness, opportunity, and justice. I am concerned about the rising cost of living, climate change, the influence of big money in politics, the erosion of workers' rights, growing income inequality, and the rise of racism and nationalism. I also believe our nation must pursue a foreign policy that prioritizes peace and diplomacy. These issues are not abstract political debates as they directly affect my family and communities across Maine. To help defeat Susan Collins, I plan to support grassroots organizing through volunteering, voter outreach, and encouraging greater civic engagement in my community. I believe lasting Democratic success depends on empowering ordinary people, bringing new voices into the party, and building a broad, inclusive grassroots movement. I would be honored to serve as a delegate and help build a more just, sustainable, and equitable future for Maine and for my children.

Paslaski, Sophia

SCARBOROUGH

My name is Sophia Paslaski, and I am 33 years old, a graduate of Maine Law and member of the Maine Bar, a former union member and leader, and a former policy researcher on economic inequality. As a workers-side workers’ comp attorney, representing the interests of everyday people who have been hurt by a power bigger than themselves is what I do for a living. At the Nominating Convention, I want to serve as a delegate representing the interests of women. Time and again women have been asked to put aside our pursuit of social and economic equality, to ignore the indignity of systemic misogyny, and to brush off the violent words and actions of powerful men all in the name of furthering movements and achieving short-term political goals. I am long past compromising with the patriarchy, and the candidate who replaces Graham Platner should be too. As a delegate, I will vote for the candidate who doesn’t ask women to hold our noses or wait our turn or compromise on our own personhood. As a democrat, I will help our party succeed by reminding us that misogyny spans the political spectrum, and tolerance is not an option.

Patefield, James T

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe that it is imperative that Maine live up to its rich history and heritage to lead this fight against fascism. As a longtime Democratic voter and volunteer, as well as a policy expert and a parent, I want to be involved in that fight—to help the party choose the best possible option to unseat Collins and retake the Senate. One of the best things I have observed about Maine in my almost fifteen years of living here is that even one person, or one group of people, can accomplish amazing things if they are organized and if they tap into community. That is why I decided to pursue public policy through the Muskie School of Public Service; that is why I have dedicated my career to bettering the public interest through the nonprofit and philanthropic sectors; and that is why I think I bring a unique and valued perspective to this convening. Maine faces problems that are indicative of the country's: affordability, housing, lack of economic opportunity, and ever-eroding freedoms. Our nominee must address these and unite people, while getting things done. Regardless of the nominee, I will knock doors and organize my community.

Paul, Daniel M

YARMOUTH

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. As a lifelong teacher with many family who are also in education, I am concerned about the damage being done to all working families; we need Troy Jackson.

Pavitt, Michele C

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to support the campaign of Dr. Nirav Shah, whom I view as the candidate who holds the integrity, progressive values, and political acumen needed to defeat Susan Collins in November. Shah held more than 300 informational briefings to provide health updates as Maine's CDC director during the COVID-19 epidemic, inspiring the slogan "In Shah We Trust." Through these highly publicized sessions, he demonstrated genuine concern for the health and welfare of Maine people and revealed his commitment to transparency and honesty. In his response to the fatal shooting of a Columbian immigrant in Biddeford this week, Shah articulated the outrage of thousands of Maine people: "She's got power, but she didn't use it to rein in a rogue agency, and instead gave them a blank check to kill," Shah said on July 14, according to PBS. "It is time to abolish this broken agency. It is time to fire the leadership that has let it run wild. And it is time to retire politicians like Susan Collins who have made this lawlessness possible.” Shah has pledged to participate in debates and continue to offer town hall meetings, which he’s done numerous times as a candidate for higher office in Maine. He has shown the passion, courage, and integrity to lead Maine voters toward defeating Susan Collins in November and I intend to volunteer for his campaign to help him to achieve this goal.

Paynter, Braden

BRUNSWICK

My name is Braden Paynter and I live in Brunswick. I am asking to serve as a delegate because I want to bring: My two decades of work in dialogue at the intersection of history and human rights to the process of building a productive convention. I want to help the convention make a good choice while building stronger relationships across the state. My lived experience as a renter and a parent of a young child. My partner is an Emergency Department nurse. We navigate the realities of building a future in Maine every day. I will be looking and listening for a candidate who has both short term goals (winning in November) and long term vision for how we can all live and thrive. My past experience volunteering to knock doors, sign thank you notes, and put out chairs at meetings. If we are going to connect with existing infrastructure and ask people to give their time, their money, and faith we need a candidate that earns that and can inspire people to stand up and join in. My belief that a better world for all of us is possible when we build movements under big tents and with a focus on making tangible changes people can feel now and that our kids will be able to steward and pass on themselves.

Payton, Jared

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to be part of the process to ensure that Maine selects the right candidate to take on Susan Collins. This election has significant consequences and it’s time for me to come off the sidelines in this state and take a more active role in the process.

Pearson, Benjamin

WESTBROOK

Pecukonis, Stephen Paul

BRUNSWICK

Susan Collins must be defeated to stop the Trump agenda. I believe the country is in the early stages of a progressive revival. I have worked to elect Senator King in the past and want to be part of electing a progressive democrat to represent the people of Maine in Washington DC. Our children’s future depends on what we do today. Our nation needs universal healthcare, subsidized childcare, climate action, and a renewed support for the workers essential to the functioning of a society and an economy. Money must be removed from its role in influencing public debate and elections. The clock is ticking and we don't have time to waste.

Peixotto, Robert V

YARMOUTH

As a veteran and former Republican, I am angry with the corruption, cruelty, lawlessness, racism, and misogyny of Donald Trump as well as the complete failure of the Republican led Congress to serve its vital role as a check and balance to an out of control Executive. Susan Collins is fully complicit in Donald Trump's reign of destruction of the federal government. She must not be allowed to serve anymore! I am compelled to do something, anything, to ensure that Maine's next Senator restores Maine's reputation for rational, thoughtful leadership and statespersonship while forcefully reigning in and holding accountable Trump and his enablers. It would be an honor to serve as a convention delegate to select the best candidate that Maine can offer to unseat Susan Collins.

Peixotto, Susan

YARMOUTH

I am running to be a delegate to help nominate a candidate who believes in justice for all people as a core value, who upholds the rule of law, who defends the ideals of the US Constitution, addresses crucial issues with integrity and facts, and who can skillfully articulate and advocate for the critical concerns of the people of Maine and the US. This candidate must be able to successfully challenge and defeat Senator Collins. If chosen, I will responsibly honor the chance to participate as a delegate in this important democratic process and will also participate in campaign events in the fall in support of Maine's democratic candidate for US Senate.

Pelletier, Daniel

CAPE ELIZABETH

I believe Troy Jackson is the only candidate that can beat S.Collins in the upcoming elections. Troy is down-to-earth, common sense, and progressive - a rare gem coming from northern ME. Getting S.Collins out of Congress is critically important for Maine and for all of USA. We need to get rid of big money and corruption; she supports both. As a Fort Kent native myself, as a 1st generation American, and as a transplant into southern Maine, I believe I can help the voters of ME understand (especially SoMaine constituents) understand that Troy can and will become the next great Senator from Maine.

Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+

Pelletier, Wesley Kean

PORTLAND

I'm committed to making sure that the people of Cumberland County are heard, and that the working class agenda that Platner's campaign rode to harness such momentum is upheld so that we nominate a candidate that can energize voters in a way that we can finally defeat Susan Collins.

Pendleton, Nan

PORTLAND

I believe strongly in our democratic system of voting. I believe we all have a duty to participate and support fair and free elections. Now more than ever possibly, it's important for each of us to get involved and do our part to help put forward a candidate that will best represent Mainer's, a person who will fight for the issues and values we care about most. I am a member of the League of Women Voters and know first hand how voting rights have been attacked - I want to do my part to protect and support voting rights for all.

Penna, Paul

WINDHAM

I am requesting to be selected as a delegate because I want to safeguard and restore democracy for my grandchildren's future. True democracy demands active participation. At this pivotal moment, there is no greater way for me to contribute than by helping select a candidate who can defeat Susan Collins—a step that is critical for both Maine and the future of our nation. My commitment to this role is rooted in a lifetime of service. As a retired public school administrator, I spent my career advocating fiercely for the needs of every student. While that chapter has closed, my commitment to advocacy remains. I want to channel that same experience into supporting a candidate who will truly represent every voice in Maine. Leadership requires conviction, and I know that a dedicated leader makes a profound difference for those they serve. I look forward to being an active participant in selecting a Democratic candidate who will end the era of Susan Collins. Electing a senator who genuinely represents Maine's unique interests, while upholding the United States Constitution, has never been more urgent in our nation's 250-year history. Thank you for this opportunity to contribute.

Penrose, Jonathan

PORTLAND

I am a 74 year old retired attorney. I've resided in Cumberland Co. for 46 years. I am a lifelong Democrat and have always voted. I volunteer to serve to try to select the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins from the field which contains several qualified and responsible candidates. In my legal and business career I served as an Assistant D.A. for several years in Cumberland County. Prior to law school I interned with the ACLU in Philadelphia. My past experience includes working on several school renovation committees in the Town of Yarmouth as well fund raising for the YMCA in Freeport. I've served on several non-profit boards. My business experience includes renovating a building in downtown Portland. I have two adult daughters, one of whom is a HS History teacher in Maine and the other is a senior software engineer working for Amazon in NYC. I was a political science major as an undergraduate and have a lifelong interest in progressive politics. Please reach out to me at 207-712-6476 if I can assist the Party as a Delegate.

Peraino, Anna Sophia

SOUTH PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Perez, Arabella

PORTLAND

I have been a Maine resident for 30 years working as a community mental health social worker, professor, and national speaker on trauma and DEI. I believe I understand the issues impacting Maines most vulnerable populations. As a first generation Latina who has worked alongside cultural brokers I am also committed to finding ways to address systemic racism and the policies that stem from this historical trauma. I hope to represent my district and the people I care deeply about.

BIPOC

Perkins, Lucy

SOUTH PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because this is the most significant opportunity to influence who will represent Maine in the U.S. Senate. A convention is an opportunity for the people of Maine, selected by their peers, to have power over a process and a decision that will impact the daily lives and livelihoods of all Mainers. I believe that we cannot abolish ICE without defeating Susan Collins. We cannot provide universal healthcare without defeating Susan Collins. We cannot fight for working class people without defeating Susan Collins. I will campaign, door knock, and support a democratic candidate who represents these shared values and commitments and who is committed to doing right by Mainers, even when it is hard. Beyond this convention, I am running to represent House District 121. My decision to run for elected office is rooted in the growing momentum, relationships, and recognition of grassroots organizing here in South Portland. Our recent successful campaign to end the City's contract with Flock Safety demonstrated what is possible when people come together toward a shared vision of community safety and justice. I believe that it is through this type of organizing that community members can hold elected officials accountable and effectively shape the policies that materially impact their lives. My commitment in my own campaign is to echo this grassroots organizing through public assemblies and collaborative policy development that contribute to an essential feeling of agency and power in politics.

Perreault, Lauren Nicole

CAPE ELIZABETH

At forty-four years old, I have been a lifelong Democrat who has never missed a chance to show up for the democratic process of the country I love. My commitment began early. At eight years old, I marched on Washington with my parents at a pro-choice rally, an experience that planted a lifelong sense of civic responsibility in me. That commitment only grew: I organized political action throughout high school and college, building coalitions and giving my peers a reason to get involved. In the years since, I have remained an outspoken voice for human progress, for democracy, and for human rights, never content to sit on the sidelines while the issues I care about are decided without me. The most important task before us is defeating Susan Collins and bringing forward a candidate who will fight not only for Mainers, but for all people living in this country, someone who will serve with honor, dignity, and respect for human life. This is a moment that demands the kind of change so many of us so desperately need. I am asking for your support so I can bring my lifelong dedication to representing Maine Democrats as a delegate in this critical fight.

Disability, Underrepresented Religion

Petrovsky, Andrey

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Maine Democratic Party's Nominating Convention because I want to help ensure that our party selects a nominee who can unite Democrats, inspire independents, and present the strongest possible challenge to Senator Susan Collins this November. With this convention playing a critical role in choosing a replacement nominee following Graham Platner's withdrawal, I believe delegates have a responsibility to approach the process thoughtfully, fairly, and with the shared goal of winning in November. If selected, I will actively support our nominee through volunteer outreach, voter engagement, and grassroots organizing. I will encourage Democrats and unenrolled voters to participate in the campaign, contribute where they can, and help communicate a positive vision focused on the issues that matter most to Maine families and communities. Just as importantly, I want to help strengthen the grassroots energy that has emerged across our state. That means welcoming new volunteers, listening respectfully to differing viewpoints within our party, and building lasting relationships that extend beyond this election. A successful campaign depends not only on a strong candidate but also on an engaged, inclusive, and motivated network of supporters. I would be honored to serve as a delegate and to contribute to a transparent, respectful nominating process that positions our party for success in November and strengthens our organization for the future.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Pettengill, Savanna

PORTLAND

I am a low-to-middle class, neurodiverse, special education high school teacher, artist, and school union chapter leader. I am a vocal advocate in my communities for disability rights, class issues, anti-racism and dismantling the supremacist-patriarchal structures that are inside harm us all. I work hard to bring people together over working class issues in my daily conversations, and know that a thriving diversity of upbringing, culture and school of thought is the best way to see democracy thrive. I brought that attitude and my work to the platform committee in 2024. I have been a dedicated democrat the majority of my adult life (prior was unenrolled), and I care deeply about the future of Maine and our planet. I am committed to hosting and helping at house parties, phone banking and driving canvassers this November. I have helped run local democratic campaigns for women of color and will continue to do that work in the future because there are Maine voices that are needed at the table in Augusta and in Washington DC. I would like to serve as a voice for the party as a delegate for the US Senate special caucus because I understand, on an intersectional level, that the only way to lift all of us is to first truly lift up our most marginalized, and I am committed to that work in every aspect of my life.

Petter, Steven

BRIDGTON

I believe in the agenda laid out by Graham Platner. I want a candidate that supports the same agenda. I'm not satisfied with candidates content to work within an unsustainable system. The system must change.

Pew, Elek

GRAY

Youth

Pew, Esther Julia

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have spent many elections organizing community members to knock on doors, make phone calls, write letters, and more through my job as a Community Organizer at the Maine People's Alliance. I understand the need to advocate for policies that will change the lives of everyday people, and to especially not shy away from transformational shifts. In order to defeat Susan Collins, we need to build a strong coalition of people of all backgrounds. One of my strengths is to hold effective on the ground conversations, building relationships that can shift worldview and change hearts and minds. I listen and respond to what people have to say and share my own story to build a connection with them. I can knock on the door of a stranger and walk away with a new connection and ally. My personal experiences and the relationships I've cultivated over the years propel me forward and inspire me to build for our future. As a new mother, I am dedicated to fighting for a candidate that will advocate for a nationwide paid leave program, affordable childcare access for all, accessible and affordable health care, to name a few policies. I will support a candidate that won't shy away from the difficult conversations, one that understands what's at stake and will fight for policies that will change lives. We need everyday people on the ground willing to go to bat for that candidate - I am one of those people.

Pfeffer, Deborah

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to participate in the process of choosing the nominee to replace Graham Platner in the Senate race against Susan Collins at the gathering in Bangor. I am a lifelong Maine resident and a member of the Democratic Party. At one time I was elected Warden of my local polling place. I have volunteered for several candidates for offices State and Federal. I am open to listening to all candidates who are choosing to run against Senator Collins. Thank you for any forthcoming information. Sincerely Deborah Pfeffer

Phillips, Arthur

PORTLAND

I am a strong supporter of Troy Jackson as our next US Senator. I think he has the experience, grit, and statewide appeal to fight and win against Susan Collins in the General Election. I would be honored to serve as a Delegate and will do everything I can to defeat Collins in November no matter who our party nominates.

Phillips, Regina L

PORTLAND

I have been a strong advocate and activist my entire life. I have spent my professional and personal career organizing communities and collaborating with others to stand for injustice. I want to continue to work alongside my fellow democrats, in our unprecedented times, to stand up and defeat Susan Collins, as I believe she's destroying this country and needs to be replaced. I've never been elected to the Democratic convention, and I believe it's my time to do so. I am willing to engage voters on the importance of all of us working together to take back this country from those who act as if they can make any decision about our lives and future. I plan to support these efforts by helping with voter outreach and using my community relationships to connect with voters who may feel unheard or disconnected from the political process. I believe trust is built through listening, showing up consistently, and focusing on the issues that matter most to Maine families. Beyond this election, I am committed to helping the Democratic Party continue building its grassroots momentum. That means welcoming new volunteers, encouraging younger and more diverse voices to become involved, strengthening local Democratic I would be honored to represent my community as a delegate and to help build a Democratic Party that is inclusive, energized, and prepared to win elections while advancing policies that improve the lives of all Mainers.

Pierce, Arthur N

BRUNSWICK

As a retired Maine superintendent of schools I am familiar with the issues facing elected officials today and believe that my experience as a public servant may be helpful in advising current elected officials.

Piltch, Daniel R

FREEPORT

As an elected official on Freeport's Town Council, I'd be honored to represent fellow Democrats at the nominating convention. I don't have any special ties to any particular candidate -- only a desire to nominate someone who can defeat Susan Collins in November.

Pinto, Mary

CAPE ELIZABETH

Our country is in crisis as it moves away from democracy and toward authoritarianism. Congress has failed to check Trump's use of executive power, and Susan Collins has done nothing to restrain a president who has diverted taxpayer dollars toward personal gain and political projects while undermining citizens' access to healthcare, jobs, and housing. By gutting the scientific research system that helped the US lead global progress, he has weakened our intellectual foundation. By dismantling the civil service, he has damaged the infrastructure that delivers essential programs and services at home and abroad. His isolationist policies further diminish America's standing in the world while urgent domestic needs go unmet. Senator Collins bears responsibility for allowing this to continue. She has stood by while the Rule of Law and women's rights have been stripped away. Over her many years in office, she has enabled the Supreme Court's shift to the far right, helping racist, sexist, and discriminatory attacks on the Constitution take root and strengthen Trump's hold on the country. The ride of artificial intelligence threatens not only our physical infrastructure, resources, and environment, but also the knowledge systems that could make discriminatory bias the norm. We must elect an experienced, well-informed, open-minded senator who will work to understand and solve the country's problems. I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to help ensure we choose the strongest candidate to defeat Susan Collins in November and begin to restore our country's integrity and promise. I support Nirav

Platt, David D

SCARBOROUGH

Enough is enough. I support Dr.Shah because he was first and foremost in denouncing the Trump regime's killing in Biddeford and Susan Collins' failure to separate herself from it.

Plumb, Emily

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because our party is strongest when the people doing the work also help choose its direction. I'm a Mainer who cares deeply about this state, and about a functioning democracy. That conviction now centers my professional work as a strategist and writer. It's why I want a seat at this table. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I'll do three things. I'll convene friends and neighbors to organize behind our nominee, because close races here are won by people who trust each other and keep showing up. I'll write letters to the editor and publish on my Substack to sharpen the case for persuadable voters and keep our message clear. And I'll bring my skills in narrative and positioning to that effort, so the work actually has an impact. On grassroots momentum: I care about the difference between organizing and top-down marketing. Lasting movements are built from the bottom up. They outlast a single cycle. For me, this means welcoming new people in, defining what we stand for rather than only what we oppose, and leaving behind local infrastructure that endures. Democracy is my call to action. I'm not here to be a spectator. I want to help build something durable, and I'll do the work.

Poff, Carmen

PORTLAND

I am a 60 yr old single grandmother living in Portland working fulltime + 2 parttime jobs and still struggling to make ends meet. I feel I represent a large number of people in my demographic. I believe wholeheartedly in democracy and have watched these last few years as Susan Collins has voted to take away our freedoms, our access to healthcare, and has sided with Trump too many times. I will listen to the members of my community and will continue to talk to my friends, neighbors, and community about the importance of backing the democratic nominee and voting Susan out in November.

LGBTQIA+

Poland, Doris A

WINDHAM

I am the chair of the Windham Dems and I have fought for working people my entire life. I think we need a candidate that will speak to the grassroots momentum that we've built over the years and will be a voice for the working people of Maine. I have a disabled son and I also want a candidate who will stick up for the vulnerable. I want to be part of the convention so that I can have a say in who I end up canvassing for this summer

Poland, Joseph D

WINDHAM

I am a person with disabilities and I want to represent others in my community with some of the same challenges. I am unable to knock doors but I work every election - helping keep the canvassers and materials organized and in good spirits. I think that this party needs to nominate someone who will fight for the underdogs, the working people, the disabled, the elderly. I want to be a delegate so that I can help make sure we pick the right candidate to get rid of Susie for good.

Disability

Poland, Lori A

WINDHAM

I want to be a voice for the working people of Maine - the average Jane who is working harder and falling further behind. I want to be a voice for those that can't have a voice or can't afford the time off work to attend a convention. I want to hear more from the candidates - not just hatred for Susie, but hope for what we can build as a working class and what kind of future we want to build together. I want to be a voice for the independent voters who showed up primarily for our primary because they too agree that we need change, and they started to believe it might be possible. I want to know that I had a hand in picking the person that I'll be spending the next few months talking about with my neighbors as I knock doors and phone bank. I participate every election, I canvass for candidates, and I want to due my civic duty and participate in this democratic process.

Poliquin, Joshua

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Disability, Underrepresented Religion, Youth

Ponte, Jessica Morgan

BRUNSWICK

I was a volunteer on the Platner campaign from day one and worked diligently for his nomination and changed my registration from independent to democratic for his nomination, and now I believe I have the right to choose his successor.

Poole, Elizabeth

YARMOUTH

I would like to be a delegate in this nomination process because my one vote has never been more critical to the preservation of our democracy. We, as Mainers, have been given the most precious opportunity to change the course of events for not only our state but the state of our country by nominating the best candidate who will beat Susan Collins. The candidate we choose must address the cracks in our political system that are widening and swallowing up so many of our fellow Mainers. Susan Collins, as Chair of Appropriations, had the power to stop the Big, Brutal Bill from reaching the Senate floor.. She failed to use her power and the harm that bill will cause to the most vulnerable in our state is on her. Our candidate will put an end to her duplicitious actions- claiming to be bipartisan while supporting Trump 94% of the time thus destroying our country and hurting Mainers. Our candidate will have the courage of Margaret Chase Smith to be a loud voice in the Senate against the criminality, cruelty, and corruption of the Trump administration- courage that a supine Collins lacks. Our candidate will listen to Mainers and promote policies that address income inequality, lack of access to medical care, food and housing insecurity, women's rights and get Ice off our streets. I will work relentlessly to support our candidate and defeat Susan Collins. Truth, passion and justice give us the momentum. As Maine goes, so goes the Nation.

Poole, Jason

BRUNSWICK

As a LGBTQIA+, biracial, Army Veteran, I am asking for your vote to serve as a delegate to our upcoming special Nominating Convention. With the general election just months away, our party faces an unprecedented challenge, but also an extraordinary opportunity. I want to serve because our next nominee must possess the integrity, grit, and unifying vision required to finally defeat Susan Collins this November. To win this pivotal seat, we cannot rely on business-as-usual politics. I plan to aggressively mobilize voters by drawing a sharp contrast between a forward-looking Democratic platform and Collins' record. We will defeat her by focusing on the real, everyday pressures Mainers face—from protecting reproductive freedom and lowering healthcare costs to building an economy that supports our working families, loggers, and coastal communities. To sustain and build on our party's incredible grassroots momentum, I will work to ensure our convention process remains completely open, inclusive, and transparent. We must bridge our party's diverse coalitions, ensuring that the passion of our progressive base operates hand-in-hand with robust, localized organizing across all sixteen counties. As a delegate, I will cast my vote for a nominee who can unite us, fire up our volunteer network, and turn grassroots energy into high voter turnout. Together, we will keep New England blue, flip this seat, and send a Senator to Washington who truly stands up for all of Maine.

Popejoy, Suzanne

HARPSWELL

Dr. Shah was my first choice among all candidates. I was very impressed with how he handled the COVID outbreak in Maine, particularly since there were so many difficulties with our president at the time, which is similar to today. He was an excellent administrator and problem solver, who kept his cool and worked extremely hard well with all factions (not always easier for someone who had recently come 'from away'). These are skills we need with all the conflicting views and personalities involved in governing. He never backed down on what he thought was right. I was a Hospital Epidemiologist for ~10 years and worked on many outbreaks with C.D.C. professionals, which always involved various political issues and difficulties. I can't imagine a better background for this job at this time.

Portenier, Kasey

CASCO

I want to send someone to Washington who will represent working-class Mainers, promote progressive policies, stand up to corporate and wealthy interests, and defend the liberties of the working class. I will stand for and support candidates who believe in Medicare for All; striking down Citizens United; are pro-union; stand up for LGBTQ+ rights; support green energy and environmental protections; and importantly, who have a history of winning elections here in Maine. All our focus should be on defeating Susan Collins and putting forth the candidates who are best able to do that.

LGBTQIA+

Porter, Clara A

PORTLAND

My name is Clara Porter, I have been a resident of Portland since 1999 and am a lifelong democrat. This is an unprecedented situation we are facing in Maine and I welcome the opportunity to be part of a safe equitable process to select our next Senate candidate. In my community I am involved in community groups such as SURJ Greater Portland and am the Director of Prevention. Action. Change. which works to help individuals, organizations and communities prevent, interrupt, respond to and heal from violence - including that perpetrated by ICE. I have worked as an advocate for those impacted by sexual violence and am a member of Healing First, a transformative and restorative justice collective. I am a solid supporter of Shenna Bellows and I will support and work hard to elect whichever candidate is selected through the process put forward. I enjoy canvassing and welcome deep and sometimes difficult conversations on the issues and look forward to engaging my community and working across the state to defeat Susan Collins this fall. I am committed to helping create a just and equitable society which respects human rights, celebrates community, and is accessible to all. Thank you

Porter, John

SOUTH PORTLAND

As a Newspaper Guild vice president, I won better wages and working conditions for my colleagues in the newsroom and the printing plant. As a Portland Press Herald opinion journalist, I was an early and vocal supporter of LGBTQIA rights, universal healthcare and a community college system in Maine. As CEO of the Bangor Chamber, I advocated for public investment in a new arena in Bangor, R&D funding at UMO and led my organization to support Medicaid expansion. Now, all that good work and so much more is under threat in Washington. People are dying in the streets at the hands of zealous and poorly trained federal law enforcement. Food is being taken out of children's mouths. The fabric of our social compact - from our public health infrastructure to Medicaid and Medicare and, soon, to Social Security - is in tatters. I will support a Senate candidate committed to progressive values, someone with the wherewithal and willingness to take our power back and give America some much-needed T-L-C: Tax the rich. Lift up the poor. Collectively bargain!

Porter, Mark

PORTLAND

In this unpredictable year, the one thing we can safely predict is that Donald Trump will be even more unhinged in the last two years of his term than he's been in the first two. A Democratic majority in the U.S. Senate is essential to check the excesses of Trump and his corrupt cronies and to ultimately hold them accountable. And defeating Susan Collins is essential to restoring Democratic control of the Senate. I want to be a delegate because I want to help nominate a Democrat capable of beating Collins in November. In my view, that responsibility is a solemn one. If we fail to defeat Collins this year, I fear that failure will have disastrous repercussions for both Maine and the country. I also pledge to devote my time and efforts to the Democratic campaign in the fall. There's no time to lose. Finally, I have a record of participation in the party through both money contributions and activity. Most recently, I represented Portland as a delegate to the 2024 and 2026 State Conventions.

LGBTQIA+

Pottenger, Martha Howard

SOUTH PORTLAND

A longtime union organizer once said to me that in fifty years of activism, he doesn't think he's talked anybody into changing their minds, but he's pretty sure he 'listened' a few of them into it. I've experienced the power of listening in not only connecting with others but securing shared perspectives among individuals and groups with strong 'opposing' opinions. My neighbors in South Portland live in rental apartments, public housing, and homes they own. Knowing that many of them do not vote, a few of us organized a first-ever neighborhood yard sale to deepen relationships in ways that might not only lead to voting, but connect us - Democrats and Mainers - in actively, joyfully, determinedly, and creatively ensuring a victory come November. Homemade campaign signs, cook-outs, neighborhood sings, history trivia nights, there are so many ways we can come together AND get out the vote. As Director of Art At Work, on Portland City Manager's staff, projects began by identifying critical challenges...Police/historic low morale, charges of racial discrimination/Public Works, neighborhood associations whose membership didn't reflect the neighborhood's diversity. We would then design projects that put creativity to work addressing those challenges. I learned about government and community relationships, trust, distrust, and how 'sturdy-enough' bridges can be built. Critical elements to electing a Democrat. Knowing diversity can be a game-changing strength: I was active in the civil rights, anti-war, environmental, women's and lesbian liberation movements. I am white, low-income, with a college degree, and a good sense of humor.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Powers, Susan

BRUNSWICK

I believe that the most important thing that any of us can do to support all Mainers (especially women, children and those who love them) is to vote Susan Collins out of office. Her vote to confirm the Supreme Court Justices who overturned Roe v Wade has harmed reproductive rights and health care across the state. Additionally, her alignment with national Republican budget policies has negatively impacted rural health care, Medicaid and immigration enforcement. I will continue to advocate for her to change her mind about these issues and put the people of Maine ahead of her Republican cronies by calling and writing to her office on a regular basis. I will also continue to speak with friends, neighbors, strangers and family about her abandonment of us in order to stay in office and continue the Republican agenda. Our party is based in a fairness for all model. At a grassroots level, we all need to commit to the principles of equality, inclusiveness and the rule of law. Committing to these principles is not the same as acting to preserve them. I will do everything in my power to support this movement/party.

Prairie, Jane G

WESTBROOK

Platner stood for a new direction for our party and received over 70% of the votes in the June primary. I believe that we are mandated to nominate someone who will continue to carry that direction forward. As a delegate, I would work at that. I will read. I will listen to the candidates. I will talk with other delegates and I will help groups work well together. I wasn't going to apply to be a delegate, but then realized I was assuming "other more motivated people will take care of it" and I don't think that way about voting. I just go and vote. Also it would be embarrassing if not enough people applied and I had just said "I don't feel like it." I want to participate in this unusual expression of our democratic process. Once a candidate is chosen I will work for them, I'll give money and I'll vote. Many years ago, when Westbrook still held a caucus at the high school, I was nominated to be a delegate because there weren't enough people who were willing to do it. We were in a small room with a small group of people from my ward and I agreed to be a back up, and then someone backed out. So I went to Bangor as a voting Delegate. It was loud and long and exciting and tedious and good.

Pray, Sharon A

YARMOUTH

I am tired of waiting around for others to do what I know I can be part of to accomplish. I am 74 years old and finally have time to put my energies into making Maine the State I grew up in. I love this state, I love Graham's message, policies and want desperately for it to love on in the power of Maine residents to make it happen. We can - I know we can! I do not have political experience but have been a lifelong Democrat believing in our democracy and the freedom of choice. Susan Collins has put Maine women back hundreds of years with her biased voting record. She no more represents the women of Maine than Trump does! I want to be an active part of active Graham's movement. I have time, energy, many skills that can be beneficial to continue the quest to beat Susan Collins. Building momentum through grassroots meetings, backyard gatherings to spread the message was very successful! We need to continue that movement and I know we can! Let's show the country that Maine Democrats are strong independent people that will not stand for Republican money to run the Country!

Preble, Kristen

PORTLAND

I was a volunteer leader in Graham Platner's campaign and want to do everything I can to ensure we get a strong candidate in to leverage the momentum created, to beat Susan Collins. This is an incredibly important and unprecedented time and it's so critical we handle it carefully and with integrity.

Presgraves, Albert M

FREEPORT

I know that Senator Collins can be defeated if we have a candidate that can articulate the reality of the corruption in the Republican party and the ways the system/ government does not support regular citizens, all of these problems largely due to the unfair influence of money in the political system. I am mostly retired, and can put in the time to help make this happen.

Prophett, Cameron

BRUNSWICK

Hi! My name is Cameron Prophett, but everyone calls me Prophett. I'm a 25-year-old who was born and raised in Maine, and I have been a registered Democrat since I turned 18. I've spent as long as I can remember fighting for equality in this state at protests, rallies, and volunteering for nonprofits. I've worked with nonprofits and community organizations from Portland to Brunswick to Lewiston to Bangor, focusing on housing justice, harm reduction, and improving the lives of disabled people. Additionally, I myself am physically disabled, a member of the LGBTQ+ community, and a survivor of homelessness, so I'm personally motivated to do what it takes to choose the candidate who will win. The importance of this seat being won by a democratic candidate cannot be understated, and changing hearts and minds one connection at a time is how we will get to Mainers. I will continue to speak to everyone I can about why it's so important to do everything we can to elect a democratic candidate who will fight for the people of Maine. Just as importantly, I will continue to connect those people with resources to join the fight themselves. I hope to be a delegate in order to share my perspective, share the feedback I have heard from my communities, and to further invest all of that into the Maine Dems' fight to unseat Susan Collins.

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Youth

Provencher, Thomas

FREEPORT

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Pullan, Chelsea

NEW GLOUCESTER

I wasn't pulled into this by a candidate. I was pulled in by a platform, and a platform can't withdraw from a race. I'm a New Gloucester Democrat and a mom to a young daughter. When I read what the platform said about childcare costs driving parents out of the workforce, I wasn't reading policy. I was reading my life. That's why I showed up, and I'm still here. In June, 78% of Maine Democrats voted for that agenda: health care as a right, billionaire money out of our elections, housing people can afford. That wasn't a faction of this party. That was this party. Susan Collins wins when Democrats are uninspired. That's the whole trick, and in the past it has worked. She gets a sixth win if this convention sends 78 percent of us home deflated. She loses if we keep the momentum of this movement. I manage projects for a living. Getting a room of people with competing priorities to a decision, on a deadline, without wrecking the relationships. That's what 601 delegates must do in one Saturday. I'll come open to every candidate, but with one question: will you carry what those voters asked for, or do you just want their turnout in November? Through November I'll phone bank, text bank, write letters, and organize in New Gloucester, starting with this year's volunteers who wonder if it was for nothing. It wasn't. Send me to Bangor. I'll cast a vote I can explain to my neighbors.

Pulvino, William

SCARBOROUGH

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe conventions are one of the places where ordinary Democrats can help shape the direction of our party. As someone with a background in political science and psychology, I've always been interested in how people become engaged in civic life, but I've also learned that real politics happens through conversations, volunteering, and showing up. Defeating Susan Collins will take more than frustration, it will take organization. I'll do what I can to support the nominee by volunteering, talking with voters, helping with voter outreach, and encouraging friends and neighbors to stay engaged from now through Election Day. Elections are won one conversation at a time, and I'm eager to be part of that effort. I also want to help our party continue building the grassroots energy we've seen by making politics feel welcoming rather than exclusive. Over the years I've helped organize events ranging from large Model UN conferences for hundreds of high school students to campus organizations, and I've seen firsthand how much people want to participate when they're invited in and given a meaningful role. Whether it's knocking doors, making calls, or simply helping new volunteers feel like they belong, I believe strong communities build strong campaigns. I'm excited for the opportunity to represent Democrats in my county and help ensure we elect leaders who reflect Maine's values.

Purcell, Daniel

PORTLAND

It's my civic duty, and it's now or never. I think I can help defeat Collins because I am a member of the service community in Portland and I have an intrinsic pulse on the ideas of this city and state. The DNC can be a big tent party once again.

Quinlan, Michael

PORTLAND

I would like to be a delegate because I believe there still should be a place for moderates in the Democratic Party. I would like to see Susan Collins defeated as much as any more progressive member of the Party. But I am not a democratic socialist. While I respect and admire the energy progressives have brought to the party, I believe moderates should have a place as well.

Quinn, Theresa Jean

PORTLAND

I have been following this issue intensely. I am eager to work to unseat Susan Collins. I write comments regularly in the reader's comment sections of the Portland Press Herald the Wall Street Journal. I have attended NO KINGS rallies and numerous Saturday morning Monument Square rallies as a way to express my dissatisfaction with the inept, corrupt, and cruel Trump administration. I am a public high school teacher who has extra time this summer to give to this cause. I have a bachelor's degree in history and politics, a master's degree in Spanish, and I earned a Fulbright year in Chile in 2006. I have been a registered Democrats for many years.

Quinn, Thomas Joseph

PORTLAND

I am the grandson of four impoverished immigrants. My father spent four years fighting fascists in North Africa and Europe; today those American ideals are on the cusp of destruction. Democrats must retake the Senate to block Trump's authoritarian efforts. In October 2024 I drove with friends to Michigan and spent a week (on our own dimes) knocking on doors for Harris/Walz. That effort fell short, and the consequences have been dire. We cannot fail in this effort. We must knock on every door, post on every platform, and call every voter in Maine in order to reject Collins, to retake the majority in DC, and pull the country back from the precipice of fascism. Thereafter we must forcefully pursue an agenda that responds to American's real needs and concerns: one that creates and fairly distributes real wealth and economic opportunity, that protects the marginalized, the vulnerable and the oppressed. We must restore women's rights to bodily autonomy, defend the rule of law, and champion immigrants' rights to due process and dignity, and workers' rights to an economy in which income distribution bears a rational relationship to labor and productivity. Our foreign policy must defend the dispossessed, support the victims of aggression, support our allies, and respect international norms. None of this will happen with Susan Collins in office. None of this will happen without the efforts of each and every one of us.

ROCKSTROM, Doreen Blanc Blanc

CAPE ELIZABETH

I'm a lifelong Democrat, a member of the Cape Elizabeth-South Portland Democratic Committee, and would like to serve as a delegate at the July 25th convention to support Dr. Nirav Shah's candidacy. I support a progressive ticket, as does Dr. Shah, that ensures voting rights, Medicare for All, increased educational opportunities, and ways to fight against the Fascist drift that will destroy our democracy. As a senior citizen who uses a walker for mobility, I can no longer canvass door-to-door, but I can make phone calls to concerned citizens to ensure that they will vote on November 3rd without fear. As a citizen concerned with housing, I recently completed my first term of service on the Cape Elizabeth Zoning Board of Appeals and served two terms on the Princeton, New Jersey, Zoning Board of Appeals before moving to Maine 10 years ago. My last job in New Jersey was as Executive Director of Habitat for Humanity. I served as President of the Democratic Party in Princeton, New Jersey. In that role my team and I were responsible for providing two Democratic volunteers to be present in every district or precinct in every election for every hour polls were open. We also contacted lawyers to be present or available by phone to safeguard voters who experienced "issues" when they came to vote. I can make such calls in Cumberland County to enlist volunteers to protect and guard the voting process. I hold AB and MA degrees from the University of Chicago

ROY, ROGER J

SCARBOROUGH

Summary: Unify & Discern WHY: I want to propel Dems toward choosing the BEST FIT candidate, the one who is most energetic, agile and adaptable; assertive and direct yet diplomatic; open-minded and curious; who understands the affordability struggles Mainers are facing; a competitive "can-do" candidate; astute at economics and internationally aware. A person strongly on the right side of human rights (pro: ROE, LGBTQ, Gaza / anti: ICE, fascism), not beholden to oligarchs & corporations. Approachable, kind, compassionate. Next generation. Media savvy. Resilient, can run hard, can fund-raise, can slice up Susan in debates, and CONNECT WITH VOTERS. WHAT: I will work to help ensure we heal divisions and build the broad coalition needed to win. I respect the passion of Platner supporters and I understand the frustration of those who wanted a different path much earlier—we all want a more accountable, ethical Senator representing our beloved State! I will support the nominee who can bring Democrats together, communicate clearly, and run the most aggressive campaign. I will stay in the fight to defeat Collins via influencing, contributing, and using my skills to help the campaign focus on what matters most: defeating Susan Collins in November. HOW: Build momentum by unifying our establishment and progressive wings, forging the cohesive powerful Democratic Team that will bring down Collins and her pretend "concerns." I want a nominee who listens, shows up in every community, and who fights for affordability, justice, our rights, our planet, and accountable & honest federal governance.

Radis, Charles

PEAKS ISLAND

Let's be honest, Troy Jackson is not an eloquent speaker. On the other hand, as an experienced leader in both the house and senate, he checks off every box in my Democratic wish list and passed critically important legislation as President of the Maine Senate. As a 5th generation logger, he is firmly entrenched in District 2 and represents both the old and new Maine. Unlike our other possible candidates, he has won elections in Republican districts. If he is our candidate for Senate, southern Maine democrats will form a powerful coalition to unseat Susan Collins!

Radtke, Jonathan L

PORTLAND

My commitment to democracy and service has taken many forms. I served six years on the Portland School Committee, including two as chair, where I advocated for Portland's diverse students and families. As a teacher, I was an active member of the Maine Education Association for twenty years and served as president of my local. Today, I continue to advocate for public education as a member of the American Federation of School Administrators. As an ordained Episcopal priest, I am equally committed to the dignity of every person, equality, and building a more just society. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will do what I have always done: organize, volunteer, make calls, knock on doors, and encourage others to engage in the democratic process. I believe elections are won through conversations, relationships, and persistent grassroots organizing. Our party's momentum will continue to grow when we welcome new voices, invest in local organizing, and demonstrate that Democrats are fighting for working families, strong public schools, affordable health care, and an economy that serves everyone—not just the privileged few. I would be honored to help advance that vision as a delegate.

Raisch, Emily

PORTLAND

LGBTQIA+

Ramsay, Heather A

YARMOUTH

For the first time this year, I was a delegate for Cumberland county because I wanted to do more than donate money, participate in marches and knock on doors. Although those are all important things to do, it is abundantly clear to me that I need to do more - with more fire and more ongoing commitment right through until November when we vote to beat Collins once and for all. I will 100% support the new nominee in any capacity, (going door-to-door being my forte), in my county or anywhere in Maine where support needs to be drummed up. Heck - I will even go to Houlton, Maine, where my mom was born. We all need to step up our involvement, keep our foot on the gas and do whatever it takes to show this nation what Mainers are all about. We know hard work, we know tough challenges and we sure as hell don't need Washington jumping in to "help us out". This is our moment. Let's show everyone what we are made of. As goes Maine - so goes the nation.

Randall, Suzanne M

SCARBOROUGH

Susan Collins must be defeated. She and the GOP pledge fealty to Trump, allowing him to do just about anything he wants. Examples: bombing Iran without consultation or approval from Congress. And while Collins brags that she voted against the Big Beautiful Bill (BBB), she ignores the truth: as Chair of Appropriations, she allowed the BBB to come to the floor! And in a recent commercial, Collins brags about the $180 million she "obtained" for Maine's rural healthcare, while ignoring the truth: the BBB gutted healthcare to the tune of $1Trillion! Collins' support of Trump's SCOTUS nominees has 1) limited women's reproductive rights, 2) given the president immunity from prosecution, 3) given the President the ability to fire executive branch officials, political appointees and heads of independent regulatory agencies without cause, and 4) allowed political parties and wealthy donors to give unlimited money to PACs and political parties. Our country is supposed to be a republic. That is no longer true because money buys elected officials and power. Voter influence is negligible when the wealthy are allowed to spend unlimited amounts of money to buy a candidate. Add in the Electoral College, and individual votes become even less relevant. Our country was never perfect, but power is now highly concentrated within the oligarchy. The founding of our country celebrated the end of the monarchy. Where are we now? We have replaced the monarchs with oligarchs.

Rankin, Patrick

BRUNSWICK

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Raphelson, Benjamin

BRUNSWICK

As a regular voter who has voted consistently democrat since first being allowed to register I am interested in participating in the democratic process at this unique time in the state's history.

Rathband, Isa S

PORTLAND

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Rawdon, Matthew Neahr

CUMBERLAND

I'm a white, boomer college graduate. I've had Multiple Sclerosis for nearly forty years. I have advocated for my stepdaughter, who has cerebral palsy and a challenging learning 'disorder', for over twenty years. In my working life, I have founded two small businesses, and helped my wife with her Maine-based art business since we married in 2002. In my political life, I did opposition research on a gubernatorial campaign in Washington State in 1984. I canvassed for Obama in 2012, until I was "encouraged" to exit someone's property at the point of a .45. In January of 2017, I accompanied a group of small business folks to DC, where we met with Susan Collins, asking her to defend the Affordable Care Act. We were successful. For this campaign, I can write op-eds and letters in support of our candidate (and carefully challenging Collins) from the perspective of a moderate small business person who wants to support labor and a level, well-regulated playing field for all businesses and people. Prosperity is achievable if we work together. I'm also interested in developing humorous messages- political cartoons, bumper stickers, t-shirts. The GOP is so far out of sync that they can, and should, be made to look funny.

Disability

Razat, Anne-Laure

PORTLAND

I'm interested in serving as a delegate because I believe I can bring a balance of experience, careful judgment, and dedication to community representation to the process of choosing our nominee. As a graduate student in Policy, Planning, and Management at the University of Southern Maine, and as a Board Member on the City of Portland's Rent Board, I've seen firsthand how good governance depends on people showing up, listening carefully, and advocating in good faith. I am committed to bringing these qualities to this nomination process. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I'll draw on my organizing experience that goes back to 2016. I have 10 years of experience canvassing, phone banking, and registering voters for both local and national campaigns. This includes serving as a fellow for the Democrats in 2016, helping to flip a Pennsylvania county blue for the presidential election, as well as volunteering on a data team for a Democrat state senate campaign in South Carolina, working to identify and target key voter populations. I plan to put that same combination of fieldwork and data-driven strategy to work for our nominee, helping identify potential voters and creating messages that resonate with them. To build on our grassroots momentum, I want to help connect the party's efforts with local cultural and community groups that don't always have a strong connection to state politics. I'd like to help build those relationships so they're consistent, rather than seasonal to elections. Thank you for your consideration.

Youth

Rea, Ann

BRUNSWICK

My goal is to have a Democratic Senator win November 3rd. To this end, I volunteered and donated to the Platner campaign. The message of that campaign resonated with the people of Maine so I would like to help select a candidate that will support a fierce strategy: Pass health care for all, Get unregulated money out of politics, Put a stop to endless wars, and promote sensible policies that strengthen our country, similar to what FDR and Francis Perkins did, to bring about one of the most fair periods in our country's history. I want our Senator from Maine to show the rest of the country all the good our government can do for the people.

Read, Mark

PORTLAND

As a die-hard Platner supporter, my vote will go for Troy Jackson, because the nurses unions of Maine have powerfully and staunchly supported him. For me, it is kind of that simple. I believe that the pundits and critics and finger waggers that have been telling us that we got fooled by a charismatic leader, duped by the handsome leading man cosplaying as a working class hero, have fundamentally misunderstood the energy that drove the Platner campaign to record voting and a wave of intense support, despite his many flaws. This was the energy of desperation, not idolatry. Desperation for something other than the failed politics of the party establishment. Shit, Janet Mills' final act as Governor was to thwart the will of the people in favor of Big Tech, vetoing a widely supported ban on data centers in the state. Big money has so thoroughly corrupted our politics that it has felt hopeless and pointless to even pay attention. We are desperate for a break with that status quo. Platner was a vehicle for that desperation, he didn't engineer it or convince us that things are broken nearly beyond repair. He understood that we would need a movement of regular people, organized and willing to do the work to force this system to change. The labor movement is absolutely crucial to that fight. Troy

Jackson is a union man. His leadership is not based on charisma, it is based in the reality that he is accountable to a movement,

Reali, Carmela A

PORTLAND

Dr. Shah is a very learned man. He has all the qualifications that we need for a senator. He is very truthful and we would be lucky to have him.

Redfield, Alexander

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'm excited to contribute my time and energy to mobilize my community to defeat Susan Collins. I'm going to leverage new and existing relationships to bring people into the tent, especially working class Mainers who have been inspired by the policies put forward by Dem candidates this cycle. Our community is very active and ready for mobilization with federal ICE activities continuing, Susan Collins' role as enabling the Trump agenda is a major motivator in Cumberland County and statewide. We've seen how effective it can be when candidates speak to voters' daily lives and lived experience, calling in just how hard it is to make your way in an economy and society that is designed to support the most privileged. Locally, our work to connect with voters on anti-surveillance, anti-ICE enforcement, and similar issues has built a really powerful coalition that should be able to see themselves in the democratic party and to join our collective efforts to dismantle the federal slide into chaos.

Rees, Collin

NEW GLOUCESTER

My name is Collin Rees, and I am a passionate Democrat living in New Gloucester, where I am a part of the Gray-New Gloucester Dems committee and a dedicated volunteer. I have extensive experience working to elect Democrats in Maine and many other states across the country, having spent thousands of hours phone-banking, text-banking, door-knocking, fundraising, and registering new voters. I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the State Nominating Convention in order to nominate a strong candidate best suited to defeat Susan Collins this November and build a dedicated and lasting movement across all of Maine to win the change we desperately need for working families. From my experience talking to voters, as well as living and working in Maine, that candidate is Troy Jackson, who is my first choice for nomination. Troy can step in as a battle-tested candidate ready to harness our state's energy and take back this seat from Susan Collins. Outside of my Democratic Party volunteering, I spend my days as a climate campaigner and advocate working nationally and in Maine to advance the transition from fossil fuels to renewable energy. I am also a new father to an adorable seven-month-old, and I am more determined than ever to build our people-powered movement to allow him to grow up in a world where he can thrive and enjoy the best Maine and this country has to offer. I'd be honored to have your vote for delegate.

Youth

Rees, Karsten

PORTLAND

Currently, I serve as the chairperson of the Peaks Island Council. As Chairperson, I preside over public meetings, establish agendas, work collaboratively with council members and municipal officials, and represent island residents before the Portland City Council and city departments. This role has deepened my understanding of local government, public policy development, committee processes, stakeholder engagement, and the importance of due process in public proceedings. Additionally, I would bring my professional experience as a paralegal in both federal government and private practice to this role. I believe that I would strengthen the procedural regularity of the nominating convention, and I would like to contribute to the party moving forward.

Reese, Richard E

ORRS ISLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to help ensure Maine nominates a candidate who will harness the frustration, anger, and enthusiasm in defeating Senator Susan Collins. The successful candidate will assure that Maine, and the entire country, can move forward toward healthcare for all, fair immigration reform, increased job opportunities, strengthening educational institutions and science, and to address the ongoing disruption of climate affecting Maine's fishing, forestry and agricultural industries as well as the entire country and world. Senator Collins is a well-funded and formidable candidate. Educating voters about the qualifications of the Democratic candidate and encouraging their turnout at the polls in November will be key. This will succeed only if the best and most appealing Democratic candidate is chosen. I would be excited to financially support such a candidate, and to encourage others to do so as an investment in our future and that of our children. I will also aim to become involved in door-to-door campaigning in my region to help educate my neighbors. I believe that the enthusiasm and momentum of Platner's recent grassroots appeal needs to be studied and understood enough that his positive connections with the public can be continued whenever appropriate. Again, we must have a candidate who continues to speak clearly and plainly to Mainers so that the candidate demonstrates intelligence, integrity, fairmindedness, and trustworthiness to represent and fight for Mainers in Washington, DC.

Reeves, Katharine Elliot

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would like to do help select the democratic challenger to Susan Collins. I have been incredibly frustrated seeing great candidates in the past lose their Congress against her, and this year would be committed to learning everything I can to make sure I cast my vote for the candidate most likely to win this seat for the Dems. Regardless of whom is ultimately chosen I will throw all of my support behind the nominee in the general election.

Regan, Gail

PORTLAND

I have worked as a volunteer for Hannah Pingree's campaign from signature collection in the winter through canvassing and canvass organizing through the Primary. Previously canvassed for the absentee ballot issue and Harris/Walz. I have the time, energy and interest to continue working for the Democratic Party through November elections

Reinhard, Christina

BRUNSWICK

I am requesting the responsibility of representing my neighbors and clients to choose the Democratic candidate for Maine's senate. During my day job, I assist Mainers to go back to work, and witness their struggles to survive with the new cost-of-living crisis. During my weekend job, I meet retired folks who struggle to keep their housing on a fixed income. I will support a Senate candidate who understands income inequality and intends to do something about it for Mainers. After candidate selection, I will commit my spare time to phone banks and other GOTV activities to educate Mainers about the Democratic candidate and help defeat Susan Collins. I confirm that I am able to attend the Nominating Convention in person in Bangor on July 25 at 9am at the Bangor Cross Insurance Center.

Reinhold, Stephen

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

There is no question

Reis, Eamon

PORTLAND

While I am sure that many delegates will be activists, organizers, or other people highly active in local politics, I believe that having a fair number of "average" people will help boost the legitimacy of this process. Our biggest risk currently is losing turnout due to distrust of this process. To defeat Susan Collins we must convince Democrats of all stripes that this process was done fairly, transparently and with equitable representation. I am dedicated to defeating Susan Collins in November, and am confident we will do so if we remain united. I am a 29 year old husband and father of one amazing toddler. I voted for Platner in the primary and donated a small amount to his campaign, but immediately dropped my support of him after reading the Politico article. I believe that a progressive message is one that can still win, and thus I'm leading towards Troy Jackson as our new nominee (also would be the easiest pivot to make), but I am open to the other candidates as well. If selected as a delegate for Cumberland County I will attend the convention with an open mind and with the considerations and concerns of the people of Maine at the forefront of my thoughts. I give my heartfelt thanks to the people who have agonized over this process for the last few days, and I thank you for your consideration.

Remington, Reese

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to help represent LGBTQ+, Black, and South Portland community members whose voices are too often underrepresented in these spaces. I have remained committed to strengthening democratic participation through my involvement with Maine Young Democrats and as a member of a DEIB committee. This year, I'm excited to shift from working on campaigns professionally to volunteering my time in support of Democrats up and down the ballot. I am especially committed to the effort to unseat Senator Susan Collins and to fighting for reproductive freedom, lowering costs for working Mainers, and protecting our democracy for future generations.

Renault, Catherine S

BRUNSWICK

A lifelong Democrat, my only goal for this election cycle is to defeat Susan Collins. Maine must accomplish this to protect our democracy from further degradation by the Trump Administration, and to ensure that any vacancies on the Supreme Court which occur in the next two years are not filled by judges who would take away our rights. I will do whatever is necessary to attain this goal. I supported Graham Platner from the beginning and believe that he tapped into a deep well of discontent with both parties. To defeat Susan Collins, I believe that we must be true to Graham's message. Whatever comes next as we rebuild from the disaster that is Donald J Trump, it must be better than what was in place before that allowed so many people to be left behind and left out. Our next Senator must be able to articulate the changes required AND translate them into action. He or she must be responsive to and communicate with ALL Mainers, not just a single segment of our community.

Retzer, Matt

PORTLAND

I live and work in Portland with my wife and our three teenagers, who all attend Portland Public Schools. I pay careful attention to national and local news, and while I have Progressive Democratic values (and am a lifelong Democrat), I think for myself about individual issues. I believe many issues are not suited to 2-party politics; I seek to understand both sides, where nuance is needed, and where hyperbole is distorting the public discourse. I believed in what Graham Platner was saying, even as I grew more and more wary of him as an individual: institutionalized increase of wealth inequality, and money in politics, are dramatically skewing society, and hurting our country's ability to put humanist, people-first values at the forefront. I think the kind of pragmatic analyses of candidate statements, speeches and past actions that I can bring, will add value to the selection process. I also have Parkinson's disease, so offer some perspective as a person living with a disability. I also hope to be an example in civic engagement for my kids and their peers. I plan on canvassing against Susan Collins, with friends and family. I will donate money to her opponent's campaign. I will also write an op-ed to the Press Herald in their support. I will continue to stay engaged after the election at the local level and help promote progressive values in my community.

Reynolds, Richard T

FREEPORT

Retire Senator Collins in Nov. 2026 Senator Collins has been in office for 30 years. She has spent most all of that time justifying why she should be reelected to office. For example, she is the now the chairperson of the Senate Appropriations Committee. She has convinced her constituents that because of her position, she alone can "bring home the bacon". I know this because that is the only thing they say when I ask, "What has Susan Collins done for Maine?" The reality is that the Senate Appropriations Committee has to answer to the Senate Budget Committee. And Senator Collins is just doing her bureaucratic job: getting the dozen subcommittees to do theirs'. The Maine voters should be asking: "How can a senator from Maine be in office for 30 years and be passed over for higher office, like George Mitchell had as President of the Senate?" The answer is clear; she has been a rubber-stamping push-over. She always supports any legislation that is critical and makes deals for cover when she must show how tough she is on "critical partisan" issues. For the November 2026 election, the Maine voters need a Democratic Senate Candidate who has proven he or she has experience and is willing to take reasonable risks, not just dodge them, e.g. having already testified before the Senate. That probably means the Candidate is a lawyer. As a professional engineer, this is hard for me to say, but preparation is important.

Ricci, Michelino

NAPLES

I believe the process of selecting the next nominee for US Senate should be based on democratic principles. Democrats and independents in Maine have shown, overwhelmingly, what policies and values matter in this election. I believe the delegates ought to select a nominee that is an extension of these values. To defeat Susan Collins, residents of rural portions of Cumberland County must talk to their neighbors, volunteer their time, and vote blue no matter who. This is what I will do. Grassroots movements don't come out of nowhere. To support the grassroots momentum of the party, we must stand true to the message that mobilized these people, not dictate the message to the mobilized.

Rice, Kelly

FALMOUTH

I am a passionate and dedicated activist and organizer who activated a defunct Facebook Group (indivisible Greater Portland) shortly after Trump's reelection in 2024. I have helped to organize the largest 3 rallies in Maine's history. I am now helping to lead the Lake Region Indivisible and serve on the steering committee for the indivisible statewide coalition. I truly enjoy collaboration and working together to accomplish shared goals and I understand the importance of having to compromise to achieve them. I organized canvassing groups and postcard campaigns for Platner throughout Cumberland county encouraging voters to vote for Platner in the primary. I plan to continue my organizing efforts through canvassing, postcarding, organizing events and speaking at weekly rallies.

Rich, Stephen

WESTBROOK

I would like to serve as a delegate because I am politically involved and would like to help the party select a candidate that is able to defeat Susan Collins. By being involved I'll do my best keep the enthusiasm and interest in this campaign with all the people in my life.

Richards, Denise Sage

RAYMOND

I have been committed to a Senate change since the last voting opportunity. These are historic times and I want to be part of the mechanism that moves us along to a power change in Washington. I have no specific candidate in mind, and I'm very interested in thoughtfully considering all options, with my priority being a candidate who I think can win. My support of change has been primarily in protesting and writing checks at this point. Happy to be a worker for a new candidate.

Richards-Stower, Nancy A

YARMOUTH

My name is Nancy Richards-Stower. I've spent 50 years organizing and volunteering in Democratic campaigns, including for New Hampshire presidential primaries. I grew up in Yarmouth, left for college and returned to my childhood home (as I had always dreamed) for my retirement years. I am an anti-discrimination attorney whose career has been in the trenches, both as the head of an anti-discrimination agency, and for decades as a civil rights litigator for employee rights. Let's be honest: we are flying blind, hoping the convention and its procedures succeed in showing Maine voters that the chosen Democratic candidate deserves their confidence and votes. We need to turn them out. I acknowledge that relying on candidates' self-disclosures after what we just went through leaves us feeling vulnerable. Level heads with "eyes on the prize" will work through this crisis. My five decades in local, county, state, and federal campaigns will benefit the convention's singular task: to select the candidate most likely to beat Susan Collins. When Collins proudly stated that she had "no regrets" about putting Brett Kavanaugh on the Supreme Court, despite his bringing vote 5 to the 5-4 decision to overturn Roe v. Wade, it laid bare her utter cynicism. The convention requires strategic, calm decision-making during what will be a chaotic day. ICE killed a Maine soul Monday. Collins sold hers. I ask for your vote (and ask you to vote for my husband, Unitarian Universalist Rev. Richard M. Stower, my partner in life and social justice).

Richardson, William Jr

BRIDGTON

It is critical to win this election and not make the Senate a rubber stamp for Trump's appointees. Look what happened to the Supreme Court in his first term. Also, his campaign of retribution needs a strong Congress to make him accountable. We need more Democratic senators to uphold the Constitution's system of checks and balances.

Rideout, Susan

FREEPORT

I am proud to support Dr. Shah for his bid to represent me and ALL the people of Maine. What has been most impressive to me in these times of dishonest, frightening and disingenuous politics is his clear and honest approach to the issues we have in the state and in the nation layered over an amazing intellect giving him the ability to not only understand but generate real solutions to real issues in a calm manner. In my view he is the most qualified candidate to become Maine's next Senator.

Riotto, Lin Maria

BRUNSWICK

I have worked as an election clerk, a and a LWV election observer. I have canvassed for the party and registered voters. I am ready to focus my energies on defeating Susan Collins in this upcoming election.

Rioux, Anthony

PORTLAND

The democratic party has lost their way as a nation and for the state of Maine. The next senator should be able to articulate how to reconcile the deep ideological divides in our own state and lead the country by example to do the same. Maine leads. Diego. Return prosperity to the middle class with high tech manufacturing jobs and we will heal our differences.

Robbins, Douglas Rees

POWNAI

I have lived in Maine since 1996. My wife and I live in Pownal. We have three adult children - in Maine, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts, and six grandchildren. I am a Child and Adolescent Psychiatrist, and I was Director of that Program at Maine Medical Center for 20 years and with MaineHealth for another 6 years. I continue to work with patients and teach, and I lead a project to improve the availability of essential mental health and substance abuse services which are endangered by the Trump administration's budget cuts. I feel strongly that we must do much more to support Maine families and children, with an affordable economy, affordable evidence-based health care, excellent public education, and support for the principles that ensure our democracy. Susan Collins has failed Maine and the United States. Replacing her with a Maine Senator who will be a strong voice for an economy that allows all Americans to thrive, and for a fair and impartial Supreme Court, is essential. We are fortunate to have excellent, thoughtful candidates for the Senate. Dr. Nirah Shah will be an unusually clear voice for the values that are currently being challenged.

Robertson, Adam

SCARBOROUGH

I love my neighbors regardless of their political affiliation or any other potential demographic. My wife and I realized our dream of owning a home in Portland in December of last year, solidifying our personal investment in this place. I am applying because I have a deep desire to become involved in local politics and contribute what I can to better the lives of my neighbors both here in Portland and across the State. I am a full-time parent of two (3&1) and I want to offer them the best community I can, which requires my extending myself into the realm of active change. The vitriol, fear mongering, greed and self interest that defines the Republican party's tactics and track record necessitates passionate, motivated and energized opposition. I believe that I can help that effort. I will do whatever I can to assist in Collins' defeat.

Robins, Susanne

PORTLAND

I am a committed Democrat and have been living in the Munjoy Hill area of Portland since 2017. I stay current on all things politics. I am a graduate of Emerge Maine and I ran for a seat in the Maine House in 2022 and won an election in Culver City, CA for school board in 2013. I am a retired teacher and instructional designer and now I work with the League of Women Voters to moderate election forums and volunteer with Food For All, Maine Needs, and Girl Scouts of Maine.

Robins, Terrell S

PORTLAND

I currently serve as the Warden for Precinct 2.2/EXPO center election site. This demonstrates my commitment to a free and fair election process. I am confident that I can bring this same democratic and transparent perspective to the nominating process. I can also offer another unique perspective since I have been directly involved in several different candidate campaigns (school board, State representative) for office. My various election experiences has taught me alot about the unique character of Maine voters. As far as Susan Collins is concerned, I am definitely willing to work on the campaign of the successful nominee, whomever it may be, to defeat Susan Collins in November. Thank you for considering me to participate in this important process.

Robinson, Heather

GORHAM

I am running to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because our party stands at a critical crossroads, and we need a diverse coalition to defeat Susan Collins this November. As an organizer actively energizing the Gorham Democrats, I see firsthand the immense passion at the local level. However, to translate that grassroots momentum into a general election victory, we must expand our tent. I want to be a delegate specifically to ensure that Maine's unenrolled voters have a seat at the table. Unenrolled voters make up a massive, decisive portion of our electorate. To win in November, our platform and our replacement nominee must speak directly to their independent spirit, economic concerns, and desire for accountable leadership. To help defeat Susan Collins, I plan to leverage my work in Gorham to build a robust, localized voter contact operation. We will launch targeted canvassing and phone-banking campaigns specifically designed to reach independent and undecided neighbors. By connecting the party's core values with the practical issues that matter to everyday, non-party-line Mainers, we can build a resilient coalition. We keep our grassroots momentum alive not by looking backward, but by ensuring every voter feels heard in this unprecedented special nomination process. I am ready to bring Gorham's energy to the convention floor and serve as a bridge to the independent voters we need to win.

LGBTQIA+

Rodel, Kevin Patrick

PORTLAND

I am a long time registered Democrat and former Pownal town chair of the Democratic party in the 1980's. I am a self-employed furniture maker for the past forty years with a shop in Brunswick. I currently live in Portland and have two sons that attended Maine colleges and also live and work in Maine. My sons future lies in Maine and I want our state and national governments to be progressive, open and inclusive for them as well as others wishing to live in this great state. I moved to Maine in 1978 and have found it to be the best state to live, work and raise a family in. I will do all I can to make that an option for future generations.

Rogers, Jessica

FREEPORT

I would like to participate as a delegate to help to ensure that we nominate a candidate that will push for the interests of everyday Mainers and Mainers from all backgrounds. My mission is to play an active part in protecting our neighbors, dismantling unjust systems, and working to make Maine a more live-able place for all. I would like to be a part of the delegation process to ensure transparency and that a candidate is nominated who represents the policy that were voted for during the primary. Having been born and raised in Northern Maine, I believe I hold a valueable perspective that will contribute to the conversations that need to take place with voters in order to defeat Susan Collins. I plan to seek out those conversations and advocate for the democratic candidate in any way I can until voting day.

Romani, David

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have been an avid reader of politics and social movements for years. I am a father, pharmacist and concerned American. I have a keen eye for dishonesty and can read people very well. I am quick on my feet and well steeped in debate tactics and styles.

Ronfeldt, Brandon

WESTBROOK

I would like to be a delegate to serve in the process and making sure it's what the voters want. I can help the phone banks or whatever else is required.

Youth

Rooney, Kathleen

GORHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate because I am committed to doing the work needed to defeat Susan Collins. I would be honored to represent Cumberland County at the convention, and I plan to donate and volunteer for our candidate to ensure a victory in November.

Rose, Eben Christopher

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'm an Earth scientist who moved to Maine to teach geology at Bowdoin in 2008. The Great Recession derailed that career and pushed me into activism — I helped lead the South Portland tar sands fight (2012–2014), then served as an elected City Councilor (2015–2018), bringing a scientist's clear-eyed urgency about climate change to local governance. I ran for State Senate in 2020 as our district's only Clean Election candidate and kept hitting the same wall: "Is it economic?" — asked without any real discussion of what "economic" means, functioning mainly to protect scarcity thinking and existing power. So I went back to school, earning an MS in economics from The New School, specializing in federal finance and banking. I learned money isn't scarce at the federal level, and taxes don't fund spending — they're tools for something else entirely. Last year I sailed to Sullivan to meet Platner right after his campaign launched, and found someone who already grasped this. I organized, canvassed, and phone-banked for him across the state. Since February, I've taught science at Long Creek Youth Development Center, trained in restorative justice and de-escalation under Maine's nationally respected corrections model — work that's taught me how real trust and momentum get built, person by person, not just messaged. As a delegate, I want a nominee who's open to this economic clarity — because Mainers deserve a candidate who can say what's actually possible, not just what's "affordable," to beat Collins.

Rose, Geraldine A

PORTLAND

I am interested in becoming a delegate from the county where I live in Cumberland county. I have been involved in the election process for about 7 years as a election worker, then a ward clerk and now I am serving as a warden for the Woodfords neighborhood. I have identified as a Democrat all of my life. I have volunteered as a canvasser during the Biden-Trump election. I am retired and have free time to volunteer to support the Democrat party in defeating Susan Collins.

Rose, Nancy

HARPSWELL

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because the upcoming Senatorial election is of utmost importance to our entire country and it is imperative that we make the best choice possible to replace Graham Platner on the ballot in the short amount of time available. Watching the erosion of federal protections of the environment, civil liberties, health care access, and the separation of church and state has increasingly concerned me over the past ten years, along with the continuing and escalating absurdities being rolled out by the current administration on both domestic and international fronts. These include attacks on public and higher education and research institutions, impinging on States' rights and jurisdictions, alienating and abandoning our allies, and too many more to try to recount. Choosing our replacement candidate is the first, and perhaps most crucial step necessary in ousting Senator Collins from her post. Once our candidate has been chosen I intend to support his or her campaign in as many ways as I am able. This will include working with my local democratic organizations to spread our message, communicating with anyone willing to lend an ear, coordinating efforts with other local groups, and contributing whatever meager financial support I am able to supply. Although new to active participation in the Party beyond casting my ballot, I have long been a student, advocate, teacher, and proponent of democracy and the democratic process. The time has come to more actively defend this crucial American ideal.

Rosen, Clifford

FREEPORT

I am a physician scientist that has been working for 30 years for universal health care and increased NIH funding. I have lived in Maine for 60 years and attended UMO where i was an activist and SDS member. We have to get trump out and the only way to do it is by making a dem seat for Maine in the senate. I have contributed to many dem candidate campaigns and my time forst in Bangor and then Freeport has shaped my politics. I would like to be a delegate to the convention

Rosen, Louise

BRUNSWICK

For nearly 40 years, I've helped mission-driven work succeed by building coalitions — raising funds and distribution deals for films such as Eyes on the Prize and Anne Frank Remembered and stabilizing a national nonprofit through crisis as interim Managing Director of the International Documentary Association. In Maine, I grew the Maine Jewish Film Festival into a six-city statewide institution by partnering with the NAACP, ACLU, refugee services, and Equality Maine. I've served on the boards of the Camden Film Festival and Maine Media Workshops. I was Consulting Executive Director of L/A Arts during a time of transition. These are some of the skills and experience this moment demands. I want to serve as a delegate because Maine has a rare opening: real grassroots energy looking for a candidate who can unite progressives, independents, and disaffected moderates to finally retire Susan Collins. My career has been about mentoring talent, building trust with funders and institutions, and getting complicated projects across the finish line — I want to bring that same rigor to help select a nominee who can win in every county. As Co-President of the Maine Film Association, I already work the advocacy channels that connect artists, small businesses, and civic organizations across the state. I'll put that network, my fundraising experience, and my belief in building durable local infrastructure — not just an election-year sprint — toward electing Democrats up and down the ballot.

Ross, Michael

WESTBROOK

I am a veteran with countrywide and worldwide travels in and out of the military. Those experiences have helped me gain perspective of my and the U.S. place in the world. I am a union tradesman and work chiefly with union men who are MAGA. I think Troy is the best person to defeat Collins this fall because he can win over working class men including men from the second district. This doesn't just gain votes for him but takes those votes away from Collins.

Ross, Susannah

CASCO

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Rowland, John

BAILEY ISLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Roychoudhuri, Onnesha Tao

NEW GLOUCESTER

Democracy does not exist by default; it requires ongoing engagement. The sudden end to Platner's candidacy was destabilizing, but it has only left me more committed to ensuring that we actively select and support a powerful candidate who can fight for the needs of all Mainers. I am a journalist, activist, and teacher in the community and I plan to continue to do the work of knocking on doors, talking to neighbors near and far, and getting out the vote to ensure we defeat Susan Collins.

BIPOC, Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+

Rubin, Richard

BRUNSWICK

I support Dr. Shah for Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator in 2026. Given the exigency of the situation we currently find ourselves in regarding the Senate race, and mindful of how poorly a similar scenario was handled in the 2024 presidential election (and the subsequent results of that election), I believe it is of the utmost importance that ordinary Maine citizens who are not established party operatives have a say in whom the party's nominee will be. As a patriotic American who cares profoundly about preserving and defending our freedoms, I feel it is my duty to serve as a delegate to this unusual convention, and to do my part to make and keep the selection process as inclusive and transparent as possible. I am a lifelong Democrat, and an extremely engaged U.S. and Maine citizen with good communication skills and a great deal of energy.

Russell, Sarah Hildreth

CUMBERLAND

Never in my 25 years living in Maine have I felt such energy in replacing Susan Collins. The candidate to face Collins must convince us that they will be a bold voice of the people, a Senator willing to vote for “radical” change: universal healthcare, affordable housing, increased minimum wage, taxing the wealthy, regulating corporations, reforming the Supreme Court. After all, as Graham Platner often asked, what’s so radical about being able to access healthcare, to afford a home, to make a livable wage, to demand clean water and plastic-free food and to ask that the rich pay taxes just like the rest of us? These are not radical ideas and I want a Senator that will bring this fight of fairness and equality to Washington - fearlessly! I am a mother of 4 kids, a local coach, an active community member and an optimist. For 18 months I have been writing a weekly email to over 600 Mainers offering ways for people to engage in defending our democracy. I co-founded Maine’s first Visibility Brigade. We have messaged on the Lunt Rd. bridge every week for the past 13 months. Last month I became the Vice-Chair of the CMDC (Cumberland Dems) and am looking forward to promoting democratic ideals both locally and state-wide. I do not have a first choice candidate. As a delegate I plan to first listen to YOU, and then find the candidate that will best represent us all, galvanize the movement and beat Senator Collins.

Ruthman, May

YARMOUTH

I am interested in being a delegate because I want to represent the young voters and young demographic. Having recently turned 18, I got to vote in the primary and noticed a lack of young voters. I learned this was due to a lack of knowledge of voting, and me being a delegate can show other younger voters how easy and accessible voting and representing your party can be. This being said, I will campaign and encourage all voters, specially young voters, to vote Blue against Susan Collins. Along with bringing awareness to uneducated people about dangers of her serving another term and how critical the Blue Wave is to our democracy.

Rwaganje, Claude Kanyama Gaja

GORHAM

I am interested in serving as a delegate because I am deeply committed to the wellbeing of this country. As an immigrant, community leader, and organizer, I understand firsthand the importance of ensuring that diverse voices are represented in our political process. I have worked to build bridges between communities and elected officials, including helping organize a gubernatorial candidate forum on behalf of the immigrant community to create meaningful opportunities for dialogue and engagement. That experience reinforced my belief that representation matters and that the people selected to run for office should reflect the communities they seek to serve.

BIPOC

Ryan, Cullen

PORTLAND

I am highly motivated to participate in the democratic process. This is the most important election of my lifetime - Congress cannot continue to enable the Trump Administration to do any more damage. It is time to clean up this mess. I want to support a candidate who will best do that.

Sample, Tim

PORTLAND

I have been a strong supporter of Maine Democratic candidates for decades. I have spoken at fundraisers for many candidates including but not limited to- Ed Muskie, Joe Brennan, George Mitchell, Tom Allen and John Baldacci. I'm convinced that Shenna Bellows is the right candidate to defeat Susan Collins next November!

Samponaro, Nichola

CAPE ELIZABETH

I have spent most of my life committed to supporting Democratic candidates running for office. I have worked and volunteered on over 15 democratic political campaigns and see the midterm elections as the most critical election of my lifetime. We must do everything we can to safeguard our democracy and defeat Trumpism. I will make calls, knock on doors, help with communications and strategy, and fundraiser to help defeat Susan Collins.

LGBTQIA+

Samuelson, Christine Snow Snow

SCARBOROUGH

I have actively volunteered in both the Sarah Gideon campaign and Graham Platners campaign to oust S Collins. I will continue to volunteer and campaign for our next Dem candidate. I am fully committed to the progressive Dem movement in ME having volunteered for Libby Mitchell, Mike Michaud, Janet Mills. I plan to collect signatures for the next nominee and help out in any way possible to maintain the momentum of the Platner campaign. I attended several town hall and other events to promote his agenda and recognize the fire he kindled in ME dems. I will pledge my time and energy to sustain that fire to elect a Dem Senator.

Sanborn, Linda F

GORHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I am passionate about saving our democracy and participating in it. As a retired family physician and former state legislator, I have insight into many of the issues our next US Senator will be facing. I continue to be a public advocate for universal healthcare, affordable childcare and housing, women's rights, and LGBTQ+ rights, as well as social and environmental justice. It is well beyond time to take back our nation from the oligarchs. Our most pressing goal is to unseat Susan Collins. I have not yet decided who the best candidate is. I will seriously consider every aspect of our candidate's character, experience, and shared democratic values. I will work locally with the Gorham and Cumberland County Democrats by attending meetings, knocking on doors, writing LTEs, putting up signs, and hosting fundraisers for Democrat candidates at all levels of government. Now is the time to rise! Now is the time to give everything we've got to restore equality and justice for all.

Sanclemente, Harriet

SCARBOROUGH

I struggled with Graham's past reports of very concerning behaviors. I do believe someone can come home very traumatized and angry after multiple military tours. That isn't an excuse but I do believe he has worked hard to heal. I believe deeply in believing the words of a woman who reveals sexual assault. But in this insane political climate, it is hard to believe there isn't political influence behind revealing these revelations. So here is my position... I feel that Graham overwhelmingly captured what Mainers want to do in the elections. I would treasure an opportunity to listen to the individuals who have thrown their hat in the ring. I am looking to hold to Graham's campaign words in deciding a new delegate. I would love a candidate with a little less rough edges, one not going it ready to attach DT but being potically experienced and committing to win over Susan Collins!!! That would be a death sentence for democrats and the USA!!! I have never participated other than visiting democratic candidates in our area. Please choose me, I feel helpless as a nurse, I care / cared fir an enormous number of People who don't meet "established prioritize and migration assaults

Sandberg, William

FALMOUTH

Since COVID, Dr. Shaw has demonstrated competency and a humble steadfastness. As a Ph.D. psychologist, I appreciate his attention to scientific precision.

Saniuk, Henry

SOUTH PORTLAND

Serving as District 5 Warden in South Portland has given me a front-row seat to what makes our democracy work: neighbors showing up, volunteers giving their time, and voters trusting that their voices will be counted fairly. I care deeply about our election process, and I want to bring that same commitment to the Nominating Convention as a delegate representing our community. I was an early donor to Graham Platner because I believe this is the year we finally retire Susan Collins. Defeating her will take more than enthusiasm. It will take sustained, organized work, and I plan to contribute on multiple fronts: continuing to give financially, volunteering for canvasses and voter registration drives, and using my experience administering elections to help ensure every eligible Mainer can cast a ballot and have it counted. The grassroots momentum we've built in Maine is real, and it grows when we invest in people. I want to help recruit and train new election workers and volunteers, mentor first-time participants in the process, and make sure the energy from this cycle translates into lasting local infrastructure, not just a single November push. As a delegate, I'll show up prepared, listen to fellow Democrats from across the state, and carry our shared values into the convention with the seriousness this moment demands. Maine deserves a senator who answers to Mainers. I'm ready to do the work.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Santora, Ellen

YARMOUTH

As a 30+ year public school teacher, MEA local Vice President, civically engaged community member and mother of four, I believe I can serve as a fair and critical delegate representing the public interests that compelled this grassroots campaign forward. I have canvassed for the Maine Democratic Party and listened to the interests of my town. I am a community organizer bringing together members of surrounding towns to inform, engage, and further the mission of access to healthcare, housing, a livable wage, and new Mainer protections, among other basic human rights. I believe strongly that the momentum that has brought this campaign forward deserves this representation. My attendance at multiple town halls, active engagement with media, and ability to critically engage in the information machine has informed a broad understanding of the constituent I will be representing. I have collected and can recount your voices. At this time, electing progressive representatives to the senate is essential and I want Maine to be part of that shift. Representing as a delegate will be another step in my continued commitment to the movement.

Sargent, Suzanne Eliot

BRUNSWICK

I wish to be in the process of nominating our Democratic Senator.

Saucier, Paul

BRUNSWICK

We can still beat Susan Collins in November. But it will take all of us, unified and working hard for our nominee. We far outpaced the other party in voter turnout during the primary—including a majority of independents who chose the Democratic ballot. If we can keep our momentum and repeat this turnout in November, we win. Regardless of our candidate preference, we all want to beat Susan Collins. If selected as a delegate, I will be listening carefully to the candidates to discern who among them will be most effective at rallying all of us to this common cause. The platform differences among the candidates are minimal. We will get a progressive candidate! What will make the difference is the candidate's ability to rally us all, along with our independent friends and neighbors, to defeat Susan Collins and end the enablement of the most corrupt and inhumane federal administration any of us have ever experienced. I ask for your support, I seek a candidate who can unify us, and I pledge to do everything I can to help elect the nominee who emerges from the state convention. Thank you for considering me!

Sauer, Christopher

PORTLAND

I have been an active Democrat all my life. I have also been a successful engineer and entrepreneur focused on environmental & renewable energy technologies. I have concluded that fundamental changes must be made to move this country forward.

Saunders, Christopher

PORTLAND

As someone who has lived in both rural and urban Maine, I am deeply committed to electing a candidate who will work on behalf of all Mainers. We need to elect a candidate who will work tirelessly to defeat Susan Collins and represent the interests of people across the state. From rural hospitals strapped for cash to city neighborhoods without enough housing, a strong senator can make real improvements to pressing problems, and I am eager to determine that candidate. This fall, I am committed to making phone calls, knocking on doors, and talking to my neighbors—whatever it takes to ensure that we send a Democratic senator to Washington. For the sake of our civil rights, our reproductive freedom, our economic security, it's time to choose a winner who will pursue these priorities.

Saunders, Michelle

HARPSWELL

I would like to be a delegate because this convention is a rare chance for grassroots Democrats to decide who leads our fight against Susan Collins. I want progressive voters in my county to have a real voice in that room. Mainers didn't get to finish the process they started on June 9th. That is a reason to double down on the energy that made this primary exciting in the first place: working people organizing against corporate power, standing up for healthcare as a right, defending reproductive freedom, and demanding real accountability from a Senator who's spent decades voting with her party's leadership when it counted most. I'll go into that convention committed to a nominee who'll fight for Medicare for All, protect union rights and working Mainers, and fight for the rights of marginalized groups. Susan Collins has survived by convincing Mainers she's a moderate. Beating her means offering a clear, unapologetic alternative, not a watered-down version of her positions. I also want to make sure this compressed, high-pressure process stays honest and transparent, and that ordinary Democrats — not just donors and consultants — decide who represents us. As your delegate, I'll vote for the candidate who can actually beat Collins by giving Mainers something worth fighting for.

Saveneli, GERALYN M

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am a lifelong democrat who has been to the Maine Convention one other time. I feel this is the one time we may be able to defeat Susan Collins and I would love to be involved in the process. This is do or die!

Scali, Lisa

PORTLAND

Mainers must defeat Susan Collins by voting her out of office. She has proven that she wholeheartedly supports the corrupt and amoral Trump administration and is therefore just as repugnant. We must elect a Democrat to replace her so that this horror comes to an end, and I want to be part of that process. The recent murder of an innocent man in front of his family has only intensified my commitment to ensure that Susan Collins' reign of enabling comes to an end. She must no longer have the agency to pass laws that: 1) disregard the concerns of Mainers, such as affordable health care and housing, and adequately funded schools; 2) fund the lawless and reprehensible horde of ICE murderers; 3) permit the gutting of the CDC and NIH; and 4) she must no longer have the power to confirm Trump's sycophantic nominees for Cabinet positions and judges. I commit to helping to end her reign by collecting signatures and manning phone banks. I believe in the power of democracy and want to ensure that Mainers use their most precious right to elect a Democrat to the Senate so that the long process of restoring the rule of law to this country can begin.

Scannell, Kevin

NEW GLOUCESTER

The Maine Democratic party has been through a lot this summer. There is an overwhelming sense among the people that their party has not been listening. I have been listening. Both to the party leaders, and to the average voters. I believe I have the ability to make the choice that will not just give us the best chance to replace Susan Collins. In order to defeat Collins, we must be guided by one principal: Who is best qualified to serve ALL of the people of Maine, not just the interests of one group. As a delegate, that will be my north star.

Schaab, Genevieve

SOUTH PORTLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Schaper, MaryEllen

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because it is an unprecedented opportunity to have my voice heard in choosing who will be the party's nominee to defeat Susan Collins. It is absolutely necessary she is not returned to the U.S. Senate, and I intend to support the eventual nominee with my vote and by any other way that I am able. I feel very strongly about my choice to be the nominee, and want the opportunity to support them at the convention.

Scherpbier, Gerben

PORTLAND

I'm interested in serving as a delegate because this is such a consequential elections for Maine and for the country. I see defeating Susan Collins as one of the clearest ways to check Trump and the Republicans in Congress, and I want to help make sure our party nominates the strongest possible candidate to do it. I work in the outdoor access and conservation nonprofit field, and I've spent my career so far between federal government, state government, and the nonprofit sector. I studied public policy and care deeply effective government, and I see this convention as a genuinely historic opportunity to help shape that outcome. I am not committed or decided on a candidate. I'm approaching this convention with an open mind, ready to listen to the arguments for each contender and support whoever gives us the best shot at winning in November. During the primaries, I canvassed, made phone calls, fundraised, and donated to Democratic candidates, and I'll keep doing all of that through the general election.

Schick, Sam

FALMOUTH

I believe a political party is not a machine, but a promise. A promise that ordinary people, acting together, can still bend our government toward justice. I want to serve as a delegate because keeping that promise begins with choosing the right nominee: an advocate with the passion to fight for our platform, the skill to win the argument, and the courage to keep widening the circle of liberty, dignity, and opportunity until it includes every resident, from their healthcare, to their schools, to any promise of a future. Susan Collins has made an art of the furrowed brow, troubled by the judges she confirmed, dismayed by the tax giveaways she passed, concerned about the movement she has consistently enabled. Her faux concern is a posture; courage is a choice. Maine and our country cannot afford six more years of a senator who would have us mistake one for the other. I want to volunteer my communications experience (in politics, business, journalism) to sharpening our message, and my body to the ground game: knocking on doors, making calls, writing letters, planting signs in every corner of this state until November. Elections are not won in ads, but at kitchen tables and mill towns and fishing wharves, one honest conversation at a time. That is how grassroots movements grow: not by waiting for a savior, but by being the neighbors who show up. I am asking to serve because I intend to show up, at the convention, and every day after.

Schiff, Bhramari Sengupta

CUMBERLAND

I will support Troy Jackson at this caucus, because he is Maine's best chance at defeating Susan Collins. Troy is a true working-class Mainer who has fought for the working class and rural communities well before he was involved in electoral politics. Beyond that, independent polling indicates that Troy has the most favorable outlook compared. I look forward to voting out the woman who is responsible for the fall of Roe v. Wade by voting for a man endorsed by the nurse's union.

Schklair, Barry E

CAPE ELIZABETH

I am eager to serve our Cumberland County community and the people of Maine as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. Now is the time to come to the aid of our country. Always a Democrat, I've voted in every election since 1972. I have experienced America through the Cuban Missile Crisis, the Vietnam War, the assassinations of JFK, MLK, and RFK, 9/11, and the pandemic. Never have I felt that the country was more in need of courageous, competent leaders with integrity than at this moment. As a practicing bankruptcy attorney, I represented thousands of Mainers, in all walks of life: seniors struggling to live on Social Security; middle-class people who through unemployment or health issues faced home foreclosure; farmers and fishermen seeking to maintain their way of life; and small business owners trying to recover from a recession. I can speak to the grassroots of our state. I plan to aid the Democratic Party, and the nominee, by speaking to Mainers about the importance of electing a Senator whose policies will impact the most important issues of the day, including affordability, jobs, healthcare, integrity in government, and keeping our democracy. I will explain the urgency of the Senate election, the need to vote Democratic and ask them to encourage their relatives, friends, and neighbors to do the same. Becoming a delegate is an opportunity to help Maine and our country in a time of great need. I am ready, willing, and able.

Schmidt, William Walter

POWNALE

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Scholomiti, Virginia

HARPSWELL

I have been active in working to defeat Susan Collins throughout the past 10 months. It is so incredibly important to get a Dem into the Senate this November. We must win, there may never be another opportunity to stop the current admin from its current path. I donated money, knocked on over 100 doors, participated in organizing meetings, and have joined others in the grass roots movement that got the highest turnout for a Dem primary ever! I am a co-leader of Harpswell Indivisible and want to participate in the process of choosing a candidate that will take the momentum we built and run with it. A progressive platform is essential. Thanks!

Schools, Katie

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Youth

Schreiber, Charles

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am fully invested in putting forth the best candidate to represent the people of Maine. I believe if we choose the candidate most committed to serving the interests of all citizens across this state, no matter who they are how they got here. We need a candidate that ready and able that can inspire those who feel betrayed by the trajectory of platners campaign. We need a clean slate with a powerful message of equality, equity, and inclusion. W need a strong leader willing to fight this administration tooth and nail for the citizens of this state. We need a candidate that can't be shaken by the tricks played by the opposition. We need a candidate prepared to excoriate the republicans who've been tearing our constitution to shreds handing our democracy to a fascist dictator. I pledge to use my voice, my spare time, and my many talents to collaborate with the chosen nominee even they are not my preferred candidate. I am fierce defender of human rights. I am an anti-racist. I am a fierce defender of queer and trans rights. This is the coat I wear everyday. This is what I lead with. This person I've been since I was a child. Everyone who knows me knows this about me. I am fully versed in the mechanics of white supremacy. I am fully committed to removing it from our body politic. I will champion the candidate who most represents these values. I am hopeful that those of

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Schroeder, Rebecca Ann

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Democrat with a strong vested interest in representing the state of Maine in the upcoming Convention. Maine is a state I have adopted and loved for the last 25 years. I have worked, served my community, worshiped, played host to visitors, and most importantly have voted in every local and state election. My political sway is based on justice, fairness, balancing economic realities and welcoming those who choose this state as their own. As I move towards retirement as a nurse, nurse practitioner, and faculty member at USM, I have become deeply concerned with the tone and direction of this country and its effect on this state. I now have the commitment, time, and energy to take on community service that can shift minds and motivate others towards political action. I respectfully request to be a delegate for Nirav Shah because of his proven, steady leadership, his public health background and progressive yet sensible platform. Dr. Shah has the grassroots momentum and widespread appeal to defeat Susan Collins in November.

Schuchman, Ilene Michele

CAPE ELIZABETH

After the recent devastating revelations, and nationwide political upsets, it's clear that Mainers and Americans at large have lost faith in political institutions. To restore trust and change the tide, it's essential we win in November. To do that, we need a candidate with both an inspiring progressive message that will captivate not just the base, but a broad swathe of Mainers, as well as a candidate who is steady, seasoned and thoroughly vetted. Our current Senator enabled the situation where average Americans suffer economically, our freedom of speech is eroding, ICE roams our streets, and we now appear to be engaged in yet another forever war. The right person can draw Mainers to the polls to defeat her without divisive messaging that might keep voters away. As a delegate, I will forward that positive messaging with enthusiasm and joy, until and after they are elected. While Collins has enabled Trump's agenda via her votes for Kavanaugh, RFK Jr., and Noem, our next Maine Senator will build consensus to combat this apocalyptic direction and take our country into a more hopeful direction where everyday Mainers and Americans can expect to have an equal say in the direction of the country and to reap the economic benefits of American industry, where being "America First" doesn't mean recklessly exercising our military might or ignoring our responsibility to aid those in distress. The future of our country is at stake. I will help the nominee any way I can to ensure this change.

Schumacher, Linda

PORTLAND

I am running to be a delegate because I think Nirva Shah has the best combination of education and experience to defeat Susan Collins and win the election. I think it is important to participate in the democratic process and look forward to attending the convention and carrying out my duties as a delegate. Regardless of who is nominated, I will work locally to do whatever is necessary (eg. canvass) to ensure the nominee defeats Collins.

Scola, Sarah Elizabeth

PORTLAND

I love this state, and I believe deeply in the democratic process. Throughout my career and my life, I have been guided by the principles of courage, integrity, and service. I believe effective leadership begins with listening, acting with honesty, and making thoughtful decisions that put people first. Serving as a delegate would be a tremendous honor. I would welcome the opportunity to represent the people of Cumberland County, and help ensure their voices are heard. I would approach this responsibility with humility, a collaborative spirit, and a commitment to engaging respectfully with those who hold differing perspectives. If selected, I will represent Cumberland County with integrity, dedication, and respect, always keeping the interests of the people and the values of our state and our democracy at the forefront.

Scott, Elaine L

PORTLAND

I enthusiastically support Dr. Nirav Shah as the democratic candidate for US Senate. I believe he is the right person at this moment to represent the State of Maine in the U.S. Senate. He is someone who will bring people together from both sides of the aisle and will be able to get things done. I admire his modesty, intellect and desire to do the right thing. I became a fan of his during Covid, when he led us through a difficult time with his daily communications and updates.

Scott, Mary Alice Alice

PORTLAND

To borrow a sports metaphor, recent candidates for the Democratic Party have had a series of "own goals," or unforced errors. From Joe Biden's late exit to Graham Platner's unraveling, voters have had little choice in who represents them in big races. I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because we need to have a real conversation, as a community, about how to move forward from these unforced errors. I want to hear about the values and priorities that our community can coalesce behind, and which candidates can best speak to the moment. I have two young daughters, including a three year old who loves her Bluey pajamas, just like Johan Sebastian's young child. I am worried for their safety, and I am worried for their economic and reproductive futures. While the momentum has shifted over the last few weeks, I actually think this convention is an exciting opportunity to engage folks who were enthusiastic about Platner's message, but not about him as a candidate. No vote should be taken for granted, and no vote should be considered lost. A new community will need to carry forward the energy of the Platner campaign, and I feel called to participate and engage more deeply.

Seavey, Michael

PORTLAND

Troy Jackson combines understanding the challenges of working people with experience of legislative processes. Having won elections in the second district, he is the best candidate to defeat Susan Collins.

Sedlack, William Dempsey

SCARBOROUGH

I believe that my previous experience in Maine politics as political director for Maine Conservation Voters combined with my current experience as the executive director of a regional non-profit give me a unique perspective on that voters are experience in my county and how it interplays with Maine politics. I'm also a proud appointed member of the Scarborough Planning Board and enjoy public service. I have insight into the strengths and weaknesses of almost all of the pledged nominees and can use that experience to make an informed choice.

Selberg, Anne

YARMOUTH

I'm feeling the call to help Maine defeat Susan Collins! I'm a retired licensed mental health counselor. I didn't vote for Platner because of his red flags, but I understand the complexity of the situation and the need for Maine voters to be heard on this historic vote. I would be honored to take part in any way. If you don't choose me for a delegate, let me know how I can help to make the voters of Maine proud in November! I have great communications skills, understand the issues & the passion all around. Let's defeat Susan Collins once and for all!

Selser, Evelyn

SOUTH PORTLAND

My name is Evelyn Selser, a 23 year old Democrat from South Portland Maine. I do not take this candidate decision lightly. Our Nation and State are in a crisis. A crisis fueled by Collins, Trump, the Republican Party, deep rooted systemic issues which have long been ignored, and those members of our party who are not taking this fight seriously. Defeating Collins in November and building a better Democratic Party that works for all, has been a top priority for most of my life. I have volunteered for Maine Democrats, beginning in my sophomore year at South Portland high school. After the convention, I will canvas and phonebank for democratic candidates across the state. I have trained a number of my friends in phonebanking and Canvassing, and I will continue to expand our grassroots network and encourage others to get involved. If selected I pledge to thoroughly research all the candidates and cast a vote that takes into account the values of Cumberland County Democrats and Democratic aligned individuals. I will engage in conversation with the people of Cumberland County, and make sure their voices are represented at the convention. I am committed to selecting a candidate who isn't scared of a fight, will make the Democratic Party better and will defend Maine, our planet, and those targeted by Trump. I am fortunate to have minimal obligations this upcoming week, and have the time and energy to put in the work to select our next Senator!

Senkbeil, Donna

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'd like to be a delegate to nominate the new Democratic candidate for the Maine US Senate because I strongly believe that Democrats need to return to their working class roots and clearly be able to distinguish themselves from Republicans. All my adult life, from Reagan on, I've witnessed the Republican Party divide people who work for a living against each other by exploiting race, class and gender differences and thus pull the political center steadily to the right to the point that we are about to lose our democracy and our middle class. Collins has been a key player in this manipulation and we need a candidate who can expose her as a master manipulator, who occasionally sounds "moderate" on issues but is always there when Trump and his GOP minions really need her vote. Dem's need to help Mainers understand they're like Charlie Brown and Collins like Lucy - she will always pull the football, just like she did with her Kavanaugh vote, and leave us on our backs crying “aaargh, not again”! I will personally do everything I can to support our nominee and defeat her in November, financially to the extent I can and as a volunteer for the campaign.

LGBTQIA+

Sevigny, Cynthia

PORTLAND

I am a retired nurse. In addition, I have a BS in Business Admin, Finance. I have spent the majority of my nursing career caring for the elderly in Long Term Care Facilities. I am applying to be a delegate from Cumberland County at the Democratic Convention on July 25, 2026. I believe it is important that the democratic candidate for the Senate represent the beliefs of the residents of Cumberland County and the State of Maine. I believe the candidate must stand up for healthcare; the environment; affordable housing; women’s rights; women’s right to choose over their bodies; re-building international relationships; and other important issues. In addition, the candidate must prove they can work as part of a team on both sides of the aisle.. The candidate needs to be strong enough and able to clearly articulate how they will work for the American People not the Billionaires. They need to make sure the residents of the State of Maine understand that Susan Collins supported Trump and his administration as they spent our tax dollars on vacations/ trips, food, personal parties, purchase of airplanes; damaged the economy, to the environment; supported the loss of women’s rights over their bodies, supported the billionaires while the American People suffered and ICE with their violent practices and other violations of the Constitution I want to be part of the decision process to choose this person who will defeat Susan Collins.

Sevigny, Elizabeth Can Hui

PORTLAND

As a 2026 State Convention delegate and an involved community member, I feel the responsibility to participate in the nomination for the future senator of Maine. With many critical issues facing our community, we need loud and connected voices to build consensus for our shared future. As a long-long POC and trans Mainer, I'm compelled to represent and vote for the future I want my communities to thrive in. I've devoted much of my life as a volunteer for a variety of causes that support Mainers and feel this is another way to give back through civic engagement. As a delegate, I will engage my community, reminding them to making voting plans and providing information about the nominated candidate. I will work within the communities for which I belong to increase informed voter turn out among young folks and POC. I will do my best to volunteer for our nominated candidate and will encourage donations and support among my peers.

BIPOC, LGBTQIA+

Sevigny, Elizabeth Can Hui

PORTLAND

As a 2026 State Convention delegate and an involved community member, I feel the responsibility to participate in the nomination for the future senator of Maine. With many critical issues facing our community, we need loud and connected voices to build consensus for our shared future. As a long-long POC and trans Mainer, I'm compelled to represent and vote for the future I want my communities to thrive in. I've devoted much of my life as a volunteer for a variety of causes that support Mainers and feel this is another way to give back through civic engagement. As a delegate, I will engage my community, reminding them to making voting plans and providing information about the nominated candidate. I will work within the communities for which I belong to increase informed voter turn out among young folks and POC. I will do my best to volunteer for our nominated candidate and will encourage donations and support among my peers.

BIPOC, LGBTQIA+, Youth

Seymour, Richard

BRUNSWICK

Shaffer, Mark

FALMOUTH

I would like to be a delegate because this election will determine the balance of the senate and we have to make sure we pick the strongest candidate. It's a very tough decision we have to make because we have to make sure we pick someone who keeps the movement that got Graham the nomination involved, but is viable in a general election. I plan to canvass a ton for whoever the nominee is. I've been canvassing in every election since 2016 and plan on keeping going. I'm willing to do whatever it takes.

Shah, Nirav

BRUNSWICK

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Shah, Smit

PORTLAND

I want Troy Jackson to win

Shahan, Cyrus

PORTLAND

I want to make sure the person opposing Dusan Collins best represents the needs of my community and communities across Maine. I want to make sure we nominate a candidate for senate who has clear, established positions of equity with regards to racial, economic, ethnic and gender, and who has already advocated for Wabanaki sovereignty.

Shannon, Camilla Campbell

YARMOUTH

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. We need to restore faith in government by establishing and/or improving policies, including universal healthcare, progressive taxation, and access to high-quality childcare, that help everyday people not just survive, but thrive. We also need to stand up to Trump. We can no longer have a senator, like Susan Collins, who voted in favor of funding ICE. Mainers lives are on the line. Nirav Shah is the person for this job. He has the intelligence, character, and experience to do the hard work ahead. He has also already built a successful campaign around the state. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Shannon, Timothy Robert

YARMOUTH

As a lawyer and long-time activist, I know that the Trump Administration is an existential threat to America -- not only making disastrous policy choices, worsening wealth inequality, gutting health care and education, harming Mainers, and damaging our environment, but also undermining our governmental institutions and democracy itself. Susan Collins has enabled this disaster for too long. I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee, to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Shapiro, David

FALMOUTH

My primary desire is to help put forth the most qualified candidate to represent our great state. I am open minded about who that shall be. I am an educator with many years of experience and education, healthcare making Maine affordable for us now and in the future our issues important to me. Also a fierce thoughtful and kind person needs to be appointed. I welcome the opportunity to help in this process

Sharpless, Kathryn Elaine

YARMOUTH

NO ICE. NO KINGS. NO COLLINS. That is my protest sign. I am Vice Chair of the Yarmouth Democratic Committee. I was raised with the values of justice, integrity, and skepticism, by parents who met in the Peace Corps. As an obstetrician-gynecologist and mother of two kids in high school, I am dedicated to protecting the reproductive rights of pregnancy-capable people. My advocacy at the state-level helped pass Maine's law expanding access to abortion in 2023. Health care is a human right, full stop. Elect me as a delegate to the Nominating Committee because I am committed to serving the great state of Maine to help defeat Collins and take back Senate control for the Democrats. I feel the energy, excitement, disgust and anger that we will channel toward transforming our country. We, as Democrats, need to fight for what we believe in – reducing the burden and injustice of wealth disparity, supporting science and research, ending senseless wars, stopping genocides, reforming campaign finance laws, and preparing for climate change. Together, we can push back against the current administration that is terrorizing our neighborhoods and destroying our democracy. I plan to support Dems up and down the ballot by doing what I do every year: sending mailers, putting up street signs, going door-to-door, standing in protest, and helping Dems win elections at every level. Vote for me as a delegate to represent the Dem values we share and, together, we will choose our next US Senator nominee.

Shattuck-Heidorn, Charles

PORTLAND

I am applying to serve as a Democratic delegate because I believe our party is strongest when it reflects the voices and experiences of working people, small business owners, and community leaders alike. Throughout my career, I have had the opportunity to see Maine from several perspectives that are often viewed as separate but, in reality, share many of the same goals. For 18 years, I worked as a union train conductor, where I learned the importance of organized labor, workplace safety, and standing up for the people who keep our communities and economy moving. Today, as a small business owner, I understand the challenges of creating jobs, managing rising costs, and building a successful business that serves local families. As an elected board member of the Portland Water District, I have also gained valuable experience in public service, responsible governance, and making thoughtful decisions that balance fiscal responsibility with the public good. These experiences have taught me that the best solutions come from listening, finding common ground, and making practical decisions that improve people's lives. I believe Maine Democrats are looking for leaders who value integrity, respect differing viewpoints, and remain focused on affordable housing, strong public education, reliable infrastructure, environmental stewardship, accessible healthcare, and an economy that works for everyone. As a delegate, I will represent our community with an open mind, a collaborative spirit, and a commitment to ensuring that Maine's Democratic Party continues to reflect the values and priorities of the people it serves.

Shaughnessy, Malory Otteson

WESTBROOK

I am submitting this a second time as this is so important to me and I fear there was an error in my submission. I am seeking to be a delegate to the convention. The movement that was sparked by Graham Platner's campaign is bigger than any one person, and about far more than simple charisma. It is about foundational change to the way we do politics as usual. It is about pushing back against the encroaching oligarchy taking over our country. It is about affirming each one of us is important to the whole, and that together we can not only be heard, but can win. If chosen as a delegate to the convention, I vow to listen to all of the candidates and engage with the other delegates to vote for the person that will carry that movement forward. Once we have chosen a new candidate, I will work hard to make sure that person beats Collins in November! We must. Having served as a Cumberland County Commissioner representing both rural and urban areas, spent years working as a mental health advocate in Augusta and now serving as an elected Trustee to the Portland Water District representing Westbrook, I have shown myself to be a strong progressive willing to step up and fight for change. The time is now. We carry the torch!

Shaw, Barbara

FALMOUTH

My name is Barbara Shaw and I want to send Susan Collins packing and replace her with someone who will represent the needs and values of Mainers. I have voted Democrat my whole life but have not been involved very much with party organization. I am active with election integrity efforts and have volunteered for many years as a poll watcher and election volunteer assisting voters in Maine and other states with voting questions. As a retired healthcare lawyer I am focused on the incredible damage Susan Collins has inflicted on our public health system with her vote for RFK Jr and her vote for Brett Kavanaugh which has eviscerated women's autonomy and sent us back decades in our fight for reproductive rights. I helped to establish in 2017 Healthcare Advocates of Maine, a group of 450 healthcare professionals across Maine, who are giving voice from the frontlines about the critical problems of healthcare in our state and advocating for state and national solutions. I believe health care is a right that should be guaranteed and affordable for all. I want to see our state welcome new Mainers and make this a safe and productive environment for them. I want to see the rule of law persist which means our next Senator has to work tirelessly to hold this corrupt administration and lawmakers accountable. Susan Collins is complicit in everything Trump has unleashed. It is long past time to hold her accountable for her harmful and cowardly actions.

Shaw, Connor Timothy

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe meaningful political change starts with people getting involved at the grassroots level. As a young Mainer, I want to contribute my time and energy to helping our party build a stronger future and ensuring our communities have a voice in the decisions that shape our state. My commitment to civic engagement comes from experiences like canvassing for Elizabeth Warren's campaign in 2020, where I saw firsthand the importance of listening to voters and building support through conversations with neighbors. I have continued to closely follow issues affecting Maine and our country, and I am excited for the opportunity to become more engaged in our political process. My background in economics, political science, and data analytics has given me an appreciation for evidence-based policymaking and understanding the experiences of everyday people. I want to help select a nominee who reflects the values voted for in the primary, can bring Mainers together, advocate for working families, and defeat Susan Collins in November. I plan to support our nominee through voter outreach, community conversations, and using my skills to support data-driven organizing efforts. I believe winning elections requires more than a strong candidate; it requires thousands of people building relationships, having open conversations, and showing up consistently for their neighbors. I hope to continue building the grassroots momentum within our party by encouraging more Mainers, especially younger voters like me, to participate in our democracy.

Youth

Shaw, Matthew

BRUNSWICK

I am just an average Mainer, who has been disgusted with the way our state has been represented at the federal level. I was born in Fort Fairfield, Maine but I grew up in Florida in the 80s. I moved back to Maine in the early 90s. I watched as we lost Loring Air Force Base, numerous paper mill closings, our Healthcare system get decimated, and taxes rise. I saw small businesses crumble and recession after recession hit hard working Mainers. That's why I will vote for Troy Jackson, who stands with Mainers.

Shawver, Kristin

NORTH YARMOUTH

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I believe nominating Troy Jackson gives Democrats the best chance of defeating Susan Collins in November and also builds on the grassroots progressive movement that has been built so far.

Shedlarski, Ava

NEW GLOUCESTER

As a woman, and a recently graduated high school student from New Gloucester, nothing is more important to me than using my knowledge, passion, and unique perspective in advocating for my community. Equality, access to healthcare, reproductive rights, the upholding of the Constitution, and the basic human right to dignity as well as safety, all stand as examples of target ethical principles I promote. As the United States currently faces existential threats to these values, Maine will play a critical role in flipping the Senate. I wish to serve as a delegate to aid in selecting and supporting a strong Democratic candidate. To help defeat Susan Collins, I will continue to volunteer my time to mobilize efforts through educational outreach. For example, I have recently founded a Democratic youth advocacy group called GNG Youth Democrats. I also have experience in canvassing and phone banking that I plan to apply to local committees. I plan to promote education on universal healthcare, the importance of reproductive rights, environmental conservation efforts, and many more important issues that affect Mainers. In order to aid the Democratic grass roots momentum, I will take advantage of my participation in the Democracy Summer Youth Program to help assist the Democratic nominee to win the election. Mobilizing the youth is one of the most impactful ways to make a difference now, and I am uniquely positioned to do so. I bring education, experience, and a fresh perspective that can prove helpful in gaining voter participation.

Youth

Shedlock, Jason James

SOUTH PORTLAND

My name is Jason Shedlock. I'm an Organizer and officer with the Laborers' Union. I'm President of Maine's Building Trades Unions and the Southern Maine Labor Council. I'm also an Executive Board member of the AFL-CIO. Altogether, I've been elected to represent tens of thousands of workers across Maine. I was also President of the Board at First Parish Unitarian Universalist Church and Vice President of the Maine Immigrant Rights Coalition. I am also the Democratic nominee to represent thousands more in South Portland at the State House. I ask for your support as a Delegate so that I can amplify our powerful, collective voice in this nominating process. I know many of us are angry, disappointed, and frustrated. I am too. I also know that we can let politics control us, or we can take control of the politics. To do that, we need to engage widely so that everyone's voices can not only be heard, but listened to and shared accordingly. Because regardless of who we supported in the primary, there is one thing we can all agree on: Susan Collins must go. This was true a week ago, a year ago, and long before any candidate declared in this race. That hasn't changed, nor should our resolve to achieve our goal. If we welcome, encourage and enable participation from all corners of our party and beyond, we can emerge battle tested and unified for the challenge ahead. Now let's get to work.

Shende, Hillary C

BRUNSWICK

The only thing that has ever historically beaten back fascism, other than war, is the enactment of boldly progressive policies that materially improve citizens' lives. I would like to serve as a delegate at the convention to help ensure that our nominee will run on a boldly progressive platform so that we can win and remove our fascist enabling senator once and for all! I will do everything in my power - knock doors, phone bank, donate money, you name it - to ensuring this result!

Shepherd, Marshall

HARPSWELL

I am asking to serve as a delegate because I believe strong communities are built by the people willing to show up for them, and I have spent my life trying to be one of those people. I was born and raised in Maine. I left for college and came right back, because there is nowhere I would rather raise my three children or invest my time. By day I am a managing partner at Wild Oats Bakery in Brunswick, a family business that has fed and employed this community for years. Outside of that, most of my time goes to local nonprofits. I chair the Brunswick Community Education Foundation, which supports our public schools, and I serve as policy chair for the Brunswick Downtown Association, helping our small businesses and downtown thrive. I sit on the finance committee of the Harpswell Anchor, our local nonprofit newspaper, and I chair the board of SAFE Maine, a fund that protects access to reproductive care. My family has also welcomed teenagers into our home when they had nowhere else to go. This work is how I understand what our neighbors actually need. Susan Collins has lost touch with that Maine. She says the right things when the cameras are on, then votes with the people working against the schools, rights, and families I care about. I am ready to help retire her. As a delegate, I will put my community networks to work, host gatherings that bring people off the sidelines, and

Shepherd, Rebecca A

BRUNSWICK

For nearly forty years, I have poured my heart and soul into my community. As the founder and owner of Wild Oats Bakery in Brunswick, I have spent my life feeding neighbors, hiring local young people, and building a business rooted in the belief that we take care of each other. That same belief is why I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. I have been a lifelong Democrat and a proud volunteer, and I have watched Susan Collins tell Maine one thing at home and vote another way in Washington. I'm exhausted by her "concerned" and weak leadership and her blatantly partisan voting. Our state deserves a senator who actually stands with working families, small businesses, and the people I see across my counter every single day. It's time to retire her. I will put my bakery and community connections to work. I will host fundraising events and gatherings that bring people together, raise the money our nominee needs, and turn everyday conversations into real momentum.

Nothing organizes people like good food and a shared purpose. I believe grassroots energy is our greatest strength. I want to help keep it growing by reminding people of their agency and that real change starts right here at home. Serving as a delegate would let me stand up for the Maine I love and the future I want for my children, grandchildren and community.

Sherin, Nancy J

BRUNSWICK

For the past several months, I have volunteered with the Graham Platner campaign, knocking on doors and talking to people about issues that matter most to them. These conversations have given me a deeper understanding of the concerns, hopes, and priorities of Maine voters I believe I could represent those voices thoughtfully and faithfully at the convention.

Sherry, Samuel M

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would like to serve as a delegate to help ensure that Cumberland County supports a candidate for US Senate who: > Is ready, willing and able to spend the next six-plus years standing up for all Mainers and all Americans; > Is ready, willing and able to spend the next four months running the gauntlet of the election process; > Has the vision, skill and patience to work in the Senate to help all Americans to come together and do the work our country needs; and > Has the vision and will to inspire Democrats, all voters, all citizens and all residents to do the hard work that successful representative democracy requires It's not easy, but it starts with those goals.

Shertzer, RBoots

PORTLAND

I am deeply committed to defeating " I'm concerned" Susan Collins she continues to support an agenda that is proving tragic for Mainers I am behind a candidate that supports health care, housing , jobs economic and job growth, the rights of all marginalized folks working people that have made Maine what it is from farmer to nurse to welder to women LGBTQIA to newly arrived future mainer to those that have been here for millennia . I am against policies impacting our rights stomping on our futures for the 1%

LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion

Shetzline, Ryan

PORTLAND

I'm a community member in Maine who is voting for the not just my own interest but for those who can't vote or make it to the poles because life is so damn hard right now. also, I'll vote to get Susan out!!

Shifrin, Eli

BRUNSWICK

I would like to serve as a delegate because I bring a unique and valuable perspective to the nominating committee as a young Mainer from Weld who moved to Brunswick to go to College. As a young Mainer who has been bouncing between Brunswick, Bethel, Weld, and Long Island ME this summer I believe I have a well-rounded view of both districts of the state and the different people in it. Additionally, studying environmental science in Maine I value of the legacy of Muskie's environmental work and the state's national leadership in fighting climate change.

Shinkman, Sarah

BRUNSWICK

I was born and raised in Maine, lived in DC for 12 years after college, and returned home 6 years ago to raise my kids. My work is in patient advocacy - I've spent many years fighting for meaningful health care for people with complex medical needs, including when the ACA was signed into law. I am the parent of a child with cerebral palsy and epilepsy and without access to MaineCare, we would be in major medical debt. I am also the product of 3 generations of farmers in Freeport - several of my family members hold blue collar jobs and work in education. My husband and I have good jobs, yet still struggle to afford the cost of living for our family of 5. I have long been an advocate for people who are homeless and food insecure, as an AmeriCorps volunteer for 2 years, and now as a concerned citizen fighting to help my neighbors meet basic needs. I am determined to leave a bright future for my 3 children by investing our community, state, and nation, and I cannot sit by and let Susan Collins continue to make decisions that are negatively affecting my home state.

Shorty, Miranda

NAPLES

As a lifelong resident of Maine, a mother, a teacher, and a proud participant in civic duties, I would like to be considered for the role of delegate. I have been a registered Democrat for decades, and I care very deeply about how decisions impact the people of Maine. I want my children to grow up in the state I have come to love, and I want the representatives of Maine to reflect the needs and values of Mainers. I teach Humanities courses, and I am excited for the opportunity to participate in the civic duties I teach young Mainers about every day. I want to be able to show my children and my students that educating yourself about community, state, and national governance is not futile. Your knowledge becomes your strongest tool.

Shumwah, Bryan John

SCARBOROUGH

I have been an active supporter of Democratic candidates and would like my voice heard in the selection process.

Shunk, Joshua

PORTLAND

I would like to be a maine state delegate because I am a 24 year old young democrat and represent many values held by young voters. I am a high school teacher at Lewiston high school and am interested in involvement in the political establishment, as I can then use my experience to educate students about the political systems in place for our state. I was a supporter of graham platner before the accusations and am interested in helping the state of maine chose a candidate who can defeat Susan Collin's in the state election.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Shuttleworth, Andrew Wilkins

WESTBROOK

I was born in Portland, raised in Ellsworth and Portland, and I've been at this a while. As a child I held signs in the rain at Woodford's Corner with my father for Tom Andrews. My first time canvassing was in Lewiston in 1996 for Joe Brennan, trying to stave off the reign of Collins in the first place. That same year I was vice president of the Young Democrats of Portland High School (you're welcome for your reelection, Bill Clinton). Thirty years later I walked literal marathons knocking on doors as part of a campaign that built maybe the largest volunteer operation in Maine history. I'm not willing to let that energy die. That's why I want to be a delegate: to be part of a roomful of Mainers choosing a nominee who can finally take the seat Collins has had since she beat Joe Brennan for it. It would be a joy to stand among my fellow right-thinking Mainers for something this hopeful and historic.

Siano, Joel M

BRUNSWICK

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe the strongest Democratic Party is built from the ground up. I have been actively involved in the political process for many years, including extensive phone banking and canvassing for Bernie Sanders' 2016 campaign, and I remain committed to electing Democratic candidates who will fight for working people. As a working-class Mainer employed in the public school system, I see firsthand the challenges facing our communities. I understand the concerns of working families, educators, students, and retirees because I live them every day. I believe I represent a broad cross-section of Mainers and can bring those voices to the convention. To help defeat Susan Collins in November, I will continue doing what I have always done: talking to voters, canvassing, phone banking, recruiting volunteers, and encouraging people to stay engaged. Winning will require authentic conversations, strong local organizing, and reaching voters in every corner of our state. Beyond this election, I want to help build lasting grassroots momentum by welcoming new volunteers, strengthening local Democratic organizations, and encouraging more working people to get involved. Our party is strongest when it reflects the experiences of everyday Mainers, and I am committed to helping build a Democratic Party that listens, organizes, and delivers for the people it serves.

Siavelis, Rita Laura

PORTLAND

I was a Graham Platner supporter. I believed in the message he presented. I felt it was a message that could defeat Susan Collins. I want to ensure that the chosen candidate also endorses similar positions for the win. I thought I knew who I would vote for if I was on the nominating committee, but after reading their profile I am open to learning more about each of them. Whoever is elected I will support the nominee by volunteering, donating, talking to everyone I know and by voting. I appreciate how hard you are working on making this process fair and transparent.

Sibinga, Tyche

PORTLAND

I was an active Data Team volunteer for Platner's campaign and was inspired by his progressive vision for Maine. I want to be a voice for this platform in the Democratic Party, since I see it as the best way to both defeat Susan Collins and deliver economic, environmental, and community benefits to the people of Maine. Troy Jackson is the clear choice to advance a progressive Democratic platform, and as a delegate I will support his candidacy and encourage others to do the same. I look forward to supporting his campaign through November.

Siegel, Seven

GORHAM

For the past four years I have represented the people of Gorham as a Town Councilor, and I want to represent them as a delegate to pick the Democrat Senate Nominee. I am currently the Democrat candidate for House District 109, and am knocking doors, building a volunteer base, and getting people across Gorham excited about voting in November. As a public school teacher and union member, I believe in nominating a candidate that I know will fight for the working class.

LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion

Silberstein, Deborah

PORTLAND

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Sillin, Jackson Huntting

YARMOUTH

I would like to be a delegate because I think it's important for young people like myself to be represented in this process. I'm 25, grew up in Yarmouth, and am delighted that I am able to have moved back with my wife (from Woolwich) to raise our family here in Maine. I think I bring a unique perspective on some of the issues most important to young people, like being able to find housing given the extreme shortage. I also think I can help explain how young people see this moment and why it's important to find a candidate who feels as frustrated as we are with the status quo, but also goes about challenging it responsibly. To help us win this year, I plan to donate to the eventual nominee as I have since I became eligible to vote and donate. I also plan to canvass as I did in 2024 for Jared Golden. In past years I've also made calls, sent texts, and written letters to fellow voters. Which combination I do this year depends mostly on what evidence suggests is most effective. I have many ideas for how the party could keep the momentum going. I would love to see the party be a positive part of people's lives even outside of election years. Sponsor community events, organize food drives, open a space for people to come together and connect/vent. Even if not selected, I'd love to talk about these ideas!

Youth

Simon, Lawrence H

BRUNSWICK

It is extremely important that we defeat Susan Collins, both for the good of the people of Maine and to help Democrats gain control of the Senate. We are at a historical inflection point in the defense of our democracy, and I strongly feel that we all have an obligation to participate in the selection of the best senatorial candidate we can and to work to make sure that person wins in November.

Simons, Gwendolyn Jane

SCARBOROUGH

Choosing the right candidate who can maintain what momentum might be left in the campaign is crucial. Candidate quality, integrity, experience and ability to get out the vote must be thoroughly considered. I am a health care attorney with concerns about choosing the right candidate who will be effective on health care issues. I believe my knowledge of these issues will be useful in selecting the best candidate. I would also like to be involved in the campaign as much as my work schedule allows. This is the most consequential election of our time and we must elect a senator who will stand up to the corruption in this administration!

Simonson, George T

HARPSWELL

I've been a political activist via Harpswell Indivisible for almost 10 years, ever since Trump came on the scene. I edit the organization's biweekly "Scouting Report" of political-actions-you-can-take, drive candidates for door-to-door campaigning, write and edit letters to the editor, go canvassing, serve as a poll watcher, testify for and against bills in Augusta, write postcards, write Collins to berate her, and more. In my opinion, the new Senate candidate needs to have the best assortment of qualities to defeat Collins. They're all good, but I think Troy Jackson is probably our strongest (even though I don't personally like him).

Simowitz, Kevin James

PORTLAND

Grassroots momentum is not something easily bottled or re-directed. Building on and expanding this momentum requires a party and a campaign willing to examine and shift our traditional approaches and messages, especially when they fail to represent the beliefs and ideals of Mainers whose daily life does not involve the operations of the Democratic Party. Our ability to win in November is wholly predicated upon people far beyond those who will attend the convention seeing what they want and believe in represented by both the party and the candidate seeking their vote. This requires a version of and vision for politics that offers something more than a "lesser of two evils" approach, especially when facing so formidable an opponent. Without an aspirational vision for running, winning, and governing that invites Mainers to reimagine what our politics and our country could be, the results on Election Day will be familiar. For two decades, I have worked, personally and professionally, in Maine and across the country, to build organizations and elect Democratic candidates with a vision for running and governing that is anchored in a grassroots base of working-class people. Organizing boils down to answering the question, "what is the thing we can do together that we do not have the power to do on our own?" I would like to serve because this moment demands an organizing approach, providing a way for people with a variety of deeply-held beliefs to row in the same direction with a common purpose.

Sinclair, Amy Margaret

YARMOUTH

Mainers are best served when they pick their own leaders. We do not need interest groups from outside Maine picking our candidates for us. I would like to be a part of the process by serving as a delegate.

Sinclair, Margaret

WESTBROOK

As chief nurse representative at MMC Portland for the Maine state nurses association, I'm steadfast in prioritizing healthcare for all and overall safe communities. I will mobilize nurses to support and vote for a candidate with values that match our own, as that is what's best for the greater good.

Sipperly, Carol L

FALMOUTH

I am a former federal prosecutor and continue to serve my community with my work at Maine Lawyers for the Rule of Law. We educate the public about the importance of the rule of law during this difficult and uncertain time. We offer public forums as well as media presentations with knowledgeable speakers and have filled a 500 seat hall for our event last fall. We have held small events such as house meetings and have another major event with Andrew Weissmann coming up in September. I have participated in most elections volunteering in various capacities. I am committed to fighting what is happening at DOJ (per my op eds in Portland Press Herald and Bangor Daily news) and the degradation of our democracy.

Skold, Charles Axel

PORTLAND

I worked on the 2020 Coorinated campaign and was dismayed at our inability to defeat Susan Collins. The reprucussions have been dire as we need a senator who will stand up to Trump, defend our rights, and support the democratic reforms necessary to make this a country for all the people, not just the powerful and wealthy interests. As a current State Representative in District 119 I understand some of the needs of what Maine people are looking for in our Democratic candidate and I want to be a part of that discussion around who is our best shot at finally defeating Susan Collins.

LGBTQIA+

Smaha, Andrew Thomas

YARMOUTH

These are NOT normal times. At every moment, from multiple directions, and specifically impacting citizens at their greatest moments of need, our communities are under attack. Government funding is stretched thin as inhumane cuts reach into the most basic support systems. Access to affordable food, health care, housing, transportation, education, and other social services are under great pressure. Federal overreach threatens our most sacred American institutions and values. To meet this moment, Maine Democrats must be hyper-focused on delivering a straightforward, unified defense of traditional Maine values. We must reclaim what it means to be from this great state. We take care of each other. We give of ourselves to protect the common good. We fight tyranny. We are rugged, disciplined, hardworking, and fiercely independent. This is Maine's moment to lead, and America is about to have a front-row seat to The Way Life Should Be. Given the chance, I look forward to sharing my experience as a lifelong Mainer and supporting the candidate who best embodies our core values.

Small, Michelle A

BRUNSWICK

I have been enrolled in the Maine Democratic Party since I was 18 years old. Since 2004, I have knocked on thousands of doors on behalf of Democratic candidates. I am willing to knock on thousands more to defeat Susan Collins. I am running to be a delegate to ensure that the Maine Democratic Party nominates a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and unseat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited about this opportunity to participate in the democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Disability

Smith, Geoffrey

STANDISH

The first presidential election I could vote in elected Jimmy Carter to the White House. Even before that, I volunteered in democratic campaigns. I volunteered for the Platner campaign a week before the Labor Day rally. His populist rhetoric seemed to really capture the sentiment of Maine's electorate restless for new leadership and new ideas that reflect Mainers' values. I figured the vetting would take time. Now we have a chance to select a new candidate to defeat Susan Collins and reset the campaign. We must select an ethical candidate who not only represents our values but who can capture the imagination of every Maine voter looking for new ideas and fresh new leadership. I'm a pragmatist. We have many qualified candidates. The general election will not be won by arguing over nerdy policy positions. We need a candidate who can capture our imagination and assure Mainers that they have our backs. I know what's needed to win in November. There will be so much money from away spent on attack ads on both sides. We can't change that. Our difference will be the hard work of old-fashioned retail politics. I will fully support whoever becomes our democratic nominee. There are only 110 days til November 3rd. I'm committed to doing what it takes to win.

Smith, Howard P

PORTLAND

I am a life-long Democrat, a 75 year old, intelligent, business owner and former news reporter, capable of weighing the pros and cons and electability of whoever seeks the nomination of our party. I e-mailed Heather Cox Richardson suggesting she become a candidate when Platner was stepping aside. (She wrote back to me that she was not interested and that she wouldn't be good at it!) I plan to support our nominee with donations of time and money. I will explain to fellow voters how Sen Collins portrays herself as a moderate while supporting the most dangerous president in modern history. I'll work our neighborhood and put up signs. I'll encourage friends to be active, volunteer at the polls, and use their time to be involved in supporting democracy AND Democrats from the local level to the Presidency.

Smith, Jillian

CAPE ELIZABETH

Every day, I strive to help individuals in our community, but this no longer feels like enough. I want to do more to help not just at an individual level but at the population level – to be a positive voice, a positive impact, for our state and our country. I cannot stand by and continue to watch the alarming direction this country is headed. I am therefore strongly motivated to be a part of the grassroots movement to promote positive change. My background includes experience in medicine, public health, research, and policy. Like many of us, I recognize that the decisions being made by Susan Collins and other Republicans in our government are having a direct negative impact on the public health, public safety, and well-being of our communities. Change is long overdue. Policy, and our representatives elected to shape and uphold policy, are the critical agents of this change. If selected as delegate, I vow to take this responsibility seriously and support the candidate that demonstrates the ideals necessary to improve lives. As a mom, a surgeon, a coach, a friend, I am an advocate for our communities and future generations. With my past experience and enthusiasm for positive change, I believe I can provide a significant contribution to the nomination process. Thank you for your consideration.

Smith, Jordan

POWNALE

I am able to raise awareness through my connections with lawmakers and through other circles; both professional and personal. I have worked with lawmakers in Augusta for 17 years on various policies and have also had sponsored and subsequently passed legislation that helped thousands of small businesses and individuals in Maine. I have hosted fundraisers for lawmakers, and been involved in several grassroots organizations, organized events, and more. This background affords me the ability to navigate in this arena with some level of confidence. I am truly concerned about where we are as a Nation and where we are headed. Having a positive impact on that trajectory is very important to me.

Smith, Lendall L

WESTBROOK

1. Our democracy is at risk, and Susan Collins has been complicit with those who are harming our country, our democracy, and Maine's most endangered people. Collins needs to be replaced, and I am running to be a delegate to ensure that we nominate a candidate who can defeat her in the general election. I want to be part of the democratic process to help select someone who will fight to uphold our values - democracy, the rule of law, equality, accountability, and protecting our most vulnerable people. I will carry out my duties as a voting delegate with great care. 2. In order to defeat Susan Collins in November, I will volunteer in the winning candidate's campaign. I will meet with the candidate or campaign manager to determine whether my skills as a lawyer can be helpful. I will participate in whatever tasks I am needed - knocking on doors, fundraising events, letters to the editor, driving people to the polls, etc. 3. As a delegate, I will help our party continue to build on grassroots momentum by nominating the candidate who, in my judgment, has the best chance of beating Susan Collins. Someone who is genuine, has integrity and honesty, listens to what matters to Maine people, believes in democracy and Maine values, is a fighter (with a backbone), opposes forever wars, believes in healthcare for all, will take care of our most vulnerable people, and will hold Republicans accountable.

Smith, Marie Follayttar

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate because I have dedicated much of the past decade to organizing to defeat Senator Susan Collins & elect a Democratic senator who will fight for the people of Maine. For nearly ten years, I have organized to unseat Senator Collins and elect someone accountable to the people they represent. During the Kavanaugh fight, I co-led the viral, Webby-nominated campaign that raised $4.3 million to support Susan Collins' future opponent. I've organized in Maine, in Washington, D.C., and nationally. I know Senator Collins' record well, & I want to help take back the people's Senate seat. I've worked alongside others to hold Senator Collins accountable through grassroots organizing, mobilizations, strategic communications, earned and placed media, digital organizing, bird-dogging, and civil disobedience in her offices. I helped elevate the stories of Mainers affected by her votes on healthcare, Supreme Court nominations, reproductive freedom, and our democracy. I believe this moment demands leaders who understand the threat authoritarianism poses to our rights and our democratic institutions. As a queer, disabled organizer, I also know that a winning movement must include everyone. I will continue advocating for the full inclusion of people with disabilities, LGBTQ+ people, people who have experienced homelessness, and others who have been marginalized. I believe movements must always ask, "Who is missing, and how do we reach them?" That commitment shaped my advocacy for accessibility in this convention, and it will continue to shape my work to defeat Susan Collins and strengthen

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Smith, Patricia Ann

SOUTH PORTLAND

As a lifelong Democrat in Maine, I am extremely eager to become a delegate. I have been an elected official for over 12 years, serving on the South Portland City Council for 9 years, elected Mayor twice, and currently serving as a Cumberland County Commissioner in District 4. I have had much experience representing voices and perspectives and my presence at the Caucus would be invaluable. Also, as the first lesbian-identified mayor of South Portland, I also bring a voice for LGBTQIA+ people to this process. More than ever, it is time for Mainers to unite to defeat Susan Collins. We need to course correct this country back to our core democratic values.

LGBTQIA+

Smith, Ronald

FREEPORT

I want to do everything can to save our country from Trump. I would like to become a delegate to support Dr. Shah because I feel he has the best chance to beat Collins, and I also support his ideas on health care, education and general support of people who are suffering in our current economic uncertainty. I strongly think Dr Shah has the presence and experience to be a strong force in the US Senate. I firmly believe he is the only candidate that can beat Collins and is the best person to represent Maine. Once he is in the Senate he has the intelligence, skill, experience, leadership ability as well as his proven communication skills to be a powerful Senator. We need to stop Trump and the MAGA movement. This starts with defeating Collins and I want to do everything i can to help save our country. Supporting Dr. Shah is how I can help. I will be proud to help support Dr. Shah. We need strong leadership in the Senate and we need to reach a majority. Dr. Shah is that person.

Smith, Victoria L

FREEPORT

To Whom It May Concern, I wish I could provide a long list of political activities, but aside from voting, displaying campaign signs, participating in phone banks, and attending rallies, I have never served as a delegate. What I have done throughout my 70 years is serve my community. I have organized and led fundraisers for South Freeport Church, mentored students at Mast Landing School, volunteered with Grace Street Ministry serving people experiencing homelessness, and, as a person of faith, worked to support those who have experienced hardship, injustice, and unfairness. Today, I see a nation growing increasingly divided by hostility, cruelty, and policies that harm people from the ground up—the very things I have spent my life working against. I believe it is time for me to do more. I call it constructive optimism: reminding people that their voices matter, setting clear goals, and promoting an honest, transparent agenda. That begins by holding our candidates to the highest standards, and I believe we are fortunate to have those qualities in Dr. Shah. In this unprecedented moment, we must respectfully engage others, listen carefully, and explain why Dr. Shah is the right person to serve the people and communities of Maine. It would be an honor to serve as a delegate and represent my community in support of a candidate whose character, integrity, and vision reflect the very best of Maine. I believe I can effectively communicate why Dr. Shah embodies the kind of leadership that serves with compassion, integrity,

Underrepresented Religion

Smith, Zachary

PORTLAND

While Platner was clearly the wrong candidate, I agree with much of his platform. I want to do my part to ensure a progressive candidate is selected, one that will be able to beat Collins, and represents the best of Maine. Regardless of who is selected, I will give them my full support and do everything I can to help them win the Senate seat this fall.

Solano, Danielle

PORTLAND

In recent months, Maine residents from all walks of life have come together to demand change. Many initially saw candidate Planter as a beacon of hope for our future, but he ultimately proved to be the wrong choice for our state. Now, we must unite quickly behind a democratic alternative to defeat Susan Collins. Having lived in Maine for the past three years, I have seen hardworking people from every region ignored and pushed aside by Collins' policies. We are tired, we want change, and we want to protect both our state's resources and each other. As a democratic voter, I believe that grassroots action like phone banking and door-to-door canvassing is essential to engage voters. Beyond formal volunteering, starting personal conversations with friends, colleagues, and neighbors about our future is what will ultimately drive us to victory. It is all about the we and not the me.

Sowles, Emily

PORTLAND

As a young queer woman in Maine, I have been speaking up in my community for progressive issues I believe in. Voting for candidates who will protect our human rights and body autonomy is incredibly important, and finding a candidate who can unseat Susan Collins this year is all the more important. I want to help my party in this pivotal time.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Spark, Debra Alison

NORTH YARMOUTH

I would like to serve as a candidate because I am frightened/horrified by what is going on in this country, and I realize how crucial this election is for the country and really for the fate of democracy. My hope is that the people who were energized by Plattner will focus on the big problem (Trump, the Republican Congress, and the Federalist Society judges who have undermined so many civil rights and hurt so many people in this country) rather than infighting about the party establishment or Old Guard/New Guard. We can't be distracted by side issues. What matters is winning this election, what matters is stopping the cruelty that we see with ICE, the daily damage to our lives by foolish decisions that undermine science, medicine, our planet, and our relations across the Globe. What matters is ending unnecessary wars.

Underrepresented Religion

Sparks, Lillian

BRUNSWICK

The Vice President says this country is run by childless cat ladies, so I'm reporting for duty. I would like to serve as a delegate because the power of the people arises when we organize together, and the Democratic Party is the most organized political machine we've got. My plan to help our party build on this grassroots momentum and defeat Susan Collins is four-fold: listen, learn, educate, and organize. Joseph Zamboni's commitment to listen, learn, and amplify Maine Democratic voters' voices made an example I want to emulate. My position as a professor with blue-collar roots innervates me to educate and organize. I plan to leverage both my vulnerability--queer, disabled, female-- and my power--white-collar, academic-- to build community and aim our energy at our shared goals. Differences aside, we're all "concerned" that Susan Collins keeps standing in our way. I'm a historian and this moment is historic. We're in this chaos because, despite historic levels of political division, raping women continues to be a bipartisan endeavor. Let's take the chaos forced on us by yet another violent, careless man and turn our unconventional convention into an extraordinary opportunity to lead. The Maine Democratic Party is making history right now, and I want to make it with you. As they say: as Maine goes, so goes the nation. Let's show them how democracy is done.

LGBTQIA+, Disability

Spatz, Charles C

PORTLAND

My name is Charlie Spatz, and I am a Democrat living in Portland, Maine, with a demonstrated track record of volunteering to elect Democrats here in Maine and in swing states across the country. I am eager to volunteer my time to canvass, phonebank, and fundraise to help our new Democratic US Senate nominee defeat Susan Collins in November. Professionally, I've spent the last decade advancing climate policy as a grassroots organizer and policy researcher. My research holding fossil fuel and utility companies accountable for delaying clean energy policy has been featured in The New York Times, The Washington Post, NPR, and dozens of state news outlets across the country. Maine is now in the national spotlight as we look to take back a Democratic majority in the US Senate. I'd like to serve as a Delegate to help choose a nominee who can inspire a grassroots movement in Maine to defeat Susan Collins. Having knocked doors and made calls to thousands of Democrats both in Maine and across the country, I'm confident I can help choose the right person for the job.

Spearsmith, Colter

PORTLAND

Graham Platner was the wrong person to represent Maine, but he tapped into something real. For far too long, this state and this country have been starving for real political change. For medicare for all, for an end to imperial forever wars, for housing, for worker's rights, for wage growth, for a government not controlled by lobbyists and operated by corrupt oligarchs. For politicians who don't tell us to be happy with incremental change that never comes, but instead deliver on the massive, fundamental changes necessary for this country to thrive. Americans are so desperate for this change that many would rather elect a fascist than a centrist, simply in the hopes that something will finally happen. The only way out of this cycle is to provide a third option, based not on the status-quo-ism of the old guard nor the fascist destruction of maga, but on building up an America based on the values of democracy and opportunity for all. This primary proved conclusively that the people of Maine are yearning for this change, and it would be a betrayal of every one of us who voted in the primary to elect someone who doesn't represent those values. I'm Colter Spearsmith, I'm a Portlander, a leftist, and if you'd have me, I'd love to make sure our voice is heard in Washington.

Spencer, Richard A

PORTLAND

I am writing to ask for your vote as a delegate to the Democratic convention. The future of our State, our country, our children, grandchildren and even our planet all depend wresting control from the Trump-obedient criminal gang that has taken over our national government. I believe that we need three things to defeat Susan Collins: 1) a committed and progressive candidate; 2) an unprecedented turn-out of younger voters (thank you Graham Platner and team for igniting the spark); and 3) a sustained effort to persuade Maine's older voters that Collins' time has passed. I am well-qualified to help with the third prong of this strategy. I am older than Susan Collins in chronological age, but not in spirit. When the times call, I have a history of going door to door to help change the course of our country and State. I took four months off from law school to go door-to-door in New Hampshire to defeat Lyndon Johnson and end the Vietnam war; a few years later, I ran for the Maine Legislature and defeated the Republican majority leader by almost 2-1. My contemporaries are now pretty elderly, but they vote in large numbers. I am committed to helping to get them to vote for the Democratic nominee who emerges from the convention. I would greatly appreciate your vote.

Spiess, Arthur E

FREEPORT

We (my wife and I) have been Freeport delegates to the Democratic Party State convention multiple times, and are strong supporters of the Freeport Dems, attending most Town caucus meetings. We are modest financial donors, and work locally to get friends and neighbors to vote.

Spiess, Charlotte Martha

FREEPORT

This is a pivotal election and the process in selecting this candidate is so important. I have been a delegate to multiple state party conventions and participate regularly in local party caucuses and activity--demonstrating strong support for the party and would continue to focus on defeating Susan Collins every way I can with enthusiasm. Keeping in mind those Mainers being "wicked rude"-- but still "welcomed and respected" into this evolving movement is something that I feel well-expressed. I anticipate this constructive, deliberate and transparent process to continue- as it is playing out- so I would be honored to be a delegate, not just a Mainer who can feel that the tide is turning!

Sprague, Terrance

WESTBROOK

Protect Maine and the nation: elect Democrats to all 4 congressional seats. Defeat Collins. She claims to be moderate but backs Trump, the right, and unqualified picks like Kavanaugh, RFK Jr., and Oz, proving she puts party over people."

LGBTQIA+

Spring, Nathaniel

BRUNSWICK

I want to make sure that the Democrats have the best chance of holding the current administration accountable. Hopefully election a senator who will continue to fight for democratic values for years to come.

St Clair, Lucas

FALMOUTH

I would like to be a delegate to support the democratic process and make this transition be fair and transparent. I plan to donate to the party, know doors, make calls, and do everything I can to have a democrat represent Maine in the US Senate.

St Clair, Yemaya Lefevre

FALMOUTH

I have been an engaged Democrat for decades, contributing both financial and leadership resources to elect Democratic candidates up and down the ballot, and I would like the opportunity to engage as a delegate in this critical election. I am committed to helping defeat Susan Collins: I will host a house party, canvass with GOTV, and volunteer.

Starling, Terrie

SCARBOROUGH

As a delegate, I want to help nominate a candidate who will show up for working families, protect our land and water, and represent Maine values instead of a national party's talking points. I'll knock on doors, talk with neighbors, and make sure people understand what's at stake this November — not through slogans, but through honest conversations about what Collins's votes have actually cost us. Just as important, I want to help keep the energy going after the election. Grassroots momentum doesn't come from one campaign season; it comes from relationships, trust, and showing up consistently. I'm ready to be part of building that, in my community and across the state.

Stearman, Natalie

PORTLAND

Growing up outside Washington, DC, I was surrounded by politics from a young age. My dad, and many of my friends' parents, worked for the federal government. I always had faith that our leaders had the best interest of the American people in their minds when they made decisions. I've lost that faith. Ousting Susan Collins in November and replacing her with a person who cares about Mainers and Americans writ large is the first step towards taking back our government. I would like to be a part of the convention to choose that person. I pride myself on staying informed on candidates and their policies, and always keep an open mind. I donate money regularly to candidates I believe in, and plan on canvassing for whoever runs against Collins. It is imperative that we take back the Senate in November so we, the people, not the corporations, are the priority of our leaders.

Underrepresented Religion

Steele, Phil Todd

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am 76 years old, a 24 year resident of Maine, a former small business owner, and a life-long democrat. Since the sale of my business in 2014, I have been deeply involved in several good-government state initiatives (including passing and defending Ranked Choice Voting, Protect Maine Elections, and passage of our recent Red flag law to reduce gun violence) as well as several citywide initiatives in Portland (where I lived until last fall). I was a signature gatherer, canvasser, and volunteer coordinator on most of those campaigns, and am happy to serve in either of the latter two roles in the upcoming campaign against Senator Collins. I am a deep believer in direct democracy, and look upon this nominating convention as a unique chance for individual citizens to bring about democratic change in Maine and in our country.

Stein, Mitchell

BRUNSWICK

As a retired health policy professional and former Policy Director for Consumers for Affordable Health Care (CAHC), I want to serve as a delegate to ensure our nominee powerfully articulates our values. During the ACA implementation, I was a leading voice guiding our state and helping increase health care access. Having fought the destructive LePage administration, I know how to stand firm against conservative leadership. My background spans both the corporate and consumer sides of healthcare, giving me a unique perspective to engage voters of varied backgrounds. My favorite testament to this was when a local Chamber of Commerce Director told me that, after my presentation, he finally understood how the ACA would help his member businesses. Defeating Senator Collins is of the utmost importance. She has done severe damage through her support of the corrupt Trump administration. I will leverage my communication experience to show voters across the spectrum how harmful her record has been, and how far she has strayed from the Maine value of caring for each other. We build grassroots momentum by equipping volunteers with evidence and empathy—the core themes of an op-ed I authored supporting Governor Mills for the Portland Press Herald. As a delegate and activist, I will help train grassroots volunteers to have these exact kinds of persuasive, cross-coalition conversations to build decisive voter turnout. I pledge to support and work my utmost for whomever the convention nominates.

Steinbrink, Jeffrey NMN

SOUTH PORTLAND

I've been a registered Democrat all my life and have worked hard in four states to get local, state and national Dems elected, starting with the George McGovern campaign before any of you reading this were likely born. I've campaigned, actively and typically door-to-door, for contenders Jimmy Carter, Mike Dukakis(!), Bill Clinton, Al Gore, Barack Obama, Hilary Clinton, and Kamala Harris. When my wife Joanne and I lived in Pennsylvania, where I spent almost my whole career as an American Lit and Creative Writing teacher at Franklin & Marshall College, the team I was part of almost, almost got Lynn Yeakel elected to replace Arlen Specter in the US Senate. I suppose that's not much of a credential, but that long--and eventually unsuccessful--campaign taught me more about politics than I learned at all the how-to organizational meetings I've attended. It taught me that working to win requires a tenacity, a patience, a sense of humor, and a willingness to be both attentive and tirelessly persuasive. I'd bring that experience and energy to this important decision-making process, where it's imperative that we field a winning candidate who can gather and then drive the progressive momentum that we Dems have already built in Maine. Six years ago I was part of the Sara Gideon campaign, and although I know we've had our problems this time around, I think we might be in better shape now than we were then to defeat Susan Collins. We must, our candidate must, defeat Susan Collins.

Stejskal, John

HARPSWELL

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Stenbak, Tori

WESTBROOK

I believe that it is imperative for the new nominee to hold the values and the vision of the campaign that inspired so many Mainer's to the polls. Anything less than that is a rejection of the very clear mandate by voters. Our nominee must be pro working class, pro LGBTQIA+, pro BIPOC, pro immigrant, and pro human rights for all, and stand firmly against genocide and forever wars. These values are pro democracy and will unseat Collins.

Sterling, Lynn

PORTLAND

I believe that the voices of the people who supported the Platner platform and values need to be represented

Stern-Rich, Noah

PORTLAND

As an 18-year-old who recently graduated from high school, I was proud to cast my vote for the very first time in the Maine Democratic Primary this June. I would like to serve as a delegate because I believe that young people are our future, and therefore should be involved in the decision-making process for who will represent Maine on a national level. As an incoming prospective political science major at Williams College, I have always been interested in political procedures. Whether engaging with policy experts during a semester in Washington, D.C. at the School for Ethics and Global Leadership or advocating for firearm safety laws in the Portland Press Herald, I am always looking for new ways to create productive change. In order to defeat Susan Collins this November, I will knock on doors, rally classmates and community members, and use every tool I have, such as social media, to get voters who would otherwise sit this election out to the polls. My demographic, 18-24, is one of the most liberal age groups, but yet often does not feel the civic responsibility to make their opinions heard. If elected as a delegate, I won't just carry my own vote, but the voices of my classmates and peers who are ready to be heard but have not yet been asked. While I haven't yet started my own career, I'm ready to make sure Susan Collins has reached the end of hers.

Stevens-Becksvoort, Margaret A

NEW GLOUCESTER

I believe that Nirav Shah has the best interests of the people of Maine at heart. He is our hope for defeating Susan Collins in November.

Stevensen, Jeffrey Arthur

SOUTH PORTLAND

For more than fifty years I have been active in volunteering time and money supporting democrats for office. I have been a delegate to our state conventions a number of times. I have closely followed this years events in our push to defeat Susan Collins. Though Graham Platner was a flawed candidate, his message is the reason he won so much support, including mine: Medicare for all, tax the billionaires, end foreign wars, defend democracy, impeach Supreme Court justices Alito and Thomas, release the Epstein files, eliminate ICE, and hold the criminals in the Trump administration to account and prosecution where warranted. The horrific murder of a man in Biddeford by ICE is yet another example of a lawless Trump administration that will stop at nothing to keep power and thwart elections. We must all carry that message for economic and social justice forward and I will support a candidate who believes in the urgency of the moment to speak out for the middle and working class people of Maine. We can't afford any more mistakes. This is not the time for a timid or bland "Schumercrat" but someone who will articulate and defend a bold agenda. Let's give Maine voters someone to vote for with enthusiasm.

Stevenson, Cynthia M

GORHAM

As a 94 year old woman, I am well aware of the need for our state to have younger representation in our federal government. I think Dr.Shah is the best choice.

Stilphen, Beth B

CAPE ELIZ

I am a lifelong Mainer and generational Democrat. I firmly believe in the Progressive Movement that has been started and that our candidate shares the commitment to fight for the rights of ordinary Mainers to have homes they can afford, feed their families, make a living wage, have equal access to services and have control of their healthcare choices. I am also aware of the urgent need to put forth a candidate who can effectively challenge the status quo on these issues and win. I will fully support the chosen candidate by actively working to help them get elected in any capacity that is helpful.

Stilphen, Kevin J

CAPE ELIZ

I am life long Democrat, who grew up in working class family of six. I live the values of Democratic party and of the democratic society and nation we live in. I have no predetermined preference for one candidate. I would be a delegate who would make decisions based on Democratic values but with a equal belief that our democracy is imperiled by the forces of authoritatism and greed of the current administration and it's many enablers.

Stokes, Kathleen A

PORTLAND

I am a proud lifelong Democrat. I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention in order to select a strong and competent candidate to defeat Susan Collins. I bring an open mind, a dedication to integrity and a strong sense of inclusion to the process. To defeat Susan Collins we must continue to associate her voting record with that of President Trump and emphasize how that voting record is hurting working people and families of Maine. I believe it is important to include Unenrolled/Independent voters in any grassroots efforts. They, along with Democrats, are crucial in defeating Susan Collins and sending a Democratic Senator to Washington.

Stone, Alexander

WESTBROOK

My goal would be to continue the grass root operation that was started. I served on the Westbrook School Committee for 8 years, was a youth sports coach for countless seasons and now own a successful restaurant, Blazes Burgers, where our primary focus has been to give back to the community. My focus has always been to give back to others and not be self serving. I do not support Senator Collin's for these reasons and many many more and I will work diligently to help nominate a candidate that has a realistic chance to beat her in the upcoming election. Thank you for your consideration.

Stone, Angela

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

Born a Mainer, raised a Republican, surrounded by Libertarians but been a Democrat since I could vote. I deeply understand the polarity we face and our common ground. I am a community organizer who founded a nonprofit that is focused on meeting the basic needs of Mainers. We work with over 900 providers across 266 organizations in all 16 Counties. Over 5000 volunteers a year come together to fill requests to meet this need. We live and breathe mutual aid to fill a void left by broken political systems and policies. According to the United Way Alice Report, 240,000 households in Maine are going without their basic needs being met, that's 40% of Maine. Who we select as the next Democratic Senator needs to have a pulse on their community and the passion of the voters. I believe I intimately understand the needs and heart of not just Cumberland County but many corners of Maine.

Stone, David D

FREEPORT

We must do what's right to save our county and help rebuild our middle class . We need to return the Democrats to power . I'm an active supporter of our Democratic Party and candidates and want to help

Disability

Stone, Lydia

NORTH YARMOUTH

I want to become a delegate as I know how much is at stake in this senate race. My daughter was born with less rights than I was thanks to Senator Collins, who has been my Senator since I was two. As we saw in both our Gubernatorial and Senate primaries, we, the Maine people, overwhelmingly voted for progressives. I truly believe in order to defeat Senator Collins this fall, we need to honor the policy platform Platner stood for or else the younger generations and progressives will have lost the little faith they have left in the Democratic Party. Personally, I am sick and tired of my tax dollars making me complicit in a genocide. I want ICE to stop kidnapping my neighbors and locking them up in concentration camps with credible allegations of human rights abuses. I see my daughter in every murdered child and myself in immigrant mothers being unethically separated from their children. I want the candidate selected to be opposed to funding these things and also understand that we need Supreme Court reform in order to preserve our multi-racial democracy. I want my hard-earned tax dollars to provide public goods such as healthcare, feeding and housing people, and infrastructure as opposed to detaining and murdering people both here and abroad. When we select a progressive replacement for Platner, I will continue to support and volunteer for the nominee.

Youth

Stower, Richard M

YARMOUTH

I am Richard Stower. I am a retired Unitarian Universalist minister living in Yarmouth. I ask for your vote as delegate. I fell in love with Maine in 1972 when Nancy Richards-Stower, my girlfriend, now my wife of 53 years, invited me to the Yarmouth Clam Festival. Upon retirement we moved into Nancy's Yarmouth childhood home in 2016. I've served on the National Urban League's High School Student Task Force, been a South Bronx public school teacher, drafted federal food assistance policy in DC and attended Harvard Divinity School mid-life. Throughout adulthood I organized and demonstrated for progressive causes, voting rights, social justice and peace. I'm an activist Democrat. I served as secretary of the Yarmouth Democratic Town Committee and as a delegate to state conventions. I canvassed for local, state and national Democratic candidates. We have a profound responsibility to defeat Susan Collins. She chose Republican policies over the needs of Maine people. We must elect a People's Champion who will: Fight for universal health care. Close the income gap, Fight for comprehensive, compassionate immigration reform, Vote to disarm and unmask ICE, Confirm Supreme Court nominees who focus on restoring constitutional rights, Champion affordable housing incentives including repurposing abandoned shopping malls. I respectfully ask for your vote and your vote for my partner in life and social justice, Nancy Richards-Stower.

Strack, Blake A

CAPE ELIZABETH

The control of the US Senate and the future political life of the United States now begins and ends in Maine. I am a life-long Democratic Party member. As Political Science PhD and previous American Public Policy professor at USM, I have extensive knowledge of the electoral process and public polling. That knowledge and experience can help me play a contributing and useful role at the Nominating Convention and help the Maine Democratic Party choose the best Democratic candidate to send Susan Collins packing in November. Since moving to Maine in 1992, I have demonstrated my commitment to the Democratic Party grass-roots development. I canvassed door-to-door and phone-banked in 2014, 2016, 2020 and 2024 to help the Maine Democratic Party get out the vote. I have also served as an election site non-partisan observer for the League of Women voters multiple times. I would now like to contribute more to Maine Democratic party and their historic process that can help change the face of politics in America. I am a life-long progressive activist and voter for change. After organizing protests in NYC during the 1980's, I decided to leave my work on Wall Street to study politics and learn how to influence change in government policy. I organized a protest at Strategic Air Command base in the 1990s. I will use that experience and activism to help the Democratic Party activate and turn-out voters between now and November 2026 to defeat Susan Collins. Blake Strack

Strain, Mary V

CASCO

I'm a lifelong moderate democrat and feel compelled to move beyond voting, holding signs and pleading with Senator Collins via email. This national administration has to be stopped, we in Maine have a number of solid potential Senate candidates including my favorite and now is the time. I'm a working older Mainer and have been participating in sidewalk demonstrations over a year in all weather, pontificating via social media and showing up wherever and whenever I can. More is called for now. Collins' powerful position gave her opportunities to halt this amoral distribution of appropriations and it's time to say Thank you for your service and it's time to go. I make small contributions to organizations and candidates as befits my income, I show up and I speak up. I'd like to take it to the next level by participating as a delegate and in any case will continue to Do Something Every Day. My state experience is limited to one caucus a few years ago and now I have this opportunity so I'd like to give it a go. Please accept my sincere interest in serving (and my ability to do so) in this manner.

Strange, Dru Bryn

GORHAM

Strange, Erin

GORHAM

We share one goal, and that is to defeat Susan Collins and end her reign of nonsense this November. This is our great unifier. We may feel disappointed in how things have transpired, or let down by the person we elected, or frustrated with the process before us, it is, nonetheless, incumbent upon us to steer our ship forward toward the direction we know is the best path for Mainers to live their, healthiest, most comfortable, and happiest lives. It is my intention to be a representative for the platform that so many Mainers made clear they believe in and are enthusiastic about. Our elected candidate let us down, but his message gave us hope. We must proudly walk the tightrope of disavowing the actions of the individual while continuing the message that we all supported. He, alone, wasn't the answer, and Mainers are smart enough to know that, but his message was the beginning of a movement to produce the answer, and Mainers deserve for that to carry on. I served as a delegate for the Democratic Party during the 2016 presidential election. I am a mom, a wife, an educator, and a lifelong Democrat. I believe it is upon us to start the process of sending our federal government a message, that WE the PEOPLE will not be silent through our suffering at their whims. WE the PEOPLE will stand for what is right as we stand together to make a better world for ourselves and future generations.

Strattard, Michelle

RAYMOND

I love this state, its land, its people, and its history. Maine has a long history of amazing people who stand up to do the right thing, even when it is hard. I am seeking to be a delegate to this convention because I want to be a part of the process, to help pick a delegate who embodies the best of Maine and who will continue that tradition of doing what is right for Maine and this nation. The excitement and engagement in the civic process that this race has inspired is incredible to see. This nominating convention has the potential to grow that engagement, not stifle it. As a social studies teacher and president-elect of the Maine Council for the Social Studies, I've had a lot of practice mediating disagreements and holding space for quieter voices to be heard, which I believe is valuable in this context. We are ready to see Susan Collins replaced. To do that, we have to make sure we are modeling the things that we wish to see. We have to stand firm in our values. We need to give real answers to those who have questions or concerns, and we have to be accountable to the people. Improving communication will be key to defeating Susan Collins and regaining momentum into November. This is our moment to show the nation the meaning of Dirigo and what it looks like for a local party to lead with integrity and accountability.

Strickler, Colleen D

NEW GLOUCESTER

I would very much like to be a delegate to determine who should be the Democratic candidate for the Senate from Maine. I have lived in the state since I was 4 years old. I have have been on the Select Board in New Gloucester, and have run for the Maine Legislature. I am an advocate for Democratic policies and ideas. I grew up with a republican father, who is now on the side of the Dems, and a democratic mom. I am open to dialogue with folks of differing idead, and tend to be a consensus builder rather than being stuck in my own opinion. I feel very strongly that Susan Collins must go, and I will work very hard to make that happen. I would advocate for Term limits in Congress, and the Supreme Court. And that we MUST flip the House AND the Senate. Respectfully Colleen Strickler New Gloucester, ME 04260 207-939-0894

Strimling, Ethan

PORTLAND

I have been a Democratic activist in Maine for 40 years. I worked on passing marriage equality, implementing rent control, raising the minimum wage, and on the campaigns of countless progressive Democrats, I am an active member of Maine DSA and I served as Portland's Mayor. I write a progressive column for the Maine Beacon and I do political analysis on a weekly podcast called In The Arena for WMTW. I am seeking to be a delegate to the Democratic nominating convention because I believe we need a nominee to replace Graham Platner who understands that the growing economic inequality in Maine and America must be reversed. That ICE must be stopped. That the war in Iran must end. That our Supreme Court is out of control. And that Donald Trump poses an existential threat to our most vulnerable, and our Democracy. I want a candidate who both understands these truths, and who knows how to communicate them in a way that shows how Susan Collins has been complicit in their happening. If elected, I plan to reach out to as many Cumberland County Democrats as possible to hear their insight on who best meets these criteria in this pivotal moment.

Strum, Amy R

BRIDGTON

As the founder of Lake Region Indivisible, board member of MSNA and SMLC and newly elected Bridgton select board member, I have been deeply involved with resisting the current administration and their cruel, unjust and corrupt policies. Susan Collins is part of that administration and complicit and supportive of it. She has got to go! I am committed to work as hard as I can to make that happen. I also am an experienced organizer and will continue to organize LRI and my community to support the new Democratic U.S. Senate candidate and defeat Collins.

Stuart, Anne H

GORHAM

I believe in a fair and democratic process to elect officials to represent the citizens of our country. What is currently happening in Washington does not reflect my core values or serves the best interest of working class Americans. I have been a Maine voter since 1975. I have always lived in Maine, paid taxes to provide monies for local and state government and participated in giving back to my community. I am a retired teacher and has served Maine by educating its youth. I care about my state and its citizens. I am very energized by the grassroots efforts that has evolved to unseat Susan Collin's, we must keep that energy fresh and alive

Sullivan, Kathryn

PORTLAND

I adore Maine's complicated politics and districts, and I'm interested in being a delegate because I've never been so inspired; until now it felt like it was impossible to have an influence in our system. The law the replacement is vague, which is scary, but it's also an opportunity: we can make sure the convention picks someone that best represents what the voters initially chose in the primary, but not just policies on paper—also in a way that will make both districts served by their new senator. If we get this right, we win. I'm an abortion rights activist, and I remember when Collins approved Kavanaugh. The nausea I felt in that moment cemented a passion to get her out, even if she's a high-ranking Senator who has gotten some benefits for Maine, as my father loves to remind me. And this probably isn't relevant, but I'm a moderator of the Maine subreddit, though I try not to let my politics show in my decisions there, I've been inspired to see how passionate Mainers are. I want to support our folk. I'm a diplomat's daughter, sociable and able to talk to strangers about things I'm passionate about, for instance, I help run a local board gaming discord that has 1400 members. I can canvas and hobnob on our behalf. And I'm a joiner; I am certain that if I am selected, I will continue to be involved in the Maine Democrats. Give a mouse a cookie, right?

Sullivan, Mary Elizabeth

SOUTH PORTLAND

I have been a registered democrat all of my life. I have been a woman afforded choice and authority over my body my entire adult life, until now. I have marched on Washington and must continue to work to ensure for my daughters the rights and privileges that I have know. I have worked in social services my entire career and currently work for my fellow citizens experiencing homelessness. I know that we can do this together and want to support our state in defeating Susan Collins and leading our great nation to a return to the path to our best selves. Thank you for your consideration.

Sulloway, Micaela

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'm in support of Troy Jackson. I think he is the best suited to defeat Collins.

Sulloway, Stewart Estabrook

BRIDGTON

I will stand to protect the will of the voters to the greatest degree possible, considering that this very process has already undermined their vote in the Democratic primary. I will seek to hear the voices of democrats in Bridgton and the surrounding Lakes Region before the convention so that they can best be represented. The integrity of the Maine Democratic Party is at stake here. To remain strong the people must be well-represented, or we will lose support for future battles. Statistics already show that this very process of replacing the chosen candidate is likely to cause a failure to oust Susan Collins from the Senate.

Sutton, steven

CAPE ELIZABETH

to continue to build on the graham momentum, i will vote fir the candidate that is closest to grahams principles.

Svetlichny, Erik Boris Olson

CAPE ELIZABETH

Democratic process. I have served as Vice-chair for the Cape-Elizabeth South-Portland Democrats. In this capacity, I help organize efforts to recruit and elect Democrats up and down the ballot. Between now and November, I plan on canvassing & phone-banking.

Swan, Dd

FREEPORT

My goal in the nonprofit sector has always been to improve The Human Condition, to bring humans from all sectors together to be a voice in a shared agenda. I will work with the candidate selected through a fair and transparent process (thank you for your speedy work) to ensure ALL in our state can take pride in knowing we can have a Senator we can be proud of, we can trust, who will represent and work for us, leading with dignity, respect, accountability and conviction for the rights due All Americans — affordable, safe-haven housing, equitable healthcare, access to healthy food, quality education, climate safeguards, equal justice, jobs with equitable pay, and pathways to citizenship. I will work to defend Democracy, defeat Susan Collins and pave the way for change.

Disability

Swift, Margaret

YARMOUTH

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Sylvester, Michael A

PORTLAND

My name is Michael Sylvester and I am running to support Troy Jackson. I feel that Troy's values and positions are the values and positions that Maine voters supported overwhelmingly. I own a business on Peaks Island where my wife and I raised our three boys. I was the first candidate to run as a Democratic Socialist elected to state office in 2016. I served as the Chair of the Progressive Caucus and the House Chair of Labor and Housing. I was a union organizer for 15 years. Yet I'm running because my kids can't afford to buy a house in Maine. I think that's wrong. I served with Troy. I believe in him.

THIBODEAU, BOBBIE

RAYMOND

As a lifelong Mainer born in Dexter, the daughter of a father who came to this country as a refugee from the Vietnam War, I bring a perspective often underrepresented in conversations about our state, one shaped by growing up Maine born yet outside the dominant white, Anglo-American narrative most people associate with our state. Now living in a rural Maine community while working in Portland Public Schools, I see firsthand the range of experiences that make up our state, from small towns to city classrooms. This background has deepened my commitment to equity and representation in Maine's schools and communities. I recognize I may not be able to commit extensive time to this role right now, but I would welcome the opportunity to contribute where I can and to be considered for future involvement as my capacity allows. My work in education, particularly around belonging and restorative practices, reflects a lasting investment in Maine's students and in ensuring diverse voices help shape our state's future.

BIPOC

Tabachnick, Abraham

PORTLAND

Serving as a delegate is an opportunity to directly channel the immense grassroots energy across our state into a unified, winning strategy. I want to represent our community at the Nominating Convention because our next senator must reflect the values, resilience, and urgency of working Mainers. To defeat Susan Collins in November, we must hold her accountable where it matters most: her voting record versus her rhetoric. My plan focuses heavily on decentralized, neighbor-to-neighbor organizing. I will organize targeted phone banks and door-knocking campaigns in key swing precincts, focusing on Collins' swing votes that directly impacted healthcare costs and judicial appointments. By leading with clear, localized facts rather than national talking points, we can win over independent and moderate voters who feel let down by her tenure. Sustaining grassroots momentum requires turning a campaign into a long-term community presence. I will help build this infrastructure by establishing permanent county-level digital networks and monthly town halls, ensuring volunteers stay connected and engaged well beyond election day. By empowering local organizers with the digital tools and training they need, we can transform seasonal campaign energy into a lasting political movement that strengthens our party for years to come.

Tabasky, Ella

BRUNSWICK

I was raised as a lifelong Democrat, but I no longer believe the party has consistently served the people who need it most. I believe we need a politics centered on the working class, not wealthy donors or corporate interests. I support policies like universal healthcare, eliminating corporate influence in politics, abolishing ICE, and ending U.S. military aid to Israel. I want elected leaders who are accountable to ordinary people rather than powerful special interests. Despite my frustrations with the Democratic Party, I am committed to doing the grassroots organizing and ground-game work necessary to defeat Senator Susan Collins in November. For me, building a more just and equitable future requires both advancing bold progressive policies and engaging in the practical work of winning elections.

Talbot, Matthew

SOUTH PORTLAND

Growing up in Washington county, attending UMaine in Orono, and now living in southern Maine, I feel I represent Mainers looking to stay in this state, but worried rising housing and healthcare costs coupled with stagnant wages will degrade our quality of life. I want to be a part of the process, to see a candidate nominated for whom I can enthusiastically canvass, and to discuss the nomination process with a broader audience.

Youth

Talbot, Susan Bernard

FALMOUTH

I am a retired pediatrician and a resident of Maine for 47 years. I've participated in Maine elections via phone banking, door to door canvassing and have learned a great deal about our constituents. I have also watched in horror as our democracy and our constitution have been torn apart by President Trump and by those who support him, like Susan Collins. Her record of over 10,000 consecutive roll call votes, is meaningless if she hurts the nation and Maine's citizens. Her yes vote on SAVE American Act is in direct opposition to the wishes of her constituents, when less than a year ago they voted against voter ID requirements and the SAVE America Act is clearly a voter suppression bill. Her vote for Kavanaugh has already severely threatened women's right to make choices about their pregnancies. Her vote for Robert F Kennedy, Jr has severely threatened our ability to fight life threatening diseases in this country. We need a leader who is very well versed in law, medicine and economics, but also understands how the legislative branch of Washington, DC works, someone who has worked directly with them as Principal Deputy Director of the National CDC for almost 2 years. We need someone who understands the importance of the wording of legislation, to be certain it can be successfully implemented !!! I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate the candidate, Nirav Shah, who can win the election in November and defeat Susan Collins.

Taormina, Rosario

PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Democratic Nominating Convention because I believe this election is one of the most consequential in Maine's history. I want to help ensure we nominate a candidate who can unite Democrats, inspire voters across the state, and build the broad coalition necessary to defeat Senator Susan Collins in November. Like many Mainers, I was inspired by the energy and grassroots focus of Graham Platner's campaign and its commitment to bold, progressive ideas. Recent events have been deeply disappointing, and I unequivocally believe that serious allegations must be taken seriously and that those affected deserve to be heard. While that chapter has been difficult, it has not changed my commitment to the values that first motivated me to get involved: expanding opportunity, protecting fundamental rights, and building a more equitable future for Maine. As a healthcare provider, I've seen firsthand how public policy affects the health and well-being of Maine families. That experience has strengthened my belief that we need leaders who will protect access to affordable healthcare, defend reproductive freedom, invest in working families, and safeguard our democratic institutions. I plan to volunteer my time by canvassing, making phone calls, engaging voters in my community, and encouraging civic participation. Our party's strength comes from neighbors talking to neighbors, volunteers showing up, and people believing their voices matter. As a delegate, I will work to unite Democrats across the ideological spectrum around our shared values and our common goal of electing a

Tarasevich, Willa

PORTLAND

I am a lifelong Mainer, a lesbian, and an active member of my Portland community. I believe Maine leads the way in many progressive decisions, such as split electoral votes and RCV, and I believe now is another such decision. Maine is ready to lead the way for a new type of politics, one that 150,000 voters voted for. I believe the candidate to replace Graham Platner should adopt his platform in full and his campaign strategy in full. I will not support any less - I will vote for the candidate that takes no corporate or AIPAC money, one that will not just defend the status quo, but will dream and fight for how this country could be better.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Taylor, Ashley Caitlin

WESTBROOK

As a lifelong Democrat and a lifelong Mainer, I am deeply invested in the direction of our state. I am committed to having conversations with all of our fellow Mainers about why this is important and why now is the right time for change. For the first time since the mid 2000's, I've been inspired by the passion I've witnessed from fellow democrats, and although the last two months have been challenging and emotionally draining, I'm ready to carry forward that effort to inspire others and do what we can to fight for a Maine that fights back with - and alongside - ALL of us.

LGBTQIA+

Taylor, Kari

NAPLES

I am interested in serving as a delegate because I believe this decision deserves thoughtful, informed participation from Democrats across Maine. While I live in Cumberland County, I spend nearly all of my professional life working in Oxford County as the Executive Director of an addiction recovery non-profit. Every day, I work alongside individuals, families, healthcare providers, community leaders, and law enforcement across rural Western Maine, giving me a perspective shaped by both the community where I live and the communities I serve. I will approach the responsibility of serving as a delegate seriously and will support a nominee who demonstrates integrity, accountability, compassion, and a genuine understanding of the challenges facing working families and rural Maine communities. Once a nominee is selected, I am committed to doing my part to help defeat Susan Collins by using my voice, encouraging civic engagement, talking with voters in my community, volunteering when I can, and supporting the Democratic nominee throughout the campaign. I believe Maine deserves leadership that is accountable to its people, and I am committed to helping build the broad coalition needed to win in November. As someone with lived experience and years of community advocacy, I would be honored to bring both a personal and community based perspective to the convention and help select a nominee who can unite Democrats and earn the trust of Maine voters.

Tcheyan, Karen P

ORRS ISLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because so much is at stake and we must defeat Susan Collins in November. I am committed to doing my part to get us through this challenging process by the July 27 deadline. I have been involved with the Maine Democratic Party for years, attending state conventions and my town's caucuses, knocking on doors and making phone calls for Democratic candidates up and down the ballot, and donating to the Party, HDCC and SDCC and individual candidate campaigns. I am the co-founder of Harpswell Indivisible and have continued to co-lead this grassroots organization since 2017. I am a leader in our community in mobilizing folks to get out the vote, creating opportunities for voters to meet candidates, and keeping voters informed and active in civic life and politics. At the request of the HDCC and SDCC, I have also worked on out-of-district races to help get Democrats elected to the Maine House and Senate. I will continue to work hard to electing a Democratic senator in November. I am committed to participating in the nomination process to make it as transparent and representative as possible so that we can unify behind the Democrat candidate that comes out of the convention. That unity will be essential to beating Susan Collins.

Teegarden, Gregory Joseph

POWNA

I would represent the town of Pownal, a rural town in Cumberland County, that has reliably voted for Democrats in virtually all recent elections. As municipal Chair, I have canvassed for local candidates, and had many conversations with diverse community members. My interest would be to represent the wishes of Democrats in my community, and translate that effort into energy for the November election. It will be critical that the voters truly believe that their voices are heard, rather than having a candidate foisted upon them as the new nominee.

Tenney, Ann

PORTLAND

I want to have a voice in choosing the best Democratic nominee to run against Susan Collins. I will argue for a great communicator who can articulate Maine's independent voice and working class values.

Thaler, Jeffrey

YARMOUTH

There are three primary reasons why I want to serve as a delegate to the July 25th Convention and ask for your support: 1) To maximize our chances to elect a Democratic Senator, I am committed to and have worked for years on equity, due process and human rights for all; to improving affordability of housing, healthcare, and greater clean energy for all; and to a country not catering to billionaires and corporate-dominated elections and policies. 2) I have worked on numerous local, state and federal Democratic campaigns, boards and policy groups and am tired of politics as usual not getting things done in real time. 3) I have worked pro bono for numerous immigrant, refugee, civil liberties and climate nonprofits toward a better quality of life for all in Maine, and for national justice groups seeking to protect our voting and other fundamental rights during two Trump regimes--and will work for needed regime change starting with the defeat of Susan Collins. I have lived in Maine for over 40 years, represented people against corporations and wrongdoers in all 16 counties, built my house and raised two sons here. But the goals of a sustainable, humane and peaceful country and world have been risked by our current President and Republican Congress, including a Senator who only has "concerns" when ICE kills an innocent man in Biddeford. We cannot give up our fight, we cannot give in, we must prevail in November. I ask for your help to succeed.

Underrepresented Religion

Thayer, Matthew S

FALMOUTH

I want to help ensure that we have a candidate who lives up to and espouses progressive values, advocates for policies and laws that help Maine and Mainers, while also working diligently to preserve and protect democracy, human rights, and rule of law across the country.

Theisen, Elizabeth Frances

BRUNSWICK

I firmly believe a functioning democracy requires participation by its citizens and I've done my part by volunteering on campaigns, calling and writing my elected representatives, participating in peaceful protests and marches, and in-person meetings with elected representatives. This May I was excited to participate in the nominating convention for the first time. In my attempts to contact or engage in dialogue with Susan Collins, she has either been completely unresponsive or sent an insulting letter meant to placate me. That is not a senator who recognizes her responsibility to her constituents. Sending Collins packing from DC should be a goal important to every Mainer. We need a candidate who believes in improving America for all versus increasing the bank accounts of her wealthy donors. Equal access to opportunities is required for people from all backgrounds is essential; especially in education. I want to participate in the selection of a senator who will honor their oath of office, respect the Constitution and stand up for Congress as an equal branch of government. The policies I'd want a candidate to support are: - reign in the corrupt Trump administration - defend fair elections; support the right to vote, reduce gerrymandering and overturn Citizens United - establish a fair immigration process - support women's and LGBTQ+ rights - health care (including mental health care) for all - taxing the wealthy - address the growing disparity in income and assets - protect the environment; especially development of alternative energy - Supreme Court reform,

Thomas, Jesse

PORTLAND

With a fair, transparent, and competent process Maine has a chance to turn a moment of tragedy into a moment of hope and inspiration for the nation in how we select a candidate to take on Susan Collins. We are seeing the stakes of this race right now in our streets. As a man of color, and father of a three year old daughter, I'm enraged to see members of our community shot and killed in front of their children by agents of an organization Susan Collins helped give hundreds of millions of dollars in funding for their brutal operations. It is more important than ever that we send a fighter for progressive American values to the Senate, and I'd be honored to help do so. No matter what, I am an organizer, communicator, and strategist that will knocking on doors, organizing digital campaigns, and leaving it on the table to win this Senate race in November. I hope to get and stay more involved with the state and county party directly as volunteer and organizer, and to help build and grow connections and relationships not just with partisan activists, but with unenrolled, undecided, or previously non-voting people here in southern Maine.

BIPOC

Thomas, Pamela M. E

SOUTH PORTLAND

For the past 22 years, I've lived in South Portland as a registered Maine Democrat. I am sixty-five years young and expect to work into my 70's— not only for the income, but the pleasure of working with interesting, independent seniors and staff, in a retirement community. Originally from Swampscott, MA, my career has spanned cities, seas, and mountains. I graduated from the University of Montana with a degree in English Literature and a knack for sales, marketing, and problem solving. I am open to listening and talking to folks from all walks of life. For 14 years, in my role as co-owner/operator of the successful small start-up Maine manufacturing business, ARTiPLAQ, I travelled throughout New England generating new business. I voted for Graham Platner because my friend and her friends, convinced me, the night before the primary, that the momentum Platner generated, among so many Mainers, required a big win in order to beat Susan Collins in the general election. Platner's win demonstrated Mainers can come together—even when the candidate is not our first choice. My goal is to bring people together so we can finish what we started- voting Susan Collins out, so we can stymie Donald Trump's agenda, and forward Maine Dems' platform on the environment, healthcare and affordability. Thank you for your consideration of my application to be a Cumberland County Delegate for the July 25th Convention to select Maine's Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate.

Thomas, Randall W

FREEPORT

I have a life-long commitment to Maine, having lived in Freeport for 32 years and spent most of my childhood in Maine. Both my children went to public schools in Maine. My husband and I are both former public school teachers. I worked as a Maine non-profit leader (Freeport Historical Society, Maine Maritime Museum, NYA and Wolfe's Neck Center). For 30 years, I co-owned a small family business (restaurant) in Freeport & Brunswick. Perhaps most relevant, I am a survivor of catastrophic illness that required I spend 53 days at Maine Med. I was left both disabled & severely hearing impaired. I appreciate from first-hand experience the importance of the Democratic Party's fight for healthcare for all. More than ever this year, I have been fully involved in getting Democrats elected in Maine. As a lifelong Democrat, I collected signatures for candidates, participated in five lengthy phonebanks in the recent gubernatorial primary & knocked on many doors inviting folks to engage in democracy! And when I could, I gave financially to support our candidates. I am an ardent supporter of democracy in Maine & I will continue to fully participate with the goal of defeating Collins by actively supporting our eventual Democratic candidate. I seriously want to be a delegate. I will show up.

Thompson, Cynthia

CUMBERLAND

My name is Cynthia Thompson I have lived in Maine since 1984. I first moved to Machias from Boston then on to Portland to make a living as an artist. I founded my company Transformit in 1987 in Gorham. My company makes art internationally for events and museums. I have a profound interest in nominating a person that will stand for all of our rights, women, men, trans, queer and all that are disabled! As an artist I have worked with a multitude of people in all walks of life. I truly would like to be a part of the decision making process for the new candidate

Thompson, Melinda Earley

WINDHAM

As a Mainer, a mother of three young children, a school teacher, waitress and someone who has been involved in my community and staying up-to-date on local, state and federal politics I feel that this selection of a candidate is critical. I want to continue to do my part as a citizen of Maine to pick a candidate that best represents our people and who has the best chance of defeating Susan Collins. In working with the people of Maine and local representatives I think I can be a great asset to this process.

Thompson, Molly

PORTLAND

I wish to serve my party and my fellow Maine citizens as a delegate in the Nominating Convention for a new candidate to defeat Senator Susan Collins in the November election. I believe wholeheartedly in our ability to make that happen. I am very encouraged by the number of highly qualified candidates who have stepped up for consideration in this new primary process, all of whom represent the core values of our party - from varying progressive perspectives. While the events of the past several weeks (months really) have created a difficult transition to a new candidate, it feels exciting to me to be approaching this “do over” with such a high level of momentum from the candidates, from Maine’s Democratic infrastructure and from the voters. As a younger voter, I served as a delegate at the Maine Convention during a presidential campaign many years ago. That experience was very formative to me as a citizen of my community, my state and my country. My participation then served as a catalyst for my ongoing involvement in subsequent local, state and national campaigns and to my efforts to support the democratic values I continue to fight for in my daily life. I’d be honored to serve as a delegate at such an important event as this. Molly Thompson Portland, Maine

Thorne, Eugene

SCARBOROUGH

I am a product of blue collar, workforce Mainers. I have spent the majority of my life as a poor Mainer. The only time in my life where I experienced a period of financial stability was the early 2000s when I lived in South Carolina while in college. I moved home to Maine in 2007 hoping to keep the financial momentum that I had attained. The cost of living quickly depleted my savings and I fell back into low income status. I love my state. I am a proud Mainer. Susan Collins has been a senator for Maine my entire adult life. I'm 43 years old. I am tired. I am tired of her inability to lead our state. She has done more damage to our state and our country by her greed and ignorance. I will continue to be an outspoken opponent of Susan Collins and I want to work with other Maine Democrats to build a stronger and more progressive Maine. We can do better.

LGBTQIA+

Thurston, Wyatt

SCARBOROUGH

I think I should be a delegate because as one of the oldest states in the country, we need more people under 40 participating in local politics. I've lived in New England for over 35 years, most in New Hampshire, and the last four years in Maine, so I feel my viewpoints do reflect what younger voters care about. I would be willing to help make phone calls to help defeat Susan Collins, and hope once I've gained the knowledge to become a data analyst/scientist, I can use it to help the Democratic Party in Maine better reach voters.

Immigrant/New Mainer, Disability

Tiner, Lincoln

PORTLAND

To whom it may concern, As a gay, trans, disabled veteran born and raised in rural Maine, I have experienced first-hand the devastating impact of the policies which Senator Susan Collins has supported. She voted for legislation and political leaders which have resulted in threats to the bodily autonomy, civil liberties, and very lives of myself and those in my various communities. Since returning home, I have been working to counteract many of the devastating impacts that these Collins-backed policies have wrought on Maine. I started a student organization for disabled students such as myself struggling with access issues at our largest university, which Sen. Collins is aware of but has done nothing for. I testified at the State House to oppose the anti-trans bills in 2025. Prior to graduating, I was a proud member of my gradworker's union at the University of Maine, speaking out about chronic accessibility issues on campus. I also dedicated my time to a prominent gubernatorial candidate's campaign, recognizing that our present crisis requires all of us to combat the harms that Sen. Collins' party has imposed on Mainers for far too long. I hope to use the experience I have gained to continue assisting our party in protecting Maine against the dangers that another term with Sen. Collins in office means not only for our state but also for our nation. I would be honored to serve my county and my state as a delegate. Thank you for your time, Lincoln Tiner

LGBTQIA+, Disability, Youth

Tinkle, Amy Seltzman Seltzman

PORTLAND

I have been an active and loyal Democrat all my life, since before I could vote. I first got involved in politics when I volunteered with George McGovern's campaign in 1972. Since moving to Maine in 1984, I've devoted countless hours volunteering on the campaigns of Democrats in local, state and national elections. I believe I have the knowledge, experience and acumen to help select the candidate best qualified to take on Susan Collins. It is crucial that the Democrats take back the Senate in order to forestall the country's slide into autocracy under the current occupant of the White House. It will be hard work to convince undecided Mainers to vote for the Democratic Senate candidate, because Collins is a formidable politician. We need a candidate that best exemplifies Democratic and Maine values in that can appeal to a broad cross-section of Maine voters. I intend to work diligently on that candidate's campaign, whoever it is. I am willing to canvass, work the phones, and do whatever else is needed to help ensure victory in November. Together, we can succeed!

Tipton, Elyse C

SOUTH PORTLAND

I would like to be part of this historic moment of state-level participatory democracy! I serve as the Mayor of South Portland and on a nearly weekly basis lead City Council meetings that I work to ensure exemplify local-level democracy in action, always making sure we hear, respectfully, from the diverse voices of my fellow residents who care about challenges and opportunities in South Portland. When the open and inclusive process on July 25 chooses a new Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, I will cheer wildly for whomever that is! And then, I will follow up by working for the candidate's success by "doing doors," reaching out through my network, and doing whatever else it takes to win back Democratic control of the United States Senate. Thank you for this opportunity and your hours of hard work.

Todd, Amy

PORTLAND

I am interested in becoming a delegate to have a voice in this important moment for Maine democrats. I was a strong Platner supporter and think we have an important job to maintain the momentum of what his campaign found in Maine voters. I have progressive values, young children, and a concern for the lives we want to live in Maine in this political environment and warming world.

Toms, Jennifer

GORHAM

Serving as a delegate would be a meaningful opportunity to help shape Maine's future and ensure our party continues to nominate leaders who put people first. My career has given me a front-row seat to the real-world impact of public policy and elected leadership. Working with Medicaid agencies, public health leaders, hospitals, and community organizations across the country, including throughout New England and here in Maine, I've seen how decisions at every level of government impact people's access to care, affect health systems' viability, and determine whether communities have the resources they need to thrive. Those experiences have shown me that when government invests in people, strengthens public programs, and partners with communities, lives improve. That's why I'm proud to support the Party's commitment to evidence-based policymaking and expanding opportunity for everyone. I've also seen the consequences when elected officials prioritize politics over people, and for too long Susan Collins has fallen short of the leadership needed to protect health care, strengthen rural communities, and address the challenges facing our families. Maine deserves leaders who put the needs of Mainers first. Leading up to November, I will use my professional and personal networks to encourage civic engagement, volunteer where I can make the greatest impact, and connect voters with trusted healthcare information. My experience building partnerships across government, healthcare, nonprofits, and the private sector has shown me that lasting change begins with relationships and grassroots organizing, and I'd be excited to help elect Democratic leaders to move Maine forward.

Tone, Whittier

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Tonks, Andrew F

YARMOUTH

I want to add my voice to those seeking change. The Republican-led Senate has enabled the power of the rich to obliterate the voices of those of us who are not rich. We must defeat Susan Collins. We must elect a Democrat committed to rebuilding our government institutions, destroyed by the MAGA wrecking ball, with a social-action mindset that returns to the never fully-realized principle "of the people and for the people". I believe government must play a key role in providing for healthcare for all, affordable housing and an equitable redistribution of wealth, including universal basic income—I don't mind some people being richer than others, but not while leaving others in poverty. The rich have gotten too rich and too powerful. I want a senator who will work to build a system that supports balance, fairness and justice for all including racial equity, LGBTQ+ rights, restorative justice and representative government. I was a delegate to the Maine Democratic convention for Jesse Jackson in 1988 and Bernie Sanders in 2016. I want to speak up for their ideals once again. I believe Troy Jackson shares the vision and I am willing to listen to others on the same wavelength. I will work tirelessly to promote the candidate and defeat Susan Collins by speaking directly to the people of Yarmouth through the most effective means—door-to-door, by phone and in meetings. Yarmouth generally votes Democratic, but we need to convince Independents and Republicans to vote for change.

Toolan, Daniel J

SOUTH PORTLAND

To make sure Maine has a Senator that represents the people of Maine. And to stop Donald Trump!!!

Toomey, Ellen F. F

HARPSWELL

I want to contribute my time to decreasing, hopefully flipping, Republican control of the Congress to slow down the Executive branch's disastrous grip on the lemmings they control.

Torres, Ruben

PORTLAND

Ten years ago, when I was searching for a place to build a life and become the person I wanted to be, Maine welcomed me with open arms. Since then, I have come to love this state through its communities, traditions, and people. That experience instilled in me a deep belief that everyone deserves to feel they belong and have a voice in shaping Maine's future. As Advocacy and Policy Director at the Maine Immigrants' Rights Coalition, I have worked to elevate the experiences of immigrant and low-income Mainers in conversations with local officials, state legislators, and our federal delegation. I would be honored to bring those perspectives to the Democratic Nominating Convention. As a first-generation American and someone who works closely with communities that are too often left out of political decision-making, I believe I can help ensure our nominee reflects the values and diversity of the people they seek to represent. After the convention, I will continue doing what I do best: meeting people where they are. I want to help defeat Senator Susan Collins by connecting voters with clear, factual information about the election process, answering questions without talking down to people, and helping communities that have historically been overlooked become confident participants in our democracy. Grassroots organizing succeeds when people feel heard before they are asked to act. That is the approach I will continue bringing to our party and to this campaign.

BIPOC

Townsend, Brian

SCARBOROUGH

I am a 54-year-old, life-long registered Democrat, loyal to the party's success and its capacity to help this state and country hold true to our most deeply held values and aspirations. I recognize that the moment we are in is a watershed moment for the party and for the country. "Business as usual" has failed this party in recent years. The moment calls for big ideas and directing our earnest anger and disgust at the hijacking of our country by MAGA and by corporate interests into thoughtful and strategic realignment. This Senate race is a critical component of that and represents a chance to oust Susan Collins and redefine what the party represents for this and for future generations. I would enter this process genuinely undecided about who can best step in and lead the movement following Platner's departure from the race, and who, concurrently, provides the Democratic Party with the greatest likelihood of victory in November. I would also enter this process with a keen determination to ensure that we emerge having identified and nominated someone who will lead us to victory and help lead the party and the movement into the future.

Townsend, Tracy M

PORTLAND

I am a clinical psychologist in private practice in Portland. Though I was raised in MA, I was born in Franklin County, ME and come from a long line of hard working Mainers - farmers, public servants, and mill workers. I have seen my family members and those in their community having to piece together safe and prosperous lives with very little assistance and against great odds. Susan Collins has done very little to improve the lives and opportunities for people in rural areas nor those in more urban environments like Portland and I am committed to finding and supporting the best candidate available who can advocate for resources such as education, healthcare, equal rights for all, and environmental justice so that Mainers from all over the state can thrive.

Tracy, Samuel J

PORTLAND

My name is Sam Tracy and I'd like to be a delegate because I've put in the work to support Democrats for many years, and I'm in touch with what young voters want to see in a candidate for US Senate. We can't defeat Susan Collins without young people, and this convention will be a make-or-break moment for keeping youth excited and active. I served as chair of the Portland Democrats from 2018-2019, where I organized Portland residents to elect Janet Mills to her first term as governor. I also served as Deputy Director of Voter Protection for the Maine Dems in 2024, helping win our state for Kamala Harris. In addition to these high-intensity roles, I've canvassed, donated, and been an active participant in the party for as long as I've lived in Maine. Before he rightfully dropped out of the race, Graham Platner was able to get young people excited about politics in a way that Maine hasn't seen in a long time. If elected delegate to the convention, I will work to ensure that both our process and outcome keep young people engaged. This starts with honoring the policy positions that Democrats endorsed in the primary (like raising taxes on the wealthy and stopping the genocide in Palestine), but also includes sharing news about the process on reddit, Instagram, and other platforms where young people will see it. I'd be honored to have your vote!

Trapini-Huff, Jillian B

SCARBOROUGH

I would be honored to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe this election represents a pivotal moment for Maine and for our country. I have been deeply involved in grassroots organizing at the local, state, and national levels, and I understand that lasting political change is built through the dedication of volunteers, organizers, and everyday people who choose to get involved. I have a deep respect for the democratic process and for the grassroots movement that has brought us to this point. The energy, passion, and commitment I've seen across Maine have been inspiring, and I want to help ensure that momentum continues to grow through November. As a delegate, I will represent the voices of Maine Democrats with integrity and enthusiasm. After the convention, I will continue doing the work that wins elections: talking with voters, supporting our nominee, volunteering, encouraging others to get involved, and helping build the broad coalition needed to defeat Susan Collins. This is a historic opportunity, and I am eager to play whatever role I can to help elect a Democratic U.S. Senator and continue strengthening our party from the ground up. Grassroots organizing has always been the foundation of meaningful progress, and I am committed to doing my part to help our movement succeed.

Travis, Lori

PORTLAND

Greetings, Maine is the best state ever! I believe we all need to have our voices heard and want our state to continue to be the best for everyone who lives in it. We all deserve peace, safety, and access to and support for housing, and healthcare, including behavioral health and financial health. We need to have a new senator who truly is someone loyal to our amazing state and its residents, who will stake a stand and advocate for all that is aimed towards a safe, secure and a free-to-be-ME life at the national level. I am proud to be a Maine resident of over 20 years and who be honored to be selected as one of the six hundred delegates to help select the best senator for carrying out such a vastly impactful position as our next US Senator. Thank you for your consideration. Sincerely, Lori Travis

Trengrove, Vanessa

PORTLAND

I care deeply about hearing different perspectives, asking good questions, and choosing the best path forward for everyone. That's why I'm applying to be a Maine Democratic delegate and help choose our party's Senate nominee. I'm an editor who uses documentaries as a tool for social justice, working on issues like climate change, child labor, LGBTQ+ history, women's equality, racial justice, and the American dream. Editing's taught me that every story has more than one perspective. Before I can help shape a story, I have to understand it. That mindset has shaped every part of my life: listen first, ask questions, and make decisions based on evidence rather than assumptions. I've volunteered with the UNHCR in D.C. and the Vermont Refugee Resettlement Program. Those experiences taught me that public service starts with listening to people whose lives are different from our own. I grew up with two journalists. My father, Jim Trengrove, produced The NewsHour, and my mother, Roberta Baskin, was an investigative reporter and consumer advocate. They taught me to value facts, fairness, and accountability. I spend a lot of time reading Maine's local news because understanding the issues my neighbors care about is just as important as understanding the candidates. If chosen, I'll listen to every candidate, ask thoughtful questions, and choose the person best prepared to represent our values and defeat Susan Collins. After the convention, I'll help elect our nominee by volunteering, encouraging turnout, and welcoming more people into our party through kindness and understanding. LGBTQIA+, Youth

Troiano, Victor

PORTLAND

In my view, the most logical replacement for Platner would be Troy Jackson. He represents a similar working-class platform and already has Bernie Sanders' support. That said I appreciate Dr. Shah's willingness to speak openly about the ongoing genocide in Gaza. My main concern is that the replacement candidate is someone who is known by Maine voters and has some momentum behind them at this moment, as opposed to an unknown establishment pick. So if a coalition among the delegates emerged behind one particular such replacement, I would get on board with that pick.

Trowbridge, Nina S

CAPE ELIZABETH

I write as a life-long member of the Democratic Party; I believe strongly in its ideals and in our important individual responsibility to participate actively in our beloved democracy. As a primary care physician and as a physician at a Maine state psychiatric hospital caring for vulnerable Mainers, I believe that universal access to good healthcare saves lives, supports strong communities, and builds healthy economies. As mother of three, I have advocated for state and federal gun safety laws to protect children from school shootings and all Mainers from horrific events such as that suffered by Lewiston. Maine's important core culture of freedom, rugged individualism, and sportsmanship can be balanced with safety and care for our communities. As a hiker and outdoors enthusiast, I believe Maine's uniquely beautiful natural environment is a precious resource. I have lobbied in Washington and Augusta for environmental protections, green energy policies, and preservation of our parks and wild places. Mainers connect and compromise to get things done. Working together, we can bring this can-do attitude back to Washington. The Maine Democratic candidate for Senate will beat Susan Collins by being an authentic leader trusted by voters to represent all Mainers and to do good. I have participated in phone banks and driven voters to polls; I have canvassed locally and lobbied in state and federal capitals. I will do this and more to elect a Democratic Senator who will fight for all Mainers and all Americans, and for the ideals of our country.

Tucker, Charlene Rose

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Tucker, Stephan P

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Tuemmler, Jennifer

NORTH YARMOUTH

Why I'm applying to be a delegate I am fed up with politics-as-usual from both parties, especially the GOP but also the people in charge of The Democratic Party to which I have belonged for 50 years next month. They have forgotten about the people they are supposed to help and protect. They have forgotten the founding principles of our country. When I was growing up I was very influenced by my paternal grandparents who were dyed-in-the-wool Ohio republicans. They taught me about integrity, acceptance of others, civic duty, volunteerism, and most of all, The Law. My gg-grandfather was William Day who was Secretary of State under Wm. McKinley for 6 months (to help broker the end of the Spanish-American War) and then was appointed to the Supreme Court by Teddy Roosevelt. My great grandfather (his son) was Luther Day, a founding partner at Jones, Day, Reavis, and Pogue. Further back are more lawyers and judges so I think a desire for justice and fairness came to me in my DNA. The way the Republican Party thumbs it's collective nose at The Constitution is beyond belief. I'm glad my forebears aren't here to witness this horror. To my great disappointment, the Democrats have let it all happen with their unwillingness to fight hard for what's right and call out the GOP loudly for it's failure to make anything better for 99% of Americans. American Capitalism has corrupted our elected officials. Time for a BIG change.

Tull, Owen

YARMOUTH

I want to be a delegate at the Nominating Convention because I believe working people. Wealthy donors or corporate interests shouldn't shape the future of our party. Grassroots organizing is the foundation of every Democratic victory. It's a chance to nominate candidates who will fight for economic justice, strengthen our communities, and build the broad support we need to win in November. One issue that matters to me is the link between the fragility of Maine's health care system and the need to make billionaires and large corporations pay their fair share. These policies do not benefit a single race, ethnicity, or political group. They aim to ensure that everyone working to build a life here has access to quality health care, good jobs, strong public schools, and reliable public services. Our economy should reward work, not just wealth. The government should serve everyday people, not those with the most money. As a delegate, I will help promote that vision through honest conversations, social media outreach, canvassing, voter registration, and getting more people involved in our movement. Defeating Susan Collins will require reaching voters across Maine with a hopeful, working-class message that focuses on the issues that affect their daily lives. Beyond this election, I am committed to building lasting grassroots power. I will welcome new volunteers, strengthen local Democratic committees, and create an inclusive movement where everyone has a voice. I would be honored to be a delegate and help organize for a more just, democratic, and fair Maine.

Turner, Luke

WESTBROOK

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I grew up in South Portland and now live in Westbrook. There are few things I hold as precious as my desire to unseat Susan Collins. If it needs proving, the Superlatives page from the 2019 SPHS yearbook shows me holding a hand written sign saying "I can't wait to vote Susan Collins out of office" or something to that effect. No matter who wins our nomination, you can count on me to hit the pavement and canvass for our nominee. I grew up in a thousand foot cape cod on Pitt Street. My parents lived across the street from Sabino Raia during the summer of 1997 (if you know, you know). I have been a carpenter for six years in greater Portland and I am currently pursuing a Bachelors of Economics at The University of Southern Maine. I have the bona fides to call myself a native born son of Cumberland County. From my perspective among the blue collar working class and youth of Southern Maine, there is no avenue to victory for a right wing democrat in 2026. From my perspective as a fledgling economist and internationally-minded American citizen, there is no value in electing another contemporary dough-face. Now is the time to offer a cogent vision of change and now is the time to deliver that change with ice chewing determination.

Youth

Turpen, Kate Marie

WINDHAM

I've been a major reorganizing force in the Windham Dems over the past 2 years. Stepping up to be their secretary this year, I'm committed to deeply listening to understand rather than to respond. As the main public facing communicator, I've had to learn about many of the senate hopefuls and feel well positioned to represent Cumberland county.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Twigge, Giovanni

FREEPORT

I came to the US in 2001 as an immigrant, months before 9/11. Saw the devastating impact it had on a country I held in such high regards for its over 200 year commitment to democracy. Was in absolute awe of how the country, irrespective of political affiliation game together. And could not have had a prouder moment in my life when I became a citizen and voted for Obama in my first election as a US citizen. As a Gay man, I celebrated first my commitment ceremony in Chicago and then my marriage when I moved to Maine in 2010. From then on ai watched as Trump and his MAGA slowly started to tear down everything that makes this country great. And as bad as things stand today, I still believe thar what makes this country great, will arise and overcome this moment in history that came to test us all. I want to ensure we elect a representative that believes in America first and will not be swayed by politics.

Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+

Tycko, Sasha

BRUNSWICK

I will vote for a candidate whose platform most closely adheres to the progressive political agenda that overwhelming numbers of Maine Democrats voted for in the primary election. Like others, I was energized by Platner's commitment to democratic socialism and the particular issues of universal healthcare, affordable housing, reducing the U.S. military budget, and ending the wars in Iran and Palestine. I believe delegates to the Nominating Convention have a responsibility to represent the political interests of the 156,000+ people who voted for this agenda. This is both the most democratic solution and a path to victory in the general election.

Tyler, Cheryl C

BRUNSWICK

After the energy-sucking disappointment of the allegations against Platner which led to his suspension, I am ready to stand up and fight for this senate seat. We have to get Collins out of the senate to save our democracy.

Uhland, Lori

PORTLAND

I served as Delegate at the Convention in May. I was disappointed that there was not opportunity for delegates to participate in the crafting of our party platform. I feel strongly that the will of Maine voters be heard.

LGBTQIA+

Uhlenhake, Beverly B

PORTLAND

As an active Maine Democrat, former muni, county, and state party chair, and former Brewer city councilor and mayor, I fully understand the gravity of the senate race and look forward to wishing Senator Collins a lovely retirement. I will continue to work to make that happen in whatever ways necessary.

LGBTQIA+

Umland, Suzanne

PORTLAND

I closely follow state and national political activity. Maine has strong candidates to support our state in the US Senate and I would be honored to join the effort to choose and support the next Maine Senator.

Updegraph, Sandra T

BRUNSWICK

I want to help move the grassroots election process forward. I represent the older generation but plan to further our efforts by door-knocking and driving other canvassers.

Upham, Valerie

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Vail, David J

BRUNSWICK

Valente, Jenna

CUMBERLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because I helped build the grassroots movement that just lost its figurehead, and I understand what this movement needs in a leader going forward. I've spent the past year organizing alongside Mainers who turned out in record numbers for this primary, and I know what motivated them: candidates who spoke honestly, showed up in every county, and ran on a platform of economic fairness and climate action. Choosing our nominee at this moment is a decision that will determine whether that energy carries through to November or fizzles. I want to be in that room advocating for a candidate who can keep it alive. To help defeat Susan Collins, I'll bring my 15 years of policy experience in social justice and climate work to bear on messaging and coalition-building, connecting our nominee with the grassroots networks and community organizations I've worked alongside for years. I know how to translate policy into language that resonates with voters who've felt unheard for too long. As a Mainer, I grew up here, went to Greely High School, and earned my degree at UMaine. I care about this state on a personal level, not just a political one. I'll keep pushing our party to stay rooted in the communities that powered this primary, so the momentum we built doesn't stop at the nomination but carries all the way through Election Day.

Van Wagenen, Christopher

YARMOUTH

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe this is a pivotal moment for our party and our state. As a committed grassroots Democrat, I want to help ensure that our nominee reflects the values, priorities, and energy of Maine Democrats from every corner of the state. Defeating Susan Collins in November will require a strong, united campaign focused on organizing, voter outreach, and clear communication about the issues that matter most to working families. I plan to contribute by volunteering my time, engaging voters in my community, supporting voter registration and turnout efforts, and helping build enthusiasm for our nominee. Winning will depend on connecting with voters where they are and demonstrating that Democrats are prepared to deliver meaningful results. To build on our party's grassroots momentum, I will continue strengthening local organizing efforts, encouraging new activists to get involved, and helping create opportunities for people to participate beyond election cycles. Our recent successes have shown the power of energized volunteers and community-driven engagement. By expanding those networks, investing in local leadership, and maintaining a year-round presence in our communities, we can continue growing our movement and building a stronger Democratic Party for the future. I would be honored to represent my community as a delegate and to help advance our shared goals at the convention and beyond.

Van Wagenen, Erin

YARMOUTH

I've spent my career building something from the ground up — growing our practice from two providers to seven, mentoring the next generation of physicians, and fighting for kids who can't fight for themselves. I know what it takes to build coalitions, listen to people who don't always agree, and get results. I'll bring that same energy to this convention and to the campaign ahead. To help defeat Collins, I'm committed to using my platform as a physician to speak directly to healthcare and reproductive rights — issues where Collins's record doesn't match her rhetoric. I'll also help recruit fellow healthcare workers and parents who are motivated but haven't yet gotten involved. Beyond November, I want to help our party keep building this grassroots momentum by supporting down-ballot candidates in central and southern Maine, and keeping the coalition of first-time activists engaged for the long haul — not just one election cycle.

VanNest, James

WINDHAM

As a lifelong Democrat, a recent arrival to Maine, and as a senior with grandchildren born and being raised in Maine, and as a member of the Windham Town Democratic Committee, I believe that I have the wisdom and intelligence to effectively chose a candidate who can defeat Susan Collins, which is most important goal in Maine on 2026.

Immigrant/New Mainer

VanNest, Joan

WINDHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to work with my fellow democrats in selecting the person best suited to defeat Susan Collins. It is of the utmost importance that we look not only at the candidate's experience and abilities but also at his or her electability. The candidate must not have any baggage or potential issues that would hinder winning in November, as defeating Susan Collins is tantamount to saving our democracy. The candidate should be willing to take on Donald Trump and all his enablers by bringing back the rule of law and demanding full accountability for those who have been working the government for their own advantages rather than for the citizens of this country. I retired to Maine in 2025 and have been active in the Windham Democratic Town Committee.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Vance, Eleanor

FREEPORT

I have lived in Maine for 9 years. Working in the nonprofit sector has shown me the direct effects of congressional policies such as national spending on school meals and Covid relief. I've also been lucky enough to intern on Capitol Hill, where I witnessed Senate floor meetings in action. This experience has shown me how vital it is to elect a democratic senator who can beat Susan Collins and will fight for appropriations, healthcare, and housing policies that benefit Mainers. Where I currently live in Cumberland County, I am lucky to know folks from many walks of life: old, young, low income, wealthier, social service workers, philanthropists, leftists, centrists, etc. If I am honored to serve as a delegate, I will listen to my community, and represent their views in order to bring the voices of many to this Convention. In lieu of a true democratic process, I aim to contribute to the transparency of this process and nominate a candidate who reflects the values my community voted for in the primary election. Thank you for your consideration.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Vaughan, Margaret E

CHEBEAGUE ISLAND

Each of the Democratic candidates vying for the upcoming U.S. Maine senate-seat race has solid credentials and would be far superior to Susan Collins as a senator from Maine. While I lean toward Troy Jackson or Nirav Shah because of their communication skills and hard-hitting rhetorical styles, fairness and consensus building are top of my mind. While I believe a candidate from the 2nd district deserves special attention because of Mr. Platner's support from that district, I also believe the strongest candidate will emerge organically at the convention. I would happily join the consensus to work for the candidate of choice. I have been a Democrat since Hubert Humphrey ran for office in 1968 but am usually not active in local politics. Yet there are times when one needs to stand up for values and fairness. I did become active in the town in which I live when it became clear that the process of selecting a member for our Selectboard at our annual Town Meetings was not fair. Candidates were nominated from the floor and then voted on by a show of hands. It was clear who was voting for whom. Working with the Town Office, I initiated a nominating process that required those running for Selectboard submit their names so that at the time of the June state elections in Maine, residents could vote for the Selectboard candidate they preferred in the privacy of the voting booth. To my delight, it passed with overwhelming support.

Velazquez, Micah

NEW GLOUCESTER

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention to help Mainers under the age of thirty have their voices heard in our political process. Susan Collins has been in the Senate for longer than I've been alive and it's past time for change. I'm willing to do whatever is required of me to help ensure our new nominee defeats Susan Collins in November. Including by spreading the word however I can, donating to the cause, and encouraging my friends and fellow Mainers to do the same.

Verrill, David

SCARBOROUGH

I fully support Dr. Shah's platform and, based on his professional qualifications and prior work history, consider him by far the best person to represent Maine in the Senate, and to have the best opportunity to defeat Sen. Collins in the November election. Of particular appeal is his diverse experiences in a variety of work/professional fields, enabling him to provide a wide spread perspective on several issues. I have had a sixty year work history as a CPA and financial exec. Years ago I was campaign treasurer for Rick Barton, candidate for the US House, and a designated advisor by the American Institute of CPAs on major changes in Federal Election laws.

Vierthaler, Heidi Johanna

FREEPORT

As a grassroots Occupy Maine / CCDC member, I'm a progressive Ecological Advocate and lifelong Democrat whose first interest in serving as a delegate is to pick a new Democratic Senator now who is closest to what the voters voted for already, one who will win, and a revolutionized Maine Democratic Party. I've been elected since 1992 as a Delegate to ten Maine, and Massachusetts Democratic State Conventions. As Maine goes, so goes the nation, that's why I voted / canvassed for Platner / Bellows with the Maine People's Alliance. However, I'm appalled at the rape allegations and am openhearted beyond Bellows. I'm from urban and rural Down East Maine with the perspective of many Maine communities. I'll reach out to my friends and urgently gather their support for our life or death battle for the US Senate. I am devoted to working with the Maine Democratic Party in harnessing the power of several Maine media outlets, musicians, and environmentalists, and to reach out to those constituencies to explain why Collins voting for SCJ Kavanaugh was also bad for our environment, (See my Posts: <https://www.facebook.com/share/p/1TJ76ZTamH/> <https://www.facebook.com/share/1BRQRwxLP/>). I have a rich background in the essentials needed in charging campaigns for success. I was one of 220 chosen nationally to attend the Progressive Change Campaign Committee inaugural National Candidate Training. I have also received training from both Maine and Massachusetts Democratic Parties. More than anything, I hope to contribute to saving the world through our Maine Senator.

Villanueva, Amy

PORTLAND

BIPOC, LGBTQIA+, Youth

Vinnakota, Annabelle

YARMOUTH

As a young person in Maine, I am passionate about protecting our state for future Mainers. I work for the Maine People's Alliance as a canvasser, drumming up grassroots support on the doors. I go to Princeton University and study to become an educator here in Maine. For the sake of present and future Mainers, we need to harness the power of the people this November to further the progressive movement.

Volk, Briana Bononcini

PORTLAND

I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible. I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate.

Voltz, John C

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would like to serve as a Cumberland County delegate to the Nominating Convention as a way continue my active civic involvement and to help make a wise choice for the nominee best suited to defeat Susan Collins in November. I think my background and track record of active participation in local politics and civic activities provides a strong basis to provide input on this decision. I have been a member and Finance chair of the Cape Elizabeth School board, a member and chair of the Cape Elizabeth Energy Committee, and I am currently the Portland Water District Trustee for South Portland/Cape Elizabeth. Once a nominee is selected, I intend to work locally with Cape Elizabeth South Portland Democrats & Cumberland County Democrats to support the candidate and to help drive voter turnout.

Voltz, Vio

CAPE ELIZABETH

I would like to serve as a delegate to the nominating convention to ensure that the candidate selected for the Democratic nomination for US senate is able to capture the grassroots momentum built by the Platner campaign to defeat Susan Collins. I have been an active volunteer in the democratic campaign to defeat Susan Collins and would like to have a voice in selecting the nominee who will carry that effort forward. Once the nominee is selected, I will do whatever is necessary to support our candidate, whether that means phone banking, canvassing or another form of volunteering. I will devote as much of my time as I am able to elect our nominee and defeat Susan Collins in November.

WARING, MICHELLE

PORTLAND

I am running to serve as a delegate because I believe in building a resilient, forward-looking future for Maine. This is an opportunity to advocate for policies that create long-term value for our communities, support working families, and protect the natural environment that defines our state. I am deeply inspired by the community-centered energy that Graham Platter helped build, and I want to help institutionalize that level of positive civic engagement. To ensure we have representation that truly reflects Maine's evolving needs, we must elect new leadership to the U.S. Senate this November. My approach to helping defeat Senator Collins centers on positive, solutions-oriented voter outreach. I want to help organize community discussions and local canvassing efforts that highlight our shared goals: focusing on economic opportunity, sustainable growth, and accountable leadership. By having respectful, issue-driven conversations, we can engage independent and first-time voters looking for constructive change. Admittedly, I have not been directly involved in politics, despite having a bachelor's degree in political science, but I want to engage now; the urgency of this moment is too great. I am passionate about creating a more inclusive and effective Democratic Party in Maine. I look forward to turning our recent energy and enthusiasm into lasting civic participation.

BIPOC

Wade, Shannon

PORTLAND

I want to serve as a delegate because I believe deeply in the power of community and I want to be a representative of the young, progressive voices who are screaming for change in Maine. I believe democracy only works if normal people make our voices heard, and the opportunity to be a delegate at the Nominating Convention is currently the most direct way to do that. As a long-time educator, I want to help continue the grassroots momentum by elevating voices in our community that too often go unheard. I want our movement to banish ICE from our state so that our neighbors no longer need to live in fear. I want our movement to focus on the simple fact that the richest in our society keep getting richer while the rest of us continue to struggle to afford basic necessities such as housing, groceries, healthcare, and childcare. And the more we elect people and pass policies that represent diverse, everyday working people, the stronger the movement will grow. The people of our state and our country deserve better. I am tired of Susan Collins coasting through her time in office while not being accountable to her electorate and consistently voting for terrible policies. I plan to volunteer with organizations mobilizing voters to vote Collins out. Specifically, I want to reach those who don't usually vote in midterm elections and also those outside of my own bubble. Thank you for your consideration.

Youth

Wagner, James Rennie

CAPE ELIZABETH

I have repeatedly served as a delegate to the Maine Democratic conventions since 1984 (originally from Orono). I was the Chair of the Cape Elizabeth Democratic Committee through both of the nominating caucuses of 2008 and 2012, and successfully managed the 800 person caucus in 2008. I was an elected Cape Elizabeth town councilor. I have been a dedicated volunteer on local campaigns for State Representative, State Senate, Gubernatorial, and US congressional races on behalf of many Democrats. I will work tirelessly to focus on the goal of unseating Susan Collins, with a focus on Cape Elizabeth, through canvassing, phone calls, and social media.

Waitzkin, Richard A

PORTLAND

I'm an elder, professional social worker especially concerned with the future of Medicare, Medicaid & Social Security

LGBTQIA+

Wake, Robert A

WINDHAM

I have been active in the Maine Democratic Party for over 35 years, including service as chair of the Rules Committee, member of the Platform Committee, and attendance at countless State Conventions. I have never voted for Susan Collins, even when it was fashionable. I look forward to helping pick a candidate who will beat Senator Collins and then use that office to serve Maine and our country with the values and skills to effectively represent the 99 percent.

Underrepresented Religion

Waldman, George D

HARPSWELL

While serving in the Air Force I voted by absentee ballot for Dick Gregory, the peace candidate, in the presidential primary 60 years ago and voted for Graham Platner in 2016. Consistently through my life I have supported affordable housing, health care and child care and will vote for the candidate who best represents those values.

Wallace, David J

BRUNSWICK

I want to be a delegate to the Democratic Senatorial nominating convention in Bangor for three main reasons. I want to do my part to help determine the best candidate to beat Susan Collins in November. Once a candidate has been selected, I plan to do what I can to spread the word on their behalf, contribute financially, and advocate strenuously for the candidate. I have been a delegate in the past and have met 4 people who ran against Collins. I don't believe that any of them actually believed that they would or could prevail. It's easy to get psyched out by a legend like Susan Collins. We need a candidate who not only wants to win, but who actually believes they can win. Forget charisma, we need determination. I believe that even though she never missed a single vote, has unimpeachable personal character and solid history of bringing home the bacon for Maine, Susan Collins has failed miserably to hold others to account. She has said little and done nothing in response to the willful and deliberate weaponization of the justice department, the obscene profiteering by the president (2 billion dollars and counting since he took office in 2025), the lawless, reckless, and deadly tactics of ICE in Maine, the high volume of trading on inside information by members of Congress, the misguided war with Iran, and the harmful and illegal tariffs. Maine and the country desperately need someone who will effectively oppose tyrannical and lawless rule. David

Wallace, Richard John

CAPE ELIZABETH

In 2022 I campaigned for Janet Mills because we desperately needed to win the governorship. Today we are in another desperate situation against Susan Collins. I got to see Shenna speak along with Graham Platner in Portland when she was still running for governor and honestly, I found myself wishing that she was running for the senate instead of Platner. I believe that Shenna has the background, experience and the spirit to win this thing. Personally, I would be able to commit two days a week to the campaign in the Portland area and would be proud to serve as a delegate at the convention. Thank you.

Waller, Roy

GORHAM

I would like to be a delegate to the Nominating Convention because the democrats have to take Collins' Senate seat. Collins has been in office for too long and she is just a sycophant of Trump. I will do everything in my power to get rid of Collins and replace her with a competent nominee. I want to see the democratic party to succeed and I will work very hard to help them to succeed since having them succeed is the only way to save our democracy.

Walsh, Kathleen

SCARBOROUGH

I was born and raised (Brewer) in Maine. I have lived in Maine my entire life. I am currently retired. I worked at Unum for 32 years. I have been an election worker for 20+ years, and a lifelong Democrat. I think our most important duty is to work together to defeat Susan Collins in November. The past couple of years especially have been so disappointing and disheartening about what is happening to our state and our country. The past few weeks things are even more urgent here in Maine. Thank you for your consideration.

Walsh, Nathan Robert

FREEPORT

The Democrat party is facing an election that must be won to secure a free future for our country. Susan Collins engaged in centrist political theater while allowing the current administration to devastate the country. I want to fight for my community and the working class.

Wanderer, Nancy A

FALMOUTH

I have been active in Democratic politics all my life and voted in every election since 1969. In 2016, I was elected to attend the Democratic National Convention as a Hillary Rodham Clinton delegate. Attending that convention was a life-changing experience. Her subsequent loss to Donald Trump galvanized my desire to participate actively in politics for the rest of my life. In 2018, I went to Washington as part of a delegation of Maine attorneys, hoping to convince Susan Collins not to vote to confirm Brett Kavanaugh. When she ultimately did vote for his confirmation, I dedicated myself to voting her out of office. I campaigned actively for Sara Gideon, speaking on her behalf at rallies and in one-to-one conversations. This year, I have been especially energized to beat Susan Collins. I supported Janet Mills wholeheartedly while she was actively running, but appreciate all the energy that was generated by the Platner campaign. As a delegate, I would reach out to other delegates who were part of the movement inspired by Graham Platner and try to find a way to work together to choose the best candidate possible. This election cycle has been challenging, but much good has come from it. We can use the excitement and energy of the primary to propel us to victory in November. I would be honored to represent the Democrats of Cumberland County as a delegate to the nominating convention.

LGBTQIA+

Ward, Margaret

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Warren, Sophia

SCARBOROUGH

I want to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe we need to nominate a candidate who can unite Democrats, inspire voters, and build the broad coalition necessary to defeat Susan Collins this November. As a six-year State Representative who was born and raised in the community I represent, I have seen firsthand that lasting political change is built through relationships, trust, and showing up. Throughout my time in the Legislature, I have worked to deliver results for my constituents while staying accessible and engaged. Those same values will guide my role as a delegate. I will support a nominee who shares our commitment to protecting working families, defending fundamental rights, and expanding opportunity for all Mainers. Defeating Susan Collins will require more than strong messaging. It will take organizing in every corner of the state. I will build coalitions through my campaign for State Senate and my network of volunteers and local leaders to knock doors, make calls, recruit volunteers, and encourage voter turnout. Every conversation is an opportunity to grow our coalition to win this election. Our party's grassroots momentum is one of our greatest strengths going into this election. I am committed to helping build it by mentoring new volunteers, supporting local Democratic committees, and engaging people who may be participating for the first time. Together, we can elect Democrats up and down the ballot and build a stronger future for Maine.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

Wartell, Burt Martin

GORHAM

I am a union retiree with a long history in the struggle to build working-class power and advance a progressive agenda, having been active in many electoral campaigns such as those of Jesse Jackson, Dennis Kucinich and Bernie Sanders. As your delegate to the nominating convention, I commit to voting for Troy Jackson as the candidate most aligned with a progressive working-class political vision and best positioned to win in November.

Washburn, Patricia Jane

PORTLAND

I have long opposed Susan Collins' continued service and hope to be a voice for democracy, for opposing the Trump madness, and for a Senator who listens to the voters.

Disability

Wasserman, Patricia F

CAPE ELIZABETH

Strong, fantastic candidates have thrown their hats in the ring. I've met many of them in person multiple times this past year in the gubernatorial race and closely listened to their vision, hopes, and plans for Maine, coming away optimistic for Maine. I am confident that I can and will support any one of them wholeheartedly as the Democratic Senate nominee--financially, tactically, and enthusiastically.

Waters, Mary

PORTLAND

I plan to support Troy Jackson as our nominee and hope those who also support him will select me as a delegate. I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. I appreciate everything that party leadership has done so far to facilitate as smooth and transparent a process as possible.

Watters, Laura

FALMOUTH

My career has been driven by a commitment to improving access to behavioral healthcare and supporting the professionals who care for Maine communities. Those experiences have strengthened my belief in the importance of practical, compassionate, and evidence-based leadership. I am running to serve as a Maine Democratic Party delegate because I believe this is an important opportunity to help nominate a candidate who can unite voters, win the general election, and provide the leadership Maine deserves. I will take the responsibility of serving as a voting delegate seriously, carefully evaluating each candidate based on their integrity, vision, ability to build broad support, and commitment to improving the lives of Maine people. I am seeking to serve as a delegate in support of Dr. Nirav Shah because I believe his record of public service, calm leadership, and commitment to evidence-based decision-making reflect the kind of leadership that can unite voters and build a winning coalition in November. His focus on service, collaboration, and thoughtful leadership aligns with the values that have guided my own career. It would be an honor to represent my community as a delegate and participate in a fair, respectful, and thoughtful nominating process that strengthens our party and helps position our nominee to defeat Susan Collins in November.

Webbert, David

BRUNSWICK

On Monday morning, I got a text from my daughter about a noon protest in Biddeford of a fatal shooting that morning by ICE; I knew I had to drop everything and drive from my home in Brunswick to be at that protest. During that march, I opened the front doors to the Biddeford office of Senator Collins and entered with my wife, daughter, and 6-year-old granddaughter so we could begin the long overdue political accountability for a Senator who has lost touch with the values and needs of everyday Mainers. Vote her out. Vote her out. We yelled in unison with justified outrage. I'm a lifetime advocate for the Democratic Party and its commitment to standing up for the rights and welfare of working people, including canvassing for George McGovern and Kamala Harris. I'm a civil rights lawyer with a track record of calling out abuses of power using plain words to motivate juries and judges to take corrective actions. On January 30, 2026, I was the first lawyer in Maine to sue ICE for its rampage during its "Operation Catch of the Day." I'm committed to using straight talk to call out Susan Collins on her key votes against Mainers including her votes for (1) huge tax cuts for the super-rich; (2) dangerous Trump nominees like RFK Jr., Bondi, Noem, Voight, and McMahon; and (3) many judge who oppose a woman's right to an abortion and can't say if Biden won the 2020 election.

Weeks, Ellen G

FREEPORT

I grew up in San Francisco in the late 50's and 60's and went on peace marches with my parents, My parents took us to see Joan Baez, Bob Dylan, Pete Seeger, Country Joe and the Fish and Big Brother and the Holding Company. The drummer for Big Brother was an art student of my father's at the San Francisco Art Institute. My mother had been a student of my dad as well and here I am! In 1967, my father took a teaching job at UCLA where he taught for 3 years. The summer of 1969 my dad took a teaching job at Skowhegan School of Art, it was one of my favorite summers. Fast forward, I was 38 and pregnant with my daughter when a job came up at LL Bean. I was offered the job when I was 7 months pregnant. I miss the feeling of being involved. My daughter lives in LA and I've been in Freeport now for 33 years.

Weiner, Robert

PORTLAND

My distrust of Susan Collins goes way back; long before her vote for Kavanaugh ultimately leading to a repeal of Roe vs. Wade. I was an early Platner guy, and feel embarrassed that I didn't read the tea-leaves well enough. His policies were terrific and I agreed with most of them, and was prepared to ignore the minor red flags, but his treatment of women was my line in the sand (and who knows how much more was out there). We can win this damned thing if we band together and support the right candidate. I'd like to help.

Welch, Jodi

FALMOUTH

This election is about building a grassroots movement that can defeat Susan Collins and return the balance of power among the 3 branches of government. I will listen to my community and help insure our nominee reflects the values of the working families across Maine. I will do my best to engage new voters and give them hope for the future. We need to hold Susan Collins accountable and inspire people who have felt overlooked or disconnected from the political process. I want to be part of this historical moment by helping elect a senator who will fight every day for all the people of the great state of Maine.

Welch, Naja

WINDHAM

I have always been interested in politics. I have lived in areas where they were not interested in having the common person having a voice. I feel this gives me a hands on opportunity to have a voice in the selection process. I have previously helped in a few campaigns in Florida-one was for Bernie Sanders. BIPOC, Immigrant/New Mainer, LGBTQIA+, Underrepresented Religion, Youth

Wells, Kimberly Pirrone

PORTLAND

I am a child psychiatrist and I live in Portland. I served the underprivileged and immigrant populations of Maine for almost a decade . I live in the most diverse city in Maine with my three young daughters and my husband, who is a veteran. I want my children to have a Senator representing them who believes in standing up for women rights, the lgbtq+population,and our immigrant neighbors. I want them to know I have done everything I can to pass a better world onto them. I want them to be able to live as adults in the Maine we all know and love, not in a dystopian world forever altered by unchecked climate changed and corporate greed. I, like many Mainers, have attended multiple protests against every branch of our current federal government, signed endless petitions, and stood up to Ice with my physical actions and donations. I will continue to do these things until our broken government permanently changes for the better. I am grateful that I have the time, resources and availability to serve as a delegate for my county. I would be honored to do so. Let's give our children the precious gift of hope.

Wennberg, Rosalie

PORTLAND

I grew up and went to college in Maine. After spending my 20s in NYC and DC—primarily working in politics at Planned Parenthood's national office, and then in law school—I returned home to join Maine's legal community and start a family. My husband and I have two daughters under 3 years old, and I am an attorney at Gideon Asen, a plaintiff's firm based in Auburn. I am a "pragmatic progressive." If I could build the world from the ground up, our political system would look a lot different than it does today. But I also believe that working within the existing infrastructure—playing by the rules while pushing to expand our concepts of what is fair and what is right—is the best way to make change. This has guided my political decisionmaking ever since I registered as a Maine Democrat at 18, and it will continue to lead my decisionmaking as a delegate. My primary goal would be to identify and support the candidate I felt had the most realistic chance of beating Susan Collins this fall. As a younger voter, parent, and attorney—I turn 35 this September—I will bring an important demographic perspective to the process in addition to my clearheadedness about how to win this seat. Regardless of whether I am selected as a delegate, and regardless of whether we succeed in November, I will continue to bring this spirit to our party for many years to come. Thanks for your consideration.

Youth

Werner, Linda

PORTLAND

I have been active in trying to defeat Susan Collins. A group of seniors formed a group – Seniors Taking Action (STA). We have met with and had a not so pleasant conversation with her legislative aide, been active in calling her office, writing many letters, you name it , we have done. I was a volunteer leader in the Platner campaign- phone banking, canvassing and served on the advisory board. I am part of the grassroots movement: believe in its mission and will do what it takes to retire Susan Collins. I have always protested – starting with Viet Nam and being a trained mediator have the ability to listen to both sides and move parties to where they need to be. I want my legacy to be that I worked tirelessly to preserve democracy and help remove those, like Susan Collins from office and promote and support candidates that know how to build on a grassroots movement respecting and inviting all to the Democratic party and supporting its mission. What I have learned from the Platner campaign is how critical young people are to the process and we need them to support and vote for the Democratic candidate. Their grief must be heard and acknowledged and their passion transferred to a new candidate. Selecting a new candidate that can do it will the backing of a tremendously energized volunteer force. I bring those relationships with me and that's how we defeat Susan Collins.

Westervelt, Peter

HARPSWELL

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Whalen, Benjamin

WINDHAM

I believe people are not defined by their politics. I'm a farmer and small business owner here in Maine, and every day I see and hear the struggles of the people in my community and who work alongside me — people who can't afford health care, who can't find or pay for child care, who have given up on the idea of ever owning a home. The rising cost of living is outpacing my farm's capacity to provide for our team, no matter how hard we try. These aren't abstract policy debates to me. They're conversations I have in the field and around the farm, with people I care about, every single week. To beat Susan Collins in November, we need more than a campaign against Trumpism and the Republican Party. We need to talk to our neighbors. The problems facing Americans — the cost of housing, health care, and raising a family — don't stop at party lines, and neither should our conversations about solving them. The Democratic nominee for Senate has a real opportunity: to speak to all Mainers about how we fix these very real problems together. As a delegate, I would support a nominee who can do exactly that. And whether I'm selected or not, I will keep engaging with my community every day — working to make Maine more resilient and to build a brighter future for my kids and our community.

Whalen, James

FREEPORT

I am a lifelong Democrat deeply committed to the ideals of a just community, state, and nation. Throughout my life, I have been a steadfast financial supporter of our state and national party organizations, as well as candidates who champion our shared values—support that will only amplify for our new nominee. My commitment to effective government is rooted in practical experience. I have worked in municipal government and elected town positions to bolster public housing, local libraries, and sound financial management. These efforts reflect my bedrock belief that honest, effective governance is the foundation of our democratic republic. Defeating Susan Collins is critical for the future of Maine and the nation. As a policy-focused Democrat who holds leadership to high standards of integrity, I am ready to work tirelessly as a campaign volunteer and organizer this fall to ensure victory.

Wheaton, Angela

PORTLAND

I plan to contribute curiosity, realism, honesty, authenticity, and integrity to the process. I can bring extensive experience in facilitating disparate groups to reach compromise and agreement. I voted for Susan Collins in the beginning of her career, but she is no longer right for Maine. We need to work hard to find someone who will truly be an improvement over her. When given a solid alternative, Maine voters will make the right choice. It's our job to find that candidate. Finally, I love our state and believe that every single Mainer has a right to be heard and represented. A smart, collaborative candidate is out there ready to help our state move forward. Let's find them!

Wheeler, Albert

BRUNSWICK

I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

Wheeler, Dawn Kimball

SOUTH PORTLAND

I am a recent retiree (female age 62) after 31 years of working with active older persons. Because I chose a meaningful career over a high paying one, my family of three lived paycheck to paycheck until very recently, and all of our lasting debt has been from medical procedures. It's why we decided to have only one child - we simply would not have been able to support a second child. If my mother hadn't unexpectedly left me her house, I'd NEVER have been able to retire. My husband is still working so that we have health insurance until age 65. And now we're concerned about the dependability of the Social Security that we've paid into since we were 15 years old. I want to represent the Mainers who have struggled their whole adult lives, and have existed just above the line where help exists, but not making enough to handle a debt crisis. Mainers shouldn't have to fight for 60 years to pay for housing, utilities and food, only to realize they will never retire and instead, work until they are physically/mentally/emotionally unable. We need to choose a senator who will represent struggling working Mainers and struggling older Mainers who don't have any hope of ever retiring. Costs of housing, health insurance and basic services should not be so high that there is nothing left at the end of the month.

Whipple, Joann

SCARBOROUGH

As an advocate for labor,(AFL CIO, MAEA SEIU Local 1989, and Southern Maine Labor Council) I believe in Troy's message to support the working people of Maine. I believe he is the best candidate to finally unseat Susan Collins in November.

Whitaker, Catherine

BRUNSWICK

I would like to be a delegate because it is of great importance to me that Maine has the best candidate to beat Susan Collins. We must keep the momentum of the impressive majority who came out in record-breaking numbers to vote in the Primary. Filling the Democratic candidate's role is a matter to be settled by the Maine Democratic Party State Committee. As a delegate I would help ensure that concerns for democrats be kept in focus, with special consideration to the many unenrolled voters, or Independents, who showed up for the Primaries. I have been actively involved in Maine's Democratic Party since returning to the state four years ago. As a U.S. Coast Guard spouse, I served as a progressive activist across five different states. Locally, I am a member of the leadership team for Brunswick Area Indivisible. In addition to faithful voting and organizing, I have engaged directly with numerous legislators over the years, including Senators Collins and King.

White Woolverton, Sheri

CUMBERLAND

For 40 years, I stood in front of a classroom and did the quiet work of building trust — with seven-year-olds learning to read, with parents who needed a listening ear, with colleagues navigating hard days together. That work taught me patience, fairness, and how to make sound judgments under pressure, exactly what this convention will ask of its delegates. I've stayed active in Cumberland's civic life ever since — volunteering at the polls and supporting my local school, always grounded in the belief that people are capable of making their own decisions about their own lives. I've served as a delegate on presidential campaigns before, so I understand what it means to walk into a room unpledged and listen honestly before casting a vote that matters. At the July 25 convention, I plan to go in without a predetermined favorite. I'll listen carefully to each candidate's case, ask who can genuinely unite Mainers across our very different counties, and vote for the person best positioned to beat Susan Collins in November — not the loudest voice, but the strongest one. Afterward, I'll bring that same steadiness home: helping Cumberland County Democrats rally around whoever we choose, so the grassroots energy from this primary carries straight through to Election Day. I am genuinely energized and excited by this moment for our party, and I am fully committed to doing this important work with the seriousness it deserves. I'd be honored to bring that same care to this nomination.

White, Catherine

BRUNSWICK

As a lifelong Mainer and a student at a University of Maine System school preparing to be a Maine educator, I feel deeply devoted to this state. I want this state to be a place my future students feel safe and proud to live. I believe that in order to do that, we need to get Susan Collins out of office and elect a Democrat. I look forward to making phone calls and organizing on the University of Maine at Farmington campus to make this happen.

White, Pamela A

ORRS ISLAND

I am a retired US Ambassador who is shocked by the state of our country. It is unbelievable and unacceptable how far the USA has deteriorated in the eyes of the world. I bring a unique international experience to this process. There is nothing more important to me than defeating Susan Collins. I truly consider her an enemy of the people. Her votes supporting incompetent justices and cabin members is unforgivable. Her 95% voting record agreeing with Trump is unforgivable.

Whited, Lisa

PORTLAND

I'm running to be a delegate because I want to have a direct hand in making sure Maine Democrats nominate someone who can actually beat Susan Collins in November. I'm self-employed, the granddaughter of an Aroostook County potato farmer, the daughter of an engineer and public-school teacher, and I know that Maine doesn't hand anyone anything. Whoever we nominate needs to be able to go into every county and make the case for why they deserve this seat. In two weeks, 601 delegates are going to make one of the most consequential decisions in recent Maine political history and I want to be one of them. I want to hear from every candidate and vote for whoever can actually defeat Collins. This process feels fast and chaotic and that's exactly why we need delegates who'll take the responsibility seriously. Once we have our nominee, I'll do the work that wins elections by knocking on doors, making calls, and helping bring more people into this fight, especially those who feel like politics doesn't include them. Grassroots momentum is built one conversation at a time, and I intend to keep having those conversations all the way through November. I'd appreciate your vote so I can represent you at the convention. I intend to earn that trust by doing this job carefully and listening closely.

Whitehouse, Zachary

PORTLAND

I have been a Democrat all my life, and we have always struggled with messaging. I want us to stay laser focused on what matters: making sure every Mainer can afford to stay a Mainer. Affordability is all we should be talking about in November. It is the one common denominator for all Mainers, whether they were born here, or choose to make Maine their home. Affordability crosses all identities and leaves nobody out.

Whitman, Elizabeth Lee

PORTLAND

I have been an active engaged get out the vote Democrat since I was 18- going on 54 years. Our country is in a state of crisis I have never witnessed before. We must work together to chose our best candidate to represent us as we stand up and fight the fascist autocratic decay and ruining of our constitution, our communities, our economy, our environment, our incredible democracy, Its past time to ring the Revere bell, stand up, and fight. I hope to come to bring in depth engagement and thinking to this crucial decision we are facing.

Whitmire, Duncan

SOUTH PORTLAND

Having lived in multiple Maine counties, working for Maine's Community College system, raising two children in public schools, and being married to a spouse currently undergoing cancer treatment, I feel my perspective on the challenges Mainers face is a valuable one. I have seen the generosity and creativity of Mainers, and I have seen the vulnerable among us beaten low by unjust and inequitable federal policies. To hear the current administration speak, my brother—an autistic man who lives in a group home in Newcastle—is unworthy of our care or consideration. This is obviously false, however their power to erect barriers to his happiness has been aided by Susan Collins for too long. I want to select a candidate who will fight for our dignity and safety in this time of rising oligarchy and fascism. I have taught classes on Public Narrative and will help Mainers understand the power of story in changing hearts and minds in the pursuit of replacing Susan Collins. Storytelling takes place in op-eds, in canvassing raps, in ads, and most convincingly, in conversations among neighbors. But there's a difference between talking and storytelling, the latter being a skill that must be honed and developed to be effective. Through workshops, online webinars, social media posts, instructional materials, short videos, and meet-ups, this is exactly what I plan to do. I hope you will trust me as a delegate in the selection process for what could be the most important Senate race in the country this year.

Whittlesey, David Gage

BRUNSWICK

I am a lifelong member of the Democratic Party. I have served my country (Peace Corps, Foreign Service Officer) and Maine (Town Council, Bowdoinham Community Development Initiative). I am deeply concerned about Democracy - in this country, Maine, and the world. Defeating Susan Collins is essential. An open, transparent process to nominate the best candidate to do so is critical.

Wilbur, Thomas P

FREEPORT

I intend to do anything that is asked of me that is in my power to defeat Susan Collins. I am a Vietnam Combat USMC Veteran, retired small business owner, (Wilbur's of Maine Chocolate) and appalled at what is happening in our country under this regime.

Wild, Peter

BRUNSWICK

I am a lifelong Democrat and have been active in this campaign cycle since November 2025. Collecting signatures, meeting with the public, knocking on doors and making phone calls. I would like to continue to make a difference in the future of our state and country.

Wilkins, Christopher

BRUNSWICK

Born and raised in Brunswick. Eagle Scout troop 648. Founding board members of Blueberry Fields Co-op. Founder and Coach of the Portland Reavers. International Marshal (referee), Buhurt International.

Willard, Holden

PORTLAND

Throughout all my time, having been born and lived / raised in Maine - by Maine... Susan Collins has been in office. I will never forget the harm she's done to our beautiful state. I am 27 years old and a type 1 diabetic: I do not trust her to take care of her constituents on the national level. I want to be a delegate so I can vote for a better future.

Disability, Youth

Willauer, Carol Lee

FALMOUTH

It is paramount that we win the Senate and restore the checks and balances our forefathers intended for the leadership of our country. We've seen the destruction caused by this imbalance. Watching this administration destroy everything I believe in has been devastating. I want to be part of the solution, personally helping to put our country back together as a delegate to choose our candidate. Maine can make this happen by defeating Susan Collins. When every vote counts, I will help Democrats be aware of the importance of voting. I'll write letters to voters in Maine. I will drive voters to the polls. I'll do everything I can to help the Maine Democratic Party win in November.

Williams, Avril

PORTLAND

My name is Avril Williams. I grew up on a farm in Alton, outside Old Town, then traveled before putting down roots in Cumberland County eleven years ago. That gives me a real feel for both rural Maine and greater Portland, and I know how to have hard conversations with voters in both. I bring a mix of perspectives too often missing from rooms like this one: a biracial Mainer, a woman, and a small business owner who's built multiple ventures in this state. I've spent years training in social justice and sharing that knowledge with others, building mutual aid networks, supporting community housing and food security efforts, phone banking, organizing rides to the polls, and building content that gets people to show up. That's exactly why I want to be a delegate. This convention needs people who've done the ground work long before it was urgent, and who'll keep doing it long after. I'll bring my full network, my organizing experience, and pick a nominee who can, and will, beat Susan Collins. I plan to keep organizing and sharing resources through November, while building the grassroots infrastructure needed to win, not just this race, but each one after. Maine deserves a senator who answers to us. I'm ready to help make that happen.

Williams, David

SCARBOROUGH

I believe the Democratic process is the most essential part of our nation. Selecting candidates that best fit the population of Maine is essential to that. I would like to be a delegate to participate in the support of democracy in our state and our nation. I will give my time and my energy to support this effort.

Williams, Donna

PORTLAND

I would like to participate in decisionmaking to identify a candidate who can succeed in unseating Susan Collins. I am very goal oriented and that is my only goal. Whichever candidate has the best chance of success is the one I will support. I am a founding member of Portland Trails, Friends of Portland Parks Commission, Portland Neighborhoods Assn, a former member of Portland Planning Board, and an active member of Portland PTO in various schools. In other words, I look for solutions to problems.

Williams, Michael George

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

Democracy is messy. It's not meant to always be achieved through one process. It's meant to be a promise among people to transparently choose who leads us in government. Serving as a delegate to this convention would be an honor to show that we can commit to the act of transparent democracy. I have been chair of the Cumberland Municipal Democratic Committee for six years and vice chair for four years before that. I've helped multiple exceptional democrats be elected to the town council and school board, supported our candidates for state house and state senate, and organized our community both during and between election cycles. I have also served on the MSAD51 school board, the YMCA advisory board, and am currently on the board of MCV. My professional life has been twenty years of working on solving the climate crisis alongside the labor movement on Capitol Hill, and with organizations such as the BlueGreen Alliance, National Wildlife Federation, and currently at the Center for American Progress. I hope to bring my lifelong passion as an advocate and a deep belief in coalition building to this convention. We have been told by so many people outside of Maine how things should have gone and how things should go. It's time for us to show everyone else how democracy isn't just elections. It's people acting in good faith.

Williamson, Phoebe

FREEPORT

I am 18 years old. I have lived in Maine my entire life, and I graduated from high school in June. I'm taking a semester off before college to work during the election because I have a strong interest and investment in Maine politics. During the election, I am committed to working the polling station, volunteering on a campaign that best reflects my values, and registering young people like myself to vote. I would like to serve as a delegate to have a part in picking the next Democratic senate candidate because I believe that I have a strong finger on the pulse of Maine politics. I have the unique perspective as a recent high school graduate and a clear understanding of what young Mainers need in order to stay in Maine and continue building and stewarding our economy, culture, and resources. I bring not only my own perspective to the table, but that of other students and younger community members. I am invested in Maine's future, not just because of my interest in democratic politics but also my own experiences and love for this state. The issues I find the most pressing are affordability, workers' rights, education, climate change, and healthcare, which will guide my choice at the convention. I am the right choice for this delegation because of my connection to the state as a lifelong Mainer, a consideration of the young perspective, and a vote for the future.

Wilson, Alice Elizabeth

PORTLAND

If chosen as a delegate, I look forward to participating in this process to ensure the strongest candidate to win in November is on the ballot. That's why I am supporting Troy Jackson, who will be a champion for progressive values including defending the rights of immigrants, fighting for women's reproductive freedom, and advancing policies that will expand access to fundamental dignities like education, housing, and healthcare. I hope to represent those in Cumberland County who support Troy,

Wilson, Dani

PORTLAND

I am seeking to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because I believe strong grassroots leadership is essential to building a Democratic Party that reflects the values and priorities of Maine people. I want to be part of the process of selecting candidates who will fight for working families, protect our democracy, defend reproductive freedom, and ensure every Mainer has the opportunity to succeed. Defeating Susan Collins in November will require organizing early, reaching voters in every community, and having honest conversations about the issues that matter most. I plan to volunteer for voter outreach, phone banking, canvassing, and voter registration efforts while encouraging friends, family, and neighbors to get involved. Every conversation and every volunteer makes a difference. Our party's growing grassroots momentum is one of its greatest strengths. I am committed to helping expand that momentum by welcoming new volunteers, supporting local Democratic committees, and creating opportunities for people of all backgrounds to participate in the political process. By listening to our communities, empowering volunteers, and staying focused on the issues that unite us, we can build a stronger, more inclusive party and elect Democrats at every level. I would be honored to represent my community as a delegate and help ensure our party is united, energized, and ready to win in November.

Wilson, Meaghan

CAPE ELIZABETH

Democracy now!

Wilson, William

PORTLAND

I want to ensure that Maine voters best interests are represented by someone we trust, not someone who will turn their back on us in order to follow the leader. I will encourage those around me to vote for the candidate that will serve our interests instead of those outside our state.

Wishcamper, Carol A

FREEPORT

Defeating Susan Collins is the most critically important action I can take to protect the democratic values that are under threat.

Wissler, Andrew Douglas

WINDHAM

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because we need to stop Donald Trump's and the Republican Party's policies and agenda, especially when it comes to civil rights, the takeover of federal elections, and ethics. We need to reform and/or abolish ICE in order to stop the killing people on the streets. We need to make sure everyone is treated fairly and with respect. It's vital to make sure that our elections are held without interference by officials, military, or ICE agents. I began volunteering in 2012 with the Lake Region Democrats, eventually becoming a member of the Steering Committee. For many election cycles, I was involved in data entry, entering voter information data into the VAN. I am currently part of the Maine REV Up Coalition, an organization which promotes and encourages people with disabilities to register to vote and participate in elections. We also work to make sure elections are accessible to people with disabilities, and make sure elected officials understand the needs of the disabled, especially about voting issues. This is a very pivotal time. We must make sure that our concerns are heard in Washington. We need to have a Democrat representing Maine in the US Senate. I hope I am selected to represent the concerns and issues facing Mainers, and especially the disabled community.

Disability

Wissler, Cheryl L

WINDHAM

After my father died, I found a large pile of letters, copies of letters that he wrote to Lincoln Chafee, his Republican senator from Rhode Island. In every letter, he tried to persuade Senator Chafee to change his party affiliation. My father shared the Senator's passion for the environment. Senator Chafee did eventually change parties in 2007, becoming an Independent. then a Democrat in 2013. I don't know if my father had any influence on Senator Chafee's decision, but the message my father sent to me was clear, don't just sit on the sidelines and complain, do something. Since 2004, I have been an active Windham volunteer for local, state and federal Democratic candidates and causes. In 2008, I spent many hours in the basement of a paint store on Commercial Street in Portland making calls and knocking on doors in support of Tom Allen's bid to unseat Susan Collins. As a board member of the Lake Region Democrats and a member of the Windham Democratic Town Committee since 2011, I have made countless calls, canvassed, driven candidates, and recruited a Maine House Candidate. I have also served as Treasurer for two of our House District 106 candidates and participated in a recount in Augusta. Over the years, my husband, son and daughter have joined me in assisting our Democratic candidates and causes. Everything we value is at stake this election. We must continue our movement to put a Maine Democrat in the Senate. Thank you for your consideration.

Witt, Charlotte

PORTLAND

As a lifelong Democrat I am interested in helping the Democratic party to move forward and defeat Susan Collins. The way to do this is to build unity by choosing a candidate who can unify the party.

Wlazlo, Rebecca

FREEPORT

As a mother, community member, and member of the Maine workforce, working with a diverse workforce (people spanning every background, age, and life circumstance Maine itself represents), I ask for your support as a delegate. I understand both the daily realities working families face and the systems that shape them. I know what economic precarity actually looks like: people juggling childcare / elder care, stretching paychecks between healthcare costs, and facing housing pressures that have only intensified here in Maine, from Freeport to our rural communities. I don't see these as abstract policy questions. I see them in the people I work alongside every day. That's why I believe deeply in building a real safety net — one that guarantees healthcare access, invests in affordable housing, protects reproductive freedom, and ensures that no Mainer is one emergency away from losing everything. I support candidates that believe in taking care of our own, across Maine, with policies that fight for fair wages, climate action, and government that actively works to reduce inequality. As a delegate, I'll bring both this ground-level understanding of working Mainers' needs and the strategic judgment I've built through years working and building operations. I'm ready to help nominate a candidate who will fight for a Maine where opportunity and security aren't reserved for the few.

Immigrant/New Mainer

Wolf, Maggy S

PORTLAND

Susan Collins has been a disaster for the working and middle classes of Maine. When she capitulated to the GOP 2017 tax breaks for the wealthy she demonstrated how ineffectual she was and is as an advocate for Maine citizens. Since then the only time she has voted in opposition to the Trump regime has been when her vote wasn't needed. She has voted to confirm Supreme Court nominees and other appointments who have been disastrous for our democracy and especially for women's rights . I will work passionately to get her out of office!

Wolfe, Andrew

GRAY

Susan Collins must be defeated. She is no moderate or independent. Just another shill for Donald Trump. She says she got money for rural health in Maine after voting to gut it in its entirety in the omnibus bill. I have canvassed for Maine Dems in the past two elections since taking residency in Maine to help support my in-laws who want to age in place, in addition to donating financial support to democratic causes and candidates around the country. I am advising a political advisor to Troy Jackson and am providing free advice on economic issues. I am economist who in a previous period taught at Bowdoin College. My father did not receive 3 Purple Hearts fighting the Nazis in WWII for his son not to do all he could to fight the creeping fascism that is festering in the Republican Party, so I am fully committed to do my best to defeat Susan Collins and all Republicans.

Wood, Barbara A

PORTLAND

I have been engaged and involved with the Democratic Party in Maine for several decades. I have been a delegate at several State conventions including in 2026. I have attended Portland caucuses when that was the nominating process for President in the past. I was a Portland City Councilor from 1988 to 1991. I was in the State House of Representatives from 2021-2022. I have been on the Board of Directors of Equality Maine since 1984 when Charlie Howard was murdered. I plan to continue to work on the campaign of whoever is nominated to defeat Susan Collins. In addition to all the more recent examples of why Collins needs to be defeated I have a personal vendetta. When she ran in 1994 for Governor and lost, Equality Maine (then called MLGPA) selected her for an annual award because she said some good things about our community during the campaign. She accepted. After we had printed the programs and purchased an award with her name she called and said she couldn't accept the award. She had found out that she didn't agree with all the things MLGPA stood for. I've been after her ever since!!

LGBTQIA+

Wood, Roger

SOUTH PORTLAND

I'd like to serve as a delegate because I believe the people who care enough to show up should have a voice in choosing our nominee. I'm proud to be a Democrat from Cumberland County, and I want to help our party navigate this important moment and select a candidate who can bring us together and defeat Susan Collins in November. I work in higher education at a university press, where I help create books that bring scholarship, ideas, and stories to an academic audience worldwide. That work has reinforced for me the value of thoughtful discussion, listening to different perspectives, and giving careful consideration to important decisions. This convention comes at an unusual and challenging time for our party. I believe delegates have a responsibility to approach this process with seriousness, respect, and an understanding of what Maine voters need from their next U.S. Senator. I want to listen, engage in good-faith conversations with fellow Democrats, and help select a candidate who can earn the confidence of voters across our state. The grassroots energy in our party is one of our greatest strengths. I want to help build on that momentum by making sure people feel heard, welcomed, and invested in the work ahead. I'd be honored to represent Cumberland County as a delegate and help our party move forward united, focused, and ready to win in November.

Woodbury, Richard Glen

YARMOUTH

This President has decimated so many of America's foundational values and institutions, as well as its integrity in governance, morality, decency, humanitarianism, stability, global leadership and trust, environmentalism, safety, cultural diversity — basically everything built and nurtured as American ideals since our founding. We have, until now, incrementally advanced and defended civil rights, economic opportunity and wellbeing for all citizens, and fairness in programs and policies and applications of law. Even the very institutions of democracy and fair elections have been threatened and in many ways compromised by this President's actions. Those most powerful to contain this mass destruction of America's ideals are the members of the U.S. Senate. It boggles my mind how profoundly Susan Collins, and indeed every other Republican in Congress, has abdicated their responsibility to America's ideals and stature. In my next U.S. Senator, I want a courageous, passionate, articulate, thoughtful leader who appreciates the enormity of this historical moment. This is by far the most important Maine race in 2026. This is a must-win seat for Democrats, and indeed for the future of all Americans for generations to come. I served as a Maine legislator for ten years between 2002 and 2014 and will use whatever experience and capabilities I have to help the Democratic nominee win this seat. My experience will be particularly valuable in door-to-door conversations with Independents, who were a core part of my support base in politics, and who are key swing voters in this race.

Woodlinn, Eviana

SOUTH PORTLAND

I think it's critical to include the voices and perspectives of minority groups within our larger democratic delegation. As a queer & nonbinary birthing parent of a child in daycare, I think I can offer the perspective of several identities struggling in our society today.

LGBTQIA+

Woodruff, Lucretia

BRUNSWICK

As a farmer, mother, and someone who cares deeply about working people, environmental issues, poverty in our state and the unwanted influence of outside donors and corporate influence, I want to ensure we nominate a candidate for Senate via a process that is maximally democratic and respects the will of the voters. Given the highly unusual circumstances, Democrats cannot afford a situation that appears compromised by backroom deals or excessive party influence. The people of Maine nominated Graham Platner because of his progressive policies and if Graham isn't our nominee Jackson is a man who stands for those same policies and we deserve to be heard. I will stand as a delegate for Troy Jackson.

Wriggins, Jennifer

PORTLAND

I want to be a delegate because I want to help pick a candidate who can beat Susan Collins. I want to defeat her for sooooo many reasons. A few: she's loyal to the extremist radical Trump while pretending to be a moderate; she's in the pocket of anti-democracy billionaires; she doesn't engage with constituents (town meetings?-no). I will volunteer very actively in support of whoever wins the nomination. Whether it's going door to door, raising money, or supporting the candidate on social media, and more, I am in. I want and recognize the need for younger people to be involved and I support them. Recognizing that need, I will say that I am 69 years old. I am not a social media whiz by any stretch. I am on twitter, Instagram, and facebook (barely) and am happy to learn and do more. I'm an almost retired law professor with 2 adult children who graduated from Portland public schools. I am very committed to public service through my progressive church, volunteering with the city, and working on voter registration and campaigns (since I was 12). Thank you for this opportunity.

LGBTQIA+

Wright, Andrew

FALMOUTH

I'm a retired business executive with multiple graduate degrees. As an enthusiastic supporter of Bernie Sanders I volunteered for him in 2016 and was chosen to be Town Captain for the Town of Cumberland caucus (which Sanders overwhelmingly won after my rousing speech). I fear the delegates that will be chosen will not have enough progressive representation. Keep in mind that Bernie Sanders won Maine's 2016 primary approximately 64% to 36% and this year's democratic voters decisively chose a progressive candidate to represent them in the Senate. We must give the people of Maine what they want! I absolutely do not have a particular candidate pre-chosen; I will be open-minded and listen intently to every candidate's positions. I will, however, be biased towards candidates with progressive points of view and policies who will staunchly stand up to the corrupt, anti-democratic Trump Administration. I believe government can and must work for the people. I'm pro-choice, favor workers' rights, believe the system is heavily stacked in favor of the wealthy, and we must improve the social safety nets. Universal healthcare is a must, and there's an urgent need to get guns off our streets and to address climate change. We must defeat Susan Collins in November and I'll be committed to choosing the candidate with the best chance of accomplishing this mandate. I will financially support and volunteer for whichever candidate is chosen.

Wurfel, Richard D

WINDHAM

I am going to dedicate 100% of my free time to working for our candidate. I've been a campaign worker for 61 years, since I was 14, and I will perform any and all tasks requested of me. I have already recruited my wife to volunteer alongside me. I will serve at the pleasure of leadership. Thank you for this opportunity to serve.

Wynne, Ray J

PORTLAND

This essay is the second one I've submitted because I've heard that some people feel that their first attempt at registering was not received. I come from a long line of Union members and activists going all the way back to a great-grandfather who joined the Boston branch of the IBEW way back in the year 1913. My grandfather was a fireman for the city of Biddeford for 42 years retiring as a Captain. My son is presently a fireman/paramedic belonging to IAFF Augusta Local 1650. He is also serving as President of the AFL-CIO Central Maine Labor Council. As a member of the MEA I was on four negotiating teams that had our contracts ratified. So, as you can see, a very, very long "Union" bloodline. I believe that unions built this country and are an absolute necessity to help solve the problem of the vast levels of income inequality that presently exist. As a retiree I can absolutely promise to WORK TIRELESSLY up until the polls closing on Election Day. I will do whatever is asked of me: Office data entry, phone banking, yard sign distribution, canvassing local neighborhoods, distribution of campaign flyers, precinct captain if asked, etc. I am extremely "fired up" about sending Susan Collins back to her retirement home in Caribou. We have to do something so that the recent horrible killings that happened in Biddeford no longer happen anywhere in our state. So LET'S GO - EVERY DEM ALL OVER THE STATE MUST PULL

Yasi, Jenny Ruth

FREEPORT

Yeaton, Dirk

SCARBOROUGH

It's because I believe with all my heart that a representation needs to change. We need to continue the progressive socialist democratic direction that we take an underground Platner's leadership. We need to have a message, strong enough and a candidate strong enough to defeat Susan Collins. The only way this is gonna happen is if this candidate can fire up the 140 000+ people they came out and voted in the primaries. Which I am one of them. I was a volunteer with the Platner Campaign. I went door-to-door. Collected signatures. I'm in this flight for my grandchildren and the grandchildren to come.

Yurko, Kristina Nicole

WESTBROOK

I would be honored to serve as a nominating committee delegate to select a candidate who unites voters around our shared values and vision for the future. Throughout my career and community involvement, I have demonstrated deep commitment to public service and civic participation. I was born and raised in Maine and have experience working on the campaign to defeat Collins in 2014 and ran for city council which uniquely positions me with valuable insight into this critical choice of nominee who reflects both established party values and progressive change and can run a winning statewide campaign. I would approach my delegate responsibilities thoughtfully and independently, evaluating candidates based on their ability to represent Maine's values, address the challenges facing Mainers, and build a stronger future for all. To defeat Susan Collins, I will actively support the Democratic nominee through voter outreach and community engagement. I am committed to having meaningful conversations with voters, encouraging participation in the democratic process, and building enthusiasm around core issues. I will work to help build relationships with communities that have not always felt connected to the party. By listening to voters and investing in local leadership, we can build momentum that carries us beyond this election cycle remaining rooted in democratic principles and representative of bold progressive change. At a time when democratic participation is more important than ever and many feel disengaged and unrepresented, I am eager to contribute my experience, judgment, and commitment to the Democratic Party for this critical decision.

Zeitlin, Paula R

CAPE ELIZABETH

I don't have an agenda in this race other than to finally defeat Susan Collins. I was never in the Platner camp, and I remained neutral regarding Janet Mills. Because of this, I can offer a fair, measured, and honest perspective as we work to elect the best nominee to win this race.

Zelener, Yan

YARMOUTH

I wish to serve as a delegate to contribute to the shift in the political direction of the country. Altering the balance of power in the Senate is essential to diluting the power of the Trump administration by means of the 2026 election rather than having to wait until 2028. This means ousting Susan Collins from her perch, as a rubber stamp for so many of Trump's adverse policies. My purpose at this convention is to secure the most electable candidate with the highest chances of beating Susan Collins in November. The grassroots momentum of the previous candidate was built upon sensible policy priorities for reducing income inequality, improving overall affordability, and providing a path to universal healthcare access. I intend to support the candidates that offer similarly aligned policy prescriptions and can thereby tap into the same grassroots movement.

Zuckerman, Sam

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate because I care deeply about protecting our state from the overreach of this far right presidential administration and selecting the candidate best equipped to defeat Susan Collins and represent Mainers' interests in Congress. I am a licensed attorney in the Washington, D.C. jurisdiction who has lived in Maine and worked in legislative policy here for over 6 years, first in the Senate President's Office and now at the Permanent Commission on the Status of Racial, Indigenous, and Tribal Populations, giving me a deep understanding of the pressing issues that Mainers face. I am also extremely vulnerable to the erosion of rights currently happening as a nonbinary Jewish person with a uterus who is vocal about civil and human rights, which gives me a very tangible understanding of what is at stake. I am an active voter in every election and seek out non-canvassing volunteer opportunities and do my best to educate the people around me about candidates' platforms and the current elections, from federal to local races. I also donate to candidates who prioritize grassroots organizing and working class solidarity.

Zwolinski, Mary A

PORTLAND

Defeating Susan Collins is the number one goal of the Democratic Party in Maine right now. I want to hear the other nominees and we're collectively with other delegates to decide who is the best person to do that.

de Bree, Geoffrey

PORTLAND

I would like to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention because this is a pivotal moment for the Maine Democratic Party. It is essential that delegates nominate the Democratic candidate with the strongest chance of defeating Susan Collins, who can unite the party and continue the grassroots momentum of the primary. I would like to be a part of that process. For many years I have supported Democratic campaigns financially, here in Maine and across the country. Serving as a delegate would allow me to become more actively involved in the political process. Following the convention, I will devote my time, energy, and resources to supporting our nominee, regardless of who is selected.

floden, lysbeth

SCARBOROUGH

As a proud Scarborough resident, a working parent raising two kids in our public schools, and a senior clinical trial biostatistician, I am running to serve as a Cumberland County delegate for our upcoming July 25th nominating convention. Our party is facing an unprecedented and critical moment. To defeat Susan Collins in November, we must select a U.S. Senate nominee who brings integrity, vision, and a robust commitment to evidence-based policy. Throughout my career in quantitative science and healthcare outcomes, my daily focus has been on translating highly complex data into real-world solutions that improve lives. I believe we need this same level of scientific rigor, analytical clarity, and focus on objective evidence when evaluating our party's platform and our next Senate candidate. My commitment to Maine is deeply personal. I want to ensure we select a nominee who will fight to protect reproductive rights, lower prescription drug costs, and safeguard our unique natural environment for our children. As your delegate, I will bring an objective, pragmatic, and collaborative perspective to the convention floor. I will work to ensure our collective decision is grounded in substance, transparency, and a shared vision of progress. I would be honored to have your vote to represent Scarborough and Cumberland County as we work together to build a stronger, healthier future for all Mainers.

gallaudet, Peter Wallace

SCARBOROUGH

I am 79 years old, began my career as a labor organizer for two years, then a NLRB trial attorney for ten years and a Postal Service trial attorney for twenty-five years. I raised a family including a severely disabled son. Based upon these experiences, I believe I can help build a coalition of voters just large enough to defeat Susan Collins. I would emphasize Mainers' capacity for work, their desire through their work to benefit the community, and their importance in making the economy work. In return for their hard work, they seek a government which represents the common good, one that requires the top ten percent to pay their fair share in taxes to include estate taxes, one that is committed to reducing the massive national debt that requires spending over one trillion of our tax dollars just to service it, and generates programs that make our health care, child care and law enforcement expenses responsive to the needs of the people. I support Ukraine and believe curbs should be placed on spending for the current Israeli government due to its genocidal conduct in Gaza. Collins should not be rewarded simply for her obtaining government funds for local projects while at the same time enabling President Trump's autocratic reign. She provided the crucial vote to enhance the so-called "Big Beautiful Bill," knowing full well she could still vote against it without jeopardizing its passage. It was an extraordinary act of cowardice, inconsistent with what Maine has represented historically.

hammer, christy

SCARBOROUGH

I am a lifelong Democrats who is concerned (and have experience with personally) how gender in the law has replaced sex. I am a member of DIAG (Democrats for Informed Approaches to Gender) and have met with females in the women's prison who were sexually assaulted and harassed by males identifying as females and made to bunk together. The science is clear that females need their own sports category, and we need to stop females from losing to female-identified males, that is documented happening about 2K times (shewon.org). We are mutilating children under misguided Dutch Protocol and "transing the gay away" for young lesbians, in particular.

levine, robert

CUMBERLAND FORESIDE

I am so disappointed in the direction of our democracy and I am tired of sitting on the sidelines waiting for change. I love my home my community my family. I want to participate in the process and not take the blessings of life in Maine and in the us for granted. As a lawyer I advocate for clients I find the plan of action to deliver the desired result. I feel well qualified to assist with the important choice we have to make very soon peck, susan G

PORTLAND

Our priority should be to defeat Susan Collins, and I believe we can do that with a strong and respected candidate. I would be willing and able to attend the convention on July 25, and I have done canvassing, phone banking and postcard writing in several election cycles in Maine, primarily for Jared Golden and the presidential candidates, but also for other candidates. I have lived in Maine for 50 years, as a registered Democrat, with protection of civil rights and social safety net programs my primary concerns. I have served on and chaired the ACLU of Maine Board of Directors, and the CAP Agency in Cumberland County (formerly PROP). I am a retired attorney, wife, mother of three adult daughters, and grandparent to five young children. I believe Shenna Bellows would be an excellent Senator, and I also am confident that we have other candidates I can support if that is the will of the people. What would I do to elect a new senator? Everything I can!

scott, Brendan

PORTLAND

I moved to Maine 5 years ago as a young person trying to experience some change after covid and after living blocks from the January 6th insurrection. I've come to love Maine and view this as my home. I've seen how Susan Collin's has let special interests and corporate money steer resources away from Maine. I've seen, even before living in Maine, how Susan Collin's votes with Donald Trump, strips rights away from woman, and supports endless wars. Susan Collin's promised she would only run for two terms, yet here she is. I want to help ensure this is her last and that a strong Maine democrat becomes senator.

LGBTQIA+, Youth

vacchiano, charlie J

SOUTH PORTLAND

I Thank Graham for bring a progressive campaign together to beat Colins! I have been a progressive Dem for 60 years, I know Troy will take the truth to Collins for all her wrong votes and enabling a Ped, President! Melt Ice, Medicare for all, Take money out of Politics!! End support for Israel!

vanWieringen, Kayla

BRUNSWICK

I plan to support Dr. Nirav Shah as our nominee. I am running to be a delegate to ensure we nominate a candidate that can actually win the general election in November and defeat Susan Collins once and for all. I am excited for the opportunity to participate in this democratic process and will take my responsibility as a voting delegate seriously.

werts, Russell

SCARBOROUGH

Collins has to go.

wilson, Rick

BRUNSWICK

I have been a lifelong Maine resident, a registered Democrat throughout my adult life, and a public educator for nearly four decades. My undergraduate degree is in the social sciences, and throughout my career I have taught students not only about government and civic engagement, but also that democracy is not a spectator sport. I have always encouraged young people to become informed, involved, and willing to serve their communities. Serving as a delegate to the Democratic Nominating Convention would be an opportunity to put those same values into action. I would be honored to represent my community, participate in the democratic process, and help our party move forward during an important election year. Beyond the convention, I am committed to doing my part to help build enthusiasm, encourage civic participation, and support Democratic candidates through conversations with neighbors, volunteering where needed, and helping people understand the importance of voting. I believe strong grassroots efforts are built on listening, respect, and personal connections, and I am eager to contribute in those ways. I also believe Dr. Nirav Shah brings the experience, integrity, and leadership needed to offer Maine voters a compelling choice this November. I would be proud to help support his campaign and contribute to the collective effort to build a stronger, more engaged Democratic Party. Thank you for your consideration. It would be a privilege to serve as a delegate to the Nominating Convention. Sincerely, Rick Wilson